Exposed RCMP informant fights system that let him down

by Elaine Griffith

A police informant isn't sure who set fire to his house – the biker gang he informed on, or members of the RCMP who wanted to avoid paying for a witness protection programme to hide him.

And the insurance company took advantage of his vulnerable condition and attempted to blame the fire on him.

David, a father of four who must for safety's sake remain anonymous, was offered a part in a cocaine, counterfeit money and stolen Cadillac racket in 1986, but was trying to clean up his act and get away from the criminal activity he had indulged in when he was younger.

He went to the Oshawa RCMP station where police persuaded him to take part in a sting operation, saying they would keep secret the fact that David was an informant. Officer Serge Giroux instructed him to introduce an undercover officer to the drug dealer, who was a friend of David's uncle and also a member of a motorcycle gang. Durham regional police undercover officer Jack Dancey would then introduce a second cop, who would introduce a third, and possibly a fourth, so that David's role as an informer would not be obvious.

Instead, immediately after David introduced Dancey to the dealer, the RCMP moved in and arrested two men, exposing David as the informant.

A few weeks after the arrests, someone set fire to David's house and stole most of his possessions. Later, his car was set on fire and he began to receive death threats from members of the drug-connected gang, which is linked to mafia in Brooklyn, New York and in Hamilton, Ontario.

David asked to be moved, have his identity changed and possibly get help with job placement, but the extent of the protection the RCMP gave him was bogus papers showing that he too had been arrested, and photographs of some of the gang members who might come after him.

"It amounts to nothing more than a Mickey Mouse band-aid solution for protection," David said. "They left me like a bird on a wire." A proper protection programme costs between one and four hundred thousand dollars.

David turned down an offer of $20,000 for which he would have had to sign a waiver relieving the RCMP of their duty to protect him.

David did not know who had burned his house. It could have been the bikers seeking revenge. But the RCMP has a record of similar crimes: for instance, burning the home of ex-undercover agent Paul Vidosa, burning down the Front de Liberation du Québec barn, along with assorted break and enter, theft, dyna-

Seeking new solutions for Canada

by Elaine Griffith

Canada is in trouble. There's a consensus that the system isn't working.

Our political system allows a person to get elected on 30 per cent of the vote. That means 70 per cent voted against the person. And the type of government created always makes sure this system continues.

The politicians, legal industry, police, business and media all back each other up and make it look normal for the Canadian elites to routinely break laws and line each other's pockets.

The country is being de-industrialised under the free trade agreements with the U.S. and Mexico. We are losing jobs every year.

Half of Quebec wants to separate. However, most separatists believe they could separate and still be part of Canada, thanks to the lies spread by our media monopoly and politicians.

Canadian government officials are right now working on plans to dam James Bay, let it fill up with fresh water, and through a system of dams, export the water to the United States. The U.S. can then grow crops in the desert and dump them on the Canadian market at below-cost prices to destroy our farming industry and make us dependent on American food conglomerates.

Canadians are sick with worry.

But there are some who refuse to roll over and play dead. Since 1988, a handful of Canadians with vision and courage have been working hard to stop this process.

Comment

Some tried to build a new political party, but found that forum to be a magnet for a certain breed of person, the most successful of whom end up in Parliament. They also encountered deliberate sabotage, and discovered there was no way to prevent the party from being taken over by, for instance, a PGO (Private Government Organisation).

Putting together the mounting evidence that the problem was with the system itself, not just with individual crooks in government, these devoted Canadians concluded that the Parliamentary system had to go, and devised a way to do it.

And thus was born the Assembly of Independent Canadians.

The AIC is a new form of government enshrining the principles of democracy, Canadian independence, control over our own resources, and Native self-government with power at the national level.

The plan is to elect to Parliament a government made up of members of the AIC, who would immediately go about changing the law of the land to one which will be decided by the people over the next two years before the 1998 election.

For that election, the AIC will take the form of a political party, since parties are what the system is currently set up for. Immediately after forming the government, the party will dissolve, leaving a government of independent Canadians who will from then on be re-elected or replaced at the will of their constituents. Their constituents will decide when and how the independent riding holds an election, the representative's salary, and what will go in the riding's written code of conduct, which the representative must follow or be removed. The head of the assembly will no longer be the leader of the political party with the most seats; assembly representatives will elect one from among themselves.

No more Canada-wide federal elections. No more party fanfare. We will, in other words, create the party to end all parties.

The founders of the AIC intend to develop a fair system of government. But they are sure of one thing: the controlled media will never tell Canadians about it.

So the AIC will take its show on the road, travelling by caravan to every riding in Canada, spreading the word. In the way of the old "town crier", the AIC will circumvent the media, gathering in public places to plan the new system and set up a contact network and election team.

This caravan begins in February 1996 in British Columbia, kicking off with Glen Kealey's launching the defence of William Ignace "Wolverine" and his son, arrested at Gustafsen Lake.

See you there.

mite theft, kidnapping, illegal mail opening, and illegal wire taps (listed under the federal commission of inquiry under Mr. Justice David McDonald).

During the arson investigation, the RCMP never informed the regional police that David had been exposed as an informant to dangerous criminals. Instead, they let the local police concentrate their investigation on David for the arson of his home. David said he believes the RCMP did not want Durham's detective Jim Adams to find the people responsible because it would lead back to the RCMP's bungling of the cases.

Either that, he said, or the RCMP set the fire themselves to discredit him, which again would remove their liability and conceal their wrongdoings.

Puzzling circumstances include the amateurish way in which the house was set on fire (the fire was started in two places), and the irregularities in the theft (the garage full of belongings was completely emptied, but expensive items were still in the house. The RCMP could have intentionally made the arson look amateurish so they would not be suspect.

In his statement of claim against Pilot Insurance, David said the regional police would have a vested interest in not finding the people responsible because the undercover operator working with the RCMP at the time was their own police constable Dancey.

Court records show detective Jim Adams offered a woman immunity from fraud and theft charges if she would falsely testify that there had been nothing in the garage, from which David claims his furniture and boxes of clothes had been stolen while in storage during his home renovations.

The trial became a showcase of how the system sides with the insurance industry

The insurance company refused to pay. Pilot Insurance suggested David had committed the crimes himself, although they had no proof to back their position. The police and insurance bureau had confirmed that no charges would be laid against him. But the insurance company devoted the next seven years in a concerted (but ultimately unsuccessful) effort to try to implicate David anyway.

A few weeks after the arrests, David's house was set on fire

Pilot Insurance dragged out the investigation, reportedly hiring women to go out with David and tell him they had defrauded their insurance companies to see if he would admit to having done it too. Throughout the hearings and 6,000 pages of testimony, Pilot could not find any evidence against David. David provided evidence showing he was entitled to $70,000 (now with eight years' worth of interest).

Meanwhile, in 1990, one of the men he introduced to the undercover cop approached David on the street and threatened to kill him. Biker gangs have a reputation of never forgiving or forgetting. David became afraid to leave his home to work, since the home renovation advertising fliers he used showed his picture and address.

David went into hiding and now keeps six different residences. His keyring looks like a janitor's.

After repeated irregularities such as the RCMP's Serge Giroux's mysterious change of heart on the topic of a polygraph test David volunteered to take, David applied via the Access to Information Act to see just what the police were saying about him. But the information he got showed no record of death threats against him and no mention of police mug shots and falsified paperwork for his protection. "There is an RCMP cover-up from start to finish," David said.

David took up the cause of legislation to provide police protection for informants. He told the press his story and was invited, along with his lawyer Richard Bosada, on the Dini Petty Show in November 1991. Wearing a mask to conceal his identity, David told CTV's audience that people who would like to help the police should use Crime Stoppers, rather than going directly to the RCMP or local police. Crime Stoppers, to some degree, acts as a screen, keeping one's identity secret from police officers who may negligently expose an informant and who will offer no protection.

Access to Information showed no record of death threats or of falsified paperwork

David applied in 1992 for a permit to carry a handgun for protection. His application was denied, and he was starting to appeal the decision until CIPI's Glen Kealey, who was giving him advice at the time, suggested that he reconsider. Kealey told David a restricted weapon permit would give the RCMP an excuse to shoot him. Paul Vidosa, another police informer, verified that RCMP had shot at him in his driveway. David cancelled the appeal.

He picketted the insurance company with a sign that said, "Don't waste your money on Pilot Insurance – 4 years later Pilot Insurance has still not paid our claim". The company took him to court and the judge ordered David to stop communicating with their clients or potential clients. CIPI ran a "Public Notice" ad in the Feb. 21, 1993 Oshawa This Week telling the story and offering court documents. The next issue had a "Public Apology and Retraction" saying the CIPI ad contained untrue statements.

David filed complaints against the officers who arbitrarily, and in breach of a verbal agreement, exposed him. He has been fighting for a witness protection programme for five years now, but manages to leave his own problems aside and assist others who fight the system elsewhere in Canada.

He helps the family of Clayton Miller, a young boy allegedly murdered by local police. He also assisted Debbie Mahaffy in her battle for justice following her daughter's murder at the hands of the serial killer Paul Bernardo.

David even succeeded in interesting a Member of Parliament in the cause of witness protection. Tom Wappel, M.P., has recently introduced a bill that will create a legislated witness protection programme.

Lately David, assisted by CIPI, prosecuted his own civil case against Pilot Insurance. The trial became the showcase of how the system services the insurance industry's needs. Pilot presented no evidence to justify not having paid the claim. David meticulously documented 42 volumes of evidence to confirm his position. The judge has reserved his judgement.

Glen Kealey accused two members of the RCMP of perjury. A formal complaint was filed against them with the RCMP Public Complaints Commission.

The judge presiding said he intended to make the decision before December 1.

Who are we?

We are the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity (CIPI), a non-profit organisation dedicated to bringing about a democratic and sovereign Canada. We believe this can only be done by exposing the corruption in our political system to such a degree that citizens will come to the conclusion that the system itself must be changed, and not in the usual way. What distinguishes us from other groups is not our analysis of what's wrong; it is the fact that we alone offer a solution that does not merely "patch over" the problem, but eliminates it from the ground up.

Crusaders for political integrity: Glen Kealey and Ann Kealey (formerly Shelley Ann Clark) risked it all—now it's your turn to stand up for Canada. Join the cross-country caravan to Parliament Hill and take part in the setting up of a democratic governing body.

Statement of purpose

CIPI's The Kealey Paper is the forerunner to The Lighthouse, which will document the Assembly of Independent Canadians' cross-Canada caravan to create the basis for democracy. This paper will provide an alternative to the controlled media by presenting ideas and events Canada's media monopoly refuses to acknowledge. We will attempt to put this information in context, showing where it fits into the world order and what you can do. The Kealey Paper is also a forum for debate – on the merits and shortcomings of proposed solutions, on which groups and public figures are actually on the side of Canadians and which are merely puppets of the monied interests, and on how best to set up the new political vehicle to replace Canada's parliamentary system.

If you received this paper in the mail it means one of our volunteers thought you might be interested in this new entity and placed your name on our "one shot" database to receive this first issue free. If you want to stay on our mailing list, please send in the order form on the back cover.

Police informant an example for Canadians

It's ironic that a Canadian hero has to remain anonymous so we don't place his life in danger. For this purpose, let's just call him David.

David is a classic example of someone who has turned his life around.

Born poor, he discovered he had a talent for persuasion and carved out a niche on the edge of criminal activity.

When David first fell in love he tried to move away from crime and supported his lavish lifestyle by concentrating more on the telephone marketing business he had created – though it was barely legal itself.

Life was fine until the woman had an affair that ended a relationship he thought would become marriage, leaving his life a shambles.

During his period of grief, David had a brief relationship that resulted in a son. The mother gave him custody of the child, who became David's reason for living and motivation to clean up not only his act but that of the criminal society that surrounded him and the child.

When David volunteered as a police informant, the RCMP double-crossed him, since it is apparently cheaper to allow bikers to kill the marginally criminal informants than it is to provide them with regular witness protection. The order to expose David came from higher up. The RCMP officers did what they had to do. They knew they would be protected from future prosecution by head office in Ottawa.

After his collaboration with police put members of a crime-linked biker gang behind bars, David found himself the target of arson, theft and vandalism. Fear for his life and his family, together with the insurance company's refusal to pay for the damage, left David with a choice: to strike back at the system and choose a life of crime, or to work around his problem and expose the corruption in the system.

The responsibility he felt he owed to his family swung it for him. He had met and fallen in love with a new woman. Although they could not marry because of the danger that would result, they made three other beautiful kids together.

They agreed that she would work to support the last three kids while David would be free to create his own witness protection programme for himself and the first-born.

She takes care of the children's day-to-day survival while David attempts to solve the longer-term political problem – the result of a political system based on greed. They both survive.

David and his lady are the true heroes of our country – people who, when their integrity is challenged, respond in a manner that makes us all proud to be Canadian. Both understand individual freedom along with responsibilty as citizens to their community and country, and both are ready to pay the price of that freedom.

Now if we can find 100,000 civilly disobedient people like them during the upcoming two-year caravan, 100,000 who will join the fight for a different Canada, surely we can put our house in order and Canada will prosper as an independent country.

Children's Aid helps children by breaking up families

by Sue Ackerman

The Children's Aid Society has come under fire from one coast of Canada to the other on occasion.

Now it is the Children's Aid Society (CAS) of Ontario that is accused of questionable activities.

A case that has spanned more than seven years of heartache for one Ottawa mother caught the attention of more than a few people over the past year or so.

Not giving up: Maria Bieber urges parents' rights proponents to sign a petition to abolish the institution that she believes kidnapped her daughter. To get a copy, call (613) 739-9802. (E. Griffith photo)

The story began when Maria Bieber was beset by family problems that found her left with a child, an elderly mother, disappearing assets, and an ex-husband. Welfare became a necessity.

Based on a service that was offered on television in the 1980s – showing a little girl on a swing in front of a farm house explaining she wasn't sad at being in a foster home because when her parents solved their problems she could go back home – Bieber decided to go to the Children's Aid society for help. The commercial ended by saying the Children's Aid Society was there to help in a family crisis situation.

Bieber used the service once in Regina. The social worker treated her nicely and she was permitted to visit her daughter Dora.

Her problems with the CAS began in

1987 when, after moving to Ontario, Bieber brought her seven-year-old daughter to the Ottawa-Carleton branch of the CAS for short-term care on two occasions. A Hungarian immigrant with little English and no large family network on which she could call, Bieber saw nothing wrong with accepting such help from the CAS. She was shocked when they labelled her a "bad mother" for having done so.

"This is false advertising," Bieber said. "They said, 'We are here to help,' not to label mothers as unfit."

The second time she brought Dora to the CAS was the beginning of the end of that mother-and-daughter relationship. Not only was Bieber to lose custody of her daughter, the time came when she was no longer permitted to see her or even talk to her. Finally the CAS arranged for Dora's adoption – against the advice of two court orders.

Bieber has grown to believe that CAS covers up for its employees, who use their immense power to make work for themselves and carry out personal vendettas against people they may not like.

With Bieber and the social worker assigned to her by the CAS, Sybil Foley, Bieber said it was hate at first sight. Bieber said she was repelled by the constant smell of Foley's smoking habit as well as the alcohol she smelled "many, many times" on Foley's breath. She said Foley disliked her on first sight as well, and she did all she could to keep Dora away from her mother.

It was an unhappy liason.

Bieber consented to unpleasant "supervised visits" because they were the only way she could see her daughter after a period of being denied contact. These visits, attended by Foley, took place in a tiny, windowless room. "My daughter's nails were black and long, uncut, and her ears were dirty. Her clothes looked second-hand. I pointed it out to her [Foley] so she said, 'If all you can do is criticise, then the visit is over.'"

DOES THIS MEAN THEY ARE NOT PLANNING A FAIR TRIAL ????

Ad appearing in the Ottawa Citizen, August 6, 1994 (Annotation by Maria Bieber)

"To kidnap my daughter cost the government close to a million dollars."

Bieber was told she had a bad temper and as a pre-condition for seeing her daughter, Bieber agreed to appointments with a CAS-appointed psychiatrist at the Royal Ottawa Hospital. There she explained the problem between her and her worker: "She smells like an ashtray and like alcohol and she constantly provokes me." The doctor told Bieber to constantly 'kiss up' to Children's Aid because she could lose her daughter, and, without any prior medical examination, gave Bieber some tranquilisers to take before the next supervised visit.

"It was great – excellent – I didn't want to beat her [Foley] up any more even though my daughter was filthy dirty."

But the drugs were addictive. Bieber suffered side effects such as crying and for three years was hooked on the prescription drugs – the now-banned substance Halcyon, as well as large quantities of sleeping pills.

Bieber said she was instructed to take these drugs before every visit with her daughter and before every court appearance. She did so for three years – the time it took CAS to complete adoption proceedings for her child.

Because of a hyperactive thyroid condition, the drug, intended as a tranquiliser, had an opposite effect, making Bieber appear highly unstable when she most wanted to be calm. Aside from providing a reason to keep her from her child, the drugs left Bieber unable to work, further discrediting her.

Following the three years of proceedings, there is a one-year waiting period before the child could be adopted. Children's Aid had her adopted exactly one year later, in 1991. Once a child is adopted, the file is sealed. "No one will find out that a crime happened," Bieber said.

CAS spokesperson Karen McCarthy paints a picture very different from the joyful reunion Bieber envisions. "It would be very disruptive and not in the best interests of the girl to bring her before a court to confront her mother," McCarthy said.

Despite the specially decorated bedroom Bieber kept waiting for her daughter's return for more than five years, Dora was given "stability" by the CAS by being moved in and out of several foster homes around scattered rural Ontario communities over those years.

"I put up the biggest fight that ever existed in Ontario," Bieber said. "For Children's Aid to kidnap my daughter cost the government close to a million dollars including court costs, psychiatric bills, three years of psychiatric assessments, jail, seven arrests, and 20 or 30 lawyers."

Bieber tells of years of unfair treatment and harassment at the hands of the CAS and the justice system, including even her own legal representation at times.

She was repeatedly arrested for uttering death threats. At one point she said members of the CAS would burn in hell for what they had done to her family. She was charged with arson, then acquitted because the CAS building is made of bricks and the judge decided it would be ridiculous to try to burn it down.

Having been forbidden to see her daughter, Bieber arranged for her niece and a friend to visit Dora in July 1993. The two girls were sent away, but invited to come back two days later. When they did, waiting police took and held them at the police station until 8 p.m. without food or drink, questioning them. One of the 12-year-old girls was made to sign a document she did not understand. It was illegible and she was more conversant in Hungarian than English.

It was six months later that Bieber was arrested on two counts of attempted abduction as a result of these two incidents. When she got out of prison on bail, as many as 18 charges began piling up on her. Many appeared to be vexatious and frivolous – among them refusing to take a second set of finger prints, opening a bank account in someone else's name (on behalf of her mother, whose money she managed), and making threatening phone calls. Some charges evaporated when a few simple questions were asked.

Bieber said someone tried to make her into a mental case. For instance, something written on her document that she was not permitted to see resulted in her being put into a straightjacket the first few times she was arrested. She was also brought into court in shackles.

Bieber said CAS director Mel Gill instituted criminal proceedings against her without ever meeting with her to deal with her concerns, as is her right. She castigates those police officers responsible for dealing unfairly with her – particularly one who is the son-in-law of involved foster parents who handled her violently while handcuffing and arresting her during what Bieber said was a trap set just for her.

Perhaps the most serious irregularity was that committed by the Children's Aid Society when, in 1991, they allowed Bieber's daughter to be adopted. There were two court orders that stated Dora should not be put up for adoption, that it was against the child's best interests.

Bieber spent eight months in jail before finally getting a judge who, for the first time, agreed to a jury trial. She had previously had to submit to judges' decisions without ever having been allowed to present a proper defence including evidence of inappropriate drugging and the statements of the two girls. Indeed, with the apparent ability to time the proceedings, choosing the court date to get judges sympathetic to their causes, the CAS had all the advantages.

However, with an impartial judge and jury, Bieber finally had her day in court and got the charges against her thrown out. But she still has no daughter.

Bieber said the CAS covers up for employees' vendettas against people they are there to help.

There are many such stories of people who speak of abuse at the hands of the CAS. Like Beiber, they are not giving up the fight. A class action suit is being prepared against the CAS and many people have come forward.

"It's a true torture what they do," Bieber said of the Children's Aid Society.

"They stole my daughter and no one's supposed to challenge them. No one."

Free trade implementation scheme unfolding like clockwork says the civil servant ordered to falsify free trade documents

by Elaine Griffith

The former executive assistant to top free trade negotiator Germain Denis said she was ordered in 1987 to falsify, and eventually shred, briefing books on the U.S.-Canada Free Trade Agreement (FTA) in order to keep provincial premiers from wanting to block passage of the deal.

Ann Kealey, formerly Shelley Ann Clark, one of the FTA's proof-reading team, made sure unpleasant information was omitted from the doctored copies, for instance the statement that says by the year 2005, Canada will become a 51st state of the United States.

Kealey said she was told to alter the figures in copies of the FTA negotiation

Canadians still have not seen the full text of the U.S.-Canada "trade" deal updates so that the amount of a certain resource or industry Canada was giving away would be drastically reduced in the 'cleaned-up' version. During the midnight-to-4 a.m. sessions, Kealey was made to delete whole paragraphs on the loss of Canadian sovereignty which were deemed unsuitable for provincial eyes, including all mention of harmonisation of Canadian industry standards down to those of the U.S..

The books were shown to premiers for the shortest time possible, Kealey said, to prevent photocopying or note-taking for scrutiny later when outside the tightly controlled, pressure-cooker briefings sessions.

After the meetings, Kealey said she had to shred all the documents in the midnight office work sessions, which continued until March 1988 when Denis wanted his file copies removed from his office vault and delivered to his car. "Where those boxes went from his car, I have no idea. But by looking at the index at the federal records office, they're not there."

While sneaking the copies out of the Trade Negotiations Office safe, Kealey said she saw documents the Canadian public was never intended to see, including the step-by-step plan for the implementation of the free trade deal, which gave dates for specific events in the process of merging Canada and the U.S.. And she said the implementation scheme so far has been right on the money.

The plan described the entrance of American Express into Canada, the changes in pharmaceutical patent law, and the implementation of NAFTA.

One of the steps in the plan was the GRAND Canal project, the goal of which is to dam off James Bay to make it a lake and divert the fresh water through the Great Lakes system to the U.S.. The separation of Quebec, slated to occur in 1995, is followed immediately by a Native revolt in Ungava (northern Quebec), then construction of the GRAND (Great Recycling and Northern Development) water export project is to begin.

With no documentation to back up her claims, Kealey has had a hard time getting people within the political establishment to believe her. Kealey, who has top secret security clearance, points out that illegally photocopying secret documents would have meant serious criminal charges. "The documents would have been taken away, and I would be in jail now."

To convince people the warning is serious, Kealey has only the accuracy of her predictions to establish her credibility.

So while the rest of Canadians sat breathless by their radios and televisions waiting for the results of the Quebec referendum, she was doubly anxious, torn between a desperate hope for Canada to stay together and a fear that if the vote turned out an overwhelming NO, people would doubt her claims and go on trusting the government that, she said, secretly plans to sell Canada out to the United States.

"I was paying attention [to the referendum coverage] for two reasons. I was scared but if they voted NO, my credibility would be shot to hell."

Kealey said she felt the same conflict of relief and fear on learning Lucien Bouchard had been brought in to lead the separatists, right on schedule. She said his apparent wavering between home life and politics is purely manipulation of public opinion.

"He's playing hard to get. The more he frightens Quebec by saying that he won't take over, the more power he'll get when he does," Kealey said.

"The thing that most Canadians don't know is he has the Americans on his side. Apart from the cover sheet [of the FTA], which said 'Lucien Bouchard is in place to do the deed,' and the implementation scheme which is the step-by-step, the other documentation that I saw was two things – some memos which had gone back and forth between the Canadian and American teams.

"One said that it was essential for the success of the deal that [free trade negotiator] Simon Reisman had to make it appear that the whole idea was Canada's even though it was the Americans' idea.

"Lucien Bouchard is playing hard to get. He's too close to let go."

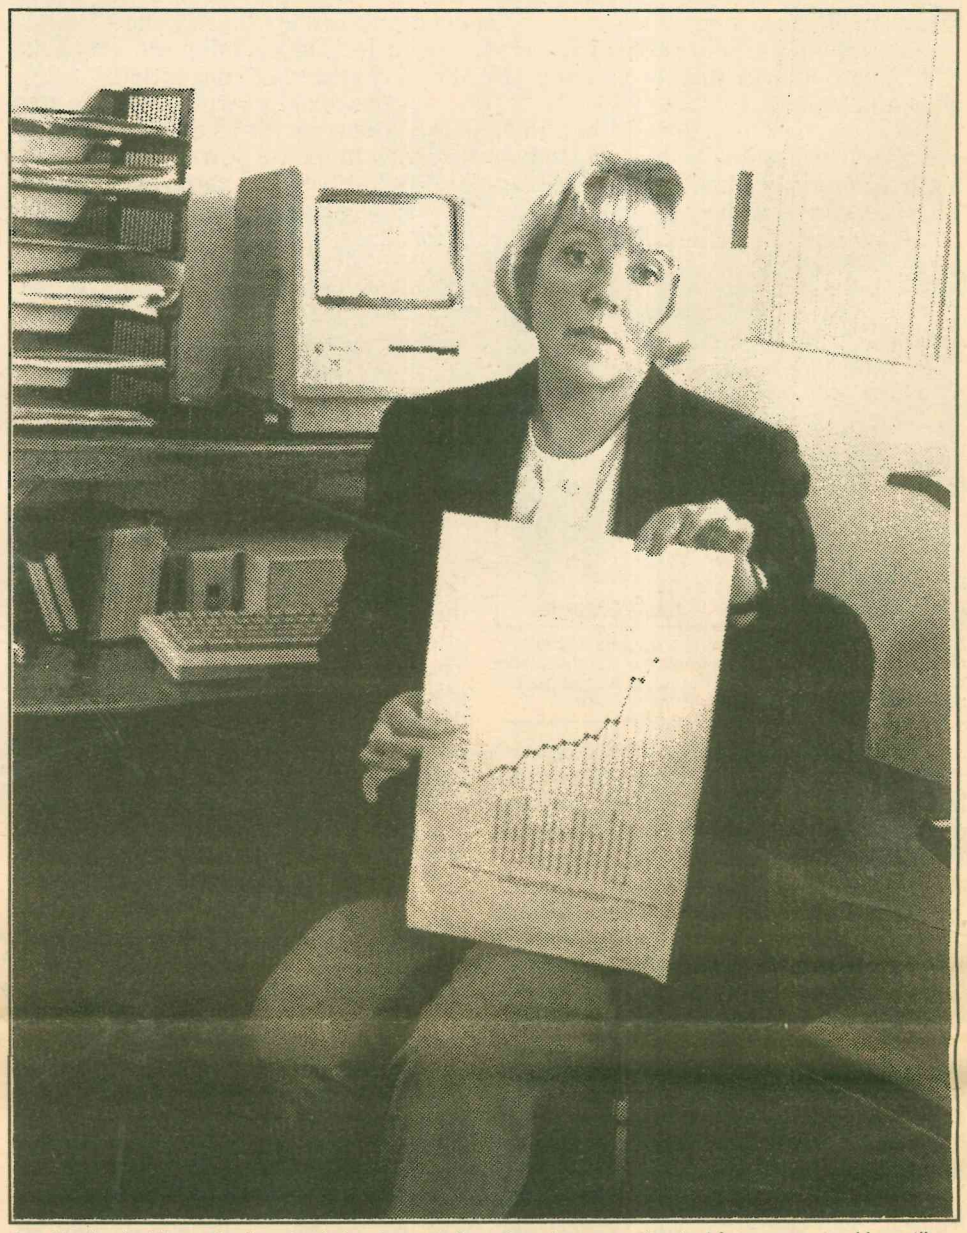
"The other thing was the offer by the American business community to finance Bouchard's new sovereign Quebec. He and Quebecers would not have to worry about Quebec's economy. It would be looked after."

Kealey said the proof was in the pudding – last summer, just after the referendum date was announced, Bouchard was invited to address the business magnates in New York.

So why didn't the referendum question pass? Kealey said she thought the failure was a mistake in calculations. Quebec needs to separate before Canada can be merged with the new United States of North America because a bilingual Canada would be very hard to absorb. Continentalists cannot skip this essential step, nor will they give up after one near miss.

"The bankers will not let it die because they need our resources," Kealey said. "Lucien is going to give it another shot. He's too close to let go."

She said the powers that be have been planning this merger for a long time. And the free trade implementation



Ann Kealey holds up the free trade implementation plan she reconstructed from memory. Up until the Quebec referendum, the events set out in 1988 had all proceeded right on schedule. Quebec was to separate in 1995. But the year's not over! (E. Griffith photo) plan set out seven years ago has been deadly accurate so far. "Being out by a few months – six months is peanuts."

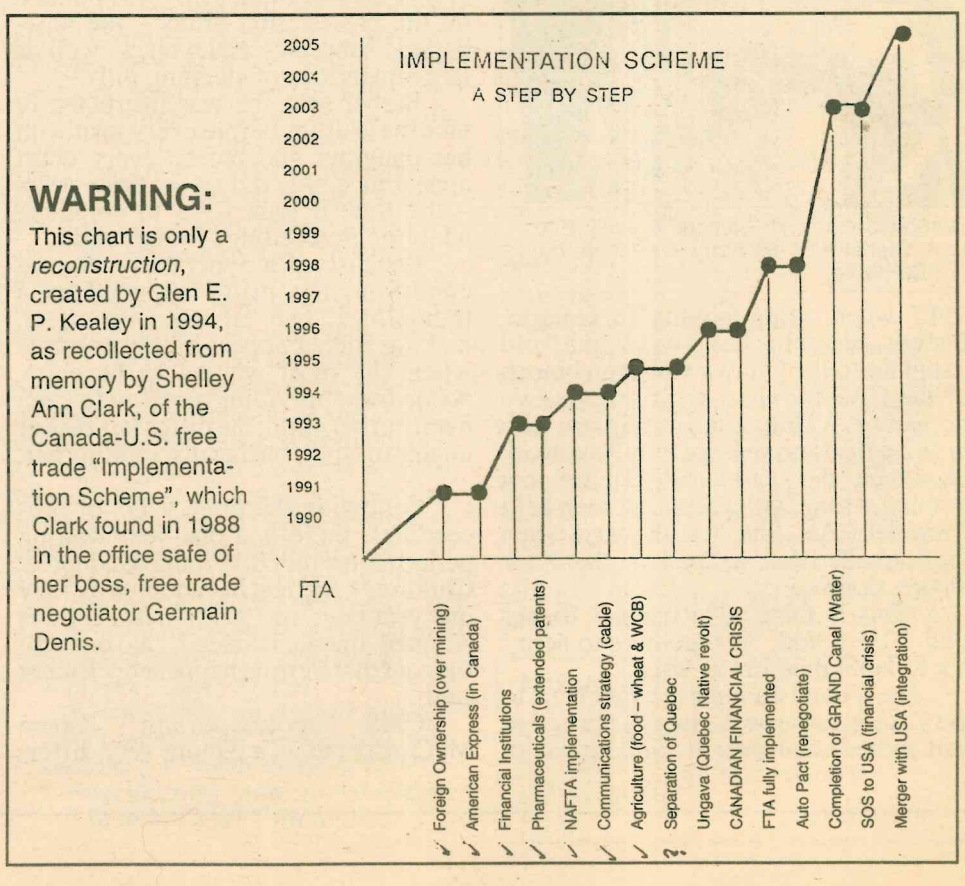
However, Kealey said she thinks we can still turn it around. She pins her hopes on the Natives in Ungava, who may throw a wrench into plans for the new world order. "You never know what they are going to do. There are the peaceful Natives and there are the warriors. The Natives residing in Quebec are not chickens like most Canadians are – they are fearless."

But, Kealey said, Natives don't fit the personality profile to which most Canadians conform that enables the bankers to mold our public opinion so predictably. She gave the example of William Ignace "Wolverine", who said at the Gustafsen Lake, B.C. showdown that he would leave in a body bag. "But eventually he saw another way to accomplish his goal. That's what I mean. The Natives are our one wild card."



A builder then and now:

The death of Glen Kealey's MICOT and the early days of CIPI

by Elaine Griffith

Glen E. P. Kealey has always been in the business of looking at what's to come.

In 1986 Kealey was a self-made millionaire land developer who had raised $160 million, mainly in police and teacher pension funds, to construct a high-tech mall designed to be a prototype for the intelligent building.

His company had designed the MICOT complex, a model for buildings of the future, which included a computer mainframe, production quality laser printers, fibre optics, satellite communication, "intelligent" interior climate control and lighting systems, and all manner of space-age innovations. Kealey and his associates had re-thought the concept of a building in anticipation of the world he saw coming, with cities in the deserts, under the ocean, and perhaps in space.

He bought the land in Hull, Quebec, moved an elementary school that was on the site, and was all set to dig the hole when the investors asked him to get gestures of support from all three levels of government.

The municipal level gave Kealey a dispensation of MICOT's municipal taxes for the first three years (a savings of $3 million a year).

The Quebec government had done a study that concluded the complex would create 5,000 permanent jobs. It offered to rent three per cent of the 1.5 million-square-foot building to provide small businesses with showroom space equipped for high tech communications, an option previously open only to big corporations able to make the initial investment.

Kealey approached the federal government armed with glowing reports: MICOT would generate $17 million in annual revenue provincially and $14 million federally; on top of the 5,000 people the complex would employ, the spinoffs of this project would also create 10,000 related jobs. Kealey met with federal minister of public works Roch Lasalle, hoping for similar support.

Instead, the government minister asked him for a bribe. Kealey was dumbfounded at being asked to take part in a crime scheme run by a government of his own party, the Conservatives. Kealey refused on principle to pay the $5,000 although it was negligible compared to the $25 million he stood to make from MICOT. Months went by, but the government would not give its approval; at every level the word was, "You have to pay to do business with us." Eventually Kealey returned his assets and shut down the business.

Kealey took up the corruption issue within the Tory party, of which he was an active member. He made it quite clear within his riding association that he did not approve of these criminal activities. But the party was not interested in cleaning up its act. At the riding's annual general meeting, Lasalle's former chief of staff showed up and announced his team must take charge of the board election. In a sleazy maneouvre in which 79 ballots were cast in a room of 72, this little team staged a coup and put in place their set of directors.

Kealey decided enough was enough. He divested himself of his personal property, reasoning that he could not protect assets at the same time as fighting greed. Then he began what was to be 1,000 days of protesting alone on Parliament Hill publicly accusing politicians of their crimes, hoping to provoke a lawsuit against himself so that he could tell his story in court.

Two and a half years later there were still no takers. So in 1991 Kealey tried it the other way. He launched a private prosecution against the inner circle of the Mulroney government and top brass in the RCMP, who covered up for the stealing.

In the court of Justice of the Peace Lynn Coulter, testimonies by former M.P.s, cabinet and RCMP were given under oath in a historic hearing that showed Mulroney and a number of Tory ministers in 1984 made a premeditated venture in organised crime, skimming some five per cent from public works contracts. Bank accounts in Luxembourg and Grand Caymen Islands are cited. This illegal kickback scheme required knowledge of and compliance by RCMP commissioner Norman Inkster.

The charges of criminal conspiracy were successful. Coulter ruled there was enough evidence to go on with the case. But she was quickly removed and another judge was brought in to throw out the charges. Last year the only remaining charge, against Roch Lasalle, was stayed.

The media, who had initially followed the Kealey saga, began to change the tone of its stories. As Kealey's proposed solution evolved from merely shouting accusations, first to criminal charges, then to running for federal office, and finally to setting up a political organisation, the media began painting him as a crazy person, as they are known to do to people who threaten the status quo.

Ever the problem solver, Kealey was determined to find a way to circumvent the controlled media, stop organised crime run by the goverment and restore democracy to a corrupt political system.

He incorporated the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity, a think tank to study the problem of elite groups subverting democracy in their quest for power. After seven years of reasearch, Kealey developed a theory that names the Egyptian pharaohs as the instigators of the long-range plan of world domination, along with a detailed history of how this power grew into the empire controlled today by the Rothschilds in Switzerland.

The solution Kealey proposed was the Assembly of Independent Canadians. The AIC is a group of free-thinking people who have agreed to run for government on the platform that they would change the existing Canadian system into one decided on by Canadians, with provisions for democratic decision-making and recognition of Native sovereignty at the national level.

Kealey would prefer not to run in the next election, but will use his hard-won expertise in fighting crooked politicians to help set up the necessary political vehicle and guide candidates through the murky, greed-infested waters of political corruption.

Knowledge isn't power, but it's a start

What do you do when you stumble on a secret so big the fate of the country hangs in the balance?

When she initially found out what was in the free trade agreement, Ann Kealey (Shelley Ann Clark at the time) tried to get transferred to another office, but was told if she quit she would never work in government again.

After a long period of fear, harassment by police and the Canadian Security Intelligence Service, bank account tampering, the ransacking of her apartment overseas and a mysterious poisoning at an embassy reception which she believes was an attempt on her life, Ann Kealey went public with her findings. But she encountered scepticism among media, co-workers and even at home.

The midnight-to-4:00 a.m. document falsifying sessions, which she could not talk about because the information was classified, finally ended her 16-year marriage. Fearing the harsh penalty for breaking an oath of secrecy, Kealey told no one and did not copy the documents, relying only on memory for her eventual disclosure five years later. "That's why the fear set in. Who would believe me?"

After years of living in fear, Kealey began a high-profile publicity campaign on May 26, 1993 with the help of her lawyer Harold Funk, who prepared her original statement.

She met CIPI founder Glen Kealey, who charged the Mulroney government and RCMP head Norm Inkster with conspiracy in a scheme that involved defrauding taxpayers and operating an organised crime ring that collected kickbacks from Ottawa-area businesses. They later married and have gone on cross-country speaking tours, but, predictably, the mainstream media does not acknowledge either of them.

A younger, more naïve Shelley Ann Clark joined the National Party and ran as a candidate in the 1993 election to take her story to Parliament. But she was in for a rude surprise.

Party leader Mel Hurtig, hyped by the media as being a nationalist, did not take up her cause; instead, he buried it, refusing to meet with her or to return letters and phone calls from constituents.

So much for the media and political parties.

Together the Kealeys, in small meeting halls, in the alternative media and through their fax network, have managed to keep alive some of the stories of corruption at the highest levels of Canadian government.

They have hammered out what appears to be a solution to a problem almost unimaginably big: that the powers that be are not just planning but succeeding in a world resource grab.

If the Kealeys are right, the solution is within our grasp. It involves informing the Canadian electorate about what our leaders have been doing for the past few decades, and identifying the problem: the structure of government, which allows our servants in Ottawa to work against us.

The solution then calls for harnessing the resultant outrage to build a new political system that will ensure, through inviolable riding constitutions, that the representative in government does the bidding of his or her constituents. A government that represents its people is so revolutionary a concept, there's no telling what might result once people start making their own decisions about their lives and laws. But to prevent a takeover by the same interests as before, the new constitution for Canada will set out certain rules, such as ownership of our economy and resources, national-level power for Aboriginal self-government bodies, and an industrial strategy to guarantee that Canadians manufacture as much as we consume.

The solution will take numbers and organisation.

The numbers will come when CIPI holds its cross-country "Wisdom Caravan" to spread the word and build networks to be ready for the coming federal election.

Meanwhile, teams will be working on the new constitution to be instated by a possible future government made up of members of the Assembly of Independent Canadians. The constitution will have to be airtight, yet flexible enough to survive anything the international bankers do when they inevitably try to buy, discredit and/or destablilise the new, independent government.

We're up against all the money and political power in the world. We must be sure we have the people behind us, because divided we will fall, as has been proven by centuries of control of most of the world's resources by a few small groups.

It's a long shot, but could you live with yourself if you don't try it?

What would you do in Shelley Ann Clark's place?

Introducing democracy: the Assembly of Independent Canadians

by Elaine Griffith

The Assembly of Independent Canadians (AIC) is a proposed political system that would replace the parliamentary system Canada now uses. The AIC will neutralise the hugely disproportionate power parties hold; allow for fair elections without the hype of simultaneous elections across the country, thereby changing the entire ethic and outlook of voters; entrench its democratic principles in a way that cannot be subverted by a corrupt regime that manages to take power; and compensate Native people, whose rights Canada violated under international law in the early days of this country.

Undoing the party stranglehold

At the riding level, parties will hold little sway since elections will be held not once every four or five years, but when the riding deems it necessary, or when an elected representative is removed, immediately following any violation of the code of conduct set for him or her by the riding through a referendum process. At election time voters will be more interested in the issues the candidates raise than the line a far-away party leader is taking. The constituency will also choose the length of time its representative holds office, his or her salary (paid by the national government to the riding, which then pays its rep.), and its own ballot method, which, if a fair method is adopted, can end the perverse effects we have seen for years as a result of the undemocratic single-X ballot we've been using.

Replacing Canada's parliamentary system with a governing body that represents the people

At the national level, membership in a party will not give much of an advantage to candidates, and the Assembly will as a result be composed largely of independents. The head of government will no longer be the leader of the party with the most M.P.s; this ceremonial position will be filled by a vote from among the elected representatives.

Entrenchment of democracy

Even if a majority of the Assembly became corrupt, but had managed not to be caught violating their ridings' constitutions or removed by their ridings' recall provisions, that government cannot vote to change the essence of the newly-entrenched democracy introduced by the AIC. Such a change would require the unanimous consent of the Assembly and would be next to impossible to hijack.

Native Heritage Senate

In recognition of Native people's central role in the founding of this country and in compensation for the mass murder and robbing of Natives by the empire builders of the day, the senate will be replaced by a Heritage Senate representing Canada's Indigenous population (Native status and representation as defined by Natives themselves), with a veto over all laws and changes to laws which affect the environment.

A percentage of government revenue will be paid directly to Native individuals as compensation for their nations' having lost their land claims.

Caravan will sow the seeds of change

To replace the existing government is going to take thought, organisation and publicity. There are a lot of roles to be filled.

While the eggheads work out the intricacies of the new constitution the AIC government will introduce to Canada, the louder and bolder of us will travel on a two-year-long, cross-country caravan to visit each riding and educate people about the problem and the solution.

Starting off in early February at the trial of William Ignace, leader of the Defenders of the Shuswap Nation, where Glen Kealey will be helping "Wolverine" represent himself, the caravan will head for Cobble Hill on Vancouver Island, B.C., and begin its tour of all the electoral ridings in Canada.

The "Wisdom Caravan" will split up at times: Glen and Ann Kealey will visit the cities and towns and make contacts to set up candidates for the next federal election, while Tom Mattinas, who went on CIPI's fifth Western tour last spring, will cover all the Native reserves.

Raise interest

You'll be able to tell the AIC caravan by the flags flying from every vehicle. The new AIC flag looks just like Canada's current flag except for the colours. The two bars are blue to show the Pacific and Atlantic oceans, and instead of a red dying leaf representing a dying Canada, the maple leaf will be green, symbolising spring and rebirth. One panel truck is to be painted with "Who is stealing your tax dollars in Ottawa?"

Attract media attention

Meeting people from every one of the 295 constituencies will give AIC proponents the chance to build contact lists and communication networks, which we'll need at election time, given the reluctance of media to report on anything that threatens the status quo. But we'll do our best to make the news anyway.

The caravan is to stop in Toronto in June 1998 and hold a five-day conference on corruption too big for media to ignore, featuring whistle-blowers giving their first-hand testimonials. So far there are 15 lined up. If you can only show up for a little while, don't miss the corruption conference.

From there, the caravan, which should by now be100,000 strong, will arrive on Parliament Hill on Canada day – 100,000 video camera-toting civilly disobedient people all demanding a new political system.

But it's not just a demonstration and we won't be there to negotiate with any politicians. We won't block the door or keep business from going ahead, but we might clog downtown Ottawa a bit.

We will demand the media show our videos. We plan to stay there until the mainstream media does its job, or until the election.

There will be farm land made available for people to set up their campers and a shuttle service so that "shift work" will allow the majority to be on Parliament Hill at any given time mingling, giving speeches, talking to press, and possibly doing last-minute fine tuning of AIC policy and election strategy.

We can't count on the media, so everyone there should have a video camera for self-defence and because the only record we have of the event may be our own.

Let people know there's an AIC option on the ballot

The occupation of Parliament Hill takes the place of television advertising and news coverage of the political party the AIC will have formed, so that people will know we mean business.

Res novæ (rez nov-eye) is Latin for political revolution (literally, new order). Let's find out first-hand what it means for Canada and the world.

"The Canadian Revolution has begun."

What can you do?

- Provide a truck or camper for loan
- Provide food and shelter when the caravan comes to your town
- Sponsor someone unemployed or retired who would like to be part of the caravan
- Travel with us and cook, drive, report for the newspaper, photograph, make a movie, phone ahead to the next stop to book community halls, call up local activist groups and the local press. If there are enough people, we'd like to send an advance team to do publicity and hall arrangements.
- People are invited to, at the same time, work on the constitutions for the AIC and Indigenous parallel governments.

Native think tank says Indigenous Institute is the positive alternative

by Severe Ratt

The Indigenous parallel to the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity is in its embryonic stages.

Ojibway Thomas Mattinas, the group's founder and spokesperson, hosted a think tank on Nov. 11 weekend aimed to establish and put in motion a vision of peaceful co-existence. Participants unanimously agreed the vehicle to assist in addressing a new vision of peace with the Assembly of Independent Canadians (AIC) would be the Indigenous Institute for Political Integrity (IIPI).

"We discussed the makeup and functions of IIPI. We reasoned how IIPI and the AIC would compliment each other's efforts to provide people not only with an understanding but a direction for a renewed Canada," Mattinas said.

Mattinas toured with the Kealeys earlier this year to promote the AIC. He said the caravan once again planned to tour Canada in early 1996 with the inclusion of IIPI to advance the common voice of two groups – patriotic Canadians and Indigenous peoples.

Incorporating the IIPI early could provide the organisation needed to raise funds to set up the structures necessary for sending representatives to an Indigenous governing position in a renewed Canada. Any funds raised by the non-profit organisation would be used for communication and publicity expenses incurred during the planning and development of these structures, whatever system Indigenous people choose to use.

Mattinas said one of the goals of IIPI will be to demonstrate to the Indigenous people across the country that the system as now proposed by the Canadian government will never allow our people to have self-determination in any meaningful form.

"We have to unite as peoples across the country," Mattinas said. "In order to accomplish this we must consider the realities of the state of the nation. We have to analyse the standards now being used to direct the country's future destination. We must seriously question: is this the type of country we want to live in, let alone leave our children?

"It has now become a matter of survival, not only for Indigenous people but for patriotic Canadians as well. If we do nothing, we will lose the country, the freedoms and degrees of liberties we now enjoy. If these are removed then so is independence. Today the forms of government have the responsibility to ask you the people if you want to belong to and place the country into the bondage of the new world order.

"By the people, for the people is the principle of democracy and it is our hope as Indigenous people to present our view that can make a difference for the benefit of both people and country."

This think tank, which Mattinas hopes will be the first of many, has already appointed a person to work on IIPI's directives and structure.

Participants expect early next year the group's voice will emerge to contribute to the well-being of Canada by presenting principles geared to advance "peaceful co-existence".

We'll only survive if we work together

by Thomas Mattinas

Indigenous people long ago realised the problem facing us all. Back in 1982 when the Canadian constitution was amended we knew that there were no advances being made toward true living by Native people. We had exhausted all avenues to make the government understand and that's why you see protesting and road blocks.

A Native Perspective

We as Natives understand that all the surplus that Canada has had has left the country. I believe it is in the hands of the world bankers.

I spent the last 20 years trying to find out what was the problem in Canada. I would go down to Parliament at least three or four times a month and sit and watch. I concluded that what they were doing was not according to a Native or a Canadian agenda, but another agenda. The purpose of this agenda is to control people. That's how you know they are working for someone else.

I started to look into the prophesies of Indigenous people, which I heard when I was a child. I learned that change was impossible unless we unite and focus in one direction and go forward as humans to survive.

Native prophesy predicts that at this date and time, which is the point where Natives cannot hunt and fish without harassment, at that point it would be the merging of a new people.

There was to be a beast that would devour all North and South America but before that would happen, the beast would come to an end. The way to kill the beast is you have to hit its heart. In my mind the heart is the heart of the system. The heart we have to hit is the world bankers, multinationals, big corporations.

It is in the prophesies of Natives that they have a role to play as well as the non-Natives, but that in order to fight the beast we must work in harmony.

We as Natives are now beginning to discover we've been Christianised and socialised to a state where we can't think for ourselves. The only way to do it is to base ourselves on common sense.

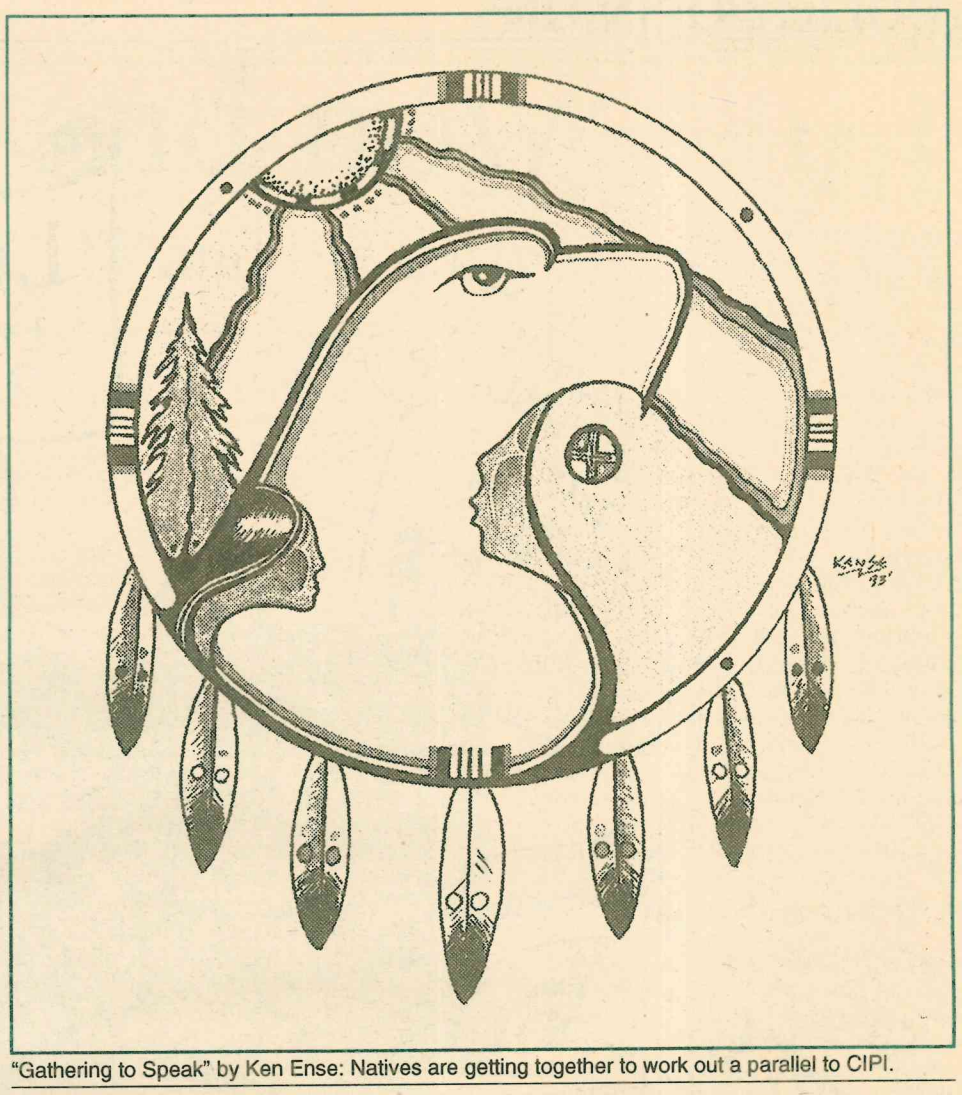
Indigenous people have been low class right from the beginning. They have no land base. It's a small fraction of Natives that have hung onto the prophesies until today. But there are some of the people who still practice the old rituals.

We understand pollution is not by mistake. It's intentional, to take away Native independence by destroying all the animals in the land and in the lakes so we will depend on the bread basket of the big corporations. Gun control accomplishes the same thing – to take away this independence.

We have to change the system but violence is not the answer. It was violence that divided the people. I don't think it can unite the people. Peace and understanding will unite the people when we realise we all have the same enemy.

When Native and non-Native people travel together on the Wisdom Caravan, we hope we can work in harmony and bring about a new way of governing the country.

We as Native people have burned many bridges in the past. But there is one more bridge that we cannot afford to burn because we need it to cross that last river. The caravan will help Indigenous and non-Native people to cross that bridge together.



"Gathering to Speak" by Ken Ense: Natives are getting together to work out a parallel to CIPI.

Cracks in the media monolith

All media is not ignoring CIPI. Robbie Noel's show on short wave radio out of Arizona had Glen Kealey on the call-in show for an hour Oct. 26 just before the referendum, and then again Nov. 10. Noel invited him back because the last time Kealey spoke, "the response was overwhelming." Noel told Kealey on-air that he'd hang up a big map of Canada and do an update on the caravan every month for the full two years.

Then John Campbell of Sault St. Marie radio station CHAS called after the Robbie Noel show and asked Kealey to appear on his two-hour Sunday morning show, date T.B.A..

Normally Kealeys and media don't mix. Mike Duffy provided the rare exception once, but don't hold your breath for it to happen again. (CIPI photo)

Land claims should be paid by the bankers who profited from 500 years of exploitation

by Glen E. P. Kealey
president and co-chair, CIPI

Although the national media refuse to point this out to their audiences, traditional Native Indians at the Gustafsen Lake, B.C. standoff are on the same side of the economic fence as most of the media's middle-class audiences. These traditional Natives don't want Canadian taxpayers to pay

Make no mistake about it:

Traditional Native Indians at the Gustafsen Lake stand-off are on the same side as middle-class non-Native Canadians

Native land claims from their own meagre earnings. They want the international bankers to pay. They want the bankers to stop looting the profits made from our natural resources. Finally, they want all Canadians to share equally in the same type of guaranteed minimum annual income as they want.

National media, being under the firm control of wealthy elitist traitors, whose own access to taxation loopholes is big enough to drive a train through, they, who share the secret knowledge that government has become a vast money laundering system for their international banker sponsors, keep quiet. As Tom Dennis stated, the media look at the events at the standoff through a microscope, when in fact they should be using a periscope.

When the national media tries to employ "victim strategy", telling both Natives and non-Natives alike that by pursuing this dispute people will push back Native land claims twenty years, they don't want their audiences to understand that in so doing, the Defenders of the Shuswap Nation are doing everyone a favour. No other land claim will be transferred to the control of non-traditional Native leaders, and ordinary middle-class Canadians won't be made to pay with their taxes for Native land claims they don't owe.

Later on down the road, once a true parallel government has been established, a "mortgage in lieu of land claims" can be arranged beween the Canadian government and each Native, with a payment made directly to each Native person by means of a monthly cheque. Funds for this purpose will come from the reallocation of profits being made currently on the exploitation of these resources. Never again will payment come from the pockets of Canadian taxpayers.

Assembly of Independent Canadians

Mission Statement

(Revised Feb. 14, 1995)
The Assembly of Independent Canadians is a new political option for Native and immigrant Canadians who passionately love Canada and who consistently dream of living in a truly independent country. It is, in our view, the only remaining political option left for a free Canada as we move into the 21st century. Above all, the AIC is only for those Canadians who are willing to de-programme themselves to reject the widely held illusion that Canadians presently live in a democratic society. AIC supporters must actively participate in making the revival of Canada as a free, fair and independent nation a reality or suffer permanent expulsion from the Assembly.

The AIC will provide the fair political forum for the much-needed coming together of Aboriginal and non-Native citizens of Canada.

The founding parents of the new AIC must and will "lock in stone" a constitution for our land, like corporate unanimous shareholders' agreements lock in all future shareholders and require unanimous consent for change. Future members of the Assembly must accept, without reservation, an AIC constitution that will deal with the exploitation for profit of our land, air, water and other natural resources, or forfeit their membership. It is intended that the exploitation of natural resources will primarily provide for each citizen a guaranteed annual income sufficient to cover the cost of those items considered essential to allow each person to evolve at his or her own pace, in order for all to become fully human.

The AIC will re-nationalise the making and distribution of money. The profits derived therefrom shall only be utilised to fund our Canadian infrastructure construction and maintenance programmes. The country will be re-tooled to manufacture the critical mass of all products consumed in Canada. International barter will be carried out through a system of newly created national "trading companies".

The people of Canada will obtain direct control over their politics with the creation of new, independent Constituent Assemblies, one for each electoral riding in the country. Electoral representation will be based on a combination of two examples: the Native Confederacy system utilising runners and the International Bankers' Swiss system of initiative – referendum – recall, with "ceremonial" leadership.

Anti-corruption priorities for a new Canada

(CIPI's action plan for dropping out of the "new world order")

To stop the STEALING

- expose all political corruption involved in Canada's destruction
- appoint and empower an independent prosecutor
- replace the entire upper management team of the RCMP; review all past and existing RCMP "political" investigations
- review all government executive salaries, bonuses and pensions, past purchasing methods and service contracts; identify the criminals
- arrest and jail all former and present crooked politicians, mandarins, justice system officials including police, lawyers, prosecutors and judges

To stop the LYING

- identify the political moles who work within the media
- break up all media monopolies

To reclaim the economy

- abrogate the U.S.-Canada and North American free trade agreements
- repay the existing international debt
- create national trading companies to manage international trade
- trade internationally only by way of barter
- create employee-owned business: full employment will be assured by a manufacturing-employment strategy in which Canada produces all the finished goods and services intended to be consumed here
- legislate to require all manufacturers to include an environment protection component into their cost of production

To correct injustices done to Natives

- establish a parallel government with our Aboriginal people: a Heritage Senate, which gives Natives a veto over laws passed that affect the natural environment
- nationalise Canada's natural resources; divert profits from their exploitation to provide a payment in lieu of land claims to each Aboriginal and a guaranteed annual income for each citizen of Canada

To re-nationalise the making of Canadian money

- abolish income tax and the Goods and Services Tax; replace taxation with a single tax on the manufacturing and distribution of money to banks
- allow only the Bank of Canada to print the government's money
- allow corporations to borrow money from the banks at a low fixed rate, and individuals to borrow at a slightly higher rate
- force the Bank of Canada to use the profit made on the creation of money to finance the cost of maintaining the infrastructure of Canada (bridges, roads, ports, power, communications)

To overhaul the electoral system

- replace the parliamentary system with the Assembly of Independent Canadians

AIC preamble

or: Thoughts to be considered when reprogramming your ROM

(revised March 20, 1995)

Whereas the preponderance of circumstantial evidence suggests that we Canadians no longer live in a country where laws are based upon the will of the people; and

Whereas the preponderance of circumstantial evidence suggests that our parliamentarians are simple "trained seals" who obediently applaud, on cue, the so-called wisdom of their party leaders during question period held in the House of Commons; and

Whereas the preponderance of circumstantial evidence suggests that creating another new national political party or electing a new national government based on the existing system would change absolutely nothing and that we must be totally insane if we expect a different outcome will somehow result from repeating these same ineffective exercises over and over again; and

Whereas the preponderance of circumstantial evidence suggests that the patriarchal system under which we presently live is not at all responsive to the needs of families; and that we the people were programmed as children with false information about our true history as human beings on planet Earth (often this was foisted on us by our churches, schools and unknowingly, by our parents). This erroneous information is still being reinforced in us daily by our controlled national media and legal industry who, in turn, with the assistance they provide corrupt politicians, pollsters, lobbyists, mandarins and their minions at every level of the so-called "public service", continue to deceive us,

Whereas the preponderance of circumstantial evidence suggests

We the people now freely choose, by virtue of our own free will, to accept a version of history in line with our own common sense. We vow to use this new enlightenment in the future to guide us in introducing a better system of government to Canadians; in other words, AIC supporters hereby agree to always face reality.

Quebec vote showed it's time to clear the site for a new Canada

From the Desk of Glen Kealey

Traditional Natives revolted in August; traditional Canadians came to Montreal and wrenched a weak "maybe" from the people of Quebec.

Canadians are of like mind. Patriots, from coast-to-coast-to-coast, want a different Canada. Not a Canada of the politicians or their sponsors, but a Canada that belongs to us. Most Canadians insist that it will be a caring Canada for each and every one: for the Aboriginal, for the native born – of French or English descent, as well as for more recent immigrants of different colours, religions or nationalities.

Canadians also believe it is time to examine our recent immigration patterns in order to determine a new consensus.

Most Canadians are fed up with the status quo. Most do not want less government. Most want less corruption in government. They are tired of how the legal industry has protected corrupt politicians from prosecution. They are tired of being pigeon-holed by media that belong to the elites. They are tired of being manipulated and brainwashed by churches, schools, book publishers, radio and the electronic media. They are sick of being "amused to death" by a profit-oriented entertainment industry while their kids take drugs and/or commit suicide because they have lost all hope.

Independent Canadians, traditional Canadians, who believe in both democracy and the rule of law are sick and tired of being sick and tired.

Today we, independent Canadians, vow to take direct control of our own lives. We know that crystal clear eye-witness evidence, of what was secretly destined to transpire during the referendum on the separation of Quebec, was shared with both the national media and political elite by Ottawa's Shelley Ann Clark and Glen Kealey (since 1988). But "our" politicians, courts, police and national media contrived to cover it up. Now they cry crocodile tears.

The Canadian revolution has begun.

The NO camp in the Quebec referendum did everything it could do to help the YES side win. They threatened to reopen the constitution in the event of a NO vote. Jean Chrétien, if he had wanted, could have used his NO side rally to address Canadians. Instead, Chrétien orchestrated a final opportunity for Lucien Bouchard to address the undecided Quebeckers on television. It was a knockdown punch. As the "Implementation Scheme", seen by Shelley Ann Clark in the Free Trade Office safe (1988) had clearly stated, "Lucien Bouchard is in place to do the deed." When leadership was sorely needed, Chrétien whimpered; Bouchard took charge. This was all contrived in secret.

Now it's our turn, people of Canada, to take charge. Now we will join together and "clear the site" – for a different Canada. Arm yourself with a video camera and join the AIC. Come with us on our historic cross-Canada "Wisdom Caravan" to set up a true democracy.

AIC must be a working model of democracy

by E. Griffith and B. Raisbeck

When the Assembly of Independent Canadians forms a political party to run in the next election, it must include principles of democracy in the party constitution to make sure it represents its members and to be an example for Canadian democracy. Many groups have attempted to organise democratically – the National Party is one – with varying degrees of success. But to start with, at the constitution level we must adopt some basic democratic principles:

1. Abrogation of the U.S.-Canada Free Trade Agreement and NAFTA

We are losing our country under free trade. No country, no democracy.

2. AIC as a model for the country

A. No corporate or union donations

We reject alien ownership of the country and also of the party, since the party strives to show what is possible for the country.

B. Party organised according to people and provinces, not regions

The party should be a microcosm of the country and should be organised to balance the twin pillars of federalism — the principles of equality of the individual, and equality of the member-state.

(i) When AIC members are elected into government the problems we have been addressing should have been problems related to Canada. Gerrymandering changes the focus of issues; setting up arbitrary regional lines will divert the AIC's attention from the issues facing Canada, which are related to provincial interests.

(ii) The forces that act on the party should be those of a state made up of member states, not ones generated from within an arbitrary context of population-based regions. The party should not, for instance, be controlled by a board dominated by Ontario and Quebec just because of their high population. Rather, national committees, etc., should require a number of members from each province/territory so as to avoid over-representation by the provinces with the highest population.

3. Democracy means informed choice.

A. Choice means

(i) a fair ballot, one suitable to the question being decided. For a multi-option question the party should use a ballot other than the perverse single-X ballot currently used in other parties and in Canadian elections, which brought us the FTA and many other distorted results. A democracy committee should be set up to review the democratic validity of any vote at any level, and to make available mathematicians' evaluations of proposed ballot systems the AIC or any of its constituencies may adopt (e.g. multi-X or ranked systems).

(ii) recall, citizens' initiative, and binding referendum, together with inexpensive voting methods — mail-in ballots, telephone voting, votes held at the constituency level.

(iii) clear and fair regulations on who can vote. To preclude stacking of meetings with instant members, a length-of-membership requirement must be met in order to vote; no financial barriers should keep members from voting; any national conventions should be held at forums where registration fees are not prohibitive.

B. Informed means

(i) openness – no information gate-keeping; committees should have clear mandates and mandatory minute-taking; paper trail policy within the AIC's party – a requirement that members' letter will be acknowledged by officials and committees if the letter is accompanied by a SASE, since mail-outs are expensive.

(ii) communication methods – newsletter, computer BBS , etc..

4. Policies that follow directly from these principles

For instance: the AIC opposes any policies that are in clear violation of the principles of democracy such as political appointment of judges, and we support causes that promote democratic ideals, e.g. free press serves to inform people.

5. Other policies should be considered secondary to the principle of democracy; their adoption should be postponed until democracy is established and members are able to democratically vote on policy.

While the AIC will dissolve as a party after forming the government and setting up the new Canada, the constituencies will still all be in place and should have within their rules the basis for democracy.

Note: The AIC party election platform should make it clear in the 1998 election that a vote for this party is a vote for the new constitution, which brings with it not just democracy within the non-Native branch of Canadian government, the Assembly, but also the existence of the Native parallel government and the "fortress Canada" industry/trade policy.

The case for suspicion

by Elaine Griffith

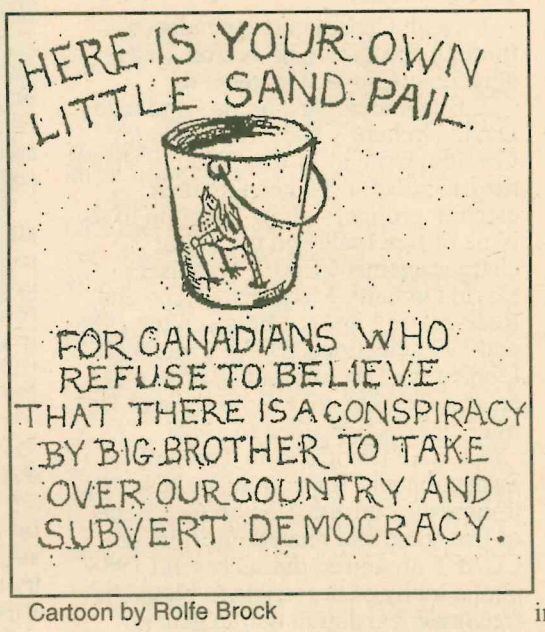
The business community's against us, all four political parties are against us, the media's against us, the legal system's against us – and yet we are the majority.

The only thing keeping these interests in power is the fact that the majority doesn't know it's the majority. The majority of the country voted against free trade and we got free trade.

When you look into the abyss the abyss looks into you; individual people didn't want to look into the abyss and see that our ballot system was the cause. It was easier to think, "I didn't vote for free trade but I guess my neighbours did."

The people who knew the mechanics of electoral decision-making knew it was inevitable that there would come a time when we would realise we were the majority and that a political machine would spring up representing the majority, on the right side of the two main issues of the past decade: free trade and the Charlottetown constitution deal. They were prepared for this eventuality since, as always, they were organised and pro-active, not reactive like us individuals.

The idea that there are big financial interests out to subvert alternative political movements is a logical conclusion, not the product of a diseased mind. A climate exists where being suspicious is considered to be evidence of a medical condition called paranoia, caused by a brain chemical imbalance. But suspicion should not be discouraged. It should be cultivated as healthy awareness.



Cartoon by Rolfe Brock

Anyone who's been faced with the dilemma of having to confront a drinking driver knows politeness can cost you your life. Mothers Against Drunk Drivers and other groups have helped create a climate where a person can say, "I don't think you're safe to drive. Why don't we call a cab?" and not get a shocked silence. With stakes like that, nobody is surprised if you put safety before politeness.

But in the Canadian political system, politeness has allowed all manner of bizarre and outrageous activities to go unchallenged.

It must no longer be unheard of to ask, "Why should I trust you?"; "What might someone say was in it for you?"; "What assurances can you give me that you don't have an ulterior motive?"

People should not be able to evade questions by pulling a righteous-indignation routine or casting questioners as crazy for asking such a nasty thing. Many citizen groups have been infiltrated and have had their leadership hijacked and their goals twisted around 180 degrees.

Lessons in cynicism have usually come too little, too late. Did you get involved in politics to make friends? Let's be pro-active for a change. Let's encourage a climate of healthy suspicion in the AIC.

ANALYSIS

Who's on your side?

A survey of citizens' groups and political parties: What are they offering these days?

Happier days: CCAFT boss David Orchard stands by Glen Kealey near the spot where it all began. Now the Citizens Concerned distance themselves from him. It used to be that Kealey described the problem and CCAFT offered a solution. Five years later it seems it's the other way around. (CIPI photo)

Who's out there? What do they stand for?

We are asking the following questions of citizens' groups and political parties:

1. What are the goals of your organisation?
2. What can an individual member do to further these goals?
3. What does the group offer that an individual member cannot do on his or her own?
4. (a) Where was this group on the1988 U.S. Canada Free Trade Agreement (FTA) and on NAFTA?
   (b) Where was this group on the 1992 Charlottetown Accord referendum?
   (c) What did this group ask people to do in the last election?
5. What is this group's strategy for the next election? If there is currently no strategy, (a) when is this strategy likely to be decided? (b) what is the strategy likely to be (or unlikely to be)?

Action Canada Network

(formerly Pro-Canada Network)

1. Goal: to co-ordinate the efforts of various progressive organisations to create a political culture for Canada based on non-corporate social values – e.g. equality, universal health care, fair taxation. The ACN is non-partisan but is made up mainly of the same groups who united in 1987 under its original name, the Pro-Canada Network, with a common opposition to the U.S.-Canada FTA.

2. In the case of ACN, individual members are groups, e.g. Council of Canadians, National Action Committee on the Status of Women, Canadian and American unions, churches, Native, environmental and anti-poverty organisations and regional coalitions. Individual groups share ideas and resources for the benefit of others. ACN considers voting and federal politics to be declining in importance and will probably be concentrating more and more on consumer boycotts and work stoppages. ACN has endorsed talk of general strikes by the Public Service Alliance and the Canadian Federation of Students.

3. Name recognition; media attention by virtue of the number represented by the ACN umbrella. ACN has its own campaigns as well as those of its member organisations. Its campaign for fair taxation held a two-day national vote on the GST. The ACN has its own newsletter, the Action Canada Dossier and the weekly two-page Action Bulletin. In 1988 the ACN published the educational cartoon booklet What's the Big Deal?

4. (a) Free trade: against.
   (b) Charlottetown Accord: no position. ACN held a forum but could not get a consensus among member groups.
   (c) Last election: through press releases and "Don't vote for free trade" booklets and lawn signs, ACN tried to turn the focus of debate to social programmes and NAFTA.

5. Next election: strategy not decided yet. A steering committee of 20 member organisations decides policy. Also, ACN holds national assemblies two or three times a year, but since politics at the national level is not a main focus, ACN will probably not have a strategy until the election year.

Canadian Institute for Political Integrity

1. Goal: a democratic and sovereign Canada with a parallel government for Natives

2. Individuals can research, challenge in court and expose corruption in the current system so as to convince citizens that the system is beyond repair and must be replaced; set up a vehicle (the Assembly of Independent Canadians) to replace that system; write a new constitution for Canada, which an AIC government will put in place; bypass the controlled media by taking part in cross-country "Wisdom Caravan" to bring the message of the AIC to every riding; run as an AIC candidate in the 1998 election; campaign for AIC candidates at the 1998 Conference on Corruption and elsewhere.

3. Group offers a political mechanism to bring about Canadian democracy and independence. Kealey name recognition commands respect and/or fear in courtrooms, political and media circles. CIPI has a vast library of documented corruption and other material, a communication network, and now a newspaper.

4. (a) Free trade: against
   (b) Charlottetown accord: against
   (c) Last election: Glen Kealey ran as an independent candidate. Ann Kealey, who ran as a National Party candidate, joined CIPI later.

5. Next election: form an AIC political party, try to run candidates in every riding. For publicity as well as organisation, start a caravan to Ottawa, stopping to hold a conference on corruption in Toronto and ending on Parliament Hill with 100,000 civilly disobedient people armed with video cameras all demanding this new political system.

CIPI: Box 1634, Station B, Hull, Que. J8X 3X5. Phone (819) 778-1705; fax (613) 747-1644.

Citizens Against Bad Law

1. Goal: to provide procedural guidance and emotional support to people who decide they're not getting anywhere with lawyers and the justice system.

2. Person comes to CABL, usually having spent thousands of dollars on legal fees, and tells story to a panel that listens and usually recommends the person represent him/herself with the assistance of one of the volunteer panel members. Panelists spend up to two years helping individuals preparing case and appearing in courtroom. Person is eventually encouraged to buy a membership and stay on as a member to help others.

3. Expertise; experience of people who have represented themselves in court; emotional support. CABL holds public meetings and publishes The CABL Sword, a newsletter that exposes bad law and corruption in the legal system.

4. (a) Free trade: n/a. Note: CABL helped Shelley Ann Clark make her disclosure – panel decided she needed a lawyer and introduced her to a lawyer who helped her for free and by donation.
   (b) Charlottetown Accord: n/a
   (c) Last election: n/a

5. Next election: n/a

Citizens Concerned About Free Trade

1. Goal: Canadian independence through abrogation of the free trade agreements; justice in general.

2. Buy a membership; buy and read David Orchard's book The Fight for Canada; write to M.P.s; publicly shame the Liberals for not keeping their election promises; draw attention to the issue of free trade and the unjust charges against CCAFT organisers David Orchard, Marjaleena Repo and Rose-Marie Larsson. Between the 1988 and 1993 elections, CCAFT members lobbied the Liberals and NDP to make an arrangement not to split the anti-free trade vote as happened in 1988.

3. CCAFT's offices in Toronto, Saskatoon and Vancouver are resource libraries for information on the effects of free trade and related information. CCAFT organised the successful 1988 phone lobby of the senate to block the free trade legislation until a general election was called. Spokesperson David Orchard has name recognition and gets interviewed by alternative, and occasionally mainstream, press. CCAFT publishes a newsletter, True North.

4. (a) Free trade: against
   (b) Charlottetown Accord: against
   (c) Last election: see Council of Canadians (i.e. vote Liberal or NDP).

5. Next election: answer unavailable

Council of Canadians

1. Goal: to create a new kind of political culture with an emphasis on citizens' rights. The Council of Canadians' focus has changed in its 10 years – it used to mainly lobby political parties and voters to oppose the U.S.-Canada FTA. Now in COC's opinion governments have their hands tied, so people should concentrate on "battling corporate globalism on an international level and helping individuals in their communities protect their rights" rather than try to change the government. COC aspires to develop citizens' movements to write up a vision and a list of rights, develop negotiating positions in facing governments and corporations, and assume direct responsibility for democracy independent of government. COC organises letter-writing, petitions and consumer boycotts directed at specific manifestations of the "corporate agenda". Recent campaigns include opposition to Wal-Mart and Bovine Growth Hormone. Goals for the year are decided by the national board.

2. COC encourages individuals to buy a membership, as the organisation claims not to solicit government or corporate donations. Members who want to do more than that may take part in COC's Action Link Network, which produces a manual for activists and circulates a bi-monthly bulletin containing suggestions for letter-writing, talking to your grocer and dairy producer, taking part in consumer boycotts, etc..

3. Name recognition provides media attention and weight when recommendations are presented to government committees, etc.. The group funds causes that fall within its mandate if approved by the national board. The COC publishes a magazine, Canadian Perspectives.

4. (a) Free trade: against.
   (b) Charlottetown Accord: employee did not know
   (c) Last election: CoC did a riding-by-riding endorsement of the strongest anti-free trade candidate (as determined by the national board) which in this case was about a 50-50 Liberal-NDP split.

5. Next election: answer unavailable

Continuing:
Another winter of discontent

by Tony Ruffo

So, what do we do now?

The excruciating October 30 referendum in Quebec saw Canadians battle their way through yet another chapter of the never-ending saga of our country's struggle to exist.

In our short history, we have witnessed proud Abroriginal peoples subjugated, immigrants used and abused, and – in modern times – the vast majority of people enslaved by the whims of the corporate/political agenda.

A view from Quebec

We live in a vast land, bountiful and prosperous, yet we share so little of its abundance.

Many of our fellow Canadians in Quebec have expressed a desire for profound change in the way our society is organised. Indeed, so have Canadians from sea to sea.

The Spicer Commission duly noted that "there is a fury in the land". It is our duty to channel that fury into creative change.

The Quebec referendum is a bell-wether warning of the imminent danger our country faces. If we do not take these omens seriously – and do so now – we will indeed lose our treasured country and our Canadian identity.

To suggest that most Canadians are content with the status quo – under which the ridiculously few with wealth are served by the overwhelmingly many without – would be a lie. But it is no more of a lie than suggesting that Quebec or the rest of Canada could somehow be better off outside of confederation. Without the tremendous strength of opposition shown by the Native peoples toward separation, without the spontaneous outpouring of concern by literally millions of Canadians as the official NO campaign faltered, it would already be too late. The Quebec referendum would have been lost, and our Canada would no longer exist.

Where did it start?

The seeds of this bitter winter of our discontent were planted in times long past, when the profit of the few first took precedence over the good of the many. Since then, we have been continually manipulated into doing our masters' bidding.

Yet we – the people – have persisted in our own small actions of faith and good will. That we have been abused for our gentle and caring nature could, perhaps, be forgiven. What cannot, what must not, be forgiven is the loss of the sacred pact among the people: that we are all created equal.

Nothing less than the resurrection of this pact of equality will satisfy the Canadian soul.

Only by restoring its pre-eminence can the many thwart the manipulative actions designed and carried out by the few for only their benefit. And now is the time.

We the people must once again take control of the wheel guiding our destiny. Once again we must assert our profound belief in the human family. We must take action now.

In their own and in Quebec's referenda, Native citizens rose to the task by declaring their resounding desire to "renegotiate the pact" with all like-minded people within the framework of Canada.

The time has long passed for us to recognise that their future is our future as well, that their well-being is our well-being as well.

Likewise, the desire for change expressed in the referendum is a catalyst to change.

We the people have a rare opportunity in Canada today, but we must act. We must join together as never before to exercise our individual rights in order to protect our collective identity.

Today you are reading a new publication dedicated to the preservation of Canada and the restoration of responsible government. The Assembly of Independent Canadians is a forum you should seriously consider. It is a means of regaining control of our country and of our lives.

The very existence of Canada could well be left in the balance. And now is truly the time.

The last word: Letters from our readers

Open letter to Bev Collins: water diversion is for real

...I came across [an] article out at UBC library on the GRAND Canal Project. It is interesting in that it was written even before the Free Trade deal (FTA) was signed. Everything that Shelley Ann and Glen Kealey spoke of in their Vancouver talk on June 25, 1994 is vindicated by this article.

...It's too bad that Shelley Ann's message isn't common household knowledge in Canada at this critical moment. But unfortunately, the controlled press has done their job well. If Quebecers only know that they are being set up as mere pawns by the American bankers in order to facilitate the destruction and takeover of Canada, and that they in turn will become cajun mincemeat if the nefarious plan succeeds.

Too much of a sceptic to be sceptical of government

...Yes, some of this might well be true. But on balance the massive conspiracy theory doesn't win me over.

...Your organisational structure looks more like that of a consumer advocate group than a brand new system of government....

Shelley Ann Clark's FTA experiences are fascinating, but the mere existence of altered copy does not make a prima facie case of wrong-doing. Those copies might have been intended for draft use. Without being present at the meetings at which the altered copies were used, who knows?

Yes, fresh water is a key asset, and the U.S. needs what Canada has. But they need no devious scheme to get it. The supply/demand law plus U.S. capital will suffice.

My original reason for getting in touch was to see if your organisation could investigate allegations of ballot-box fraud....

(excerpt from open letter to Jean Chrétien:)

...Norman Webster of the Montreal Gazette... reports that 11.7 per cent of the ballots in Chomedy, a Liberal riding in Laval with a large ethnic population, were rejected; and that in one poll in Marguerite-Bourgeoy 102 out of 205 ballots were discarded for reasons as trivial as having the two lines of an X of unequal sizes.

I would like to ask you to initiate an immediate public inquiry into these allegations....

So you wanna be an activist!
A shopper's guide to citizen action groups

by Elaine Griffith

Democracy – justice – equality – ecological living.... All require a country able and willing to adopt these new concepts. Under U.S.-Canada free trade, North American free trade and the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, Canada's sovereignty – its ability to decide its own laws – is fast disappearing. You only have limited time, money and energy – which groups best represent your goals and propose the most plausible strategies to attain them?

Beware of:

Wasting time doing pointless things like
- telling people what they already know

Consider: the majority voted against free trade in a federal election universally considered a referendum on the issue. Now we've lived with it for six years. Who do you still need to convince?
- talking about the problem but giving no solution (or getting people to do time-consuming research on just how bad things are)

Consider: "Speak out", "network", "bring the message to the people", "focus the debate", etc., all mean "talk". Talk minus action equals zero. When reading through your group's literature, what are the subjects and predicates?
- writing to M.P.s, telling them your vision of the world or of utopia, or demanding changes (also known as demanding that foxes do something about the situation in the hen house)

Consider: the Liberals continued on with U.S. free trade against the clearly expressed wishes of Canadians, then extended it to Mexico. Chrétien told Quebec that if they voted against separation, he would do what all of Canada voted against in 1992 – amend the constitution. What effect will another letter have?

Wasting money sending it to groups that offer no solution. "Educating people" so they might some day form a "movement" may sound like a noble goal... until you look at the time frame.

Consider: next federal election is 1998 at the latest. The free trade implementation scheme Shelley Ann Clark saw gave Quebec's separation date as 1995, immediately followed by the GRAND canal water export project. What do we need to do right now?

Damaging your cause by discouraging appropriate action, turning people away from the place laws are written, telling them the laws matter but the law-makers don't (forgetting that NAFTA is a law made by people, not a law of nature).

Consider: some groups actively thwart solution-driven action such as joining or forming a political party, taking on a bad law or corrupt politician in court, civil disobedience and the like. Does your group condone or encourage such actions?

"Question Period"

We will print questions to M.P.s (or other public figures) side by side with the reply. Please send brief questions on current topics, along with replies, to the address above. Hint: to get a real reply to a letter, sometimes you have to follow up by complaining about the form letter you may initially get back. This column will give you practice for when you, an independent Canadian, get elected to government and can tackle them personally.

Rafe Mair, prominent CKNW radio talk show host interviewed NDP leader Alexa McDonough Nov. 1/95.

Rafe Mair: "If there was an NDP government tomorrow, what would you do about NAFTA and the FTA, cancel it?"

Alexa McDonough: "No..."

Q. #1 How would "Fortress Canada" work in practice? What specific things could we do individually and nationally to stay afloat?
E. Griffith

A. 1 (a) We should adopt the four-day work-week immediately after declaring ourselves an independent country. Mega-business backlash will throw our industry into chaos; other countries will likely boycott our products. Canadians will have to tighten their belts in terms of consumption. Shortening the work-week leads to less production and less environmental damage. It would boost Canadian morale by solving the unemployment problem while not significantly decreasing wages, and would give people the extra time we'd need to make stuff we now buy, and to think through the new political reality in Canada. Info: Work Well Network, (604) 334-0998.

Rev. Bob Raisbeck

A. 1 (b) Reclaiming our monetary system begins with the Currency Act (C. 52, Statutes of Canada). According to this Act, all our metal money is minted and circulated by the federal government, with profits paid into the so-called "Consolidated Revenue Fund". In contrast, our paper money is burdened by debt to money-lenders. Coins offer a partial but significant solution to our fiscal problems. The first step should be re-introducing large denomination coinage through amendments to the Currency Act. For example, C. 19 (1985) now permits a $20 silver piece. That coin should be circulated specifically to pay for repairing our crumbling infrastructure.

John Richard Bowlby
Ottawa

A. 1 (c) We would have to break up the media monopolies and keep them from forming again. It is possible to legally restrict any one person or family, group, trust or corporation from owning or controlling more than one media outlet, i.e. only one newspaper, one T.V. station or one radio station. Also, create a fund to support journalists and writers who jeopardise their careers and families by exposing corrupt and illegal practices.

Q. #2 Why did nearly half of Quebec vote to separate when it's obvious they wouldn't survive without Canada?
David Clark
Ottawa

A. 2 (a) The politicians and media have been down-playing Quebec's demands for improved social programmes, one area the Canadian government has turned away from with its neo-liberalism. The people in Quebec who voted for sovereignty wanted to set up their own social programmes.

GLEN KEALEY

Kealey is the former Hull area commercial developer who exposed the system of organised crime run by Mulroney's government and the complicity of the RCMP and justice system.

In 1986 Kealey was asked for a bribe by Public Works Minister Roch LaSalle, who offered him government support for his project in exchange for 5% of all government contributions on top of the $5,000 up front. Investigating, Kealey found evidence of a massive bribe and kickback scheme operated and controlled right out of the PMO, and a close collaboration among the Tories, the media, and police. Kealey successfully charged 16 people, including members of the government and RCMP, with criminal conspiracy.

Clark was the civil servant working on the U.S.-Canada Free Trade Agreement who was called to work between midnight and 4 am beginning January 1987 and ordered to falsify, then eventually shred, briefing papers designed to mislead provincial premiers about what was in the FTA. Clark says the deal's implementing scheme has never been made public, and that it contains plans for Quebec's separation, massive water diversion, and absorption into the U.S. by the year 2005. After being abandoned by her union and threatened by secret service, Clark went public with her story in May 1993 and ran as a National Party candidate in the election. Canada's media monopoly would rather have you think about O. J. Simpson.

RED CROSS SOCIETY and THE OTTAWA CITIZEN ACCUSE INNOCENT CANADIAN

Andrew Hardy charged with "mischief & endangerment" to life.

by Glen Kealey

What ever happened to "innocent until proven guilty?" An Ottawa area man, Andrew Hardy, found out the hard way that justice is just an illusion in this country and that the middle class and the poor must never have the audacity to complain to the Red Cross Society of Canada. Judge Krever can get away with it, but ordinary Canadians who complain could face a joint police force operation and land in jail.

On Friday evening, December 16, 1994, Hardy sat peacefully in the living room of his home. He had no idea his whole world was about to be turned upside down and that all he believed in during his entire life had been nothing more than an illusion. Andrew Hardy found out the hard way that Canada's justice system is not on the side of ordinary middle-class Canadians. That is why the "system" has been been dubbed "THE JUST US" system. It is a legal industry that cares only about $.

Ordinary middle-class Canadians who complain to the Red Cross are increasingly likely to be arrested and land in jail.

On a fateful Friday evening in December 1994, Hardy's thoughts were interrupted by the ringing of the front door bell. Surprised at the unexpected visit, he Did Brian Mulroney's Secret 5% "Kickback Tax" on Canadians Buy the CNR?

by Glen EP Kealey

Unless the Assembly of Independent Canadians (AIC) finally succeeds in awakening Canadians, Canada, in the 21st century, will look very much like Britain did, in the 18th century. Our few remaining industries will be natural resource based. International bankers will have used each of their instruments of people control; central banking, cartels, taxation, inflation, usery, bribery, blackmail, war and free trade in order to perpetuate world poverty. We will all be poor.

Furthermore, Canadians will be oppressed in 300 newly defined neighbourhoods (elitist euphamism for 300 middle-class reserves), by political crime bosses (read Rothschild's latest book "Our Global Neighbourhood") supported locally by a police state apparatus destined to enforce a system of kickbacks collected from extortion charged on all private and public barter or sale of goods and/or services. Significantly, two Canadian models for the new job of criminal political crime boss are our former PM Brian Mulroney or Marcel Beaudry, the current chairman of the NCC (the National Capital Commission).

The GRAND CANAL (Great River and Northern Development) project, planned since at least 1966, will have been completed. Fresh water will be diverted from James Bay in the east and the Fraser river in the West, merging in southern Saskatchewan. The water will be used to irrigate vast corporate owned farms in the central and southern United States. This guaranteed source of fresh water will allow the international bankers who currently control the United States' administration to create their most important world cartel to date. The New World Order food cartel's physical security will be guaranteed by an American based but European (NATO - Rothschild) owned, managed and controlled military force. Yes, my friends, they are coming to a grocery store near you: Watch for them; "ADM - supermarket to the world."

Apart from the fresh water itself, barges, floating on the GRAND CANAL, will criss-cross each other on their respective journeys, as they move Canadian natural and farm resources such as oil, beef, lumber and minerals south of the border around the clock. On their return trip these barges will bring back American and Mexican lethal garbage, for permanent disposal at the Meadow Lake Band Reserve in Saskatchewan and down abandoned mine shafts in B.C. and elsewhere across the country.

Canadian railways will be dismantled, their original right-of-way having been sold to the "private sector" (to international bankers), by Mulroney's former Clerk of the Privy Council, Paul Tellier, for the ridiculous low price of 34 Airbus planes. Will the CNR land eventually be used as a road bed for the GRAND WATER AND BARGE CANAL? Is this not the project that quickly moved to open the door. Imagine his shock when he came face to face with three police officers pushing on the door as they entered with a search warrant thrust in his face. They demanded to know where he kept his tape recorder and audio tapes. When Hardy said he didn't own one they respectfully took his word for it while completing a cursory check of the house.

Two of the attending officers were from the Ottawa Police, Sergeant Ron Picard and Detective Paul Quesnel. They were accompanied by a third officer from the OPP, Poncho Jacot. The arresting officers took Hardy from his home, frisked him outside and told him he could have been both shackled and hand-cuffed before driving him to jail on Elgin Street. The whole process was incredibly intimidating.

The charge was one of Mischief Endangering Life. The complaint laid following receipt of a faxed letter to the police, from Nadia Senyk, Legal Counsel for the Red Cross Society of Canada's national office headquarters at 1800 Alta Vista Drive, Ottawa.

RED CROSS SOCIETY LAWYER MOBILIZES POLICE HIARCHY

The story began a week or so earlier when Hardy watched a televised statement made by the Secretary General of the Red Cross of Canada, Doug Lindores, relating to the Commission's Hearing on Blood Safety (Toronto, December 6-9, 1994). Mr. Lindores, on national television stated, "in my opinion, Canada's Blood Supply is safe, and in particular, as safe as any in the world today". Because Hardy has a very different opinion in this regard he called Lindores, out of concern for his community. As the Secretary General was not available (he was still in Toronto) Hardy spoke to a secretary or assistant where Hardy's concerns with the safety of Canada's blood supply were discussed. Hardy was assured that his concerns would be forwarded to Lindores.

During a second call, this time to the local branch, with a Dr. Leslie, the conversation that followed covered the ground that - not only was Canada's blood supply not safe but that the screening process (oral & written questions) was much less than perfect and as such, could easily be compromised. At this point the doctor asked Hardy what he meant by this. Hardy suggested that actors could be sent to the 85 Plymouth Street clinic (with fake ID) who could then lie to the staff while completing the donor interviews. Hardy believed these people (the actors) could tell their story about how easy it had been for them to compromise the Red Cross blood screening process - in order for them to inform the public - within an investigative news report format,. such as is used by W5 or The Fifth Estate. Hence, Hardy's charge.

Hardy has, over a long period of time, been following the numerous blood supply scandals and the hypocracy surrounding the various blood supplies of the world. For instance the situation in France of its HIV contaminated blood supply and because of it had developed some considerable doubts about our blood supply here in Canada and the lack of accountability for its safety.

There is so much in the world we live in today that is open to question, especially, regarding all human organizations and institutions.

Recently, The Kealey Paper received some new and interesting information. According to Hardy, some weeks following his arrest he happened to be at his health club where he again met the OPP officer Poncho Jacot. Officer Jacot, in casual conversation, when questioned about the arrest of Hardy, stated "..... this whole situation of yours is like a game of chess; do you play chess Andrew?" Hardy reportedly replied, "No, but I know the game." To that Poncho responded ".....the police are just pawns. We do what we are told to do."

Since then, it has also been reported that officer Jacot is on special assignment with the OPP and the RCMP in Haiti. It has been reported by "our" national media that "our" police are there to teach Hatian police about democracy!

Who are we?

We are the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity (CIPI), a non-profit organisation dedicated to bringing about a democratic and sovereign Canada. We believe this can only be done by exposing the corruption in our political system to such a degree that citizens will come to the conclusion that the system itself must be changed, and not in the usual way. What distinguishes us from other groups is not our analysis of what's wrong; it is the fact that we alone offer a solution that does not merely "patch over" the problem, but eliminates it from the ground up.

Crusaders for political integrity: Glen Kealey and Ann Kealey (formerly Shelley Ann Clark) risked it all—now it's your turn to stand up for Canada. Join the cross-country caravan to Parliament Hill and take part in the setting up of a democratic governing body.

Statement of purpose

CIPI's The Kealey Paper

will document the Assembly of Independent Canadians' cross-Canada caravan to create the basis for democracy. This paper will provide an alternative to the controlled media by presenting ideas and events Canada's media monopoly refuses to acknowledge. We will attempt to put this information in context, showing where it fits into the world order and what you can do. The Kealey Paper is also a forum for debate – on the merits and shortcomings of proposed solutions, on which groups and public figures are actually on the side of Canadians and which are merely puppets of the monied interests, and on how best to set up the new political vehicle to replace Canada's parliamentary system.

If you received this paper in the mail it means one of our volunteers thought you might be interested in this new entity and placed your name on our "one shot" database to receive this first issue free. If you want to stay on our mailing list, please send in the order form on the back cover.

former Tory/Mulroney Environment Minister, Tory Suzanne Blais-Grenier testified about in an Ottawa court of law, in 1991 (at the Kealey/Coulter Hearing)? She swore she was told the project would only be put in place following Mulroney's retirement.

The rich international bankers learned their most recent lessons in Europe. Holland was the beta test site. What was learned there was imposed on England (free trade, central banking, canals etc.) before moving the new JUST-US political/banking system temporarily to North America. The Statue of Liberty and the United Nations complex are their Trojan Horses.

Slavery, of the type imposed on black Africans, was not the only labour problem created by these bankers. The women and children of England had also paid a terrible price for the international bankers' insatiable greed. The English middle-class was only allowed to prosper for a short while. When their time expired they were forced to immigrate "in order to keep up a certain lifestyle". Later, downsizing also became common among the gentry.

Currently, the problem has even touched Her Majesty the Queen, Elizabeth II. Observe how her own dysfunctional family appears to be spontaneously self-destructing. In reality, the time for monarchs, popes and cardinals has come and gone. Hang on to your seats brothers and sisters, the ilimination of the world's democratically elected presidents and prime ministers won't be far behind. Afterall, are we not, in fact, heading towards a NEW WORLD ORDER.

Politicians, Police Chiefs and National Media "Conspire to destroy Canada"

by Glen EP Kealey

The links are becoming too obvious for Canadians to ignore. Is the Justice Department and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police involved in a conspiracy, with former and current federal politicians and the national media, to defraud ordinary Canadians of their birthright?

Let's look at the preponderance of circumstantial evidence available so far.

Suzanne Blais-Grenier testified, in 1991, that former Prime Minister Brian Mulroney had collected a secret 5% kickback tax on all major contracts granted by his Tory government, during her tenure as Environment Minister. No evidence has come to light since to suggest that these kickbacks ended with her departure from politics. She also testified that the money (apparently billions of dollars) would be used, by Mulroney, following his retirement.

During his time in office, Mulroney along with his Clerk of the Privy Council, through Air Canada, purchased 34 Airbus planes from a French-German-British consortium controlled by New World Order bankers (Rothschild), for the sum of $2 billion.

During his final days in office, Mulroney appointed Paul Tellier to the post of President of Canadian National Railways (CNR). Tellier announced he would "privatize" CNR which, in political language, means to sell it to their friends for less than fair market value.

Upon retirement Mulroney was hired by the bankers' gold cartel (Barrick Resources) and also by their food cartel (ADM - Supermarket to the World). Then he was hired by Ogilvy-Renault, the oldest law firm in Canada. Angus Ogilvy is the legal counsel to Queen Elizabeth II. He decides, she signs. Ogilvy is the Queen's and the British oligarchy's link to bankers (Rothschild). Brian Mulroney's 1995 income was close to $1 million, equal to his total nine years in public office. In 1993, he bought a mansion, in Westmount, (an elitist suburb of Montreal) for $1.7 million. This huge house was first listed at $3.3 million only weeks before.

Tory Environment Minister Blais-Grenier Testified Mulroney Government was corrupt

It is suspected that Mulroney's secret fund is being used to finance the coming GRAND Canal water diversion project. The canal will divert Canadian water and float barges loaded with natural resources, like a moving sidewalk rolling across Western Canada, bobbing goods south to the USA and Mexico. Maurice Strong is expected to participate in this water scheme from the comfort of his ranch located in Colorado. (Read Cloak of Green by Elaine Dewar).

Recently, Chretien's Liberal government (that is being secretly managed by Mitchell Sharp for the international bankers), approved the sale of CNR for the ridiculous low price of $2 billion. By coincidence, Air Canada had paid the same price for 34 Airbus planes. These new planes were built in Bavaria by a company managed and controlled by the now deceased Chancellor of Bavaria, Franz Joseph Strauss. Strauss' son Max is in business in Alberta with a certain Karlheinz Schreiber, who has been linked recently to Frank Moores, Mulroney's former friend and "personal lobbyist".

Can it be that the CNR roadbed, in Western Canada, will serve as a right-of-way for Brian Mulroney's GRAND canal project? Is it not also possible, that the millions of tax dollars spent by the RCMP to remove 18 "Defenders of the Shuswap Nation" from a small piece of land, ("parked" at Gustafsen Lake, B.C., with an American rancher, under fee-simple title), was only realized in order to clear this strategically placed piece of land prior to the construction of the GRAND canal's western terminal, in northern B.C.? Are the Lubicon Cree of northern Alberta not also horrified at the thought of 11,000 trees being harvested from their traditional land daily and then floated on barges to Saskatchewan, before proceeding south to the USA? Will Lubicon leaders, like their Meadow Lake brothers and sisters, also be paid in cash to accept and store dangerous nuclear waste or, will it be other, "regular" garbage that will be brought back to their reserve by the canal barges, on the return voyage?

Bankers own Gold, Diamond, Banking, Pharmaceutical and Illicit Drug Cartels

"Billions" for the Bankers "Poverty" for the People

What if Canadians discover "THE PLOT TO END ALL PLOTS"

Therefore, would it not be appropriate, as a precautionary measure, for the political conspirators to grasp the upper hand before their weakest link, Brian Mulroney, is dragged into court kicking and screaming, ready to blow the whistle on the entire cabal? Would it not make some sense that they would want to hurriedly orchestrate a totally "inpenetrable legal protection from prosecution" for our former Prime Minister?

If all of the above is only "conspiracy theory" as the national media would have you believe how else then would one explain that Justice Minister Allan Rock's law firm in Toronto is being paid by Justice Canada to defend Mulroney in another case of corruption which is being heard in Toronto. This case involves a whistle-blower, Ad Varma, who is suing Mulroney, his crony Pat McAdam and Canada Post. Is it coincidence theory?

If, at the end of all of this, Brian Mulroney has once again escaped criminal prosecution for his above noted treasonous conduct, especially for having enabled the international bankers to create a "food cartel" here in North America, remember where you read about it first.

Then, you should reflect on how often in the last eight years, the National Media has ridiculed my ongoing efforts to warn middle-class Canadians. How they refused me every opportunity to address you directly on radio or television, about the imminent danger to Canadian sovereignty. Once you arrive at the conclusion that I was right all along, then you should consider how you can now help me and other members of the Assembly of Independent Canadians (AIC) to get the word out to others - before it's too late.

From now on, time is of the essence.

TO: Glen & Ann Kealey

FROM: Eva Lyman Vacek

I have spoken to Elaine, but I want to congratulate you as well for the professional quality of the first Kealey Paper. I hope it continues, and builds on the quality of the first issue.

If I may offer a couple of unsolicited comments (please take them as from a friend), I would urge caution in the tone, that is the subject matter is already explosive enough, you might be accused - probably will be anyway – of a variety of "isms". Lately I have heard implications of Glen being a neo-Nazi. (We talked about this during your earlier trip here - people with a certain message against certain major banking families tend to face these accusations).

I suppose that the connection with the Native standoff at Gustafsen Lake made things worse, rather than better. I really think a clarification of that is in order. I personally suffered some concern over that situation, because I feel the Native people will lose public support if they go and occupy privately held land.

I might just put this question to you, Glen, for the "Reader to Reader" section:

What was your experience with the group led by Wolverine, and what do you feel might be the implications if Native groups try to re-claim land held in private hands by persons who purchased this land in good faith? If no land is safe from aboriginal claims, are we not creating new injustices in trying to address old ones?" How's that for a tricky issue?

I am including in this fax some pages that I have written for the National Party. If you need fillers for the paper, please feel free to use portions/whole -- or whatever. The one pager format as illustrated might be something that you might find useful in addressing particular single issues in the future.

With season's greetings,

Eva

TO: Eva Lyman Vacek

Dear Eva,

Thank you for your encouraging words about the first Kealey Paper.

Thank you also for your warning about the possibility of being accused of "isms", or for appearing to protect individuals who would steal private land. If this were true, I can assure you that I would have nothing to do with either situation. However, let me deal with each of these issues separately.

When it comes to "isms", my conclusion, following many years of observation, research and analysis, is that each of these "isms" is being centrally managed from a country newly created for just that purpose. It is a place called Switzerland. This country, Switzerland, was incorporated in 1848, following a decision made by rich bankers in 1815, at the Conference in Vienna. The urgent meeting of European political and financial leaders was called by the Rothschild family, following the defeat of France by Wellington at Waterloo, to set up a state from which a "League of Nations" would eventually own and manage a New World Order.

World Communism was born there in Switzerland (with Engels and Marx). So was world Capitalism, including world banking, world trade and world poverty. They are all being managed from there. World Fascism is also headquartered in Lausanne, Switzerland. The "competing" political systems are, in fact, one and the same. They are centrally managed ruses designed to mislead the 87% of the people of the world who can be fooled by the banker controlled "national" media, the so-called "free press". They always divide to conquer. Together they create national debt by promoting wars and the fear of wars. The resulting "debt" invariably leads nations into more debt, and eventually, into bankruptcy. In this manner international bankers get to "repossess" all of the natural resources of the world "legally", one country at a time.

I am not at all surprised, but rather, I am flattered, that I am being singled out by the Rothschild ADL defamation league with the resulting "special attention". This confirms that I have accurately identified our nation's cancer. As you know, Eva, cancer cannot be ignored. Neither can it ever be cured by placing a band-aid on it's visible surface sores, in lieu of aggressively dealing with the cause of these sores.

Eva, if I am to be personally attacked just because I point out the world connections that most people are, to date, unable to identify for themselves due to our controlled media, then so be it. I believe this to be my assigned task, at least in this current life.

And now Eva, with regards to the issue of Gustafsen Lake. You asked of my experience with Wolverine and the implications that would result "if Native groups claim land held in private hands by persons who purchased this land in good faith".

Let me begin by stating that neither I, nor as far as I know Wolverine, believe that land held in private hands, of less than 1,000 acres and owned for the purpose of creating a homestead or a business, that was purchased in good faith is today at risk of being claimed by Native land claims supported by "traditional" aboriginals. Native born politicians, the native "elected" tribal councils, who sold out their native birthright and are in league with our own corrupt Canadian politicians, are the only ones making these ridiculous land claims (115% of B.C.).

First Eva, as you, yourself, would surely refuse to accept any blame for the vile actions of our corrupt Canadian politicians, so then does Wolverine, along with other traditional natives he knows, reject the totally ludicrous claims made by servile tribal councils.

Second, you would surely agree with me Eva, that Wolverine is innocent, until he is found guilty by a jury of his peers. This also raises the additional side issue of how will we ever assemble, under the existing judicial system presently managed by the legal industry, "a truly unbiased jury of Wolverine's peers"; the people who do not accept that there has ever existed a statute of limitations on land theft (his peers would belong to same traditional native and Canadian groups who believe that we should create some form of parallel government with the original peoples of Canada - ie; the AIC).

Third, for the courts to find a person guilty of any crime, they must first establish, "beyond any reasonable doubt", that: a) the person accused committed the crime; and b) he knew, or should have known, his actions to be criminal - i.e. he comitted the crime with "a guilty mind". In the case of Wolverine, (this is where I have an advantage over those who only get their news from the "controlled" national media), I know that in July, he personally had witnessed a police researcher, a member of "our" Royal Canadian Mounted Police, confirm that the land in question at Gustafsen Lake had in fact been stolen from the Shuswap people by the government of B.C. The evidence is part of a video that was made inside the camp by a Vancouver based free-lance photo-grapher (the video is available from us at CIPI upon request).

According to existing legal documents, the land was "parked" with an American rancher (for future exploitation), by means of a "fee simple title". Legal ownership over the land by the Shuswap people was also confirmed by means of Wolverine's sole legal counsel at the time, Mr. Bruce Clark. When one has considered all of these facts, it then becomes evident that Wolverine could never have committed any of the crimes that he is being charged with, he was simply acting in self-defence.

Canadians must accept that traditional natives need a land base. of their own Of course, this would not necessitate the transfer of any existing private property nor would this require payment for the land from the pockets of middle-class taxpayers - in the form of a larger national debt. It would simply mean the transfer, by the governments, of land they originally stole from natives - i.e.:

- Legal title to land of existing native reserves.
- Legal title to all "Crown" land.
- Legal title to "fee simple" titled properties in excess of 1,000 acres.

Freedom. One little word that holds immense significance for all of us. Freedom is essential if we are ever to rediscover the democracy that Canadians have progressively lost through back room manipulation of our leaders. Unseen hands wielding economic pressure and hidden agendas seemingly control the puppet strings attached to our leadership.

Freedom of Speech, Freedom of Thought and Freedom of Choice, are the three essential ingredients that have to be present in the everyday life of Canadians in order for them to reclaim their country. If they are allowed to be independent thinkers Canadians will have the fortitude to act and take back what is rightfully theirs, Canada.

Are you a robot? Have you been programmed to the point where you are no longer able to think for yourself or take independent action even though you know in your heart what is right and what is wrong. If your answer to this question is yes then you have categorized yourself as an automated robot; a product manufactured by the elitist society. Just to exist you must always rely on input from others; those who are only too happy to push your buttons to activate you in order to do their bidding.

BE YOUR OWN PERSON. Be an independent thinker and doer. Do not keep re-adjusting your thoughts or your way of doing things just because others do not approve. Remember, you can never please everyone.

We all love Canada. We all want to do something to help reclaim it. Only those who can think for themselves will be able to make the difference. They are the ones who will bring back our democracy and return power to the people.

Are you an elitist manufactured robot or are you a self-made, free-thinking person?

The choice is yours. But please, do remember that your choice will mean either the survival or destruction of your country - Canada.

"Jonathan Livingston Seagull"
by Richard Bach (pp 83-84)

By sunrise there were nearly a thousand birds standing outside the circle of students, looking curiously at Maynard. They didn't care whether they were seen or not, and they listened, trying to understand Jonathan Seagull.

He spoke of very simple things--that it is right for a gull to fly, that "freedom" is the very nature of his being, that whatever stands against that freedom must be set aside, be it ritual or superstition or limitation in any form.

"Set aside," came a voice from the multitude, "even if it is the Law of the Flock?"

"The only true law is that which leads to freedom," Jonathan said. "There is no other."

"How do you expect us to fly as you fly?" came another voice. "you are special and gifted and divine, above other birds."

"Look at Fletcher! Lowell! Charles-Roland! Judy Lee! Are they also special and gifted and divine? No more than you are, no more than I am. The only difference, the very only one, is that they have begun to understand what they really are and have begun to practice it."

His students, save Fletcher, shifted uneasily. They hadn't realized that this was what they were doing.

The crowd grew larger every day, coming to question, to idolize, to scorn.

"They are saying in the flock that if you are not the Son of the Great Gull Himself," Fletcher told Jonathan one morning after Advance Speed Practice, "then you are a thousand years ahead of your time."

Jonathan sighed. The price of being misunderstood, he thought. They call you devil or they call you god. "What do you think, Fletch? Are we ahead of our time?"

ATTEMPTED COUP FAILS
at the Kealey Paper

by Victoria Forrester

A drama teacher and small town newspaper editor who, because of these combined qualifications, is an expert at lying and deceit attempted to infiltrate and redirect the production and content of the Kealey Paper during the recent Christmas and Year End holidays.

Sue Ackerman used her considerabale acting skills to influence the more naive members of the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity and the AIC, first, by requesting that we change the name of the paper, and second, by begging and later demanding that Glen Kealey, the publisher, be prevented from writing about world history he believes has been manipulated to suit the present needs of the European oligarchy's international bankers and their public defamation league.

Sue had, in a concerted effort over the past two years, cajoled, flattered and sweet-talked her way into a position of influence with the Kealeys, by suggesting she would write a book on their life and times. She used and misused the English language like a surgeon's scalpel. Mirror imaging was a favourite tactic as she repeatedly accused others of doing what she in fact was guilty of.

In the end she failed miserably and her hidden agenda was exposed. The Kealeys realize this wasn't the first time they have been targeted for eradication by the establishment and they know that it won't be the last. Both Kealeys believe that only the Creator will decide when their usefulness on earth is done.

Following a short but inevitable delay, Glen and Ann Kealey's WISDOM CARAVAN, like a procession of marching turtles bringing the good news to turtle island, is once again "on course".

"The One Hundredth Monkey"
...Did Make a Difference *

by Ann Kealey

This article on the phenomena of The One Hundreth Monkey was inspired by the magnitude of the defeatist attitude we came across during a guest speaking tour last spring. Everywhere we went, many caring Canadians said: "They are too big - I can't make a difference."

This statement resounded over and over until we wanted to shout at all of you: "YES! You can make the difference. Don't you see? We have the power to make changes if we join together and raise thousands of voices in unison."

There is more power in numbers than we ever dreamt of. Although the numbers may vary, The One Hundreth Monkey phenomenon shows that when enough of us are aware of something, all of us become aware of it. We believe that the love we share for our country, for ourselves and for others can create an energy field that no one can destroy. Together, we are unbeatable.

Your awareness is needed if we are to reclaim our beloved Canada. YOU may be the one to provide the added consciousness energy to create the shared awareness. There is an urgent necessity to act now. Join other caring Canadians on board 'The AIC Wisdom Caravan'.

The distant rumbling is getting so loud you can no longer ignore it. We can use your intelligent minds to help us inform everyone of the oncoming dangers. If you remain on your present courses, you are looking the other way and will not see the clear warning being given to you of the certain catastrophe that lies ahead.

We are the bearers of a "different" vision. We can dispel the "old" one and replace it with truths that are essential if we are to enrich all of our lives.

We call on everyone to let your numbers grow and take it upon yourselves to spread this message.

World rulers employ Canadian politicians in water diversion plan

by Glen EP Kealey

A good portion of the new world order's reprogramming of Canadian political leaders has been in service of the massive GRAND Canal water diversion project, planned for Canada in the near future.

The GRAND (Great Recycling and Northern Development) Canal means fresh water, diverted by new canals (from James Bay, Ungava in the east and from the Fraser River, British Columbia, in the west), is to converge at Lake Diefenbaker in Saskatchewan, and then flow south to guarantee the new world order (NWO)'s North American food cartel gets a year-round food supply.

The fact that water will be diverted from the Fraser River, near Williams and Gustafsen Lakes, across land held by American ranchers who hold the land on "fee simple" titles might explain why so much fire-power was brought into the standoff between traditional Natives and the military and RCMP last summer.

British Columbian fresh water will be diverted out of the mountains before it becomes polluted with deadly cyanide (a byproduct of the mining industry) which is now found in underground water in the southern half of B.C. . New canals redirecting the river towards Alberta will provide water to the northern cattle who graze on these 500,000-acre ranches before water converges with the eastern canal at the Lake Diefenbaker reservoir.

GRAND Canal will float barges

This plan finally explains the hidden agenda that necessitated the construction of numerous new dams in Alberta and Saskatchewan, in areas without enough water to dam.

From Saskatchewan, the water will provide irrigation to the northern grain-growing states, then move south to the ranch of high-profile Canadian industrialist Maurice Strong, replenishing his underground aquifer. Strong, known for master-minding environmental summits, will now be able to set the price of the water he directs south and south-west to fruit and vegetable growers of the southern states and Mexico.

Nevada, New Mexico, and Arizona will also benefit greatly as the cheap desert land (controlled by mobsters) will become expensive private development property with relatively cheap outdoor climate control.

The vast region will be defended by a police-state bureaucracy whose well-armed police will be backed by the military. Citizens will see their guns confiscated. The new world order food cartel will be in place.

Who runs this food cartel and how did these people get there?

Brian Mulroney spent his life being trained (programmed) by the new world order (Hanna Mining, RJR Nabisco and Kuhn Loeb/American Express) and eventually was raised to the lofty position of prime minister of Canada. Beginning in 1985, for nine years, Mulroney imposed a secret five per cent "surtax" on all Canadians - a five percent kick back scheme on all major government contracts (as was testified to under oath by former environment minister Suzanne Blais-Grenier, in 1991, during the Coulter/Kealey Hearing). Mulroney now intends to use this money (maybe as much as $100 billion) to rescue the construction of, and later control, the GRAND Canal project. After carrying out the new world order's plans during his time as prime minister, he was made a director of the trans-national food company Archer-Daniels-Midland.

Lucien Bouchard was programmed when Brian Mulroney appointed him Canada's ambassador to France in 1985. Reportedly, he attended the meeting held at Airbus with Frank Moores and Mulroney. It is quite conceivable the secret Swiss bank accounts set up for the purpose of receiving the Airbus bribes were opened on behalf of all three ("Frank Moores & BM" could have meant Moores, Bouchard and Mulroney). The illicit Airbus bribe money could explain how the Bloc Quebecois was funded. Bouchard's importance to the new world order is in his role of arranging Quebec's separation. Quebec must separate from Canada if there is to be a transfer of control over James Bay and the GRAND Canal to Cree grand chief Matthew Coon Come who is directed by Hill and Knowlton, the same giant American advertising agency who, controlled by the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, created the public spin on the 1991 Gulf war. Allegedly, Coon Come hired Hill and Knowlton to direct his participation in the GRAND Canal project.

Turning Quebec against Canada and Natives against non-Natives is central to the new world order's water diversion resource control plans. Consequently, some big players were trained for these jobs.

Robert Bourassa lost the 1976 Quebec election to Rene Levesque's Parti Quebecois separatists. Bourassa went to Europe to "re-form". He attended new world order deprogramming / reprogramming classes. Once rehabilitated, he was allowed to continue on as premier of Quebec.

Preston Manning first attended Thompson - Ramo - Wooldridge (TRW)'s reprogramming campus in 1968 and completed post-graduate studies on the new world order while under the guidance of the American Joint Chiefs of Staff in Vietnam. Today, TRW is the single largest compiler of personal information tracking the private lives of the citizens of North America. Presently both Manning and the Reform Party are also directed by Hill and Knowlton, the new world order's spin doctor and advertising agency. Manning has fuelled anti-Quebec sentiments nationally and, in B.C., (through a group known as F.I.R.E.), anger toward Native people.

Ovide Mercredi oversees the tribal council Native land claims. In B.C., government-controlled Native chiefs have claimed what adds up to 115 per cent of the province. This claim has enraged non-Native British Columbians and has pitted them against all Aboriginals in the province.

Canadians distance themselves from their politicians. However, most are not open-minded enough to understand that Natives do likewise. If it were up to the majority of traditional Natives, no further payment would be made from taxpayers' money for crazy land claims made by crooked Native political chiefs who are at best self-serving and at worst in league with the just-as-crooked Canadian politicians.

These divide and conquer tactics are some of the steps in the plan to control Canada's resources and food supply. Dr. John Coleman in Conspirators' Hierarchy: the Committee of 300 referred to the Committee's Global 2,000 Report which said elimination of the "useless eaters", through starvation and disease, was beneficial to the new world order. An illustration is the report's genocidal intent. It recommended reduction of the population of the U.S. to 100 million by the year 2050.

Under the world food cartels, food distribution and prices will be controlled. The elderly, the infirm, the unemployed, the poor and the civilly disobedient will not be allowed to eat. Natives, who carry with them the knowledge to help you survive will have been assimilated or killed in a backlash fuelled by the Reform Party/Hill and Knowlton media spin doctors.

The international bankers will win if Canadians remain complacent. People of the world will be slaves once again to the regime which has continued, uninterrupted, since the Pharaohs of Egypt. And Brian Mulroney will laugh at you from his grave.

Will Brian Mulroney's food cartel eventually declare that YOU are a "Useless Eater"?

POLITICAL CRIMES BEING COMMITTED AGAINST THE PEOPLE OF CANADA

by Glen EP Kealey
Co-founder of the AIC,
Assembly of Independent Canadians

When a government cuts back from providing basic services to the people, services intended to be paid for from the personal income taxes that it fraudulently claims to collect for that purpose, it becomes a criminal organization. Government is then guilty of collecting extortion on behalf of its wealthy sponsors. Income tax collection then becomes a criminal extortion racket that illegally launders our tax dollars, reportedly for the ultimate benefit of the New World Order and its boss or "Godfather of all Godfathers", an enormously wealthy Swiss banker named Lord Rothschild.

As a consequence of their "voluntary" participation every manderin and every politician of each political party, every judge, lawyer, police and soldier, at all levels of Canadian society who, in any way participate in this illegal tax collection scheme becomes an accomplice who is also a criminal in his or her own right, as he/she is guilty of having committed treasonous conduct against all the people of Canada.

Furthermore, those individuals in the press who apologize for these sophisticated organized criminals daily, by means of the print and electronic media, are therefore equally guilty - of participating in mind control - having knowingly and falsely brainwashed their fellow Canadians on behalf of the banker/controller.

ANALYSIS

Who's on your side?

Open letter to Ujjal Dosanjh
Attorney General,
British Columbia

There is a conspiracy. It is known as the NEW WORLD ORDER. It is made up of persons holding public offices who have been committing crimes. They are the Prime Ministers and Premiers of the respective federal and provincial governments, the Canadian Privy Councellors and Ministers and especially the several Attorneys General who are presumed to know the law. By necessary implication, every person from there on down in the Public Service and legal industry's "JUST US" system by which GLOBALIZATION is implemented, in practice, aid and abet the crimes committed by the leaders.

customary presumption of law that a man intends the reasonable and probable consequences of his act.

Mental bias makes the conspirators hear and see the words spoken or written by patriots as saying the very opposite of what those words say on their face. That, in a nutshell, is the true nature of a conspirator's mind: reason cannot reach it. No formula of words, no matter how clear and plain, is capable of expressing a message if the recipient's mind is unready, unwilling or unable to process it.

So long as one person is willing to tell the big lie (albeit to him

India was to Pharaohs What Canada is to Bankers

A significant aspect of the said conspiracy, since the judges and the Crown Attorneys are also criminals, the police have become agents in the crimes. That is how a police-state always works. The crime of conspiracy to create a fascist state (dictatorship by bankers and corporations) by definition is systematic and institutionalized. The police, judges, lawyers, politicians and national media are always its accomplices, wherever it occurs in the world, otherwise it simply could never occur.

With respect to "complicity", while the proof of intention is a necessary aspect of establishing the commission of that offence, such intention need not be proved by positive evidence. Rather, it can be presumed without such proof, upon the basis of the normal and customary presumption of law that a man intends the reasonable and probable consequences of his act.

the truth), others can fall behind it, and nurture it though they themselves might not have been willing to create it.,

In due course the big lie becomes part of the fabric of the society which it helps to define. In consequence, attempts to expose the lie are met with the inertia that regards any major social change with apprehension.

Prosecutors are not supposed to be "adverse in interest" to whistle-blowers. They are supposed to be indifferent, impartially presenting the law and the facts without interest in outcome. This is no longer the case in Canadian pre-trial courts.

Traditional Canadians, native and non-native, cannot wait forever on the criminals to clean up their act.

A Traditional Native Perspective

The ethno-biological continuity of life as our ancestors knew it is at the point of no return throughout the Pacific North West. The systematic alteration of the ecology in which our autochtonous cultures flourish correspondingly, inevitably and self-evidently entails the systematic destruction of the continuity of our human cultural identity--for the character of our human cultural identity is by definition dependent upon continuity of the bio-cultural identity of our forests.

Materialism and spiritualism are not opposing and antagonistic forces in our native culture. Rather, over the eons they have been reconciled in an equilibrium. That equilibrium is maintained by our paramount cultural value: respect. In our culture, the goal is to take from the material world enough to survive not only as physical beings, but also as spiritual beings. In contrast, we observe that in the non-native culture surrounding us enough is not enough. More is better. We observe that materialism and spiritualism are opposing and antagonistic forces in that non-native culture.

Our ancestors taught us that it was not our business to try and change what was already in place. Ours was to accept the world basically as we found it, and to leave up to Mother Nature and the Creator to educate this rapacious new race of people who are over-running our homeland. Our principle of respect meant that it was not up to us to dictate to the whites how they should live. Instead, our principle of respect led our ancestors to adopting a live-and-let-live survival strategy with the transplanted race of Europeans who came to occupy our country. Respect means coexistence in a relationship of peace and friendship--with all beings and things--and, indeed there is no crucial difference between beings and things, for everything that exists is entitled to respect.

The Kings and Queens as the hereditary guardians of England, and on behalf of the transplanted race, agreed to conform with our principle of respect. As a matter of law, the respect was to be mutual and universal. The Royal Proclamation of 1763 confirmed for all time that "the several Nations or Tribes of Indians with whom We are connected and who live under Our Protection should not be molested or disturbed in the Possession of such Parts of Our Dominions and Territories as not having been ceded to or purchased by Us are reserved to them or any of them as their Hunting Grounds."

Today, we observe that in practice the respect paid to this agreed law has not been mutual. We gave our word. The whites gave their writing. We have kept our word. They have broken their writing. In terms of the Proclamation, we have not "molested or disturbed" the whites. But they have both "molested" and "disturbed" us. The crucial point, for legal purposes, is that this breakage was carried out, in practice, by local white governments which did not possess the jurisdiction to repeat or to amend the paramount law enacted by the Imperial government. Thus, the breakage of the paramount law describe the fraud, treason and genocide committed by the legal and political establishment of local government rather than a change in that paramount law.

In consequence, the whites and their native collaborators are not so much governing us as attacking us--treating us as squatting trespassers in our own homelands, destroying our forests, killing our people. Under the smoke screen of crimes masquerading as federal and provincial laws, the whites are waging a war of physical and psychological intervention and attrition upon us. Systematically, we have been physcially killed, infected with diseases, beaten, imprisoned, threatened and sexually preyed upon.

We are psychologically held up to contempt and ridicule, patronized, brainwashed, bribed, corrupted, threatened, and then criminalized for trying to defend ourselves. Their lawyers and politicians, who should uphold the paramount law, are effectively their generals and their police, their storm troopers in the unremitting campaign to take everything and leave us nothing.

Although it is all illegal, immoral and unjust, nevertheless the usurpation of our native jurisdiction to govern ourselves as a free people in a free land continues. Today, the white judges are the commandants of our concentration camps--the reservations onto which we are herded and from which we are forced to watch through the fence of chicanery, the invasion, clear cutting, pollution and tortured death of the body of our Mother, the earth, our home and native land.

By casting nets across the mouths of our rivers, the ancestors of the whites taught our ancestors they could break the continuity of our salmon runs, and starve us into submission. By having their priests and ministers promise us everlasting life they grouped us around churches, and thereby broke the cyclic patterns of our economy. By outlawing our "potlatch" ceremonies they broke the legal, economic, political and social ties that bound our people holistically as nations. By kidnapping our children and beating their native languages out of them in residential and white schools they brainwashed our culture out of existence. By apprehending our children and giving them to whites they broke the family unit. By the whites' systematic removal or prohibition of alternative life support economies, native Elders have been made physically dependent for survival upon white social welfare payments.

In consequence, these Elders now live in constant terror that by speaking out against white tyranny, natives in general, including themselves in particular, will be deprived of the necessities of life. By training our children to be contemptuous of the ways of their parents, the white establishment inculcated in them a mirror image of the whites' sickness of racist ideology, thereby turning native against native.

By this means, genocide has been perpetuated to the point where today we stand at the brink of taking the plunge into the 'whites' final solution to the problem that we constitute for them by our very existence and persistence. Today, the problem still remains with the Indian Act system, with its network of nepotism, sycophancy to bureaucrats, and economic manipulation of a people reduced to abject dependency, that carries on the genocidal tyranny of the European master race--through the medium of the fostered "band" and "reserve" mentality of the privileged class of native collaborators: the Indian Act "elected" chiefs and councillors.

Those appointed by these puppets, the paid Indian task force members and constitutional negotiators, active in the Canadian constitutional revision process are the "fifth" columns. Thus, even the process of reform is prejudiced by the 'white' system's monolithic and omnipresent usurpation of the connective relationships between persons and property--a usurpation that leaves no alternative to survival. Compared to Judge Esson, Premier Harcourt and Prime Ministers Trudeau and Mulroney, Hitler was a crude amateur. Governments of Canada and British Columbia have made a painstakingly "civilized" and refined art of the same end process that the Nazis were accused of implementing under Hitler.

Dear Glen & Ann Kealey,

I would like to thank you both for the complimentary issue of "The Kealey Paper". It is amazing, and brutally honest publication. I applaud you both for succeeding against such incredible odds. This paper is sure to become Canada's own version of the "X FILES", the truth is out there.

You probably do not remember me, but we met once in February at Andy Boyle's farm. I was simply fascinated at the experiences you have encountered and the people you have met. Unfortunately, many of my counterparts were afraid to hear the truth and backed off.

The Assembly of Independent Canadians is exactly the alternative needed at this point in time. I am completely on line with its ideals except for one area - the support of William Ignace and his son. They are terrorists whose objective at Gustafsen Lake was to create a situation where one or more persons would be killed in a violent confrontation. It didn't matter who or how many people would lose their lives, just as long as blood was shed. I will never be able to support killing for any reason.

If supporting CIPI is a show of support for William Ignace then I would have to say no thanks.

The Kealey Paper has such a wealth of honest reporting and daring articles that I would sincerely like to purchase a one year subscription.

Thank you again for this first edition and I hope I have not offended anyone with my view on Mr. Ignace.

Yours truly,

Ms. Heather Whitehead

Editors Note:
I hope you are not suggesting that we should do without a trial and just go straight to lynching.

Whatever happened to innocent until proven guilty. Or have we progressed beyond that concept to one of guilty when accused by the RCMP and the CBC?

The "national" media won't touch them

GLEN KEALEY

Kealey is the former Hull area commercial developer who exposed the system of organised crime run by Mulroney's government and the complicity of the RCMP and justice system.

In 1986 Kealey was asked for a bribe by Public Works Minister Roch LaSalle, who offered him government support for his project in exchange for 5% of all government contributions on top of the $5,000 up front. Investigating, Kealey found evidence of a massive bribe and kickback scheme operated and controlled right out of the PMO, and a close collaboration among the Tories, the media, and police. Kealey successfully charged 16 people, including members of the government and RCMP, with criminal conspiracy.

Clark was the civil servant working on the U.S.-Canada Free Trade Agreement who was called to work between midnight and 4 am beginning January 1987 and ordered to falsify, then eventually shred, briefing papers designed to mislead provincial premiers about what was in the FTA. Clark says the deal's implementing scheme has never been made public, and that it contains plans for Quebec's separation, massive water diversion, and absorption into the U.S. by the year 2005. After being abandoned by her union and threatened by secret service, Clark went public with her story in May 1993 and ran as a National Party candidate in the election. Canada's media monopoly would rather have you think about O. J. Simpson.

Report of the Commission on Global Governance

These books together show what's in store for Canada. Cloak tells how Maurice Strong has been using Native and environmental groups to promote his own ends (one-world government). Starts out about Brazil and half-way through, switches over to a recent history of Canada. Strong participated in preparing Your Global Neighbourhood. National governments are a problem for world government proponents, who'll do anything possible to get rid of them. They've been using these causes to shift the focus to the local and international levels where national governments can't address problems. Together they implement what was laid out in Report from Iron Mountain.

WOLVERINE IS NOT GUILTY

What really happened at Gustafsen Lake?

by Glen EP Kealey

Today, the truth is finally being told. Why? Because "they" are preparing the case to go to a jury trial where there can be no more lies and no more propaganda from the RCMP and the CBC. The true story about what really happened at the Gustafsen Lake standoff in B.C. will finally be made clear.

Recently, the RCMP was forced to reveal what actually took place at the B.C. Native standoff during the months of August and September '95. The legal disclosure came in the form of "will say" statements released by Lance W. Bernard, Deputy Regional Crown Counsel, in the Ministry of the Attorney General of B.C.

What initially strikes a knowledgeable reader is how the police lie by omitting important evidence. They illegally, although some may say cleverly, omitted a small but very crucial detail from their public statements to date. Nonetheless, it is a piece of legal evidence that is key to proving William Jones Ignace's innocence.

As far as we know, the RCMP have never told anyone about how their own researcher, a serving member of the force, had concluded as early as last July, that Shuswap Natives had every right to be at Gustafsen Lake, simply because they were, in fact, "on their land". The CBC apparently also conveniently forgot to remind Canadians of this little known fact. Land theft, even by government, is still illegal in this country. And, to this very day, Canada has not passed a Statute of Limitations to protect land thieves. Much to the dismay of the JUST-US SYSTEM, the RCMP officer in question, was secretly video taped by the camp residents, as he carefully explained to Splitting the Sky, the explosive conclusions contained within the secret report he had recently prepared on the Shuswap land claim in question, for RCMP Commissioner Murray.

Also, the broader picture painted by the RCMP disclosure, for the first

NEW WORLD SLAVERY

"Never mind what the people say"

Jean Chretien

by John Welham

Most Canadians seem to be having a problem understanding what we have labelled "THE NEW WORLD SLAVERY". International bankers call it "The New World Order", and before that, "One World Government".

For "NEW WORLD SLAVERY" to become a reality, three things must take place. The people must be disarmed, they must be kept poor through high unemployment and high taxation, and finally, a totally "cashless" society must be implemented, so that no one can buy or sell without using their assigned number.

In 1933, international bankers wrote the Bankers Manifesto. In it they clearly state, "debts must be collected and loans and mortages foreclosed. When the common people have lost their homes, they will be more docile and more easily governed by the strong arm of the law. People without money will not quarrel with their leaders. This is well known amongst our principal men who are now engaged in forming a new organization of international bankers - to govern the world." One such super rich banker, David Rockefeller, on September 14, 1994, in his speech at the United Nations Ambassadors' dinner stated ....."This present window of opportunity during which a truly peaceful "NEW WORLD ORDER" might be built, will not be open for long. Already, there are powerful forces at work that threaten to destroy our hopes and efforts" (to enslave the common man on a global scale).

Could this be the reason we now have four (4) secret police forces? They are: the Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS), the Emergency Task Force (ETF), the Communications Security Establishment (CSE) and the Canadian Institute for International Affairs (CIIA). Significantly, our Canadian constitution states, "It is illegal for the government to spy on its citizens".

Comment

Remember what our current puppet DICTATOR, Jean Chretien told his Liberal MPs concerning gun registration, "Never mind what the people want, you do what I tell you or face the consequences".

Chretien, and his 'gang of thugs' (Allan Rock, Herb Gray, Mitchell Sharp, Tom D'Aquino and Eddie Goldenberg) are preaching democracy but are, in fact, practicing treason.

It's time Canadians started to pay more attention to what is happening in their country, and begin to demand what Switzerland has had for the last 100 years. It is called direct democracy - they are governed by a system of constitutionally protected initiative referendum, recall and dismissal of their corrupt or otherwise incompetent politicians.

Do you think the Swiss people (including international bankers who reside there) would allow their public servants to commit similar acts of treason to those that have become laws of Canada; by forcing them to register their firearms (SEC 92-9), or forcing them to pay an illegal federal income tax (SEC 92-2- & 3), and by illegally appointing federal judges such as we do in Ontario, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, (Constitution SEC 97) so that they can better control us through their "JUST-US SYSTEM".

time reader, is not a pretty one. It exposes a frightened police force that had lost its nerve and was bent on killing. Although the police were protected from any harm by the thick steel plates of a military Bison numerous police officers are shown to have acted out of fear. In fact there are just too many comparisons with the Randy Weaver case in Idaho, to be a coincidence. So much so that ineffective or inadequate training must be at the root of the lack-of-discipline problem.

The statements made by the police reveal how at 2:00 p.m., on September 11, 1995, a red truck from the Gustafsen Lake native camp crossed over a land mine buried earlier on the road by the military. When the mine exploded, two passengers, one white and one native, bolted from the truck and ran unarmed into the nearby lake in an attempt to swim back to the camp.

Subsequently other RCMP officers, all protected from the complete safety of a military Bison, circled the lake and began shooting at the swimmers. In response, shots were fired from the woods towards the Bison, in an attempt to distract its occupants. As a result of looking towards the source of the distraction, the Bison's military driver saw a man walking close-by whom he claims was Wolverine. The soldier was immediately ordered to "eliminate him", by Constable Sean Maloney of the Agassiz RCMP Detachment.

The military driver, Steven Andrew Bidwell of Canadian Froces Base Calgary, then attempted to run down and kill Wolverine, an old age pensioner, by running over him with the Bison under his command. At one point, he claims to have driven to within four feet of Wolverine when three tires were blown out from under his vehicle. It is surmised that *only because of their expert marks-*manship, were Jonesy's friends and family able to shoot the tires and save his life.

Cops shoot dog for no reason

Two RCMP officers, from separate locations, then claim to have killed the yellow dog as he ran from the truck, dazed due to the explosion.

FROM THE KEALEY PAPER ISSUE 1

David beats Goliath ....again

David, you will remember, is the fictitious name used by a police informant who helped break up a major drug ring in Ontario, only to suffer fire damage to his home in an obvious case of arson, as well as the theft of most of his personal belongings, in 1988.

Following a ten day trial last October, one prosecuted by David personally, with the assistance of Glen Kealey another non-lawyer, the Judge eventually ruled in David's favour and against Pilot Insurance Company. Pilot Insurance, for seven long years, had refused to pay any part of David's original insurance claim for the theft. Pilot Insurance claimed instead that he had set the fire.

The civil case became a model case for just how Canadian courts function to service the insurance industry's needs. Although David's claim was backed with over 6,000 pages of documentary evidence he accumulated over the seven year period, in his judgement, Judge Jenkins, specifically made mention that punitive damages were not being awarded in this case. Then, the Judge went on to award David the minimum amount possible ($25,500) and added that this money was due back to 1988, with interest. Afterwards, Pilot Insurance Company lawyers immediately claimed they were liable only for the payment of simple interest, instead of the compound interest that they, themselves, have earned on the funds they set aside for the unpaid claim, since 1988. The lawyers are

Who are we?

We are the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity (CIPI), a non-profit organisation dedicated to bringing about a democratic and sovereign Canada. We believe this can only be done by exposing the corruption in our political system to such a degree that citizens will come to the conclusion that the system itself must be changed, and not in the usual way. What distinguishes us from other groups is not our analysis of what's wrong; it is the fact that we alone offer a solution that does not merely "patch over" the problem, but eliminates it from the ground up.

Crusaders for political integrity: Glen Kealey and Ann Kealey (formerly Shelley Ann Clark) risked it all—now it's your turn to stand up for Canada. Join the cross-country caravan to Parliament Hill and take part in the setting up of a democratic governing body.

Statement of purpose

will document the Assembly of Independent Canadians' cross-Canada caravan to create the basis for democracy. This paper will provide an alternative to the controlled media by presenting ideas and events Canada's media monopoly refuses to acknowledge. We will attempt to put this information in context, showing where it fits into the world order and what you can do. The Kealey Paper is also a forum for debate – on the merits and shortcomings of proposed solutions, on which groups and public figures are actually on the side of Canadians and which are merely puppets of the monied interests, and on how best to set up the new political vehicle to replace Canada's parliamentary system.

If you received this paper in the mail it means one of our volunteers thought you might be interested in this new entity and placed your name on our "one shot" database to receive this first issue free. If you want to stay on our mailing list, please send in the order form on the back cover.

GRANDPARENTS/GRANDCHILDREN DENIED "RIGHTS"

Madeleine & David Bremner

"For the Love of our Grandchildren"

by Ann Kealey

Letter to Grandma & Grandpa

"I do not want to have anything to do with you. Please do not send any cards, letters or gifts now or in the future. I am old enough to make my own decisions and this is what I have decided. - YOU GOT THAT!"

Can anyone possibly imagine the extreme pain suffered by grandparents who receive a heart-wrenching letter such as the one quoted on page two - THIS LETTER WAS OBVIOUSLY DICTATED BY THESE CHILDREN'S PARENTS?

'Steven Andrew, Chairman, National Family Law Section of the Canadian Bar Association and Liberal Justice Minister Allan Rock certainly don't care. Andrew, in his letter of September 18, 1995, written at the request of Allan Rock and sent to Warren Allmand, the former Chairman of the Commons Justice Committee states "The Bill should therefore be defeated".

LIBERALS and BLOC JOIN FORCES TO KILL the BILL

This undemocratic, cruel and dictatorial order guaranteed a lifetime of heartbreak for thousands of caring Canadian grandparents and grandchildren. By killing Bill C-232 in Committee, "our" politicians also assured that more and more Canadian grandparents will be receiving similar heart wrenching letters.

Bill C-232 was a private member's bill presented to the House of Commons Justice and Legal Affairs Committee by Reform Party, M.P., Daphne Jennings. Bill C-232 was an act to amend the Divorce Act (granting access to, or custody of, a child by a grandparent). In a statement to the Justice Committee, Jennings explained that "the main purpose of Bill C-232 is to fill a void in the Divorce Act in the area of access and custody.

At present only parents of a child are allowed to discuss access and custody in a court of law in the case of divorce. The practical effect of this is that grandparents who may have actually been raised solely by the grandparent<s> - have no automatic right of standing in court." One part of the Bill would have also given grandparents who have a right of access, a right to make inquiries and to be given information as to the health, education and welfare of the grandchildren.

On December 7, 1995 Bill C-232 was defeated. This is a day that grandparents in Canada will never forget. To Madeleine and David Bremner of Ottawa (not the grandparents who received the letter quoted above), this meant that all of their hard work over the past five years had been "for naught". All of their hopes and dreams were crushed that fateful day. Bill C-232 had become their lifeline, their "raison d'etre". It was not bad enough that they had lost their daughter through a tragic unexpected death, now they had also lost access to their two gandchildren. They were the only link they had left to their beloved daughter.

Allan Rock
the Grinch who stole Christmas

The Bremners' tragic story began when their son-in-law began a serious relationship with another a woman (whom he eventually married). Approximately one year after their daughter's death the Bremners contacted their son-in-law at the beginning of the summer holidays to ask him if he would be bringing the children to visit with them in Ottawa. He told them that he and the kids would not be coming. When the Bremners replied that they would travel to Nova Scotia - the son-in-law made no comment.

This did not strike them as strange. They were so anxious to see their grandchildren that they paid no attention to their son-in-law's sudden cool treatment and went ahead with their plans to travel to Nova Scotia. When they arrived, to their amazement they were never allowed to be alone with their grandchildren. They were under supervision at all times. It soon became obvious to them that the children were also under a strict censorship never to speak about their mother.

The Bremners, who had planned a two week visit, were absolutely shocked and left speechless when, after a few days, they were more or less told by their son-in-law to go home. ".....you're no longer my inlaws." Little did the Bremners know that this was to be the last time they would ever see or speak to their grandchildren. Shortly after this incident, the son-in-law remarried and the new wife adopted the children legally. The Bremners were never notified of the adoption and because of it, overnight, they lost all access to their two grandchildren.

From that moment on their lives would never again be the same. All Birthday, Christmas and Easter cards and gifts have never been acknowledged. This is allowed only because of the flaws that exist in our present judicial system. To their horror the Bremners discovered that "one day you can be a loving, caring grandparent and the next you're not. Overnight your legal status disappears."

WHO IS IN CHARGE IN THIS COUNTRY ANYWAY ?

During the past 5 years, the Bremners have been tireless in their search to find a way to re-open the door that was so cruely and callously shut on them and their grandchildren. They have looked at, and have tried every possible venue available to them. They even created their own support group known as "GROWTH" Grandparents'/Grandchildren's Right of Wholesomeness Through Heritage.

The Bremners' research eventually led them to a network of grandparents across Canada who suffer from the same fate. They joined forces and together managed to bring a new awareness about the problem to attention of the general public.

A courageous Reform Party M.P., Daphne Jennings, took on the thankless task of battling Canada's Legal Industry. This is an industry that has been dubbed "The Just-Us system", because it cares only about the billions of dollars they can generate for themselves each year under the present rules. These are the billions of dollars that they so callously "steal" from naive middle-class Canadians. Apparently, they do it mostly out of greed and avarice - for the almightly $.

You can now begin to understand why the Minister of Justice and the Canadian Bar Association ordered the "silent defeat" of Bill C-232 in Committee. This Bill, had it passed, would have assured that Canadian grandparents would not be required to file a separate court action in order to obtain access to their own grandchildren. It would all have been dealt with in a "ONE STOP - ONE COST" action during regular divorce proceedings.

Next, we would like to share other significant quotes with you, the reader. These are taken from a poem written by a grandmother: "..An innocent child, whose only crime was to be bonded to parents who don't wish to see ...the child is a victim when used in a battle they can't understand - their cries go unheeded ...because of the laws of the land ...We're fighting a battle to help them be free of parents who own them both body and soul. As long as I live may this be my goal! They suffer, in silence, and never a word. The voice of the children needs to be heard!"

In the end the Liberals have shown their true colours - they always will maintain the "old party line". The only question left for Canadians to answer is: Who are the puppeteers?

Book says key spy was a Rothschild

Reuter

LONDON — Lord Rothschild, a scientist and member of the famous banking family, was the mysterious Fifth Man in the Soviet spy ring headed by notorious double agent Kim Philby, a book being published this month alleges.

The Fifth Man, by Australian journalist Roland Perry, asserts Rothschild, who died in 1990, escaped suspicion that he could have been a member of the famous Cambridge University ring of spies by using his considerable wealth and influence.

The motives and methods of the upper-class spy ring have fascinated the world for decades. The names of Harold (Kim) Philby, Anthony Blunt, Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean are virtually synonymous with spying and treachery, but the identity of a possible fifth member of their circle has never been confirmed.

Former British civil servant John Cairncross has been named several times as the Fifth Man.

Perry, who details how he spent years trying to track down the identity of the missing spy, dismisses the notion Cairncross was the much sought-after agent.

Perry said he gained many of his clues from KGB masterspy Yuri Ivanovitch Modin, who claimed to have controlled many British agents during the long years of the Cold War. He said Modin did not name Rothschild but gave him enough information to narrow the field.

The book is to be published by Macmillan on Oct. 21.

Book author has a plan to save Canada

Last week I talked with you on the telephone for about 40 minutes. When you spoke, I not only heard but I also listened. When I spoke, I sensed that you only heard.

The book. Remember? Saving Canada "The Plan". Everything which you advocate, is contained within the first 50 pages of this 300 page book. I have researched, studied, formulated, dissected and analysed facts, numbers, documents, statements and figures. I then subjected my findings and revelations to millions of computer calculations, which resulted in this reality: the economic "system" which is presently destroying Canada can be used to constructively destroy itself, while at the same time rebuilding a new Canadian economy, without affecting the rest of the world's economies in any negative way whatsoever!

We both know that our country is getting jerked off by the "soldiers of fortune", so to speak. The "profits of doom," one might correctly state. All debt is profit. All loss is profit. All profit is gain. Gain in only measured by what you can buy or what you invest in. If the money you have cannot be re-invested back into the country which printed it, then all you can do is purchase that country's goods and services with it.

When this profit is returned as the funds required to purchase Canada's goods and services, it becomes the debt and interest free cash needed to create employment.

At this point, the cycle of debt is broken. It cost us one billion dollars to pay off the debt, but we get it all back, and at the same time, we have increased the demand for our exported goods of trade.

Now, what if I had developed a "plan" which would enable Canadians, not the government of Canada and not the bank of Canada, to acquire one trillion, 388 billion dollars worth of Canada's debts, represented by "sovereign, marketable bonds" in the name of the people"?

The "plan" which I have developed and perfected is absolutely legal and our democracy has given us all the tools necessary to accomplish it!

The people and organisations which control and manipulate Canada can only do so because they hold our debt and constantly use it as a form of "economic terrorism" to maintain the idealism of the new world order. If, when the sovereign debt bonds they hold come to term, we, not the bank or the government, pay them off by buying back, who then will control the actions and functions of the government and the Bank of Canada?

There are about eight full pages of numbers which go into the final solution, but in order to "cut to the chase", these few numbers will convince you, when they come out of the other end of this equation: P=MV+M'V' over T.... "Fisher's equation of exchange" as noted by his work on the "quantity theory of money" and still rules the economic textbooks today!

Because of what I perceive as a lack of interest and understanding on your part, I will not enclose my phone number, nor will I enclose a copy of the book. Your followers will soon be coming to you with the book in hand. They will speak to you about me.

protected by rules they, themselves, wrote to help them steal from their customers. Who says crime does not pay?

This case is but one more piece of evidence that irrefutably documents the existence of institution-alized legal fraud being perpetrated by our courts, and how we, Canadians, are being ripped-off by the LEGAL INDUSTRY. However, this story does not end here.

Recently, the Kealey Paper was able to trace Pilot Insurance Company's management back to its home office controllers, in Perth, Scotland. The explosive links we discovered, going back in world history to the two British opium wars waged on China, will make for extremely interesting reading in a future issue of the Kealey Paper. Until then we will continue to explore all of the direct connections that suggest the existence of secret links between the RCMP and the drug world and from them, to David's arson. As well we will follow with interest and report back to you our readers, the criminal links that lead to Pilot Insurance Company, the firm that accused David of criminal activity and refused to pay his legitimate claim.

Nora Galenzoski

National Coalition for a Sovereign Canada

Dear Mr. Kealey:

Did you know that in 1992-93, the highest expenditure by the federal government was the interest on its debt? The second highest expenditure was unemployment insurance benefits. The interest was more than double the amount paid on the second highest expense, and it claims one-third of your tax dollars! Regardless of all the promises and rhetoric, the only way to reduce this cost and eliminate the need for government borrowing is to pay off the debt, but no one is talking about paying off the debt. Spending cuts and increasing taxes are the only alternatives being presented.

Did you know that you can actually do something about the deficit, the debt and the economy? Building a strong and stable economy will allow us to eliminate the deficit and pay off the debt. Basic factors contributing to any economy include, among other things, banking, interest rates and trade agreements. To help concerned citizens understand how these things impact the economy, Deliberately in DEBT! unmasks the mystique of these contributing factors, and explains them in easy to read and easy to understand language.

Deliberately in DEBT! is packed full of information every Canadian needs to know. It is based, not on other peoples' opinions, but on extensive research of Canadian facts including historic and current government and court documents. Deliberately in DEBT! sets out a plan to rebuild the Canadian economy and pay off the debts of the federal government, the provincial governments and municipalities. It also includes a historic and legal position to support a powerful, but practical economical, political and social revitalization plan.

Deliberatey in DEBT! is the best opportunity you have to get the full story on how the Canadian economy is affected by government borrowing and spending, by the Bank of Canada and its policies, by private and public financial institutions and by trade deals. It explains how interest rates and the value of the Canadian dollar affect our resources, jobs and the economy. And it's written in simple language. We've unmasked financial and economic terms so that every Canadian can understand them.

ILLICIT DRUGS, PHARMACEUTICALS AND FREE TRADE

The Phoenix' prescription for world domination and control

During the final years of the eighteenth century, when the latter day Phoenix were consolidating their grip on the British monarchy, realizing they were about to share control of America with their French banking brother, the Rothschilds turned their attention to China. With its billion people, China, because they wanted to "park its resources" was still the largest market for their most profitable commodity - the drug called opium.

Opium poppies were cultivated in India and the drug marketed by the vast British East India Company. To encourage that more farm land be turned over to poppy growing, the East India Company needed to destroy the existing Indian cotton industry. This was achieved by importing cheap textiles from England into India. To accomplish this task, the "Company" promoted African slavery.

Slaves were rounded up in Africa and brought to the cotton growing areas of America, where they laboured long and hard, for peanuts. The resulting cheap cotton was shipped to England's cotton mills where it was transformed, by poor women and child labour, into inexpensive textiles. These cheap textiles were then dumped onto India's marketplace. Predictably, this "free trade" resulted in the destruction of India's own textile industry.

More and more of India's farmers were forced into growing poppies instead of cotton. Opium, the end product, then flooded into China, thereby destroying the Chinese population's "free will" to compete openly with Britain, within the international "free trade" arena. Not surprisingly, the British Empire and the East India Company thrived under this kind of "FREE TRADE". India and China did not.

Today, only the targeted countries are different. North America is next on their list. Now, Canadian and American political and labour leaders work for the enemy. They control our parliaments, governments, police, unions and legal industry.

"The international drug traffic works like a single multinational firm, not unlike the vast Swiss-based pharmaceutical cartel - controlling production, supply, distribution, stockpiling and financing through a single integrated management. Its objective, at least at the highest level of its command structure, is not profit. It's control." (read DOPE INC.)

Our Canadian industry is being destroyed. Drugs, illicit or legal, are everywhere. Our people are losing the will to resist. Our natural resources, especially fresh water and food, are being targeted next. The ROTHSCHILDS and their extended family of neo-Phoenix' are winning.

Are you part of the problem? Is your head still in the sand? Or are you now ready to help CANADA survive?

THEY ARE PRISONERS OF THE PRISONERS THEY HAVE TAKEN (Savuka - 1989)

The world's elites who decided to create a "NEW WORLD ORDER" forgot one small detail. They are but 2.2% of the world population and we the people are 95% (that's not counting the 2.8% employed by elites - the security forces, politicians, financial advisers, courts and media who protect them and help them steal).

But soon, once the Canadian middle-class realize the current financial war is being waged directly against them and their present standard of living (they pay all the taxes while they receive fewer and fewer benefits), then the middle-class will rise in a popular non-violent revolt against the elites (Rothschild and Rockefeller), those wealthy international "FREE TRADE" bankers who preposterously claim to own OUR world

THEY ARE PRISONERS OF THE PRISONERS THEY HAVE TAKEN.

Elites should realize that traitors and their co-conspirators will not be awarded much sympathy, following the coming non-violent Canadian Revolution. Traitors will not be allowed to continue functioning in their jobs for one minute longer than necessary, or to remain in the comfort of being protected out of range - from the certain wrath of the patriotic Canadian Revolutionary Tribunal.

The position of the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity and the Assembly of Independent Canadians will be that each traitor to Canada shall be tried in public, on national television. At such time, a detailed "victim's impact statement" will be read in the court of public opinion, on behalf of all Canadians.

CIPI will also request that all convicted traitors have their personal property confiscated on behalf of their victims; that they be dismissed from their government jobs; that pensions be denied and; that they also be obliged to grovel at welfare offices for food stamps.

Ladies and Gentlemen, you have our word on it.

If RCMP allegations against former prime minister Brian Mulroney are correct, the Airbus deal could be the biggest government corruption scandal in Canadian history.

Kickbacks are small potatoes to Ottawa-based anti-government crusader Glen Kealey, who believes Airbus is just a tiny piece of a massive organized criminal scheme run by the federal government.

The conspiracy theorist passed through Winnipeg this week to spread the gospel about an alleged plan by international bankers to take over the country.

"It's not a conspiracy. It's a fact," said Kealey, 53, who is trying to organize a new party that would, if elected, abolish the federal government.

Kealey's crusade began in 1986, when he claimed a Tory cabinet member asked him for a bribe.

Kealey spent the next three years camped out on the grounds of Parliament Hill protesting against the Mulroney government.

"A political movement that will be judged on its own merits"

Oliver Stone was interviwed about his recent movie, NIXON, last December on Canada AM. He stated, "this time I will not run from talk-show to talk-show defending my work" as he has done with his earlier film JFK. Stone says "I now realize my detractors own history and control the media, therefore, I will not ever gain equal time or access to the public; argument with them is futile. Instead, I will let my work stand on its [illegible] must learn from Oliver Stone's experience and do likewise.

The most critical period in the history of the world, as I see it, is the time between 1500 BC and 1200 BC. This is a time when our history is being manipulated most by the controlled historians; to deflect us from reality, in order to create the illusions that meet their needs to this day. It was during this period that Phoenicia was founded, reportedly out of the remains of Atlantis, but more likely, by immigrants from Alexandria, Egypt. It occured when Egyptian, monotheist Judaic, Hebrew, mason-slaves led by Moses, seemingly had wandered for forty long years across the Sinai - looking for the "promised land"; and when the game of chess was first played, in India. Now, let's follow the money trail instead of the Bible.

Egyptian Pharaohs had controlled the whole known world up to that point in its "civilized" history. This meant they held control over Africa and India, as well as, the entire Middle East. A millennium earlier they had built the pyramids to contain their remains after death (at Alexandria the Phoenix built the first Obelisks). When Pharaohs died they wanted to be surrounded by the riches they had accumulated during their life time. These riches consisted of gold, pharmaceuticals (ie.mir, a pain killer and embalming fluids) along with occult supplies (such as incense used in spiritual ceremonies; because they also believed they were Gods and, at death, would rise to heaven like smoke).

To a detective following the money trail, it would make more sense to believe that Moses was directed, knowingly or unknowingly, by the Phoenix, (the Pharaoh's wise men - they were the scribes who often dressed as women, whose job it was to count and control the Pharaoh's cash as well as preserve the wisdom contained in the 500,000 or so manuscript archive that resided within their library, at Alexandria). Moses may have been told to lead the Hebrew slaves, slowly, across the Sinai, as a diversionary tactic. In our view, this would have been done to cover-up the simultaneous looting that was going on, by the Phoenix, of the Pharaoh's treasures including the accumulated wisdom that was handed down from generation to generation over millenniums. The contents of the library and vaults would have been moved over time, to Phoenecia. Later, arson, set by the Phoenix at Alexandria's now empty library, would cover their tracks - their "original' sin.

It is from that point in time that Egypt and the Pharaohs began their decline. Coincidentally, we are taught that world power and trade simultaneously and gradually, shifted to Phoenicia, to an area now occupied by Lebanon, Syria and also, southern Turkey. It was from this region that raiding armies came, in the seventh century BC, to destroy Solomon's first Hebrew temple built in Jerusalem and exiled the twelve Hebrew tribes, during the period known as the diaspora - thereby dispersing the only incriminating witnesses to the earlier theft that occured at Alexandria.

The PHOENIX,* in Egyptian mythology, is a bird sacred to the sun, reborn from the ashes of the funeral pyre which it made for itself. It is a fabulous, large, stork-like bird, originating in Ethiopia. It also is described as being "bright-coloured", due to its gorgeous plumage and having a "sweet voice". Furthermore, it is always male, the only one of a kind (a CEO).

At the expiration of its time it made itself a nest, on which it died, by setting the nest on fire and burning itself alive. From its body, or its ashes, or the nest, which it had fertilized, came forth another PHOENIX. The newborn then carried the remains of his father to Egypt, where it deposited them on the altar of the Sun.

The PHOENIX originally gained its power from his first job, as keeper of the Pharaoh's wisdom and other worldly riches. As mentioned earlier the "corrupt" PHOENIX had evidently looted the Pharaoh's vast treasury and moved it to his second (winter) home, from where he reportedly established the first "free trade" city known as PHOENICIA.

PHOENIX life cycles normally last 1,461 years, which is an Egyptian Sothis period. These periods were marked by

by Glen EP Kealey

On November 25, 1995, I was in Edmonton, Alberta, for a speaking engagement sponsored by the COR (Confederation of Regions) party of Alberta. On that day, local COR members brought a number of visitors to my hotel room who were interested in an exchange of ideas.

One of the visitors brought to me by a Mr. Walter Tederoff was David A. Tomlinson. He was introduced to me as being the current national president of the National Firearms Association.

Mr. Tomlinsson brought some of his association's literature which purportedly details their position on Bill C-68. He was kind enough to leave this literature with me. The association's logo consists of a two-tone shield with the letters NFA inscribed on it. The original logo may be in colour, however, my copy is in black and white. The shield is capped by a majestic crown topped by a Christian cross.

Mr. Tomlinson, who apparently did not know of my background with the MICOT hi-tech project spoke at length of a changing world supported by technology and communications. He brought up Alvin Toffler's book "The Third Wave" on many occasions, I believe, to back up his theories on our shrinking world. He spoke to me of "just-in-time" manufacturing" as if this was a revelation he had recently observed. Toffler, as you know, is the

GUN CONTROL WAS A GUN "CON"

New World Order guru who made millions with his Third Wave and Future Shock books, in 1980.

I told Mr. Tomlinson that I was familiar and personally agreed with Toffler's description of the evolution of society on our planet and asked what this had to do with gun control. I received no response to my direct question. I put this down in my mind as something an insecure person might say in an attempt to make oneself look more knowledgeable in the eyes of the less informed.

Tomlinson then proceeded to instruct me as to how one, ultimately, would succeed in getting one's view to prevail within our existing political system. His ideas had something to do with infiltrating political party riding associations and imposing your own view from within. I disagreed with this "often tried" tactic as being a waste of time, money and energy. I further stated, that no candidate who would disagree with the party leader's position, be it on the GST or gun control, would ever be allowed to run for re-election, if his or her views became a source of friction with the leader of the party who is himself/herself, sponsored by bankers during election campaigns.

He agreed and responded, probably without giving it much thought, that he "knew as far back as five years ago" that gun control would be approved by parliament and nothing could be done to stop it".

At that point, I broke in and asked how he had dared, over the past year or more, to collect money from his fellow Canadians on the pretext he knew how to stop the Gun Bill, C-68, from going through when he had just stated he knew so long ago that the bill's eventual passing was a foregone conclusion.

I could see Mr. Tomlinson get hotter and hotter under the collar as I then asked if he ever read "Cloak of Green", by Elaine Dewar. He said "NO". I told him to read it and accused him of having orchestrated, with his Gun Lobby, exactly what Dewar recently detailed was being inflicted upon the most gullible supporters of the environment movement.

Both popular movements had, I said, "been taken over by people such as he, only to mislead the caring naive who believe the illusion in order to steal the limited protest money that is available from unsuspecting patriots and harmlessly deflect their rage down a dead-end road." All of this I said "is being orchestrated for the ultimate benefit of the existing organised political party leaders and spin doctors. These people, I said, are emloyed by the same international bankers who sponsor political party elections and national union leadership campaigns.

I suggested to Tomlinson that he take a good look at B.C. FIRE, the new anti-native protest group being promoted by Preston Manning's Reform Party, in British Columbia. I stated the similarities that exist between them and his group were unmistakable. At this point, Mr. Tomlinson said he had to leave. Before he went however, he pulled a large plastic bag from his case which, he said, "is intended to double as his group's lawn sign, during the next federal election. It will fit right over another candidate's lawn sign and hide the original poster's message."

The bag states in large print "REMEMBER BILL C-68 WHEN YOU VOTE." It ends with a small print line that identifies the association's logo and name. The big plastic bag is printed with large black letters, on a light green background. Coincidentally, these are the same two colours used by Preston Manning's Reform Party. When I noticed the similarity and said so, Tomlinson made a quick exit.

ASSEMBLY OF INDEPENDENT CANADIANS

the beginning and decline of Egypt's Pharaohs, the birth of political, organized, religion and the eighteenth century rise of the House of Rothschild. The time-line advanced through the phases of known, evolving world order - government by a Pharaoh and Phoenix, followed by the rule of the Phoenicians, Philistines, Babylonians, and later, Greeks and Romans, followed by inspired political religion known under many different names, such as Buddhism-Christianity-Islam-Judaism. Then came Monarchies and illusionary Democracies, and finally, as "predicted" by Nostradamus, the emerging millennium of a European based oligarchy which controls and dominates the world - a Rothschild "New World Order" (slavery).

I ask the reader to hypothesize with me when I state, the PHOENIX represents the real power that controls every government. The PHOENIX is much like the QUEEN piece is portrayed in the game of "Chess" - it is a game invented in India, at the time of Moses. What better way to disguise a PHOENIX than as a woman. In fact, the colourful PHOENIX is the effeminate master, the "grey-man" much like the international banker was recently depicted by director Francis Ford Copula, in his film The Godfather, Part III. When one pieces the dark, layered, puzzle together, only then does one begin to fully understand the hidden symbolism at work behind the most current incarnation of the PHOENIX. He is, without a doubt, the eldest son, the CEO, known to us today as the banker, Lord ROTHSCHILD.

If I have not as yet convinced you, or should you believe the evidence to be just "conspiracy theory", then at least you must agree with me that it would make a great plot for a Copula/Stone "fiction" movie. And they just might decide to name this newest film - GLEN EP KEALEY'S GREAT COINCIDENCE THEORY.

Mitchell Sharp controls Canada's government, banks and justice system through his connections to the Trilateral Commission. Mr. Sharp's World Bank and International Monetary Fund sponsors have invested heavily in oil. They continue to hold us hostage to this major world [illegible] clean energy sources, ie. The Ecklin Generator and Johnson Magnet Machine.

Some, in B.C. know what happened to the molybdenum battery, a 500 miles per day battery, developed at Canadian expense, at the University of British Columbia.

ARE YOU AFRAID TO TELL THE PUBLIC MR. SHARP ?

And while you are in an answering mode please tell us why has the Banking Act not been changed? All ethical financial experts assure us we can be debt free if the task of printing and distributing money is taken away from the Chartered Banks and returned to the Bank of Canada. Even the Club of Rome (1963-64) warned Canadians of this fact before it was also infiltrated by your Trilaterals.

Also, some time ago a CBC radio expose of the Trilateral Commission told Canadians of how the TC intended to do away with democracy in the world. Mr. Sharp, does this not indeed make all Canadian Trilateral Commission members TRAITORS TO CANADA?

"HEY ! HERBIE, HOW DO INSIDERS DEAL WITH TROUBLESOME WHISTLE -BLOWERS?"

INSIDERS are openly secret political societies such as the Royal Institute on International Affairs, the Council on Foreign Relations, the Trilateral Commission, Club of Rome, Knights of Malta, B'nai B'rith, Freemasons, A.D.L., Bildebergers, J.D.L., Round Tables and the Olympians...etc. These secret societies normally operate openly through transnational corporations, tax-free charitable foundations, insurance companies, government, universities, banks and the national media.

These societies are often hundreds of years old. They induct bright new recruits while in colleges and universities. Their continuity depends on intelligence, secrecy and obedience to the BROTHERHOOD.

New members must pledge their total obedience, fortunes and sometimes, even their life. Nothing is ever given to them for nothing. In return all members-in-good-standing receive anything they ever require in life, including status, sex, money, promotions and contracts. Status jobs, wives, in-laws and relatives are sometimes part of the deal.

Insiders are "THE ESTABLISHMENT".

WHISTLE-BLOWERS may be insiders who have defected, or outsiders who refuse to cover-up crime or play-the-game.

The spouse is usually a first line of attack. She/he will play on the individual's personal responsibilities to them and to the children. They will use persuasion followed by guilt-trip psychology. If whistle-blowers fail to respond they will be isolated. Spouses are usually the first to suggest a visit with a psychiatrist.

The employer is next. The whistle-blower's employer will also be "motivated" to pressure and isolate a whistle-blower, "for the sake of the company and his fellow employees". If threats don't work the employee will be terminated. Layoffs are often used as cover for dismissals. A "quick visit" to a psychiatrist is also often recommended by the employer.

The police often play a role. They will often recommend the whistle-blower hand over any evidence and quickly "lose" it. High-ranking police participate in politically motivated cover-ups.

Relatives and the companies they own are often targeted by tax collectors. This tactic is used to force the entire family into "circling the wagons". Pressure is applied on all members and the family is kept divided. A visit with a psychiatrist is again suggested.

A Letter to Preston Manning

Dear Preston,

I had a discussion recently with Harry about Shelley Ann Clark, the woman who claims that, during her employment with the Mulroney Government, she had some upper-level dealings with the paperwork regarding the FTA (Canada-U.S. Free Trade Agreement). She has now gone public, as I am sure you are aware, with information regarding some alleged improprieties in this regard.

When I spoke to Harry, he indicated that the feeling in your office was that, without any substantiating evidence, Ms. Clark's allegations were unfounded.

Ms. Clark has explained very clearly why she was unable to come away from the situation with written information to back up her claims. She is bringing forward claims that information exists that could have extremely serious ramifications in Canada with regard to its trade dealings with the United States. She asks only that this issue be investigated, and cites many reasons why there is good and just cause to seek out and examine the paperwork in question.

My feeling is that we have no proof that Ms. Clark has lacked integrity or been dishonest in the past. Here is a woman who loves and has served her country well, voicing, at great risk to herself, some concerns over the handling of the trade negotiations. I feel it is incumbent upon those who are in power in the Government to now order that the archives be opened and the documentation in question scrutinized. After all, what could Ms. Clark have to gain by lying? And what does Canada have to lose if she is, in fact, telling the truth?

If the paperwork is brought out from the archives where it is purportedly being stored, and examined by experts in trade law, then the matter can be put to rest as to whether or not Ms. Clark's allegations are true and her concerns well-founded.

As your constituent, I would ask that you please request the disinterment of these documents so that they may be examined to ascertain the validity of Ms. Clark's allegations.

Yours truly,

Valerie Clark, Calgary, Alberta
1993 Election Campaign Office Manager

1995 B.C. NATIVE STANDOFF

RCMP BRASS TRIED TO KILL ELDERS

Native negotiators set up to be shot when RCMP bosses orchestrated violent crossfire

by Glen EP Kealey

More than 100 members of the RCMP will be called to testify at the trial of Mr. William Jones Ignace, the sixty-three year old seed grower who was a leader of the 1995 native standoff at Gustafsen Lake.

No testimony will shock traditional Canadians more than that of Allan G. Soneff, (32987) a corporal from the Kamloops detachment.

Glen EP Kealey acquired copies of the police "will-say statements" when he agreed to join Wolverine's (Ignace) defense team, as an "agent" [illegible] lows is what Cpl. Soneff states he will say when he testifies.

"On the 11th of September, 1995, we were deployed, that is the Kamloops ERT team, to an area on the 1000 Rd."

"Our deployment to this area was to contain any movement of the Natives that would be or were attempting to come out of the camp and also to monitor their activities."

"At approximately, oh I would say it would have been 1330 hrs, 1:30 in the afternoon, we were advised that a group of elders were coming into the camp, driving a green Chrysler van, in hopes of settling the confrontation in a peaceful way."

"At approximately 13.30 hrs. the vehicle was pointed out coming into the area on the 1000 Rd. at kilometre twenty I think. At this point two male Natives, both armed, were seen collecting, it appeared to be water, bottles in the back of a red pickup. In the back of the truck was a yellow dog."

"At approximately quarter to two the vehicle, the red truck that is, moved out of the encampment and started proceeding out on Lakeshore Rd., to the 1000 Rd., that is from the camp. The green van (Elders) still continued and we were notified by further check points through ERT personnel that the van was coming our way also.

At approximately ten to two it was dispatched by manage...., or by the bosses, to take the truck if they could and they had the green light to take the truck. The van (Elders) was still continuing apparently and we had no other direction to stop the van or impede the elders from going in".

"As the elders passed us in the green van on our point it was only a matter of a few minutes that we heard an explosion and gunfire".

There it is. The RCMP brass had encouraged a group of local native Elders, most not even friendly with the "Defenders of the Land", to visit the camp and attempt to resolve the stand-off peacefully.

Meanwhile, the RCMP leadership ordered the military to place an explosive land mine (bomb) on the road the Native defenders used to collect water. This road is the same one the Native Elders were expected to turn onto later, when they would arrive at the barricade to be picked up by the red truck .

EUTHANASIA:

NEW WORLD ORDER DEPOPULATION STRATEGY ?

by Glen EP Kealey

First it began with war, alcohol, air pollution and slave labour. Then they added pharmaceuticals, marketed with the aid of slow motion medical research controlled by their rich foundations. Later, they followed that up by promoting birth control, abortions and assisted suicide.

What will be next in the N.O.W.'s never ending bag of dirty tricks? Afterall the plan is not new. It was first assembled millenniums ago, by the SPHINX (the lion King of Kings who sits atop the Legislateur in Victoria, B.C. His phallic symbol stands proudly on the lawn <an obelisk>, a monument to the thief who first stole land from the Natives. Nearby, the lion also holds the world in his hands, on the Royal Bank logo). The kit was designed to help the puppeteer and his puppets depopulate our earth of its "useless eaters"? Could euthanasia be the next thing they have in mind?

As technology permits, humans become surplus to elites, both in numbers and form. Most people must be removed, they say. The controllers believe they will only require two billion slaves to carry out their orders in the near future. Humans must, they say, be reconfigured through a new process of genetic manipulation known as eugenics. Tall people to pick apples, short ones for mining gold.

War was the preferred way of culling people until John F. Kennedy gave the elites a new and more efficient plan to control the world. It is all laid out in a report published in the mid 1960's called Report from Iron Mountain. Fear is the main ingredient.

If one can get beyond the illusion, one will realize the real purpose of government. It is to waste resources so as to create fear of poverty, especially within the middle-class.

Comment

If we can get beyond our illusions we will at last identify the real purpose of our type of government. It is intended to waste resources so as to create the fear of poverty, especially within the middle-class.

When we are afraid we do what we are told and don't ask questions, even when things we are told by the controlled media don't make sense. A good example is THE BIG LIE promoted by the media. They tell us daily that as as a Canadian society we are broke.

Nothing could be further from the truth. The Canadian debt, one trillion dollars if you add up federal, provincial, municipal and school board debt, was engineered by the current controller (Rothschilds, the direct descendents of the Lion of Egypt). In any event, even with this debt, our natural resources alone total more than two thousand trillion dollars. So much for being broke.

Today the government of B.C. is doing everything it can to increase the authority of the Public Trustee. Insurance companies also are demanding that they be allowed to participate in the home care industry. Imagine if you were old and vulnerable and under the direct control of an insurance company that no longer wishes to continue paying your benefits, or, of a government who no longer collects taxes from you and doesn't care to continue paying you your old age pension.

RCMP BRASS DOUBLE-CROSSED SERVILE NATIVE ELDERS

RCMP snipers were positioned in the bush, aiming their rifles down the road towards the place where they expected the red truck to travel and where the road bomb was to be manually detonated. Beyond the position of the truck, was the place the local Native Elders were expected to arrive at the camp barricade.

Almost everything went off according to the RCMP plan, that is, except for two details. First, the Native Elders were a little late getting to the barricade. Upon hearing the explo--sion and subsequent gunfire one visiting Elder suffered a heart attack.

Secondly, the dust raised by the explosion on the dirt road covered the escape route for the two Defenders in the truck who, after jumping in the lake, swam back to the camp under a hail of bullets. Not to be denied, the RCMP snipers shot the yellow dog as he ran dazed from the explosion.

Following the stand-off RCMP brass had the gall to charge the 63 year old pensioner and Native seed grower, Wolverine, with attempted murder for trying to stop the police from killing the two swimmers in the lake.

NEW EUTHANASIA LAWS IN B.C. SPARK RED ALERT

by Ann Kealey

The Province of British Columbia, on November 5, 1993, gave prosecutors of this province 'suicide help' guidelines. These guidelines clearly demonstrate that the "law" has now been extended to include, not only those who suffer physically but also those who are the most vulnerable of all - the mentally challenged.

What does this mean? It means God help those vulnerable people who happen to fall under the control of the Public Trustee. In fact, it means that the 6,000 'mentally challenged' people under the care of the Public Trustee are now prime targets, that is, once the 'machinery' is in place.

The Criminal Code of Canada Act (CCCA) says that a person is allowed to commit suicide in which ever fashion he/she chooses and this person will not be labelled as having committed a crime. However, the CCCA also states that if a person assists another to commit suicide, no matter which method is used (for example if you gave the person requesting the assistance an overdose of pills or took a gun and shot this person), in either case you would be charged with murder.

On July 21, 1993 the NDP Government fast tracked euthanasia laws through the legislative assembly even though they KNEW that there would be amendments added AFTER the Bill's 3rd reading.

The four new 'DEATH BILLS' of BC are: BILL 48 - 1993 'REPRESENTATION AGREEMENT ACT' ; BILL 49 - 1993 'ADULT GUARDIANSHIP ACT' ; BILL 50 - 1993 'PUBLIC GUARDIAN AND TRUSTEE ACT'; BILL 51 - 1993 'HEALTH CARE (CONSENT) AND CARE FACILITY (ADMISSION) ACT.

In 1994, Attorney General Gabelmann denied that the bills allowed for "assisted suicide" even though, when one reads all four Bills it is evident that the N.D.P.'s "Death Bills" allow "health care providers" to pull the plug.

PROVINCE OF BC GIVES ELITE LICENCE TO KILL

B.C.'s Health Care Provider Guidelines (Bill 49) are set to give ominous powers to hospital "administrators" or health care "providers". The Bills give these people the power to decide whether or not a person should receive health care.

It is most important for British Columbians to note that in Victoria, one of the senior citizens complexes with health providing extended care units is owned by a Life Insurance Company. It is most significant that under Canadian law, life insurance companies are the ONLY ones allowed to issue Life annuities. One can certainly see the inherent danger of the words "health care provider" if it means the insurance company. Would it not be in the companies best interest to terminate a life of a senior in order to terminate a prearranged monthly payment obligation by the insurance company to the senior citizen?

Former MI-6 Agent (British Spy) Dr. John Coleman, in his best seller 'Conspirators' Hierarchy relates what would happen to the non-elite under a ONE WORLD most relevant statements follows: 1) "Euthanasia for the terminally ill and the aged shall be compulsory"; and 2) "At least 4 billion 'useless eaters' shall be eliminated by the year 2050 ....."

Readers we leave discernment up to you. If you have reason to fear our present system of government then please contact the Kealeys and join in the Assembly of Independent Canadians and the fight to save Canada from the descent into slavery that is being imposed upon the entire world.

Who are we?

We are the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity (CIPI), a non-profit organisation dedicated to bringing about a democratic and sovereign Canada. We believe this can only be done by exposing the corruption in our political system to such a degree that citizens will come to the conclusion that the system itself must be changed, and not in the usual way. What distinguishes us from other groups is not our analysis of what's wrong; it is the fact that we alone offer a solution that does not merely "patch over" the problem, but eliminates it from the ground up.

Crusaders for political integrity: Glen Kealey and Ann Kealey (formerly Shelley Ann Clark) risked it all—now it's your turn to stand up for Canada. Join the cross-country caravan to Parliament Hill and take part in the setting up of a democratic governing body.

Statement of purpose

will document the Assembly of Independent Canadians' cross-Canada caravan to create the basis for democracy. This paper will provide an alternative to the controlled media by presenting ideas and events Canada's media monopoly refuses to acknowledge. We will attempt to put this information in context, showing where it fits into the world order and what you can do. The Kealey Paper is also a forum for debate – on the merits and shortcomings of proposed solutions, on which groups and public figures are actually on the side of Canadians and which are merely puppets of the monied interests, and on how best to set up the new political vehicle to replace Canada's parliamentary system.

If you received this paper in the mail it means one of our volunteers thought you might be interested in this new entity and placed your name on our "one shot" database to receive this first issue free. If you want to stay on our mailing list, please send in the order form on the back cover.

CANADA PARTY MEMBERS WANT KEALEY AS LEADER

Please contact Glen Kealey at (604) 743-2407 and state your personal opinion on this matter

BACKGROUND

Greg Krawchuk, the current Manitoba President of the Canada Party contacted Glen Kealey following a meeting sponsored by the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity on behalf of the Assembly of Independent Canadians, in Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Mr. Krawchuk asked Kealey to run as Leader of the CANADA PARTY at the next convention to be held in Ottawa, in late July 1996.

Kealey suggested that if other members of the Board of the CANADA PARTY agreed with Krawchuk he should request that they write to Kealey, on CANADA PARTY letterhead and formalize their position.

The CANADA PARTY letter which appears on the right was received by Glen Kealey subsequent to his request.

The KEALEY PAPER is reprinting the CANADA PARTY directors response exactly as received. We request that each supporter of CIPI and the AIC personally contact Glen by telephone as soon as possible to state their views on the matter.

March 3, 1996

Dear Mr. Glen Kealy;

As per discussions held with Mr. Greg Krawchuk on March 2, 1996 in Regina, Saskatchewan, a motion was made at our Board meeting that the Board contact you regarding the following.

The Canada Party Board would like to invite you to become a member of our Canada Party as it is in need of someone with your organizational abilities.

Enclosed is a copy of our Party Constitution along with a membership registration form. A copy of our Policies and By-Laws will also be mailed to you as soon as possible.

Our Party will be filling all executive positions at our next convention, which we hope will take place in Eastern Canada no later than the Fall of 1996. Any member of the Canada Party, in good standing, is welcome to run.

Yours truly,
Joceline Shannon

Jocelyne Shannon
Canada Party Secretary

Clair Foss, David Weston, Cecil Schnurr, Farlie Paynter, Jocelyne Shannon, Roy Lyall, Irene Armishaw, Greg Krawchuk, Joe Thauberger, Atlanta Braley, Grenville Rogers, Jack Hopkins

PREAMBLE

The Canada Party is not based on, nor supports any specific religion, therefore any Canadian is welcome to join the Canada Party regardless of ethnic heritage, race or religion.

The purpose of the Canada Party is to build a democratic society in which all of its citizens have the full measure of freedom, prosperity and security that this nation can provide, as well as the responsibility that comes with it. This can only be accomplished when the nation has complete sovereignty over the issue of all currency and credit, which in Canada is provided by giving that right to the Canadian government through the British North America Act, Section 91.

CANADA PARTY CONSTITUTION

ARTICLE 1 NAME

1:1 The official name of the organization will be the Canada Party and may only be change by a membership referendum.
1:2 For the purposes of this Constitution and its Bylaws the organization will henceforth be referred to as "the Party".

ARTICLE 2 FUNDAMENTAL BELIEFS

2:1 True democracy can only be enjoyed when government is of, by and for the people. Government must therefore be accessible and accountable to them at all times. To ensure true democracy in Canada, we the members of this Party are committed to the constitutional entrenchment of the fundamental policies of:

- Recall of Representatives and appointed officials;
- Binding Referenda;
- Voters' Initiative;
- Free Votes in Parliament, and
- Set Election Dates.

2:2 The will of the majority by Binding Referenda must take precedence over any government, any monarchy and its representatives, any court, any international organization over the Party policy of any elected representative.

2:3 Canada must completely retain its economic, political and social sovereignty as a nation.

2:4 The Canadian Constitution must stipulate the fundamental right of the people to own, retain and enjoy both real and personal property and to use it responsibly within the democratic laws of Canada, AND the absolute freedom of action (exempting those actions which infringe upon the rights of others).

2:5 Ultimately, the Cabinet must be elected by the House of Commons. The Prime Minister must be elected by the Cabinet for a term of one year only, following which he/she will go back to the Cabinet. However, until the proportional voting (2) or transferrable ballot system is in use during elections, thus ensuring a government with a true majority and mandate to govern, only the elected members of the governing Party will elect the Cabinet. After this is legislated, the entire House of Commons will elect the Cabinet.

2:6 The Federal government on behalf of the Canadian people will totally control the Bank of Canada and issue all Canadian money supply as is stipulated in the B.N.A. Act - Sect.91, Clause 14. All private financial and banking involvement in government finance must be entirely eliminated and prohibited.

2:7 The Canada Party will put the chartered banks backs on the reserve system and work towards 100% reserve.

2:8 True democracy within the Party will be enjoyed by its members. The Party ITSELF will therefore operate upon the principles of Binding Referenda, Members Initiatives and Recall of Party Representatives.

2:9 In order to protect the foundation principles of the Party, as of October 30th, 1994:

a) all sections or subsections under the Articles of Fundamental Beliefs and Purpose must not be altered in any way; that is to say, it is not allowable to subtract from nor delete these sections or subsections;

b) nor must any further subsection or sections be added to this document or the Bylaws, or to the Policy of the Party, if they contradict or diminish in any way the meaning and/or force of the original subsections and sections passed, as of the above date.

ARTICLE 3 : PURPOSE

3:1 The purpose of the Party is: to inform the people of Canada regarding the importance of Referenda, Recall, Voter's Initiatives and Banking Reform as tools to achieve unity, prosperity and freedom.

3:2 To elect enough representatives to the Parliament of Canada in order that the preceding fundamental beliefs will be legislated.

3:3 The Party will promote the policies developed by its Policy and Platform Committee. These policies will be developed and approved by the membership of the Party through democratic means.

ARTICLE 4 COMMITMENT TO THE CANADIAN CONSTITUTION

4:1 The division of powers between the federal parliament and the provincial legislatures as clearly defined in section 91 and 92 of the British North America Act 1867, and confirmed by the Supreme Court of Canada ruling, October 3, 1950, shall be adhered to. (Article 4 added and declared unalterable November 18, 1995).

ARTICLE 5 MEMBERSHIP

5:1 A thirty (30) day eligibility period must elapse before a new member can:

a) vote at any meeting of the Party
b)be nominated to run for the Party as an election candidate,
c) be chosen for any position or office in the Party. (In the case of a newly organized Riding or Provincial Association this provision may be waived with the approval of the Board)

5:2 Anyone who wishes to hold a representative position within or for the Party must sign the Contract of Dedication. *See Schedule "A" attached.

5:3 All Canada Party policy must be presented to the members in referendum form for ratification or rejection.

ARTICLE 6 LEADERSHIP REVIEW

6:1 The Party Leader will be elected at every Annual National Convention by all attending delegates in good standing.

6:2 As a member of the Party, the Leader/Interim Leader are also subject to the Recall procedure and to revocation of membership.

6:3 In order that the dictatorial leadership powers granted to all Party leaders by the Canada Elections Act may be overcome...all newly elected Leaders/Interim Leaders of the Party must sign a letter relinquishing signatory authority with the Elections Canada Office, once a new Leader is duly elected. This is to be signed immediately after his/her election/appointment as Leader and originals to be held by all organized Provincial Associations. * See Schedule "B" attached.

6:4 If the position of Leader becomes vacant for any reason, an Interim Leader will be nominated by the Caucus, or the Board in the absence of a Caucus, subject to a simple majority of the Board.

ARTICLE 7 CANDIDATES FOR NOMINATION

7:1 a) The Leader will sign all candidate's Election registration certificates before the Nomination Day deadline if the Candidate has been duly nominated at a recognized Riding Association Nomination meeting;

DR. ROCKEFELLER will see you now

The hidden players privatizing Canada's health care system

INTRODUCTION

by Ann Kealey

Because of its relevancy to the Kealey Paper's article on Euthanasia and Insurance companies and its mention of Glen Kealey — we have reprinted most of Joyce Nelson's article "Dr. Rockefeller will see you now" which appeared last year, in the January-February 1995 issue of 'Canadian Forum" magazine.

Within days of Federal Finance Minister Paul Martin's mid-October announcement that $9.4 billion will have to be raised over the next two years, through either higher taxes or spending cuts, in order to meet his deficit-reduction target date, the C.D. Howe Institute urged Martin to cut federal spending even deeper and faster. The private think-tank called for $14.8 billion in cuts over the next two years by virtually eliminating all federal spending on health care, while cutting drastically into spending on unemployment insurance, post-secondary education, welfare and old-age security payments.

The need for such radical surgery was quickly endorsed by much of the mainstream media, which called the Institute's diagnosis "realistic" and "fine". What the media neglected, however, to add was that since 1976 the C.D. Howe Institute has been closely connected to David Rockefeller's Trilateral Commission, whose 300-plus members (primarily presidents and CEO's of global corporations, bankers, politicians and a few academics) comprise the most powerful and elite organization for world planning known to exist.

Within days of Human Resources Minister Lloyd Axworthy's federal green paper proposing comprehensive "reforms" to Canada's social safety net, a curious poll made headlines across the country. The poll, conducted by COMPAS Inc. and first published in the October 22 Financial Post, found "strong public support" for Axworthy's proposals. When the poll's findings were picked up by Canadian Press the following day, the anonymous CP reporter (likely writing with press release in hand) claimed: "The Poll provides ammunition for the Liberals in their fight with provinces and interest groups over changing social programs. It suggests Ottawa could go ahead with some changes on its own, knowing it has public support." That same evening, as Globe and Mail columnist Rick Salutin has noted, the poll provided the lead story for Mike Duffy's CTV show and had the host "squirming with delight. It showed that if you ask Canadians whether people on welfare should have to work or just get paid for sitting around, Canadians are ready to cut."

Axworthy himself seized on the COMPAS poll as "a pretty good indication that there is an appetite for change and that Canadians are prepared to take a look at some new ideas." No one bothered to inform the public that COMPAS Inc. is the polling subsidiary of Executive Consultants Ltd., an Ottawa lobbying firm owned by the world's biggest PR firm, New York-based giant Burson-Marsteller—whose Canadian chairman, Allan E. Gotlieb, is the North American Deputy Chair of the Trilateral Commission.

Come to think of it, no one has informed the public that, according to the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity's Ottawa founder Glen Kealey—credited by author Stevie Cameron for successfully bringing fraud charges against former Cabinet minister Roch LaSalle—Paul Martin was hand-picked to be finance minister by Liberal Party adviser Mitchell Sharp, who joined the Trilateral Commission in 1977 and was Deputy Chair of the Commission during the 1980's.

Obviously, it's high time for another look at the Trilateral Commission and Burson-Marsteller, who are well-hidden but key players in the effort to PRIVATIZE CANADA'S HEALTH CARE SYSTEM, a system that has been called "one of the largest unopened oysters in the Canadian economy." Burson-Marsteller; (B-M), with branch plant offices in Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto and Vancouver, and the Trilateral Commission (TC) are intent on fully prying open that oyster, which is potentially worth billions to the private health care sector - especially the private insurance industry.

U.S. consumer advocate Ralph Nader warned Canadians in a December 1992 OTTAWA speech that the goal of the giant health care industries in the U.S. is "to subvert if not destroy both the compulsory pricing system for drugs and elements of the universal health insurance system" in Canada.

Oysters Rockefeller

According to Holly Sklar, who edited the book Trilateralism, the TC in the 1990's is "more powerful than ever". One particular factor in the TC's current power is that ever since Allan Gotlieb (Canada's ambassador the U.S. from 1981 to 1988) joined both the Trilateral Commission and global giant Burson-Marsteller in 1989, B-M has increasingly functioned as a PR/lobbying arm of the TC itself. This corporate cooperation was especially apparent in the powerful duo's orchestration of NAFTA's passage (see Dec.'93 Canadian Forum). According to the most recent figures available, B-M (which has 62 offices in 29 countries) was paid nearly $18 million for getting NAFTA signed, sealed and delivered.

The Chretien government — which has broken election promises regarding NAFTA, Clayoquot Sound and the lobbying industry — appointed Trilateralist Roy MacLaren, the Liberal Party's most vociferous advocate of NAFTA, as International Trade Minister. Since NAFTA has crucial implications for Canadians' health care system, it's not surprising that the same corporate superpowers are heavily engaged in the whole health-care issue in Canada, as they have been for years in the U.S.

The late 1980's populist push in the U.S. for a single-payer/universal system modelled on Canada's health care system prompted the U.S. Congress to appoint in 1988 a Bipartisan Commission on Comprehensive Health Care, whose mandate was to suggest "reforms" to American health care. At the time, 35 million U.S. citizens had no health insurance coverage at all. The Commission, chaired by TC member John D. Rockefeller IV, released its report in 1990 (after the signing of the Canada-U.S. Free Trade Agreement) and urged employment-based private insurance coverage. As Senator Rockefeller explained to the business community: "Employer-mandated coverage is the last resort we have against the establishment of a national health program that neither you nor I want."

When TC member Bill Clinton was elected U.S. president in 1992, he quickly appointed TC member Donna E. Shalala as U.S. Secretary of Health and Human Services, along with 13 other TC members to key cabinet and administrative posts. Perhaps not surprisingly, the President's Health Care Task Force, chaired by Mrs. Clinton, rejected any approach not based on private insurance — a $300 billion industry in the U.S. According to U.S. health care activist Townsend Walker, of the Alabama Health Education & Action League, "The Clinton Administration's so-called 'reforms', based on 'managed competition', were intended right from the first to benefit the big insurance companies, many of which are directly linked to the Rockefeller Group of financial holdings, including Metropolitan Life, Equitable Life and New York Life."

Metropolitan Life, whose Canadian operations are based in Ottawa and Toronto, has been a Burson-Marsteller client for more than a decade. In 1993, at the height of the lobbying turbulence surrounding both health care and NAFTA in the U.S., B.-M's insurance clients included Met Life, Equitable Life, Aetna and State Farm. Both Met Life and State Farm continue to be B-M clients.

Now that health care legislation is dead in the water in the U.S., the primary beneficiaries of all the chaos and turmoil have been the pharmaceutical giants (11 of whom are current B-M clients) and "the Big Five" private insurers: Met Life, Aetna, Prudential, Cigna and The Travelers — vertically integrated health care behemoths who own and operate huge chains of HMOs (health maintenance organizations) ready to provide every service on the medical spectrum, for a price.

While the number of U.S. citizens without health insurance coverage has risen to 39 million, HMO membership is already 50 million. The HMO insurers, paid to provide coverage for companies' employees, don't have to cover all illnesses or all people but can pick and choose those likely to need the least medical care as a cost-saving measure. As a writer for the Nation has observed, "The same insurance industry that brought us 'redlining' by disease and 'cherry picking' of healthy people in order to increase profits, is now to be catapulted into the role of 'CARING' PROVIDER."

Learning from the "Debate"

According to O'Dwyer's PR Services, a U.S. company that closely tracks the activity of PR/lobbying firms, as well as the fees paid to them, Burson-Marsteller played the leading role in the U.S. health care "debate" — the most lucrative PR and lobbying bonanza in history. O'Dwyer's editor Kevin McCauley says that during the years 1992 and 1993, "B-M earned $81.2 Million just on its health care PR billings" — at least three times more than its closest competitor, Hill & Knowlton. "B-M is a big outfit and they are by far the leaders in health care lobbying." xxxxxxxxxxxx

B-M has its own specialized unit called Burson-Marsteller Healthcare, which McCauley says provides clients with "consumer and professional marketing; issues/crisis management government relations; constituency relations; media training; media relations; media design; and advertising". On behalf of its numerous and powerful clients — which in 1993 included the Health Leadership Council (comprising more than 55 corporations with a stake in the health care industry) — B-M was central to blocking the populist push for a health care system modelled on Canada's.

As any Canadian viewer of U.S. TV will recall, much of the U.S. "debate" involved the trashing of Canada's health care system with scare-tactic stories about lengthy waiting times for emergency care, the inability of Canadians to choose our own doctors, the seeming unavailability of medical procedures like bone marrow transplants, and even the "illegality" of operations for Canadian seniors. Michael Rachlis, M.D., and Carol Kushner, Canadian authors of the 1994 book Strong Medicine say this tactic was meant "to keep Americans confused about public insurance" and note that "both the American Medical Association and the insurance industry have spent millions trying to discredit Canada's health care system since 1991."

On June 7, 1994, Fairness & Accuracy in Reporting (FAIR) took out a page in the New York Times to inform the public that the point-counterpoint duo appearing regularly on National Public Radio's "Morning Edition" to debate the health care issue were actually both paid lobbyists for the same side: Tom Downey, a lobbyist for Met Life, and Vin Weber, paid by the Alliance for Managed Competition, the "Big Five" insurers group that includes Met Life. FAIR suggested this was "just one more sign that commercial health interests have succeeded in subverting the biggest public policy debate in the last 50 years.

Now a similar, if more subtle, discrediting process is under way here, with Canadians as the target. The first steps are to undermine the public's confidence in the Canadian system, especially through deficit-mania, and to cause confusion. As Canadian health care activist and film-maker Laura Sky explains, "In the business world it's called 'the chaos theory of market restructuring. There is a value in creating chaos if you want to reorganize and capture a market, and in our case, the Canadian health-care system is being thrown into chaos so that private interests can step in and provide 'solutions'."

B-M is particularly skilled at what's called "media placement" — getting news items favourable to its client's interests into the media. Burson-Marsteller accurately claims to its prospective clients that it can "manage issues by influencing — in the right combination — public attitudes, public perceptions, public behaviour and public policy". It is that last item, public policy, that is crucial, especially with powerful groups like the C.D. Howe Institute leaning on the Liberals to cut federal health care spending entirely — a move that would undermine the Canada Health Act. According to Colleen Fuller of the Health Sciences Association of British Columbia, "The ability of U.S. health insurers to participate in the Canadian 'market' is totally dependent on the serious erosion or outright elimination of the Canada Health Act", which specifically excludes private, for-profit administration of health insurance. The erosion is already under way as the provinces, faced with steady cuts in federal transfer payments under two Tory governments, begin to de-list medical services previously covered by public insurance plans — a decision that Rachlis and Kushner say "could throw patients into the arms of the private insurance industry". The C.D. Howe Institute wants to hasten that process.

Chaos, and Howe

The C.D. Howe Institute linked up with the Trilateral Commission during the 1970's when Michel Belanger, one of the Institute's directors at the time while also serving as President of the Provincial Bank of Canada, joined the TC in 1976. Current Institute membership suggests that it is not a disinterested spectator in health care issues. TC member Marshall ("Mickey") Cohen, a member of the Institute's Executive Committee, has been vocal about the need for "taking away [Canadians'] old age pension and their Canadian Pension Plan, child credits, unemployment insurance and everything else". Cohen's Molson Industries' subsidiary, Diversey Corp., has already targeted the fast-growing private U.S. industry that provides contracted cleaning services to hospitals, in hopes of securing steady and large orders for Diversey cleaning and sanitation products.

Institute member Marc Lalonde, former federal minister of health, is on its Canada-America Committee. Lalonde is also Chair of Hotel-Dieu in Montreal and a director of Citibank, which is owned by Citicorp—the financial core of the Rockefeller empire. Citicorp has been a Burson-Marsteller client since 1991.

The Chair and Director of the C.D. Howe Institute is Adam Zimmerman, who is also a director of TD Bank, a Trustee for Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children, and since 1990, the Chair and a director for Confederation Life. Simon Reisman, Canada's free trade negotiator, is on the Executive Committee of the Institute and is President of Ottawa's Trade and Investment Advisory Group. Thomas E. Kierans, the President and CEO of the C.D. Howe Institute, is on the board of Manufacturers Life and, during the 1990's, has been "Special Policy Advisor" to the Ontario government.

In B.C., former Social Credit health minister Jim Nielsen has recently opened the province's first private MRI (magnetic resonance imagery) clinic, charging $595 to $1,000 per MRI scan to people who don't want to wait for an appointment at one of the province's four publicly run MRI clinics.

In ALBERTA, where Premier Ralph Klein has called for increased private enterprise in the health system, and has cut thousands of public-sector health care jobs, the private Gimbel clinics offer surgery covered by Medicare, but charge patients an extra "facility fee", such as the $1,000 fee for a cataract operation. The Reform Party has defended such private clinics and has questioned in the House of Commons whether or not the federal government, having eroded transfer payments, still has the authority to uphold the Canada Health Act. During the election campaign, the Reform Party was advised by PR pros from both Burson-Marsteller and Hill and Knowlton, the top PR firms in the world, who between them represent 103 private health care clients.

In 1992, the Ontario government, faced with shrinking health care budgets like the rest of the provinces, decreed that the province's 223 publicly funded hospitals must find ways to cut costs and become more "efficient" — pushing hospitals to merge, make radical changes in the way health care is delivered, or close. In May of 1994, the Metro Toronto District Health Council, a provincial government advisory body, appointed a nine-member committee to decide the fate of Metro Toronto's 44 hospitals — the largest hospital restructuring project in the world. The Hospital Restructuring Committee (HRC) is scheduled to release its interim report in January and its final report in June 1995.

Since the HRC will have tremendous influence over the future of Metro hospitals, as well as the future of thousands of health care workers, it is amazing how little media coverage has been given to this project — especially because the composition of the nine-member committee is controversial indeed.

The Hospital Restructuring Committee chairperson is Ed Crawford — Chairman of the Canada Life Assurance Co. , Director of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce (CIBC), and Trustee for Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children. HRC member Richard E. Lint is President and CEO of Citibank and a director of Skandia Canada Reinsurance Co. A subsidiary of B-M client Citicorp, Citibank, Canada's board members include Marc Lalonde and Radcliffe Latimer, Chair of Prudential.

A third member of the nine-member HRC is John C. Wilson, formerly of Ernst & Young and now a private consultant, who led the recent "restructuring" of Ontario Hydro that, since 1993, has resulted in nearly 12,000 job cuts at the Crown corporation. Given that Ontario Hydro was a Burson-Marsteller client in 1993, Wilson must have worked closely with B-M in the process now widely acknowledged as a major step towards privatization. Maurice Strong, head of Ontario Hydro, joined the Trilateral Commission in 1976. From 1990 to 1992, Strong worked closely with B-M in planning for gobal bussiness's involvement in the 1992 Rio Earth Summit.

HRC member Wilson is also the Founding Chairman of the Canadian Institute for Advanced Research (CAIR) — a think-tank funded by the federal and Ontario governments, as well as a handful of blue-chip corpor-ations such as Manufacturers Life, listed as a "primary benefactor of CAIR and the funding initiator of CAIR's Program in Population Health, which generously funds research fellowships ($1,000,000/year for 5 years) and scholarships ($50,000/year for 5 years) for 18 university CAIR scholars four of whom have been appointed to Chretien's National Forum on Health.

Since the Forum's mandate is to consult with experts across the country , we might consider what happened during a similar process for the Royal Commission on New Reproductive Technologies (1989-1993). In February 1992 the National Action Committee for the Status of Women went public with its finding that the Commission had contracted two Burson-Marsteller professionals to advise it on the biotechnology industry and on which interest groups to consult. B-M has its own Biotech-nology PR Unit to assist long-term clients like Sandoz and Genentech, as well as a host of pharmaceutical giants.

With private sector interests heavily involved in both the largest hospital restructuring project in the world and the four-year, $14 million National Forum on Health, public policy "reforms" are being proposed just in time for some new/old players on the health care scene.

It is also no coincidence that a significant number of hospital boards, especially in Toronto and Montreal, are peopled with Trilateralists: Marshall Cohen is on the Advisory Councils of Mount Sinai Hospital and the Baycrest Centre for Geriatric Care; Trevor Eyton is a director for Sunnybrook Medical Centre; L. Yves Fortier —whose law firm, Ogilvy Renault, played a key role in getting the controversial drug patent extension Bill C-91 passed

Insurance Coalition

Perhaps not surprisingly, Canada's insurance and banking sectors are filled with Canadian Trilateralists, as the sidebar indicates. Based on spring 1994 sources, the listings reveal TC presence in the financial sector just at the time behind-closed doors decisions were being made on whether or not to pull the plug on Confederation Life — the largest insurance company failure in North America.

While the mainstream business press was filled through the summer of 1994 with high drama and speculation about the impending fate of Confederation Life, especially a possible last-minute rescue of Confed led by (TC member) Paul Desmarais's Great West Life, no one bothered to inform the public that, since 1993, one of the directors of Desmarais's Power Financial Corps, has been Edward Ney — the U.S. head of Burson-Marsteller's parent company and B-M's international adviser.

Throughout Ney's tenure as U.S. Ambassador to Canada (1989-1992), the press neglected to identify Ney's connection to Burson-Marsteller, or, for that matter, the B-M connection between Ney and Gotlieb. Such silence was, of course, useful for the passage of NAFTA. Since 1993, a similar press silence has surrounded Ney's involvement in Power Financial Corps.

Kenneth Kidd's article "Life Preserver" for Report on Business (Oct.'94) informs us that Canada is "one of the most saturated insurance markets on the planet" with $1.3 trillion in life insurance already owned by Canadians. Kidd says, "Confed's collapse merely prefaces a massive shakeout in an industry plague by too many operators chasing too few customers."

Though Kidd doesn't say it, the answer to the dilemma is obvious: a two-pronged strategy that (a) decreases the number of operators, and (b) introduces what are euphemistically being called "new product lines in Canada". The first prong is already under way, with Canada Life, North American Life, Sun Life, Great-West Life and Manufacturers Life all feeding on the Confed corpse, but also making other purchases in the industry. But the biggest player is B-M client Metropolitan Life, which has announced agreement to acquire Allstate's personal life insurance line, Confed's group life and health business, and made a merger deal with The Travelers Inc. to create one of the largest health care HMO companies in North America, with 17,500 health care employees providing managed health care programs for 13 million people. In late November, Met Life announced an agreement to acquire the Canadian group life business of Travelers Insurance.

Thanks to the federal Tories, the 1992 Bank Act allows banks to buy insurance companies, so during the current feeding frenzy, the National Bank of Canada, CIBC, the Bank of Nova Scotia and the TD Bank are all buying up new insurance assets. The Bank Act is due to be revised in 1997 and the banks are hoping to get permission to sell insurance products too.

If that sounds as though some even bigger operators would then be "chasing too few customers", consider this: the private insurers and the banks together have their eye on the lucrative bonanza locked up in Canada's public health insurance system. As Colleen Fuller reminds us, Insurance companies, who call themselves avid free traders, have been active at all trade tables (the FTA, NAFTA and GATT), pushing hard for worldwide liberalized trade in financial services'." While the press typically treats them as competitors, the banks and the insurance companies are quietly cooperating to pry open that Canadian health care "oyster".

At the same time, the insurance companies have been lobbying, under the leadership of Great-West Life, to have taxpayer funding for their insurance fund, CompCorp. Calling for a "CDIC II", they want an extension of the "safety net" federally provided to banks through the Canadian Deposit Insurance Corporation (CDIC) which has yet to pay back the $4.5 billion borrowed from the federal government in 1991-92 to bail out the collapse of five of Canada's largest trust companies.

The Senate banking committee, which has refused to lay blame in the Confed collapse, on November 23 stopped short of recommending a federally financed "CDIC II" for the private insurance sector, but called for a system of "co-insurance" whereby customers would assume some of the loss when an insurance company fails. WINNIPEG deposit broker, Tom Rice called the Senate's report "an effort by an exclusive club to make the consumer the scapegoat". Moreover, by November the CDIC had already forwarded $665 million to the National Bank to repay Confederation Trust's insured depositors.

When that $5.1 billion handed over to the CDIC is added to the $40 billion in deferred taxes currently owed by corporations, it's clear just where the Chretien government might find the money it needs to reduce the deficit and even maintain federal transfer payments to the provinces. But such "political will" is unlikely.

As I write, the Prime Minister of Canada is off to China, flacking for a number of Trilaterally-connected B-M clients, including Northern Telecom. Then Chretien is off to visit another B-M client: the corrupt government of Indonesia. And when he returns, Chretien is scheduled to meet the new president of B-M's client since 1990, the Mexican government.

Who's running Canada?

It sure looks like it's Burson-Marsteller and the Trilateral Commission. If so, we can kiss our public health care system goodbye.

BRIAN MULRONEY'S GRAND CANAL

B.C. WATER LINKED TO N.W.O. FOOD CARTEL

Mitch Bronfman and Maurice Strong alleged key to Canada / USA water diversion

by John Kovacs

Just like in director Roman Polansky's film Chinatown (1974) our own experience is proving in Canada, like in Chinatown, nothing is as it seems. That's precisely the message anti-corruption / anti-treason crusader Glen Kealey is telling Victorians every Tuesday from the steps of the Legislature while distributing copies of "The Kealey Paper" (ed. with the exception of those days that he attends the Gustafsen Lake standoff trial). Glen Kealey is Canada's most tenacious crusader against NAFTA and the Canada / U.S.A. Free Trade Agreement. He is also our country's most vocal whistle-blower.

There are startling parallels in what Kealey alleges to be a hidden globalist agenda behind NAFTA and Free Trade and what movie villain Noah Cross did in Chinatown. The rich and powerful Cross caused mayhem as he exercised tyrannical control over the lives and destiny of southern Californians, through his greedy and illegal multi-million dollar land take-over and water diversion plot.

And that's where fiction meets reality. According to Kealey, Canada's own overlords are an elite group of international bankers and their co-conspirators. He calls these conspirators "free masons," (a term that derives it's meaning from ancient Egyptian times when slave stone-masons were offered freedom if they agreed to work against their own people for personal benefits). Kealey says today's free masons exist in the form of co-conspiring politicians (both native and non-native), "mandarins" (deputy ministers) and elite corporate leaders who have agreed to give their sponsors Canada's national wealth and sovereignty, including our natural resources and crown corporation assets.

Kealey says former Prime Minister of Canada, Brian Mulroney, left Ottawa knowing he could never again be re-elected. His free trade "sponsors" feared the numerous cases of corruption that surfaced during his tenure would make it impossible for Mulroney to get re-elected. Nevertheless, Mulroney received, on top of his prime minister's pension, millions of dollars worth of shares (arguably in return for services rendered while prime minister) from Peter Monk, chairman of Barrick Resources Inc. Barrick is a participant in the world's "gold cartel." Shortly thereafter, Mulroney was also hired on as Director of Archer, Daniels Midland (ADM), a vast European controlled player in the U.S. agri-food industry.

Significantly, ADM had just been targeted for an in-depth criminal investigation by the U.S. Justice Department. They were suspected of participating in a conspiracy designed to create a food cartel, to control the price and availability of all food grown in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico.

Strangely, of all people, Brian Mulroney was commissioned by ADM's chairman to look into these allegations and report back to their board on his findings.

An investigation by ADM's own corporate director on charges of unfair

PHOENIX AND THE NEW WORLD ORDER

by Glen EP Kealey

Many Canadians naively point an accusing finger at Americans in a manner reminiscent of the time of Moses, in 1250 BC, when the people of India were likewise mis-taken. India's natural resources were being pillaged by a foreign power and India's people were deceived as to the origin of the theft. They erroneously believed that the world's main slave-master still resided in Egypt.

In India then, as is the case in British Columbia today, the truth could not be spoken publicly due to the fear of government reprisals. However, one very wise parent decided to circumvent the world's original "free trade" controllers. He tried to explain to his family how world politics really function by designing a board game that could be played in private. This ancient game is called CHESS.

When the Indian father laid out the playing field, the chess board, he did it in a way to demonstrate that, in disagreements, there always must appear to exist clear divisions; one side being in favour, another is against. Also, it was understood that most wars or debates are disputed by individuals or groups who view themselves as being on the side of God. Likewise, adversaries usually equate their opponents to the devil.

Comment

Therefore, each side in CHESS was given a neutral colour; one white and the other black. As in politics, playing either colour is allowed. Clearly, under these rules, if leaders lack integrity — if the leaders of both sides are controlled by the same player — every game can be manipulated and the end result always predicted.

For the game of political illusion to function properly two publicly accountable leaders who in reality are cosmetic and powerless, must be positioned to head both teams. This explains why, in CHESS, the game revolves around the piece called KING. The King piece, like all monarchs or elected politicians, is kept in the dark; ostensibly for the sake of security. In real life, a triage or sorting of the information public leaders receive occurs prior to being viewed.

In CHESS, as in politics, the King piece is only allowed to move one square at a time. Obviously, due to these limitations, he has no real power to affect the final outcome of the game. If the "leader" is quick enough, or dumb enough, he can only delay the inevitable.

Real power within the game, as in politics, rests in the piece we call the QUEEN. This is a man dressed as a woman (Gay?) who moves almost at will anywhere across the board. The piece acts in a way similar to a real-life deputy minister; one who is unaccountable to the public but who none-the-less manages the "government game" by skillfully awarding or withholding all competition and price fixing is dubious at best. Especially since Mulroney is in court today defending himself (after hand-picking his own judge to prosecute his case) against the federal government and RCMP charges of taking kickbacks on the Air Canada/Airbus 320 deal while serving as prime minister. Kealey says Mulroney was central to laying the ground work for carrying out a "Global Governance Agenda" of forming a "world food cartel" (ed. it is based on land stolen from American Indians a hundred and some years ago) in the mid and southwestern United States.

Author Elaine Dewar in her recent book Cloak of Green (1995) says the Global Governance Agenda was envisioned by Nelson Rockefeller before World War II (ed. The Rockefeller family are agents for the European Rothschild banking family interests on the American continent). Global Governance also has links to the current regional trade agreements such as NAFTA and the Maastricht Treaty. The Maastricht Treaty is responsible for forming the European federation called the European Union, and Maastricht has created real regional level governance with a federation-wide currency and a federation-wide series of regulations on trade. Similarly, NAFTA places structural imperatives on the Canadian government, and it also rearranges powers to suit larger free trade agreements yet to come. Dewar explains the Global Governance Agenda as a push to integrate East and West, while shaping the U.N. itself to fit a "brave new unipolar" world.

In line with this elitist economic theology of consolidating power for Global Governance, there is a dirty little secret that lurks behind the Canada / U.S.A. and NAFTA Free Trade Agreements. That secret is a major water diversion and dam project called the GRAND Canal project (Great Recycling and Northern Development Canal). It's an unprecedented $196 billion plan to convert James Bay into a freshwater lake fed by northern Ontario and Quebec Rivers as well as connecting a massive network of dams and canals all the way to Lake Diefenbaker in Saskatchewan.

The GRAND Canal will connect to other planned water diversions in B.C., such as the North American Water and Alliance (NAWAPA) and the Central North American Water Project (CeNAWP) - which will divert water from the Fraser River basin (it includes the North Thompson River). The GRAND Canal will transport massive quantities of Canadian freshwater down to southwest United States and Mexico. Canadian atomic (ed. using Russian missile plutonium) and hydro electric energy will be used to warm and pump 67 billion cubic metres of water annually to the south through the Great Lakes system and beyond. Through new and existing networks of canals, water will be diverted to the midwestern U.S., to Saskatchewan in Canada and down to the southern states and into Mexico, to be used as a new source of irrigation and municipal freshwater supplies.

In fact, Kealey says, one of the main purposes for diverting water from Canada is to use it to create a giant food cartel managed from Colorado on the 57,760 hectare Baca Grande Ranch. The ranch was purchased by Maurice Strong, chairman of Ontario Hydro and secretary-general of the U.N. Conference on the Environment and Development for the 1992 Rio Summit (he was also named by former PM Brian Mulroney to the Privy Council of Canada, giving him the life-time title of "Honourable"). Strong and his partners bought the Baca Grande Ranch in 1978 after Strong purchased a major share interest in the agri-business conglomerate, AZL Resources (Arizona-Colorado Land and Cattle Company).

Strong's ranch happens to be on top of one of the world's largest underground reservoirs (and is 250 times bigger than British Columbia's Okanagan Lake). Strong and his partners are the largest landowners in the Baca Valley. The Baca Valley aquifer contains nearly three-quadrillion litres of water. Strong and his partners personally sit on top of 148,080,000,000 cubic metres (or 120,000,000 acre feet) of water worth an estimated $5,000 per 1,234 promotions and contracts (bribes and blackmail). The Queen never plays "his" own moves. He always plays his role in the game only on behalf of the HIDDEN HAND who pulls his strings.

The next two most important pieces in the game are KNIGHTS. Both were deemed to symbolize the advantages gained when applying just the right amount of physical violence (force). Knights, much like the military and organized crime, do not play the game by the same rules as do other pieces. They can jump over their enemies to attack them from the rear. This is contrary to the rules of fair play that govern the moves of other pieces in the game.

The next two pieces which the game's designer positioned on his CHESS board were BISHOPS. These pieces may only move sideways, diagonally, in any direction. They signify the power obtained by the player because of the existence of a controlled organized religion that functions in concert with a controlled national news media. By national media the CHESS game designer also meant all "public education" as well as both the book publishing and entertainment industries.

Their combined purpose is to prevent popular revolution; by deflecting citizen dissent. In a timely manner they demonize — to "manufacture hate". This hate, which they insist is only "public opinion", is then used against every detractor who dares expose the HIDDEN HAND that controls them both.

Then, he positioned both ROOKS. They are the solid fortresses constructed of, and by, masonry. Both serve to enforce the puppeteer's orders. These two pieces are, of course, synonymous with national governments and trans-national corporations. Both of these banker controlled corporate entities waste, or steal, each nation's resources. They do this consciously in order to perpetuate poverty.

The pain inflicted by poverty is then marketed by the national media. It is used to frighten the middle class. Because of this fear, ordinary people obey orders blindly and are easily controlled, controlled by welfare programs.

The remaining pieces the master designer of the game chose to position, dangerously, at the front of all the other more powerful pieces. They are the pawns. They outnumber any other piece. They are the cannon fodder who defend the elites with their lives. These are relatively inexpensive pieces who, because of naivete, greed, avarice or vanity, allow the secret HIDDEN HAND to use their lives in his game plan. Their own power usually lasts only as long as they suit his purpose.

To the HIDDEN HAND these lowly pawns are disposable. They are simple throw-aways. Such are his Khazars and free-Masons. Naively, both of these groups live with the illusion that they will always survive and prosper along with their master. However, if experience can teach us a lesson, as happened with Hitler's victims, they are destined to be sacrificed.

Next time, if all goes according to "THE BIG PLAN" these pawns will be annihilated in a third world war — in a nuclear holocaust that is presently being orchestrated. Armageddon is scheduled to begin in New York, followed by Rome and the Middle East. Although it will be blamed on Moslems, the perpetrator will be the HIDDEN HAND — PHOENIX.

Who are we?

We are the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity (CIPI), a non-profit organisation dedicated to bringing about a democratic and sovereign Canada. We believe this can only be done by exposing the corruption in our political system to such a degree that citizens will come to the conclusion that the system itself must be changed, and not in the usual way. What distinguishes us from other groups is not our analysis of what's wrong; it is the fact that we alone offer a solution that does not merely "patch over" the problem, but eliminates it from the ground up.

Crusaders for political integrity: Glen Kealey and Ann Kealey (formerly Shelley Ann Clark) risked it all—now it's your turn to stand up for Canada. Join the cross-country caravan to Parliament Hill and take part in the setting up of a democratic governing body.

Statement of purpose

will document the Assembly of Independent Canadians' cross-Canada caravan to create the basis for democracy. This paper will provide an alternative to the controlled media by presenting ideas and events Canada's media monopoly refuses to acknowledge. We will attempt to put this information in context, showing where it fits into the world order and what you can do. The Kealey Paper is also a forum for debate – on the merits and shortcomings of proposed solutions, on which groups and public figures are actually on the side of Canadians and which are merely puppets of the monied interests, and on how best to set up the new political vehicle to replace Canada's parliamentary system.

If you received this paper in the mail it means one of our volunteers thought you might be interested in this new entity and placed your name on our "one shot" database to receive this first issue free. If you want to stay on our mailing list, please send in the order form on the back cover.

TO DAM FRASER RIVER PLATEAU

cubic metres (or per acre foot). At this price the water would be worth more than $600 billion.

The planned diversion will take water from North Thompson River via canals built atop the former CNR rail bed, across B.C. and Alberta to Lake Diefenbaker, Saskatchewan. In 1995, British Columbia's NDP government passed a law to prohibit transfers of water between two river basins, such as the proposed "Multiwater" diversion project proposed for the transfer of North Thompson and Columbia Rivers. Kealey says the laws to prohibit water basin transfers were created as illusions for deflecting attention away from the feasibility of the GRAND Canal. The GRAND Canal scheme in fact calls for the damming of the Thompson and Fraser Rivers in order to back water up between them. In fact, B.C. provincial government law can't prohibit the GRAND Canal water diversion because the canal would contain water from only one river basin, the Fraser River basin. In addition to this, Canadian water that crosses provincial boundaries is regulated federally so any law passed provincially have no bearing. Also, the NAFTA and GATT agreements have created tribunals that disregard federal or regional laws anyway under sections defining goods and services, which give the right of control of all goods and services to private property owners and not government.

The trans-Canada GRAND Canal concept was conceived at least as early as 1960, following preliminary studies of the Fraser basin commissioned by "Wacky" Bennett in 1953 and 1958. In 1985 a company called the GRANDCo. was formed by an elite and wealthy group of Canadian and American private interests. At the time, media reports were generally skeptical of the GRAND Canal project, citing high environmental and political costs for implementing the scheme. Later, a study on the project was conducted by McMaster University economist Andrew Muller. The study panned the water diversion project for being uneconomical "under current market conditions". Muller concluded, however, that in order for the GRAND Canal to be economically viable, it would have to overcome a huge capital and operating expenditure — (ed. according to evidence testified to at the Kealey Section 507 Hearing in 1991, Mulroney made up the shortage by stealing the money — 5% kickback on all major Government contracts over nine years from Canadian taxpayers). He added the project proponents would also have to find a market for the expected 67 billion cubic metres of water diverted per year (the Fraser River basin component extends the original diversion scheme westward).

Kealey says the project plans were never abandoned, they simply faded into the background. And today, the present political and economic climate under NAFTA / Free Trade make the project viable. Kealey says plans are already underway for its go-ahead and is being assisted by politicians following an implementation scheme drafted out during former prime minister Brian Mulroney's reign. Kealey says the bargain basement discount sale of CNR for $2 billion dollars (about the same price as the now-privatized Air Canada paid in 1988 for the alleged Mulroney-kickback-scheme purchase of 32 AIRBUS model 320 jets - costing $1.8 billion) was actually the right-of-way sale for the project's canal road-bed. He says Prime Minister Jean Chretien sold Canada out by privatizing CNR for such an undervalued price (just like Brian Mulroney promised he himself would). Now, CNR trains are expected to share CPR tracks while water flows on the CNR road-bed. Kealey calls this privatization "GRAND theft - trains."

The water, according to leaked engineering documents, will stretch 970' across by 30' deep on pivotal-lined canals, with a capacity to hold 1,000 cubic metres of water. Kealey says the canals will likely be standing above ground on pylons. "What people don't realize from the engineering reports, is the canal will actually be more like a sidewalk of barges moving in both directions," says Kealey. Freshwater canals and floating barges containing everything Canadian resources may have to offer — lumber, oil, minerals and even refrigerated Alberta beef — all picked up along the route from BC to Saskatchewan to be dropped off en route within the United States and Mexico. Then, when the barges are emptied, Kealey says they'll be filled again with hospital garbage from Texas, Nevada and California. Some of the garbage will be nuclear waste shipped to the Meadow Lake Reserve in Saskatchewan, and then the remaining barges will be floated back to B.C. to fill the province's abandoned mine shafts. By coincidence (if one doesn't believe in conspiracy), the elected chiefs of the South Meadow Lake Reserve already say they are prepared to store nuclear waste on their land.

Kealey says there will be no industry for Canada. Instead, "Canadians are to become the hewers of wood and drawers of water and raw resources." Only American barges will be permitted on the canals, he says, and by further "coincidence" there is currently a proposal before the Canadian Competition Board to buyout the only Canadian barges on the Pacific coast. Kealey explains "it's the permits, not the floating stocks, they are after."

During a recent trip to Litton, B.C., Kealey learned that Hell's Gate canyon, a popular B.C. tourist sky tram ride attraction that was once owned by a German consortium is now fronted by Canadians. Kealey says the changes in Hell's Gate's "public owners" is an indication that international investment is moving ahead with the GRAND canal. His sources have told him there are five partners involved in the purchase, three are Canadian and two are German.

Kealey says Hell's Gate's location is strategic because it is possible to dam back the water all the way to Quesnel beyond Gustafsen Lake to create a major new reservoir on the Fraser plateau, which Kealey says is the real reason for our government spending $5.5 million on heavily-armed RCMP and army personnel (ed. a flagrant abuse of power if one goes by the evidence presented at trial), when they attacked 18 Defenders of the Shuswap Nation traditional Sundancers during last summer's B.C. standoff (ed. By "coincidence", the only Native leader who is still detained in jail is William Jones Ignace, an "open-pollinated" seed grower who, through his farming, circumvents the efforts of trans-national agri-business to control food by creating and distributing only hybrid seeds that do not themselves reproduce seed).

Also, when the canal is built, the water from the North Thompson River will flow backwards on the CNR road-bed up to Jasper, Alberta. The present line goes past the Lubicon Reserve where the Lubicon Native Band is currently fighting to prevent the cutting of 11,000 trees a day. Kealey says this type of canal can all be easily achieved through some relatively simple construction methods, and of course, with the use of atomic power.

In terms of legal issues, the FTA and NAFTA agreements have already set out some clear rules for participating countries not to restrict export trade of any "goods" or "services." The current assurances given by Canadian politicians that our water is protected under Canadian federal or provincial laws are, in Kealey's opinion, complete fabrications designed to mislead the population. Kealey also says these laws cannot be enforced because — a) these trade pacts protect only "free flowing" waters and — b) international treaties supersede all national or regional laws. Kealey scrupulously points out that water behind dams and in reservoirs is not free flowing, therefore, the GRAND Canal plan will convert a huge portion of Canada's free flowing water into giant water gutters that will move water through canals down to the United States.

The other factor which has made the GRAND canal project more attractive since the Muller study is the increase in demand for freshwater, especially in California. Muller explains the values for freshwater in southwestern United States in 1988 were as high as $69 per thousand cubic metres. Muller found this was not enough to sustain the GRAND canal project with its huge capital costs. However, Muller also concluded if between $100 to $200 per thousand cubic metres could be garnered from selling water to users, then that would be enough to take this project more seriously.

Kealey says, after the study was completed the GRAND canal never actually died, it merely became part of a secret agenda behind FTA and NAFTA. Kealey says the GRAND canal just went out of the public eye and into the background. He says the proponents were secure in the knowledge that American demand for water would soon bring prices up to make their project hugely profitable..

Kealey is right. The value and scarcity of water in southwestern United States have driven prices up beyond earlier forecasted expectations. The higher prices are confirmed by a similar scheme for interbasin water transfer proposed by Multinational Water and Power Inc. and KVA Resources Inc. out of Vancouver. This project proposes to divert the Thompson River in BC through pipelines and canals to southwest U.S. The executive summary indicates huge profits of $600 million will be made after project costs (without paying regard to environmental or political costs for Canada, of course). The summary also gives projections for a 1992 market paying about $1,000 per acre foot of water. However, by the year 2,000 they expect to be able to charge $3,000 per acre foot of water.

In a telephone interview with GRAND Canal Company President and CEO Tom Kierans, he defends his project by saying it has been greatly misunderstood by "so-called" environmental and nationalist concerns. Kierans says that by damming James Bay, this will increase Canada's freshwater supply by 1 per cent because the GRAND canal will "recycle wasted" freshwater flowing out to Hudson Bay. He also says the project will "re-salinate a biologically unproductive Hudson Bay to create a lucrative salt water Canadian fishery, while extending navigation to 4 or 5 months a year." Kierans is confident the GRAND canal project will be realized and is only a matter of waiting for the correct market conditions. "With public demand it has to happen because we need fisheries."

Kierans adds, the real threat to Canada's sovereignty is (ed. European banker-controlled, Fortune 500, U.S.A. head-quartered) corporations claiming prescriptive rights to Canadian freshwater. He says it will be far worse for Canada not to supply the U.S. with our freshwater "because they'll find a way of antagonizing us to get our water anyway." Kierans denies any connection between the GRAND canal and NAFTA / FTA trade agreements. But Kierans does agree some of the pivotal-lined canals will be built large enough to accommodate the movement of floating barges and some other additional uses. "The canals that need to be, will be large enough for barges and there will likely be some recreation use too", Kierans says.

"But the barges are only secondary, they will come later sometime in the next century."

In Prince George, New Caledonia College instructor Jim Windsor (who is writing his dissertation on the topic of water diversion) expects it would take the GRAND Canal Company (also known as GRANDCo.) about four or five years to convert James Bay into a freshwater Lake with the planned 160km dam. He says the plan originally was to reverse the flow up the Harricana River to Georgian Bay.

Windsor explains that once Kierans is in possession of the water, it will be relatively easy to know exactly how much water flows into Georgian Bay (ed. where Mitch Bronfman acquired the land in 1966) and the Great Lakes system. "So Kierans stands to make an immense amount of money from the privately-owned freshwater."

Windsor says an American water diversion project on Lake Michigan, called the Chicago Sanitary and Ship Canal, has diverted water for sewage and barge navigation since it was built in 1848. Recently though, there have been American proposals to enlarge this canal by claiming a "Chicago diversion wildcard.". They argue Lake Michigan is inside the American border and is, therefore, outside the International Joint Commission jurisdiction on boundary water. They further argue the IJC (1909) resulted in a boundary water treaty that doesn't apply to the Chicago diversion because the canal pre-dates that agreement.

Windsor says there are some Americans who think the Chicago diversion route could become a means to bolster the Mississippi River flows in times of low flow. When a 1988 drought struck in the Midwest, it left many barges containing petroleum or oil run aground in the Mississippi. Windsor says that's when all hell broke loose and several senators wrote to former president Ronald Reagan to demand the increase of water flows through the Chicago diversion — which was directly against Canada's competing interests for hydro electric power use from the Great Lakes system. Canada's major concern, however, was the legal precedent of having the American's unilaterally diverting water out of the Great Lakes system.

Windsor says the U.S. senators wrote in their correspondence that enlarging the Chicago water diversion was something the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers could have done. Canadian critics said that enlarging the Chicago diversion was just grasping at straws because the rescue work could not have been done in time to re-float the stranded barges anyway. The Canadian position maintained once a bigger diversion was started, the impetus would be to complete the construction; therefore, Canada would be facing a much larger diversion and potential loss of more water from the Great Lakes system.

Windsor says in the southwestern states, the Ogallala state water system pumps a greater amount of water annually than the Colorado River. But over the years, the Ogallala Aquifer has experienced a surface drop of between 50 and 300 feet in some Texas locations. Windsor says the [illegible] political pressure in the States to see if something can be done to replenish the Ogallala Aquifer by drawing more water out of Lake Michigan using the Mississippi River (through an enlarged Chicago diversion). But the Chicago diversion is "grandfathered" and restricts the Army Corp of Engineers from pumping more water out of Lake Michigan than it can replenish. However, if circumstances changed so the Chicago diversion were to be opened up into a larger canal, Windsor says some American's would argue, "Well gosh, we've got more water anyway, we'll use it downstream to replenish the Ogallala Aquifer."

Ironically, one of the authors of the letter was then-senator and now U.S. Vice President Al Gore, who is considered in the States to be the "green" vice president.

But to those people who oppose large-scale diversions, they are against treating river valleys like large plumbing networks. They reject that enlarging the Chicago diversion is merely a technical argument.

Windsor says that in 1985, Kierans received $30,000 from the Newfoundland regional office of the National Research Council under Brian Mulroney's government. The money was used by GRANDCo for publications and public relations. At the time, the original GRANDCo directors included Robert Bourassa, former premier of Quebec (but is no longer a director) and another well-known supporter was former federal Finance Department mandarin Simon Reisman (Canada's Ambassador to the 1986-88 Canada-U.S.A. Free Trade negotiations and Chief Negotiator). Reisman actually went before the New York Board of Trade to lobby for the GRANDCo canal project.

As well, Windsor disputes Kierans' claim the GRAND canal project is merely "recycling" water. Kierans argues he'll be taking only 20 per cent of the flow and 80 per cent still goes to Hudson Bay, moving the 20 per cent up the Harricana River and eventually up to the Great Lakes. He says estuaries and ecological systems suffer greatly when freshwater inflows are interrupted. "The productivity of estuaries are dependent on freshwater inflows."

Windsor says if rational thought should prevail, the GRAND canal would have no chance of being approved. But Windsor is quick to remind you not to bet the farm on rational action in Canadian water activity. He says Canada is already the single largest water diverter in the world (even more than Russia and the United States combined) with an annual diversion rate of 4,400 cubic metres per second, and most of Canada's diversions are for hydro electric power.

Even though Canada's motivations may be different than the U.S., we are none-the-less the world's greatest diverter. Windsor says the question of whether Canada has a surplus globally of freshwater is also the point of some controversy. He says a true measure of our water resource is to measure our "flowing" water. On that basis, he says Canada has approximately nine per cent of the world's flowing water. That is equal to 105,000 cubic metres per second (Canada's land area is about 7 per cent of the land surface of the planet — so comparing water with land it is not too far off, but if you compare Canada having 1/2 of one per cent of the world's population it sounds like a lot of water, but at the same time that assumes the only function of water is to serve people. Windsor says based on these opposing views, Canada's water supply is actually a major source of controversy and acrimony. It may seem like Canada has a huge chunk of water — but alternatively, the flow of the Amazon River is 150,000 cubic metres per second. Windsor says this means Canada's flow of all freshwater is actually equal to two-thirds of the Amazon River. People must ask themselves if that qualifies as a surplus?

Windsor also questions whether there is a need for water to be diverted to the U.S.? He says most people in Canada would say an emphatic NO! But what's interesting is the U.S. is only marginally smaller than Canada and has only slightly less water flow than Canada, but their water is mostly in Alaska. He explains there is actually more stream flow in B.C. than in the western two-thirds of the U.S., from the Mississippi to the Pacific Coast. Despite this difference Windsor says there is enough water in the Western United States already — if it were properly priced.

Windsor says water can be re-allocated from agriculture to municipalities, where there are shortages of available water, if there is political will to do so. The trouble is, in U.S. politics it is always easier to bring in new water through diversion.

"There's vested interest in this from big political contributors or corporations," Windsor says. He also says "there's not a shortage (of water) in an absolute sense but there's a shortage in municipal water use."

Windsor agrees there's still concern that NAFTA and Free Trade obliges Canada to export water. He says Bill C-156, called the Canadian Water Preservation Act, stated when introduced in August 1988 that Canada's water was not for sale. However, the fact that Bill C-156 was even necessary is evidence it is a concern here. Furthermore, Windsor concurs the act is irrelevant anyway because international trading agreements override domestic legislation. And finally, he says the ACT never passed — IT "died on the order paper" with the calling of the federal election in November 1988.

Does Canada have a moral obligation then to export water, given we have global warming and water shortages in Phoenix, Arizona, Los Angeles, California, and now in Texas (which is currently going through the worst drought in 60 years)? And if Canada does export water — is this export interruptible? In other words, once we turn the tap on — can Canada unilaterally decide to turn it off? In this regard, Windsor draws on an article by Victoria writer, R.C. Bocking, [Canadian Water: a Commodity for Export? Canada's Aquatic Resources, (1987)] quoting an anonymous American. Windsor paraphrasing says, "Canada will begin exporting water to the U.S. with a treaty, but if it wants to turn the tap off it will have to deal with the marines."

Windsor says it will also be difficult for Canada's elite to say no to billions — perhaps trillions — of dollars in water export revenues per year when there exists a perception of economic difficulty. He says this is the U.S.'s (ed. European bankers) ace up their sleeve. The prospect of huge revenues appeals to others as we move out of an era of environmental determinism to one of economic determinism.

"I don't accept this," Windsor says, "because I believe nothing is inevitable unless you want it to be."

GLEN KEALEY UPDATE

Glen Kealey is scheduled to arrive in Ottawa on Tuesday, August 13, 1996 to assist at the trial of the Red Cross vs Andrew Hardy. (See Issue 2 of "The Kealey Paper" for details).

At the conclusion of the Hardy case, Glen will be returning to Surrey to resume coverage of the ongoing activity in the "Kangaroo" court.

WHO'S BEHIND THE GRAND

GRANDCo has a long list of elite Canadian and American directors who are politically connected with world power and our own Canadian establishment. For example, the GRANDCo Chair, L. Desmarais (the middle initial of either Paul Jr. or Andre?) is one of two sons of Paul Desmarais - the richest French Canadian in the world today and Chair of Power Corporation. In 1981, son, Andre Desmarais, the CEO of Power Corporation (which also owns Consolidated Bathurst, the multi-national paper company) married Prime Minister Jean Chretien's daughter France, in a wedding that matched Power with power. The Desmarais group controls 69 corporations in Canada including Power Corporation of Canada. Power's former executive and vice president was John Rae (was was also Prime Minister Jean Chretien's campaign manager / Liberal fund raiser and is now working for the Desmarais group). Rae is the brother of former Ontario NDP premier Bob Rae.

Other Power executives include Senator Michael Pitfield, former Trudeau confidant and William Simon former U.S. treasury secretary. Canadian Finance Minister Paul Martin, Jr. formerly worked for Maurice Strong at Power Corporation, and he is still associated with the corporation. Paul Martin Jr. also has 4.5 per cent interest in a company Baca Petroleum Corporation, a Denver Company, controlled by Maurice Strong. Baca Petroleum Corporation is now managed by Strong's son which is a subsidiary of Baca Resources Ltd. Power Corporation has a $152 million treasury, built mostly from selling utilities to the B.C. government. The Desmarais family controls $15.8 billion shares of media, oil, financial and forestry empires. Power Financial Group, a holding company controls Montreal Trustco Inc., Credit Foncier, Investors Group as well as the Great-West Life Assurance Co. and Consolidated Bathurst Inc. — which includes the laser pioneer company Lumonics, oil and gas producer Sulpetro Ltd., and aluminum and bottling corporation C.B. Pack. The Desmarais group also owns La Presse, the business journal Les Journaux and has an ongoing partnership with CBC Newsworld International.

Other GRANDCo directors include: Tom W. Kierans, its president and chief executive officer, and GRAND canal's planning engineer. Kierans is also the cousin of Canadian "nationalist" Liberal Eric Kierans, the former Quebec Cabinet Minister in the Lesage government. Tom Kierans is also an independent director of Southam Inc., which owns 20 daily newspapers across Canada. Kierans is currently under attack to resign him from Southam Inc's board of directors by media mogul Conrad Black, owner of Hollinger Inc., which recently bought out Power Corp's shares of Southam Inc. — making Black, Canada's dominant publisher, with 58 of Canada's 104 daily papers. He controls all mainstream newspapers that reach the people of Saskatchewan where the GRAND Canal is to be diverted south.

Next on the board of directors is Mr. D. Cote, now retired from the UMA Group, Vancouver. Mr. C. Dagenais, of the the SNC Group, Montreal (the biggest engineering firm in Quebec today). SNC was used by the federal government as a front for a semi-private intelligence and influence network, ostensibly created for curtailing Quebec's separatist support in French Africa during the 1960's. SNC's president Garneau is a former Minister of Finance in Quebec. The firm today is merged with Lavalin, who are Brian Mulroney's buddies in the engineering field; Mr. R. Paul, Bechtel Canada Ltd., Vancouver (All the U.S. administration big shots get trained here at the largest engineering firm in the world, and their alumni include U.S. secretary George Schultz and former U.S. secretary of defence Robert McNamara, also former head of World Bank. The military and foreign affairs big shots come out of there too). Dr. G. Pon, Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., Ottawa (Atomic Energy's job will be to supply electricity for pumping water in the canals and keep it warm during winter months); Mr. R. Warren, Rousseau Sauve, Warren Inc., Montreal; Mr. H. Snyder, VP, St. John's; Mr. D. Harris, Secretary and Comptroller, St. John's.

GUSTAFSON LAKE B.C. NATIVE S

BABYFACE JUDGE IS J

JUDGE, NATIONAL MEDIA AND RCMP CO

by Glen EP Kealey

You may be reading the best kept secret of 1996. If the truth is ever told about the testimony given under oath in a Surrey, B.C. courtroom, at the Gustafson Lake Standoff Trial, it will be because you and other people like you care enough about this land of ours to tell your neighbours these truths.

Judge Josephson, still babyfaced at the age of 50 even though he was appointed some 20 years ago, runs the show. He was only 31, the youngest judge in B.C., when he was "sponsored" to the bench during the Trudeau years. Today his lifetime debt is being called in and he is delivering for his masters — BIG TIME.

Whenever the Shuswap Defenders of the Land remind Josephson that Canada's obligations to Natives are protected under "our" constitution he shuts them down. He doesn't want to know. When Sheilagh Franklin, a white defendant, a non-lawyer defending herself, asked a witness (a member of the RCMP), if he knew of Canada's constitution, the Judge quickly interrupted with "If he does I would not hear him".

When the judge is asked by defense lawyers to remind the Crown about the obligation they have under the law, to disclose all relevant material to the accused in a timely fashion, he babbles his refusal by mouthing something that he alone believes. Everyone else in the courtroom knows better. The judge is obviously earning his appointment to the bench by covering up evidence of the "abuse of power" and subsequent "abuse of process" that began last summer — abuses which are now apparent to the entire jury and to anyone else who care enough to sit and listen to the developing, explosive, testimony.

When the Judge is asked to justify his reasons for detaining William Jones Ignace in jail without the possibility of bail he twists and turns in his seat, his face turns beet red and he mumbles something about there being no change in the original circumstances which led to his incarceration. The judge lies.

THE JUDGE

The two Crowns appointed to prosecute this case were made for TV. The pair, Lance Bernard and and his sidekick Ms. Faucus (believe me, it's her real name) are the Ken and Barbie dolls of the court. Faucus models her hair and dress on Marcia Clark of O.J. Simpson fame. Lance is so tight-assed you can tell he has never been in jail.

These two Crowns are running a different prosecution from any I have seen before. On the one hand, they are obviously covering up for the higher ups — within the RCMP, the military, and for the mandarins and politicians in federal and provincial government who support a developing New World Order.

On the other hand, they are openly exposing the RCMP's "Modus Operandi", the secret methods of police investigation. They also disclose the names of undercover police agents, thereby exposing them to life-threatening danger. The lawyers even dealt with the secret responsibilities of police undercover covermen. They are the go-betweens, between the police and their secret informants. They also explained how the police "generate" telephone conversation between suspects, by showing them evidence or by lying to them. Because the telephone lines are tapped they can then record the ensuing conversation.

To many in the public gallery, the Crown seems to be blowing this case on purpose. At times, one wonders if they are, in fact, prosecuting the case, or rather, if they are presenting the case for the defense in order to manage it in accordance to some secret agenda expected to pop-up at a later point in time. In fact, what they are doing is preparing for the day when they will have to justify to the public their announcement to the jury that "they have no case".

The prosecutors introduced the defendants video, "Defenders of the Land", to the jury. It goes a long way in establishing the accused's "mens rea", (state of mind), prior to the standoff. The video proves, beyond a shadow of a doubt to the jury, just how the defenders were told that the land in question was stolen by the government from the Shuswap people. The incriminating words are spoken on the video tape by a serving member of the RCMP, and again, by a white lawyer who, to date, is a member in good standing of the Law Society of Upper Canada.

No juror can honestly convict the defenders with any of the charges that have been brought against them with the evidence that is being brought before the jury. It is obvious that these Natives acted in self-defense. They were fighting for their lives due to the abuse of power; a predictable result of systemic criminal activity by politicians and their enforcers, the police.

Reporters for the National Media showed their true colours as early on as the second day of the trial as their role was made clear. They were acting more like clerks working for the Crown than investigative reporters. Their actions resembled that of Olympic hurdlers. At first, they sat in the courtroom, in order to report faithfully every word the prosecutors had to say. However they remained vigilant, ready to leap out of their seats and leave the courtroom whenever the defense had the floor. Obviously, if they were to sit through the cross examination of the Crown's witnesses they would then be in position to report the truth to their audiences; truth which this time, is being determined by a jury and only from testimony given by witnesses who are under oath.

Because the national media lied to Canadians during the standoff last summer, about who in fact, was orchestrating the violence at Gustafson Lake, they are now doubly burdened with evidence being heard to the contrary. To simplify matters, instead of reporting the testimony, they leave the room.

During the trial, when the police lie under oath, few in the national media are present to report the evasiveness that is apparent. When they do, their reports are laundered by their editors and headlines are added to mislead an unsuspecting public. Selective reporting of the facts is not something new for our controlled media. One reporter who services the CBC nationally once explained their position to me by stating the following: "It's a long life Glen. I have a mortgage and kids I want to send to college. My wife's family own a large home in Quebec City and when Quebec separates from Canada, we'll make lots of money selling it to foreigners for use as an embassy".

After the first week of trial only one reporter, from the Vancouver Sun, attended regularly. After the second week, even he stopped coming — but not before he described the trial in print as "an expensive ho-hum, costing taxpayers $50,000 a day".

The Gustafson Lake Standoff trial, like all other issues that are important to traditional Natives, is being placed on the back-burner by the controlled media in British Columbia. Apparently, nothing can be allowed to come in the way of signing an initial Nisga'a land claims agreement, between the Provincial government and the federal civil servants who currently pose as First Nations Chiefs in Canada.

THE MEDIA

S/Sgt. Sarich the officer in charge of 100 Mile House Detachment of the RCMP wrote in his notes, in the spring of 1995, that the Sundancers were not bothering anyone and that the Sundance ceremony did not impede the operation of the James Cattle Co.

Lyle James refused to follow instructions from his own lawyer. James was told that because this was a civil case, he should get a court order prior to making any attempt at evicting the Sundancers. However James, a multi-millionaire, stated he would not spend $30,000, (the cost of getting a survey), to confirm the physical location and his rights to lot 114. Evidence that lot 114 is in fact located elsewhere has been entered as evidence by George Wool, former mountie and lawyer for the Defense.

S/Sgt. Sarich admits (in documents filed with the court) that a lawyer who represents the force stated "It was his view that an Injunction should be obtained by the land owner and if same was disobeyed then an Enforcement Order could be issued." This sound legal advice was also disregarded.

Instead, S/Sgt. Sarich wrote to his superiors, "On August 19th WE ORCHESTRATED a joint media conference featuring speakers from DFO (Forests and Oceans), RCMP , Cariboo Tribal Council and Lyle James himself. The objective of this conference was two-fold. First, to WARN THE PUBLIC of the presence of this RADICAL group and their WEAPONS and second, to SET THE STAGE FOR A DIRECT POLICE RESPONSE." The RCMP also "ASSISTED" the Tribal Council write their press release which supported the actions of the police.

All Native police officers were removed from any possibility of direct contact with the Sundancers. Each of these officers had earlier stated the matter should be resolved by negotiations or by a civil lawsuit. They repeated their views in testimony before the court. In their place, heavily armed police dressed in camouflage were inserted, covertly, in an obvious attempt to instigate a violent response from the Sundancers.

The military was called in once a single shot was fired by a person unknown. The shot was in the vicinity of the masked police, dressed in camouflage, who were sneaking up on the Sundancers in the early hours of the morning. Two other violent provocations followed — the SUBURBAN VEHICLE AFFAIR followed by the BLOWING UP of the Native Sundancers RED TRUCK. The only question remaining for this jury is: Were these two events also ORCHESTRATED by the RCMP?

BABYFACE JUDGE IS JUST A PAWN

JUDGE, NATIONAL MEDIA AND RCMP COVER UP EVIDENCE

AIC
Assembly of Independent Canadians

by Glen EP Kealey

You may be reading the best kept secret of 1996. If the truth is ever told about the testimony given under oath in a Surrey, B.C. courtroom, at the Gustafson Lake Standoff Trial, it will be because you and other people like you care enough about this land of ours to tell your neighbours these truths.

Judge Josephson, still babyfaced at the age of 50 even though he was appointed some 20 years ago, runs the show. He was only 31, the youngest judge in B.C., when he was "sponsored" to the bench during the Trudeau years. Today his lifetime debt is being called in and he is delivering for his masters — BIG TIME.

Whenever the Shuswap Defenders of the Land remind Josephson that Canada's obligations to Natives are protected under "our" constitution he shuts them down. He doesn't want to know. When Sheilagh Franklin, a white defendant, a non-lawyer defending herself, asked a witness (a member of the RCMP), if he knew of Canada's constitution, the Judge quickly interrupted with "If he does I would not hear him".

When the judge is asked by defense lawyers to remind the Crown about the obligation they have under the law, to disclose all relevant material to the accused in a timely fashion, he babbles his refusal by mouthing something that he alone believes. Everyone else in the courtroom knows better. The judge is obviously earning his appointment to the bench by covering up evidence of the "abuse of power" and subsequent abuse of process" that began last summer — abuses which are now apparent to the entire jury and to anyone else who care enough to sit and listen to the developing, explosive, testimony.

When the Judge is asked to justify his reasons for detaining William Jones Ignace in jail without the possibility of bail he twists and turns in his seat, his face turns beet red and he mumbles something about there being no change in the original circumstances which led to his incarceration. The judge lies.

THE JUDGE

The two Crowns appointed to prosecute this case were made for TV. The pair, Lance Bernard and and his sidekick Ms. Faucus (believe me, it's her real name) are the Ken and Barbie dolls of the court. Faucus models her hair and dress on Marcia Clark of O.J. Simpson fame. Lance is so tight-assed you can tell he has never been in jail.

These two Crowns are running a different prosecution from any I have seen before. On the one hand, they are obviously covering up for the higher ups — within the RCMP, the military, and for the mandarins and politicians in federal and provincial government who support a developing New World Order.

On the other hand, they are openly exposing the RCMP's "Modus Operandi", the secret methods of police investigation. They also disclose the names of undercover police agents, thereby exposing them to life-threatening danger. The lawyers even dealt with the secret responsibilities of police undercover covermen. They are the go-betweens, between the police and their secret informants. They also explained how the police "generate" telephone conversation between suspects, by showing them evidence or by lying to them. Because the telephone lines are tapped they can then record the ensuing conversation.

To many in the public gallery, the Crown seems to be blowing this case on purpose. At times, one wonders if they are, in fact, prosecuting the case, or rather, if they are presenting the case for the defense in order to manage it in accordance to some secret agenda expected to pop-up at a later point in time. In fact, what they are doing is preparing for the day when they will have to justify to the public their announcement to the jury that "they have no case".

They are protected from prosecution by the courts, by their superiors and if needed, by the RCMP/PCC, the RCMP Public Complaints Commission. Other recent CIPI (Canadian Institute for Political Integrity) cases have proven that the Police Complaints Commission is used for "political cover-up" at another level.

During the standoff the police shot a total of 1200 hours of video tape, approximately 40 hours a day throughout the night when they were pro-active in their attempts at generating a violent response to their increasingly confrontational approach. Yet, they refuse to release these tapes to the defense. The video tapes could prove conclusively the defenders contention, which is, that they only reacted to violence in self defense.

Two Native members of the RCMP with close to 40 years of service between them testified to the fact that the rancher Lyle James instigated the problem by serving an "illegal" eviction notice. James refused to get a Court Order because it would be "too expensive" to obtain the required legal survey for the lot in question. Instead, he went ahead and made one up. James claimed that getting a legal survey for the lot (# 114), would cost him $20-30,000. The police eviction cost taxpayers $5.5 million. The trial will match that or more.

When the RCMP were pressured by B.C. Reform Party's Peter Epp, acting on behalf of his leader Jack Weisgerber, to deal with it the police went in search of Lyle James the rancher. James claimed he was in hospital at Williams Lake, due to exhaustion. However, when the police visited his hospital room James was not there. The question remains — where was he? It is suspected that he was in secret meetings with politicians and the Cattlemen's Association. At the time, the NDP's Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries was none other than David Zirnhelt, rancher, friend and neighbour of Lyle James, in the Williams Lake region of British Columbia.

THE EVIDENCE

GOVERNMENT REPORT CLEARLY STATES

FIRST NATIONS "ELECTED" CHIEFS ARE JUST FEDERAL CIVIL SERVANTS

On October 12 1983, following the repatriation of Canada's constitution from England, Chairman Keith Penner presented his Commission's report on Indian Self-Government to the Parliament of Canada.

In his report Chairman Penner explains clearly the role of Indian Chiefs under the Indian Act. He states:

The first consolidated Indian Act was passed in 1876; the Act was last amended over thirty years ago. It contains some anomalies and inadequacies.

Among the criticisms of the Indian Act is its failure to recognize the diversity of Indian peoples. The Act treats Indians as a homogeneous group without taking into account variations in culture, language, resources, size and location of communities. The absence of flexibility has also been perceived as a mens of assimilation.

Serious objections were also registered with respect to the relationship between Indian band councils and the Department. Band councils exercise delegated powers. In fact, they are viewed for the most part as extensions of DIAND. Even the Department states that "band governments are more the administrative arms of the Department of Indian Affairs than they are governments accountable to band members".

Penner goes on to say:

Departmental control of Indian activities has been a consistent element of Indian life. In the past, an Indian agent representing the Department at the local level had control over virtually all aspects of life, even to the point of issuing passes to allow Indians to leave the reserve temporarily. While the Indian agent has disappeared, the Department still exercises considerable control, particularly over band governments.

Penner described the council's role as "administrator of government policy":

Under the current system of band government, the chiefs and council are so restricted in providing the three basic functions of government that it can hardly be called government at all, but more properly the administration of federal policy at a local level. Under the current Act the council can regulate little, except weeds and dogs on the reserves, without the blessing first of the Minister and his administrative arm.

The council's role in representation of the people's wishes is, for the most part, ignored by both senior levels of government. All too often band governments must resort to confrontation, to media events, to expensive lobbying just to get heard.

Penner thereby concludes:

Stripped of the authority to operate the fundamental functions of government, current Band governments are little more than factotums* of federal control. (Quesnel Community Law Centre, Special 20: 168-169)

Webster's dictionary explains factotum as a noun describing someone used in a household, small business etc. for jobs of many kinds.

The Law lost

the battle of Gustafson Lake

The moral integrity of a state is determined by how its police and military respond to civil discord. Self-styled "democracies" howl with righteous indignation when so-called banana republics or tin-pot dictatorships call out the army to put down citizens who have reached the outer limit of cringing under tyranny. Rightly so. The military, in every land, must be under tight government control. And that principle must be jealously and constantly guarded. Soldiers cannot run amok. And, most importantly, they must not be seen, or even perceived, to do so.

That is why a shock wave is reverberating in the Indian community since we saw the stark image of four armoured personnel carriers rumbling towards Gustafson Lake. They didn't come out of the blue. They came out of the black. The blackness of night. And the blackness of the shame of a total lack of civilian government authorization. The immediate shame — and the international disgrace soon to come — lands squarely in the lap of B.C. Attorney General Ujal Dosanjh and Government of Canada Solicitor General Herb Gray. Their moral authority is shot.

This great shame lands even heavier on the editorial boards of our province-wide daily newspapers. They too were disgracefully silent as the army moved in on civilians without Parliamentary debate or even a cabinet decree. The last time the army moved in on B.C. Indians was in 1864. At least back then the colonial government had the decency to authorize the invasion. But in 1995 we gather that a RCMP sergeant called in the army. He did so because his political bosses gave him full authority to make political policy and take control of the army.

PierreTrudeau did not cop out back in 1968 when he invoked the War Measures Act to unleash the army on the "terrorist" FLQ in Quebec. But his latter day pale clone Prime Minister Jean Chretien did when he hid in silence in Ottawa. Armies and police forces off the civilian leash are the international definition of terrorists. Just ask the people of El Salvador, Chile, Cambodia, Bosnia, South Africa, Haiti — and now Canada.

GUSTAFSON LAKE TRADITIONAL NATIVE STANDOFF

LEGAL AND HISTORICAL BACKGROUND

1704 - Queen Anne sets up a special Constitutional court at the request of the Mohegan Indians to mediate in their dispute with the colony of Connecticut. The Defenders are asking for the same kind of impartial third party tribunal for the same reasons: a court with colonial interests can't be seen to be impartial.

1759 - Great Britain set up alliance with Native Nations in order to win war with New France.

1763 - After Great Britain's victory, the Native allies demand that the British remove their forts from Native lands. When Britain refused, Ottawa Chief Pontiac formed a Confederacy which proceeded to burn all the forts to the ground. The Colonies advise the King to accommodate the Indian Nations before any others decide to join with Pontiac so King George III puts forth the Royal Proclamation on October 7, 1763. The Royal Proclamation vowed to protect unceded (unsurrendered) Indian territories from encroachment by Crown subjects.

1867 - Constitution Act validates Proclamation of 1763.

1871 - B.C. joins Confederation without consulting any of the Native Nations. Abiding by the Proclamation, B.C.'s first Governor, James Douglas signs 14 treaties with the Native Nations on the southwest side of Vancouver Island. Joseph Trutch, Lands and Surveyors Commissioner reduces Native territories to a fraction of what was originally agreed to by the Native Nations and the Crown's representative.

1875 - Canadian Parliament passes an order-in-council on January 23, 1875 whereby Canada acknowledges its constitutional obligation to disallow as unconstitutional all provincial Public Lands Acts that had been enacted (particularly in B.C.). Rather than forcing provinces like B.C. to amend its Lands Acts and to give back any stolen land, the federal government fell in with the fraud of the province of B.C.

1876 - Prime Minister John A. MacDonald and his government passed the Indian Act which was applied to unceded "Indian Hunting Grounds." This was in blatant violation of the 1763 Royal Proclamation and Canada's Constitution Act of 1867. From the Indian Act came the horrors of the Residential Schools and the elected band council system. This puppet government undermined the traditional Native systems of Native governance and culture and caused splits in Native Communities still apparent today. The Kwakiutl, the Tsimshian, the Haida, and the Tlingit were specifically prohibited from pot latching or carrying out the winter ceremonials. Anglican and Methodist missionaries considered the potlatch a heathen custom because it impeded the spread of Christianity. The potlatch reinforced the indigenous status system and the entire social structure in these nations. It had to be done away with in order for these people to be assimilated into the white culture.

1884 - Canada's Indian Act of 1880 was amended to include specific prohibition of the Potlatch and Taiwanese (Sundance). Native nations continued to hold the Potlatch regardless.

1921 - The Kwakiutl hold a huge Potlatch which is interrupted by the RCMP when they arrest the participants.

1924 - Two Shuswap chiefs go to England with two other chiefs to discuss land issues.

1926 - One Shuswap chief accompanies two other chiefs to continue discussions concerning land issues.

1951 - The Revised Indian Act removes the ban on the Potlatch and winter dances. Eventually the goods seized from the 1921 Potlatch are returned to the Kwakiutl.

1982 - The Canadian Constitution is ratified and recognizes as valid the aboriginal rights stated in the Proclamation of 1763.

Hollinger Corp. (renamed Hollinger Inc. last year), formerly Argus Corp., was founded during World War II as War Supplies Ltd., a front for British Ministry of Munitions and Supplies, based in Canada, and was charged with procuring military equipment from the United States. Wartime profits were "privatized" under E.P. Taylor and George Black, and Argus became major owner of mining and manufacturing firms. Beginning in 1985, after founder George Black's son, Conrad Black took over and changed the company name to Hollinger, its portfolio shifted into media.

With British Rothschild financing Hollinger bought 83% ownership of The Telegraph PLC. Soon after acquiring the Telegraph, Hollinger took over the Spectator, the 1828 founded British establishment journal. Hollinger took 98.9% interest in the Jerusalem Post in early 1989, purging the Post editorial department in favor of "hawks" aligned with Ariel Sharon and Margaret Thatcher. Hollinger purchased the Chicago Sun-Times from Rupert Murdoch in early 1994.

The buying spree continued with purchases of American Publiching Co. with the Canadian television Unimedia, Sterling Newspapers Ltd., Saturday Night Magazine and the Financial Post. Hollinger went on to purchase 17% of the Australian John Fairfax Holdings, publishers of the country's largest daily The Age.

The company (HOLLINGER) now own 80 daily and over 300 weekly newspaper in the United States, with a combined readership of 5 million. Money for the recent purchases reportedly came from Li Kai Shi, until recently a director of Honkong and Shanghai Banking Corp.

Putting the Culture back in Agriculture

PLANTING SEEDS PROJECT

We are a growing grassroots network of more than three hundred organic farmers, indigenous growers and serious organic gardeners in British Columbia, and throughout Canada. We are working together to rescue the remaining viable seed of the world's food supply by returning these varieties to the marketplace.

The collective efforts of this movement are also providing the research and documentation for establishing a data base on open-pollinated seeds.

We are challenging the organic food industry to address its seed sources and develop standards relating to the seeds' fertility and organic nature.

We are networking with hundreds of other growers, scientists and organizations internationally, cooperating and establishing our ideas and programs in 17 countries.

We are communicating with people and organizations in the area of hunger relief, marketing, organic agriculture, genetics and seed preservation, economics, indigenous peoples' movements, the environment and human rights.

We are establishing creative, sustainable ways of addressing the various environmental, social, economic and cultural problems where food is involved.

OVERVIEW

The fact that we are alive today is a result of the unbroken relationship between seeds and people. From the wild and indigenous land races we have cultivated food crops, saved the seeds, and handed them down from generation to generation.

Consider this...

In the last 50 years, 70% of our cultivated food crops and their parents have become extinct. The remainder are now severely threatened.

. At the same time, 75% of our topsoil is either gone or has been rendered sterile by the ravages of agri-business, urban sprawl, and industrial progress.

Traditionally, the number of people in a community or society who were involved in the process of growing, harvesting, preserving and distributing food would range from 40% to 85% of the population at large. Today in North America, less than 2% are involved in food production.

. 50 years ago we could consume as many as two hundred different varieties of fruits and vegetables over a year. As recently as 150 years ago, people had access to as many as 1500 varieties over one cycle of the seasons.

. Very few of the seeds used to grow our food today are viable, and 80% of the existing seed infrastructure is now owned by a handful of Petro-chemical and Pharmaceutical corporations.

. We ingest chemical pesticides, herbicides, fertilizers, fungicides, additives, colourings, preservatives, flavourings, hormones, nitrates, and other miscellaneous chemicals to total as much as our entire body weight every ten years.

. The effects of starvation claim as many as one hundred million people per year. Many times more people have been displaced from their land and livelihood, living in poverty with their basic needs insufficiently met.

MODERN HYBRID SEEDS

The seeds of the foods we eat today, as well as most of what is available through retail markets for gardeners, are genetically stylized and often sterile. Even if these hybrid seeds were to regerminate the next season, most would immediately begin to revert back to any of several parental genes. This means that the seed is not reliable to produce fertile offspring. Modern hybrids are often designed to be resistant to agri-business chemicals like herbicides, and they require considerable chemical nutrients and water in order to grow successfully.

The hybrid seed's genetic structure is comprised of a collection of characteristics, often singularly insolated from the parent seed, leaving behind the scores of traits that comprised the viable parent. This leaves the seed vulnerable to drought, pests and diseases much as a human with a diminished immune system. The diversity, natural selection and genetic memory contained within indigenous seed species supports resistance to such threats.

The designer-business process behind hybrid seed species, however, inherently depends on continuous genetic vaccinations against the latest deficiency in order to maintain viability.

OPEN-POLLINATED SEEDS

This is a general term to represent whole, fertile seed that will reliably reproduce itself as a consistent variety. These seeds contain the multitude of adaptive genetic traits and memories which have allowed these varieties to reconcile and survive the geo-physical and climatic changes which have occurred continuously throughout time.

Seed varieties which have developed from the original wild parent seeds due to, and through, human cultivation practises are called cultivars. Many of these cultivars have become traditionally established foods for a culture of people — these are considered heritage varieties. Others have existed within a particular human family for many generations and can be called heirlooms The original wild varieties of seed from which we selected our cultivated varieties are called landraces, and they provide the genetic base from which all our ground-crop food comes from. These fertile seeds are considered to be of superior taste and nutrition, and certainly represent a profound diversity currently missing in our diets.

MULTI-NATIONALS

We have witnessed more and more of our lives becoming synthetic with artificial flavours, colours, pharmaceuticals, plastic materials, synthetic clothing fibres and more, all replacing what used to come organically from renewable sources. The traditional art of farming has become highly mechanized and synthetic. Most North Americans now eat the same food from the same sources; we shop from and work for, the same relatively small group of large economic associations.

The main players involved in producing and distributing our food are petrochemical and pharmaceutical multi-national corporations. Companies such as Monsanto, Bayer, Upjohn, Shell Oil, Occidental Petroleum, Cargill, Ciba-Geigy, Dupont and ITT are all laying claim to the title or control of hybrid seed manufacturing. These and other companies also develop and distribute the chemicals required to make these seeds grow successfully. This infrastructure of control also involves itself in the energy sources, mechanical technologies, food additive processing, packaging, and medicinal antidotes of our food system. There are now very few commodities in our lives that are not touched by a multi-national corporation.

THE GREEN REVOLUTION

The propagation of Agri-business technology encircled the plant with the promise of feeding a hungry world. Governments, development organizations, and the multi-national business community helped to bring this technology to what is called third world, or developing countries. The hybrid seeds and the magic powders and liquids that went with them promised and demonstrated higher yields than the traditional seeds of aboriginal farmers. So it was easy and logical to be convinced to change. More than 16,000 years of mostly compatible agri-cultural evolution was tragically disrupted. The very seeds that had continued to adapt and cooperate with the environment and with their human partners were given to the agri-business proponents — for free. What was sold back was genetically stylized and uniform seed requiring a vast amount of nutrients and water in order to grow successfully.

Traditional seeds were replaced and chemical nutrients were spread upon the land. A cycle of financial and infrastructural dependence on outside resources began. The community seed stocks were severely depleted, even extinguished. The sustainable fertile soils were deprived of their organic content and became addicted to the chemical inputs. This quickly contributed to soil erosion, pest and disease imbalances, poor water retention, and economic poverty through international debt. The tractors and implements required to administer the chemicals and perform the harvests required constant maintenance and inputs as well, which detrimentally changed the local economies from the unemployment they created.

The multi-nationals were then able to benefit from Mega-project programs such as dams and water diversion schemes to provide water and power supplies to their agri-business. This radically altered the environment and flooded vast areas of land. The combination of all these conditions along with road construction, urbanization, and resource industries such as mining have eliminated most of the natural habitat. This obviously also holds true for the plant species dwelling there.

ASK HERBIE A QUESTION

"HEY ! HERBIE, HOW DO INSIDERS DEAL WITH TROUBLESOME WHISTLE -BLOWERS?"

(The following is part 2 of the answer continued from Issue 3 of the Kealey Paper -- The question posed to Herbie was "How do Insiders deal with troublesome whistle-blowers?")

When the media is approached by a whistle-blower and asked to cover a touchy subject they will sometimes report the story (to retain credibility) but will couch it in headlines and/or editorial comment which is intended to ridicule the event.

Crown prosecutors or District attorneys will promise investigations however, they will publicly down-play the "conspiracy" aspect on behalf of the corrupt legal or political industries.

Co-conspirators will be given time and space to ridicule the matter, both in print and on television. The whistle-blower will not be afforded an equal opportunity to respond in kind. His appearances, if they ever happen, are always staged, edited and managed by the controllers of the media.

Events will be staged to get the whistle-blower into trouble with the law.

Remember also that open-line talk-shows on radio and television and political satire magazines are privately owned productions. They are not news media. Many items discussed on talk-shows are never repeated by the news department of the same station. Talk-shows are inexpensive fillers of dead-time.

When public pressure is sufficient it may necessitate that the establishment defuse a "volatile situation" and manufacture dissent. The whistle-blower will then be offered a chance to speak with the public. These few opportunities are most-often stage-managed by former political media-types (the establishment). The shows are used mostly to generate fear and ridicule, in order to program hate against the whistle-blower which the media then describes as current public opinion.

Following instructions they receive from their think-tanks — to gain control over the unsuspecting "naive masses" and in order to reduce independent thought, observation and "free-will" — pigeon-holing people into precast political or religious molds is an effective method used by self-appointed Media-Opinion elites;

Let us quote from Rothschild's Royal Institute on International Affairs – MI6 controlled Tavistock Institute for Human Relations at Sussex University and London sites during WW1.

6% of the population is elitists; while 94% bear the brunt of any problem, including war; they do not have even the faintest idea about what is really happening around them, other than the images created by national media-opinion manipulators;

13% of the population understand the process of reasoning and have the ability to observe the problem, while a full 87% do not. However, one can always count on the 87% to have "an opinion" which reflects the images created in their brain, by national media-opinion manipulators;

Talk-show hosts will set up whistle-blowers by publicly calling them names such as: crazy or nuts, racists, anti-Semites and conspiracy theorists.

The general public (87%) is also programmed to refer to the audiences of these talk-shows by the same names. What was intended as the last bastion of free-speech is in fact far from it.

To beat these odds whistle-blowers who want to convey their message must always suggest to others that they do their own research and not to allow anyone to dissuade them from reading or viewing everything, about both sides of every issue. Also, to be extremely leery with anyone who may want to "interpret" for them. "Trust me", they will say, "I can tell you what this book says" or "trust me, let my political party represent you too. You don't need to worry. Leave it all up to me. You don't have to do the worrying — just go out and have fun — dearie."

Controllers want us all to just "consume, be quiet and die."

Always choose reason along with your own observations. Join with other whistle-blowers from other fields of endeavour. The odds are small you will find them close by. There really is strength in numbers. And most important of all - don't be suckered by THE SYSTEM.

"Only wisdom will help you overcome fear and prejudice. It can't be acquired quickly or by surfing the information highway. Wisdom is acquired slowly, by travelling the back roads, where down-to-earth people and knowledge are real."

KEALEY'S STRATEGIC PLAN

Kealey and his wife Shelley Ann Clark (former executive assistant in Canada's Free Trade Negotiation team) are in B.C. to encourage Vancouver Islanders to begin planning for a people oriented cross-Canada anti-corruption / anti-treason "wisdom sharing" caravan, sponsored by the "Assembly of Independent Canadians" a political movement launched by the Kealeys' think-tank, the "Canadian Institute for Political Integrity". The purpose is to focus 100,000 people to descend upon Parliament Hill, armed solely with video cameras and the truth, in July 1998.

Kealey now based in Cobble Hill, B.C. says organizing the "AIC Wisdom Caravan" will be a very difficult task to achieve because there exists four kinds of people in the world today. The first 3% of the world's population are the controllers who claim to own most of the world's natural resources. At the other extreme is the 87% of the people who live in fear of the 3 per cent. They won't lift a hand to help, even themselves, until success is assured and imminent. Then, Kealey says, there is the 5% who live a life based on greed and avarice (the original meaning of FREE-MASONS). They would sell their mother and their soul for money and power. Finally, only the remaining 5% is burdened with integrity. They can't help themselves from "doing the right thing". These are the people the Kealeys are searching for. They can actually make a difference because of their education, experiences or jobs and the influence they have in society. This 5 per cent will identify themselves, he says.

Once Canadians with integrity (about 1.3 million in Canada) are made aware of the secret food cartel agenda designed to control them and others, many will react against it, Kealey says. And if history repeats itself, a critical mass (about 100,000 people) will come forward and unite in a common cause, i.e. to save the people of Canada from the slavery that would result from the establishment of a "central" North American-based world food cartel, defended from the world's hungry at long range, by the U.S. military's Joint Chiefs of Staff and their missiles.

Kealey is confident enough information will eventually reach Canadians with "integrity" to create the critical mass needed to make a change in our country. "Therefore, we who care about Canada must accept to be rejected 19 times out of 20. It is a difficult task," Kealey says, "to be rejected 19 times out of 20 only because only five per cent of the people have integrity enough not to be bribed or want instant gratification."

KEALEY RESPONDS TO THE CANADA PARTY

In issue four of the Kealey Paper I repeated, verbatim, a request that came to me from a significant number of directors of the Canada Party's Board. They had suggested that I join the Party and, with their support, run for the leadership.

As you read in the Kealey Paper, the Canada Party directors' support of my candidacy took a different turn when I demanded they put their offer in writing.

Subsequently, once I received their wishy-washy letter, I knew for certain that another agenda was being played out, at least by some of the directors.

In issue four I asked for your input and you responded. Support for my candidacy was divided, with about 60-40 being in favour. However, those who voted against my running also were able to provide me with very valuable information about the current Canada Party leadership and their less than enthusiastic enforcement of their own constitution.

Words in a Constitution are nice, ask any American citizen or for that matter, any traditional Native in Canada. However, whenever the enforcement of these nice words is left to the discretion of a political party leadership, they are not worth the paper they are written on.

The problem Canadians live today has nothing to do with laws. We have all the laws we need. The problem is that our political and judicial systems are rigged to prevent the proper enforcement of these laws. Politicians and judges are sponsored by international bankers who support "a flexible application of our laws" in a way that always favours them. These bankers want to loot our natural resources and to perpetuate poverty. The fear of poverty is what their national media uses to control us.

Today, political parties can only serve the people by passing resolutions that will abolish political parties at the earliest opportunity. We could then replace these political parties with "popular constituent assemblies" run by the people themselves in each riding. Delegates, not politicians, should carry the people's votes to a strong central government who, in turn, will defend our nation's interest above anything else.

Therefore, I have decided to respond to the Canada Party's request that I join them with a clear — NO THANK YOU.

Andrew Hardy Case

RED CROSS LIARS

by Glen EP Kealey

Don't blame the jury for finding Andrew Hardy guilty of mischief. Blame the pathological liars who manage the Red Cross blood collection and the liars in the media who cover up for them (on behalf of the bigger liars who control the JUST-US SYSTEM — the international bankers who pull both their strings).

As usual, the Red Cross needed to shift blame. They only care about profit, not responsibility. They caused Andrew Hardy to be arrested without a police investigation into his side of the story. Why? For no other reason than to cover-their-own-asses.

In December 1994, Dr. Lesley of the Red Cross blood clinic in Ottawa responded to a call from Andrew Hardy, who took exception to the Red Cross lying on TV about the safety of blood screening. Lesley thought Hardy was a reporter. He said so in a memo to his boss Dr. Giulivi and in a statement to the police, both written at the time of the occurrence.

His boss, Dr. Giulivi, is just one of the many incompetents within Red Cross management that the Globe and Mail's Geoffrey York attempted to describe, in an article published in 1993. These managers were positioned to replace more competent staff at the Red Cross. Unknown to them they would be the fall-guys. They would, eventually, be taking the blame for their superiors and government mandarins — for people like Judge Krever, the judge who, currently, is managing the cover-up of his own involvement and alleged criminal behaviour in regards to Canada's blood distribution system.

When questioned, Giulivi responded to Hardy's cross-examination by lying. "You had identified THE flaw in the system", he stated, diverting attention away from himself and his superiors.

The trial judge, (a rookie appointed not for his mental capacity nor for his grasp of the English language, but rather, as a reward for years of kissing babies and faithful attendance at cocktail parties held to raise the political profile of the Liberal Party), allowed the lie to go unchallenged. The jury had no option but to accept it. As a result, blame was cast upon unsuspecting blood donors for all past Red Cross negligence and criminal activity — most, in fact, being the result of the mismanagement of Canada's criminally lax blood collection and distribution system.

Did the judge know differently? Did he know Giulivi was a liar? Yes he did. The crown attorney, David Stewart, (another political hack married to a Liberal federal cabinet minister), was brought in from out-of-town to assist the judge in rail-roading Hardy. Stewart was a "hired gun" in this so-called "priority case". He knowingly presented Giulivi's false list of credentials to the court. The Doctor's long, imaginary CV was entered as an exhibit by the judge.

But there was a problem with the CV. As part of the evidence disclosed to Hardy was a statement written by Dr. Giulivi, a full fourteen months after the telephone conversation between his direct subordinate Dr. Lesley and the accused Andrew Hardy. Giulivi's first statement on the matter proves one thing conclusively. Giulivi lied about his credentials contained in his CV.

Dr. Giulivi claimed to be the author of a number of highly acclaimed articles on very technical information about blood — the problem with that — the doctor can't write worth a dam. He can't even construct a simple sentence. His written statement to the police proves it. However, the trial judge never allowed Hardy to enter the

by Glen EP Kealey, Founder AIC

I am one passionate Canadian in search of truth and wisdom.

To date, because of my personal observations and detailed analysis of these observations, I conclude beyond any reasonable doubt, that all political systems of the world are totally corrupt.

Fascism is a system bankers use to control people by means of the military and police. An example of Fascism today is the Gustafson Lake Native Standoff and the resulting trial. I have attended this trial in Surrey, B.C., since July. Later, we will discuss how many of the elements of this case resemble tactics one would only expect to observe in a Fascist police state — ie. excessive force, abuse of power and abuse of process.

Communism (and its close relation Socialism), is a political system bankers use to control people through a bureaucracy. Communism is used to "park" entire nations during periods when their natural resources, were they allowed to be exploited at a certain period in time would increase the world's total supply unnecessarily thereby generally lowering the demand, and as a result, would cause a fall in the price of similar resources being exploited at the same time, by the same controllers elsewhere in the world.

Comment

Capitalism is a political system that enables bankers to control people at arms-length. Here bankers and corporations use politicians and mandarins to acquire natural resources. Also, corporations armed with unlimited finances provided by banks, buy the patents and businesses they covet. When needed, they will go as far as to bankrupt entrepreneurs who compete with them, in order to acquire assets. This banker/corporate asset accumulation is carried out on behalf of "the hidden hand" that secretly owns a controlling interest (4—8%) in each of the Fortune 1000 companies. International bankers control their corporate assets through a complex, interwoven, system of secret fraternal or religious societies and through personally related members, they appoint to a multitude of "Boards of Directors".

Democracy is a political system that allows banker owned "Opinion Makers" to control people through their own thoughts. The most obvious examples of these opinion makers are :

— organized religion

— public education

— the national media

— the entertainment industry

— the psychiatric industry

— the pharmaceutical industry

— the illicit drug industry

— the welfare industry

— the legal industry

Finally, Republics, such as the Soviet Union, France and the United States of America, were born out of revolutions statement as an exhibit so that the jury could see the lie for themselves.

Neither were Dr. Lesley's memo to his boss, or his statement to the police, allowed to be entered as exhibits. These documents prove Dr. Giulivi enhanced the complaint, from what they both thought was a research call from an investigative reporter, into a threat to the blood supply. The judge's ruling on the matter was just another in a series of lies the judge told the jury. He even proclaimed that both doctors' current testimony, two years after the event, was somehow of greater value to the jury than the reports they both wrote when the two minute conversation first took place.

Yet, the judge made no comment when Doctor Lesley admitted, under Hardy's cross-examination, that he met with his boss on the matter before accepting the "spin" (Lesley was employed on a one-year contract at the time). The enhanced version was subsequently published with blaring headlines on the front page of The Ottawa Citizen. It stated categorically, without ever once using the word alleged, that "a threat to the blood supply" had occurred.

Dr. Lesley also testified that he was coached by Neil Wilson, a lawyer for the Ottawa Citizen, prior to giving his testimony at the preliminary hearing.

Later, in his address to the jury, the judge would refer to an allegation of "Abuse of power" and "Abuse of process" made in his court by Glen Kealey, as "conspiracy theory".

Subsequently, at the courtroom door, Kealey asked the Ottawa Citizen reporter why her stories did not report the testimony that confirmed her own newspaper's lawyer had coached Dr. Lesley prior to giving his testimony — coaching that led Dr. Lesley to repeat the enhanced version prepared by Giulivi and published the next day by her employers. The Citizen reporter responded to Kealey's question by stating somewhat sheepishly, "Mr. Kealey, I am not concerned with that".

I believe her. It was the first truth I heard from the Ottawa Citizen in a very long time. Had she been concerned, or worse still, had she dared report the evidence, I believe she would have been fired on-the-spot by the Ottawa Citizen.

And because lies do not occur only by telling an untruth but also from a known omission of the truth, clearly, the Ottawa Citizen also lied in order to protect their own asses from the real possibility of a libel suit by the victim of their lies, Andrew Hardy.

But the biggest lie of all came from the mouth of the presiding political hack, the trial judge. In his direction to the jury he told them to disregard the fact that no criminal intent was proved and that no actual danger had occurred, "because these facts were irrelevant".

The judge then followed up on this big lie, by making an overt threat of his own. He read for the jury from a precedent, a prior case, where the jury in that case had decided under very similar circumstances that no crime could have been committed. Then he stated that this decision had been overturned by a higher level of political control. The trial judge was speaking, of course, of the "judges" who sit on the courts of appeal.

These appeal court judges assure that common sense will no longer prevail in our courts of law. Justice can never result from a trial in a police state — even when the accused is being judged by a jury of his peers.

Due to the judicial manipulations now in place to limit the jury's use of their own common sense, Andrew Hardy was declared "guilty, as charged".

Still, in spite of all of this evidence and with thousands of other similar cases, some people, mostly insiders, continue to claim that we must foolishly continue to work for change from within the "JUST-US SYSTEM".

I conclude this is just a pile of bull.... (el toro poo-poo)!

Canadians without illusions

to fill the obvious gap. They were expected to be THE instrument; a new political system through which the people would gain control. Individual rights and freedoms were intended to reside within the "nice words" written in their constitution. Many nice words were written into these famous documents but, eventually, with bribes and blackmail, international bankers still took control.

Through a slowly evolving step-by-step approach, these rights were taken away, contrary to the expressed will of the people living in these Republics. Currently, the three political entities named above, for all intent and purpose, are Democracies no matter what they chose to call themselves. Apparently, the nice words written in "their" Constitutions were not enough.

By coincidence, if one does not believe in conspiracy, each of the above "popular" political systems was conceived and/or is managed from either Switzerland and/or London (THE CITY), England. Through their banking empire the world's wealthiest trans-national bankers, descendents of the High Priests of the Isis cult of ancient Egypt, control and exploit the weaknesses of all political systems to their advantage. They own and control world politics. They alone are rich and powerful enough to be positioned to pull the puppet strings of the entire world's greedy OPINION MAKERS. Reportedly, they also believe they are Gods (ISIS CULT). In fact they are human "anti-creators".

Anti-creators understand that humans can only achieve real freedom if they have access to a guaranteed annual income that will enable them to purchase food, clothing, housing, security, energy, transportation, communications, education and health care. The Creator provided for these necessities-of-life by giving mankind free access to natural resources. Personal creativity was intended to be used by people to transform and thereby add value to these raw materials, when natural resources are used to manufacture labour/mind-saving consumer products.

The ultimate purpose of the existing political systems is to perpetuate poverty. Poverty is used by the anti-creator to create fear; the fear of losing one's life, the fear of dying alone, the fear of not going to heaven, and in the meantime, the fear of being hungry and homeless. To instill more fear these controllers waste our resources and direct their opinion makers to market the fear they create as a result of their wasteful and destructive ways.

With the power they gain from using the enormous fortune these anti-creators have accumulated throughout the ages, they promote and finance only the activities of those who will help them in their greed. Free-lance business cannot exist beyond mom & pop shops.

Therefore, the only way left to us to protect our nation, Canada, from the hidden hand that wants to possess all of the world's natural resources in order to enslave its people, is for Canadians to take and retain direct control over our political system. To achieve this we must always control our politics directly in our own constituencies. This is the aim of the Assembly of Independent Canadians, the AIC.

First, we must take positive steps to listen to the cry of our traditional aboriginal brothers and sisters who call upon us to consciously return to THE GREAT LAW. Their plea makes common sense. They are the "canaries in our mine shaft". They have, over the past 100 years, lived the events we Canadians are about to suffer. By working together we can learn from their experiences. They now are forced to live on reserves. Once our own economy has been totally destroyed by FREE TRADE, we will, likewise, be herded into non-native equivalents called "neighbourhoods" and made to survive on "welfare".

Next, Canadians must abolish all political parties and media monopolies. However, before we can achieve this worthwhile objective, those blessed (or some say — cursed) with integrity must become wiser. Those among us

Who are we?

We are the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity (CIPI), a non-profit organisation dedicated to bringing about a democratic and sovereign Canada. We believe this can only be done by exposing the corruption in our political system to such a degree that citizens will come to the conclusion that the system itself must be changed, and not in the usual way. What distinguishes us from other groups is not our analysis of what's wrong; it is the fact that we alone offer a solution that does not merely "patch over" the problem, but eliminates it from the ground up.

Crusaders for political integrity: Glen Kealey and Ann Kealey (formerly Shelley Ann Clark) risked it all—now it's your turn to stand up for Canada. Join the cross-country caravan to Parliament Hill and take part in the setting up of a democratic governing body.

Statement of purpose

CIPI's The Kealey Paper

will document the Assembly of Independent Canadians' cross-Canada caravan to create the basis for democracy. This paper will provide an alternative to the controlled media by presenting ideas and events Canada's media monopoly refuses to acknowledge. We will attempt to put this information in context, showing where it fits into the world order and what you can do. The Kealey Paper is also a forum for debate – on the merits and shortcomings of proposed solutions, on which groups and public figures are actually on the side of Canadians and which are merely puppets of the monied interests, and on how best to set up the new political vehicle to replace Canada's parliamentary system.

If you received this paper in the mail it means one of our volunteers thought you might be interested in this new entity and placed your name on our "one shot" database to receive this first issue free. If you want to stay on our mailing list, please send in the order form on the back cover.

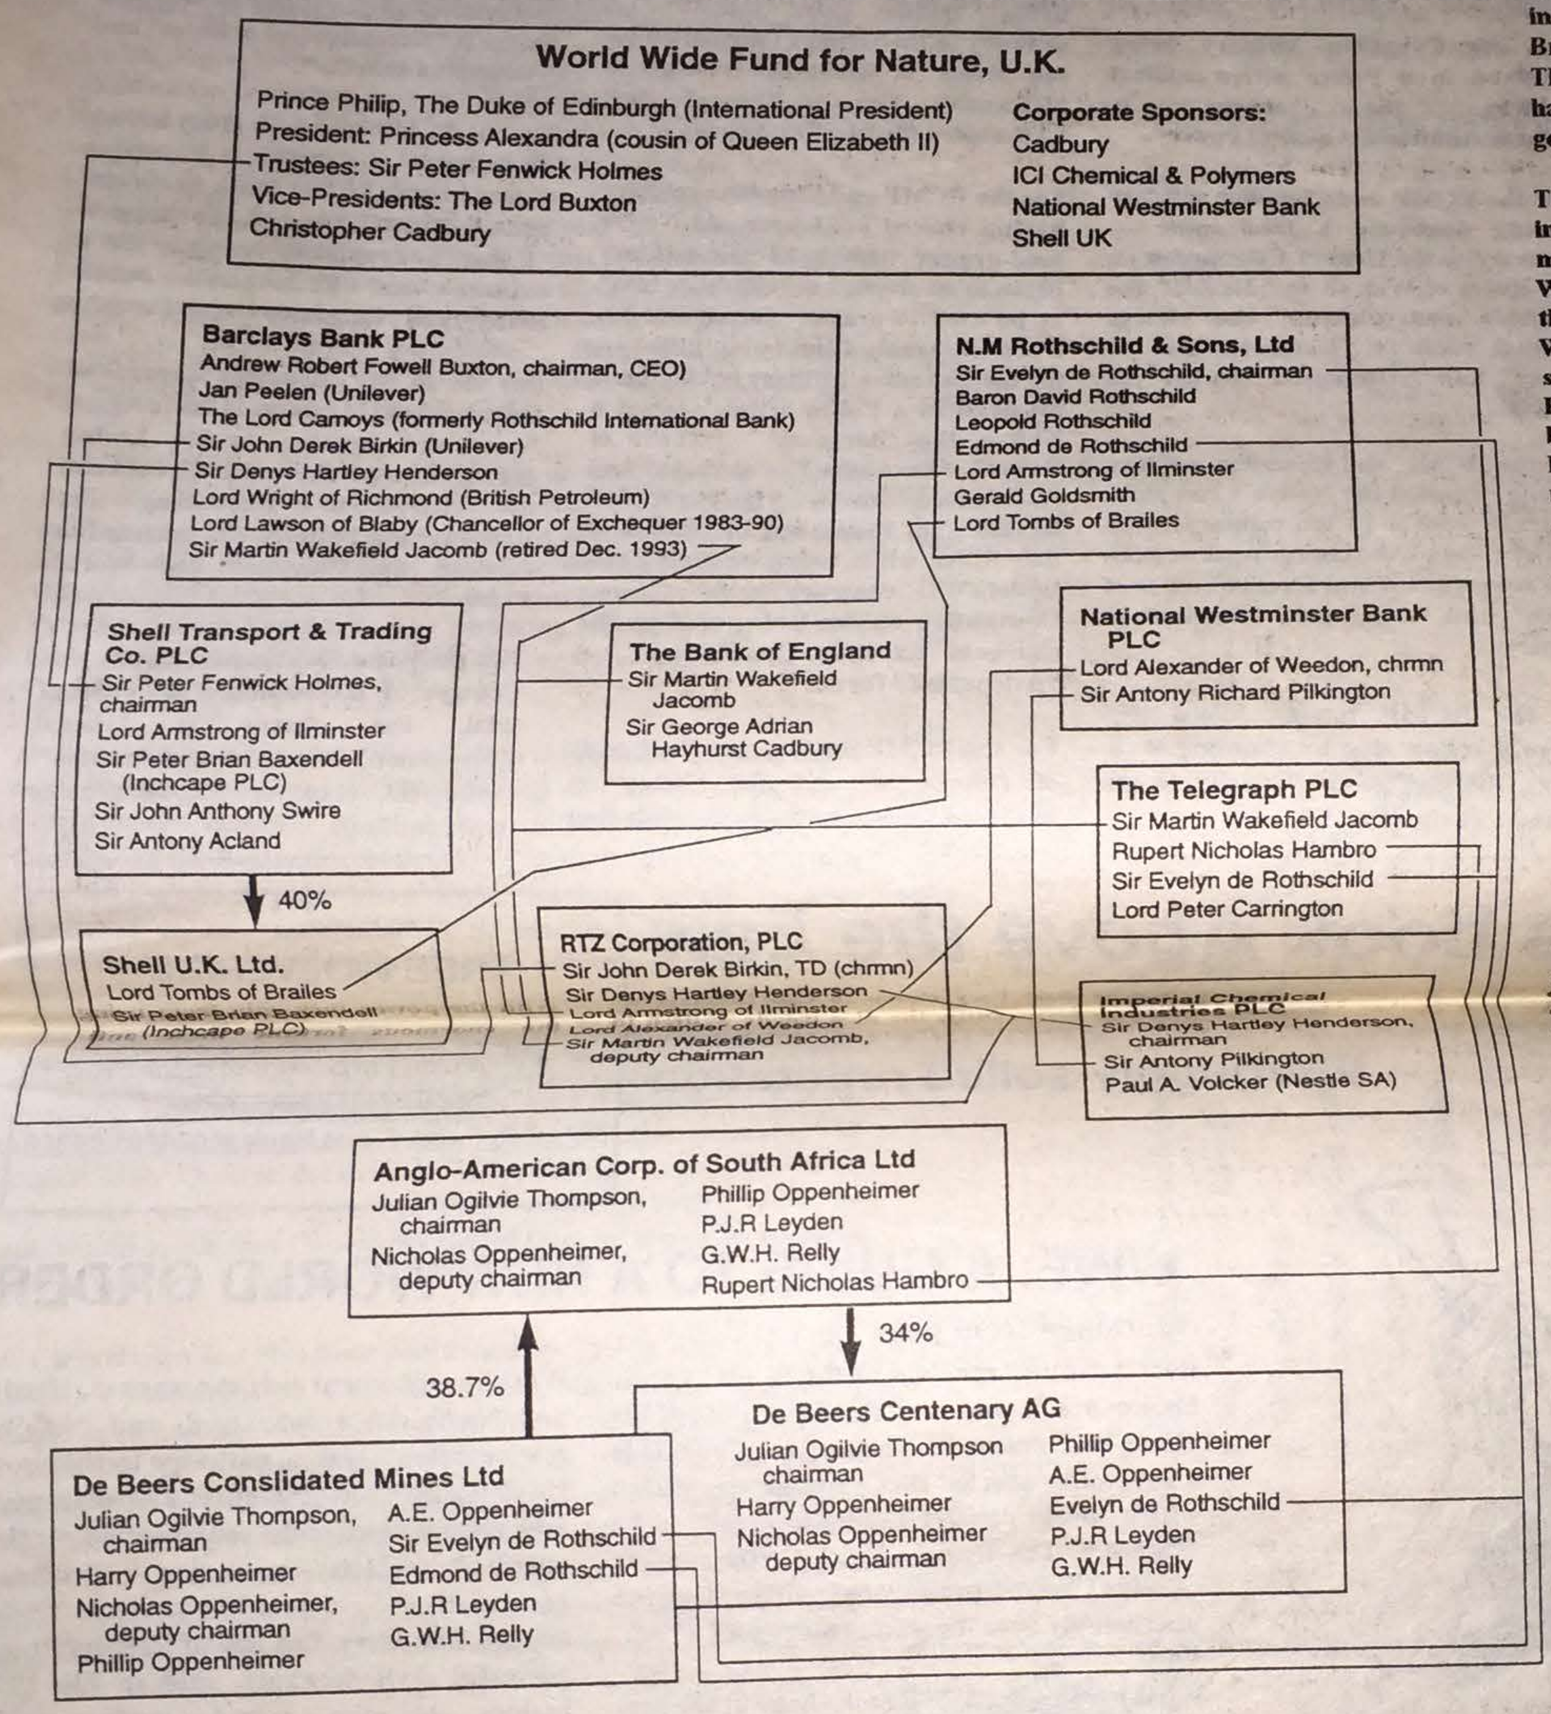
World Wildlife Fund studies depopulation and control

by Allen Douglas

The World Wildlife Fund (WWF, now the World Wide Fund for Nature), was founded in 1961 for one stated purpose: to raise money to drastically expand the operations of the International Union for the Conservation of Nature (IUCN). Established in Gland, Switzerland in 1948 on a British Foreign Office-drafted constitution, the IUCN today boasts that it is the largest 'professional" international conservation organization — as of 1994 comprising 68 states, 103 governmental agencies, and over 640 non-governmental organizations (NGO's), "many of global reach."

Queen Elizabeth II ....Rothschild connections



The WWF has been headed since its inception in 1961 by Prince Philip, the first head of the most important national-sector branch, the WWF-UK, who recruited Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands to be the first head of the WWF-International. After the Lockheed scandals of the mid-1970's, in which Prince Bernhard was caught taking million-dollar bribes to sell airplanes, Philip replaced Bernhard as head of WWF-I. Philip was later replaced as WWF-UK head by Princess Alexandra, first cousin to the queen.

That the Crown has directly run the WWF from the outset is lawful. The WWF-IUCN is a spin-off of two of Britain's leading imperial institutions: the Society for the Preservation of the Wild Fauna of the Empire (now the Fauna and Flora Preservation Society, FFPS, whose patron is the queen), which laid the groundwork for the game parks throughout Africa; and the Eugenics Society.

The co-founder of both the IUCN and the WWF, Sir Julian Huxley, personally embodied these two currents. He was obsessed with population control, which he called "the problem of our age." He served on the British government's Population Investigation Commission between World War I and World War II, was vice president of the Eugenics Society from 1937-44, and was its president when he founded the WWF in 1961. He also served as a vice president of "the Fauna," as its aristocratic members still fondly call it.

The ideology of both institutions, and of their WWF spawn, dates in its modern form from Sir Francis Galton, who coined the term "eugenics," and his first cousin, Charles Darwin, who in 1859 authored his infamous Origin of the Species by Means of Natural Selection, or the Preservation of Favored Races in the Struggle for Life. Galton aimed to propagate the pseudo-scientific humbug of who want, and do not fear change, must accept to live in the real world — not in the world of illusion, aliens and miracles.

The Creator is waiting on us. Only we can act to support HIM in this world. It is up to us to bring Canadians the GOOD NEWS about how they can get out of the mess they're in. Together, we must throw the anti-creators, the money changers, out of the temple we call Canada. Later, when the world sees the end result, how we Canadians became truly human, other citizens of other countries will learn from our actions and do likewise.

The world will then be a better place, not for a millennium but for all time.

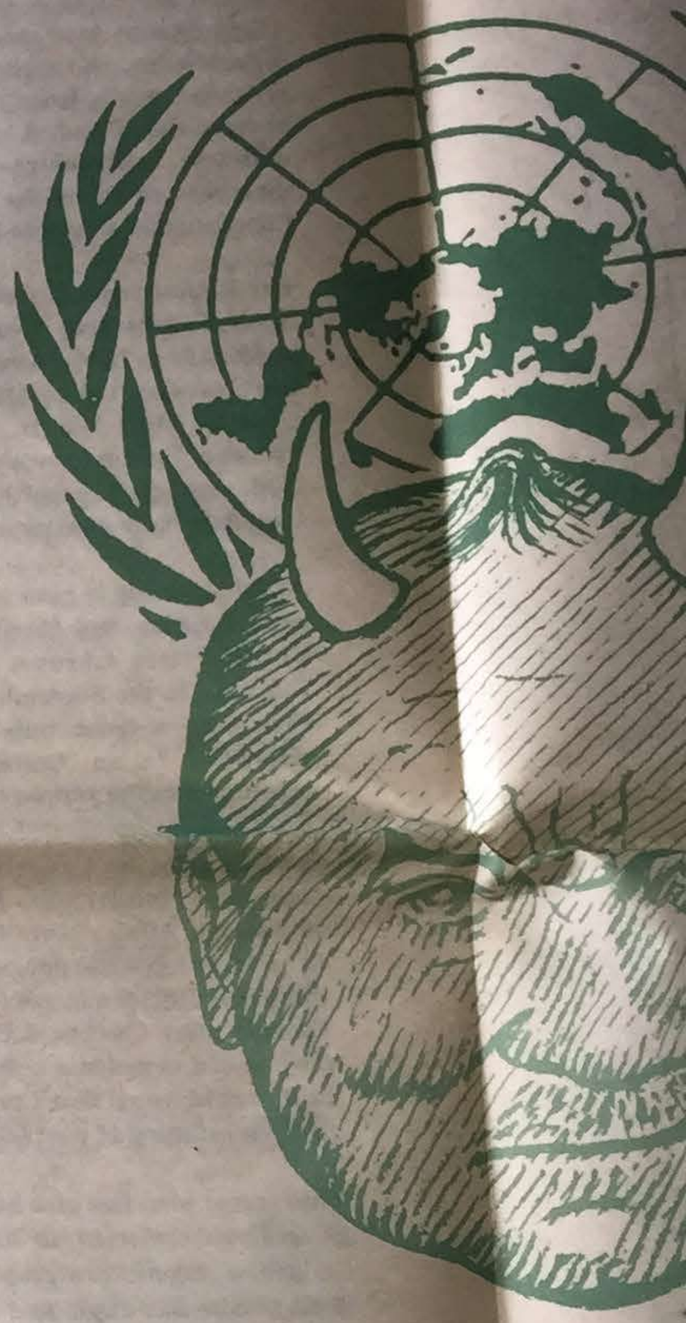
The Devil's A

by Glen Kealey



When the anti-creator decided to hire a lawyer, to handle the most delicate of tasks, he dared not take a chance on those individuals whom his mind-control system had mass-programmed, within his "sponsored" institutions of higher learning. These institutions are places we call universities. After all, in his wisdom, the "degree" of brain-washing he knew they provide is somewhat less than was needed to properly program an "angel". Much as before, having learned from the plan created to confuse people with Gods of organized religions (not to be mistaken for SPIRITUALITY), the current High Priest of Egypt's ancient ISIS cult chose Maurice Strong at birth. He would deceive many with his "Cloak of Green".

Strong was born into the family of a man who "just happened" to work for the Canadian Pacific Railroad (CPR). Later, he was sponsored, guided and privileged throughout his years of basic public education. He graduated at the age of 14, having skipped four grades. His basic education coincided with the 1930's depression years, leading up to the start of World War II. Both events were orchestrated — the end result of a banker induced Wall Street stock market crash, in 1929. The "crash" promoted American central banking designed to indebt the peoples of Canada and the United States. Income taxes, to pay this debt, were being justified as a means to support the war in Europe and Japan. In fact, what occurred was a "cost-free urban renewal" prior to the sale / purchase of these nations by the current Money-changers.

Maurice Strong's first on-the-job training occurred when he left Oak Lake, Manitoba (near Brandon) to train in the "free-traders" merchant marine. Later, he joined the Hudson Bay Company. His assignment was to infiltrate native communities in the high arctic. This allowed him to identify Inuit leaders who could be bought or blackmailed. They would be paid to work against their own people's best interest.

The Hudson Bay Company, like its sister companies, the East India Company of India and Kuhn-Loeb of the United States of America, was created to steal resources from the Natives who first occupied the land. Kuhn-Loeb is now known by the corporate name it acquired in 1985, American Express. These three companies are wholly owned properties of the British banking oligarchy. Bankers, using the weapons of inflation, deflation, taxation and bankruptcy have acquired these lands from the immigrants. They are controlled through the agri-business Fortune 1000 companies they manage.

The East India Company waged OPIUM wars against China and was involved with the slave trade of Africans brought to America. Two hundred million Blacks died in this the world's deadliest holocaust. By comparison Native North American Indians lost one hundred and fifty million people over a 500 year period, as Europeans were sponsored by bankers to immigrate and steal Native land. The Chinese and Soviets lost 60 and 50 million respectively, during their Communist revolutions. As far as I know, not a single national monuments remembering these holocausts was erected. Seldom does the media even speak of them.

By the young age of 25 Maurice Strong moved up the corporate ladder at break-neck speed. First, he was appointed President of Dome Petroleum. Then, at the age of 31, he became President and CEO of Power Corporation where he came in contact with his protege, Paul Martin Jr., Canada's current Minister of Finance. Next, two successive Canadian Liberal administrations led by Prime Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau made him Head of the Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) and then sent him into Alberta's oil patch to direct the newly created national oil company, Petro-Canada.

At CIDA Strong showed public servants how to launder Canadian tax dollars through phoney Canadian based "environment charities" who would then pass it on to their counterparts in third world countries. With this money now in the hands of foreign "charities" these, in turn, could legally bribe corrupt politicians and judges in their own countries. Of course, the politicians they sponsored would, in return, always support the internationalist bankers' free-trade corporate agenda.

Maurice Strong, having learned to disguise his true role as a bought-and-paid-for employee of the European bankers' cartels, hid behind an illusionary public image, in the cloak of green worn by "environmentalist". A Rockefeller controlled Trojan Horse, the United Nations in New York City, appointed Strong Chairman of the EARTH SUMMIT conference held in Rio de Janero, Brazil, in 1992. The conference guaranteed him worldwide recognition. From this position he was able to better defend the international corporate agenda.

Cartels prosper when they can limit the supply of certain goods such as oil, gold, diamonds, lumber and money. If the supply of these goods exceeds the demand then prices stabilize, or worse, decline. Therefore, it sometimes becomes necessary to limit the exploitation of these resources in one part of the world while continuing to exploit the same resource elsewhere.

An example of this practise can be easily tracked in Washington State. The largest paper manufacturer also funds the environmentalist movements who try to prevent logging. When the price of paper stabilizes at a certain level, "tree huggers" are sent into the bush to stop the logging. Once they ar environmentalists are blamed for paper and prices go up. As consum price, the "greens" lose their fun resumes its former frantic pace.

Strong purchased the Baca Grande r 1978. He joined with others based in property covering 142,725 acres, larger land purchase. One factor he making this deal was that $30 milli spent, by previous owners, constr property. Another much more im that the land sat above an undergr of 250 Lake Okanagans, in British the land was located at the centre which his boss, Lord Rothschild, world's first "food cartel". keep the food cartel secret until such time as he could arrange the diversion of Canadian fresh water to refill the aquifer and replenish the water he was about to sell. Finally, the answer would come to him through his second wife, the Danish born gift he received from his European bosses. Introduced to her in 1970, at a party in New York city, they married shortly thereafter.

Unbeknown to most of us mortals, Denmark plays a very important role in the world of bankers. Because Denmark claims to own Greenland, a large block of ice on a very large island strategically located between America and Europe, it has become the logical place to relocate numerous precious inventories that enable the world cartels to exist; inventories that were formerly stored in Switzerland. Since easy access to Greenland is completely out-of-the-question to most citizens of the world, it is as safe a place as they can find. From under the ice, bankers intend to ride out the nuclear fallout they will create when they eventually launch the next, final world war, Armageddon. Greenland will be the international bankers equivalent to Noah's arc.

When they finally emerge, they expect the world to be a very different place, populated by at least two billion less inhabitants. Two more billion people are expected to die with the imposition of a centrally managed food distribution plan, based on the limited production quotas enforced by the future North American food cartel. It will deny food to those people that banker's will designate "useless eaters".

Hanne Strong claims to have conceived her plan to hide the true purpose of the ranch when she was visited by an old man named Glen Anderson. He was Native, originating from the area. He spoke to her at length about SPIRITUALITY (not to be confused with religion). Yet, she claims that following Anderson's visit, alone, she went up the Blood of Christ mountains, and like Moses, spoke with GOD about religion (which is not to be confused with SPIRITUALITY). She says God instructed her to convince her husband Maurice to use the ranch to lauch a New Age, New World Order religion (not to be mistaken for SPIRITUALITY).

With these instructions she obtained directly from God, it was all Hanne Strong needed to convince her "angel" husband to get on with it. Baca Grande, apparently began its new mission in life with both the personal and financial endorsement of the multi-trillion dollar Rothschild banking empire of Europe (the anti-creator). Once kick-started as a centre of world religion (not to be mistaken for SPIRITUALITY) other Rothschild underlings such as the Rockefellers soon joined with Maurice's original Canadian sponsor, former Prime Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau and other political leaders to vouch for this New Age religion (not to be confused with SPIRITUALITY). The Strong's then hired the Hollywood ding-bat Shirley MacLean, to mass-market their "revelation" to the rest of us.

Tourist attractions, such as Hell's Gate in B.C. and public National Parks have long served the elite who want to hide the true purpose for which they intend to use this valuable real estate in the future. The creation of national parks by governments enables bankers — now that all income taxes collected from the public are owed to them — to grab these equity properties as additional security on the nation's debt. Once a park is established it allows government to evict the residents and build roads at public expense. Quietly behind the scene, "sustainable" development is authorized and the bankers' friends move in to build vast hotels and exploit the parks natural resources.

The Baca Grande Ranch is located is southern Colorado, where Highway 17 crosses the Rio Grande river near Almosa, in the San Luis Valley. Crestone is the closet town. It was born during the Gold Rush of 1880. Gold rushes are a favorite trick used by bankers when they want to open up an area for development. Greed can always be counted upon to attract a sufficient number of prospectors and developers. Once they see a few gold nuggets thousands more will flock to the area. With the small amount of gold these people usually find, one may suspect that prospectors were often fooled into participating in gold rushes at the sight of bannock, the golden bread which is often consumed in Native communities. In any event bannock is, at least in my submission, a better reward for the effort than is gold.

Christians, Moslems, Hindus, Buddhist, Native Indian Shamen, Hollywood actors, world famous politicians, bankers think-tanks and religious societies of all kinds were funded to move to, or at least make an appearance at Hanne Strong's husband's ranch. Reports also state that Henry Kissinger, Robert McNamara representing the World Bank and the heads of IBM, Pan Am and Harvard University also showed up.

Now ask yourself one question. Who on this planet has the necessary financial clout to attract such a crowd to a place in the desert? The answer is simple. It can only be the anti-creator himself, Lord Rothschild. He alone controls the bank deposits of the world's religions, monarchs and politicians. Every morning, on th London stock exchange, he invests at least a trillio dollars.With this investment alone he controls th world's financial markets. He is at the core of treaso and corruption everywhere. Rothschild is the curre High Priest of the ISIS cult.

CONSPIRACY BEHIND GUSTAFSON LAKE

by Steven Frasher
100 Mile Free Press Staff

The man is gentle, direct and plain-spoken, not at all what one would expect of a person some circles think of him.

Glen Kealey is a former Ottawa-Hull area property developer who stood to make millions on a high-tech development but dropped it all, on principle, when a Tory federal cabinet member said he'd support the project only with the payment of what Kealey calls a five per cent kickback.

It was the beginning of a personal crusade Kealey has been waging against what he believes is systematic corruption tied to international banking cartels intent on robbing Canada of its independence, minerals, forest and water resources.

And he believes that threat is intimately tied into what happened last summer at the Gustafson Lake standoff.

When reporters questioned the leaders of the armed camp west of 100 Mile last August, their spokesman, who called himself Wolverine (Jones William Ignace), cited the right to hold Sundance ceremonies on unceded Shuswap lands — and concerns about a New World Order.

The theory was authored by Kealey, who met Ignace and others on a western speaking tour two years ago.

Now Kealey intends to spend several months on the Lower Mainland assisting Ignace with his defence on charges stemming from the standoff.

"We've taken the stand that the traditional natives need traditional Canadian support," Kealey said last week.

He compared their disdain for elected tribal councils and Assembly of First Nations Grand Chief Ovide Mercredi to political differences within mainstream society.

"Many people think an Indian is an Indian," he said, but their views can be as different as any segment of society.

And Kealey's views are a little different.

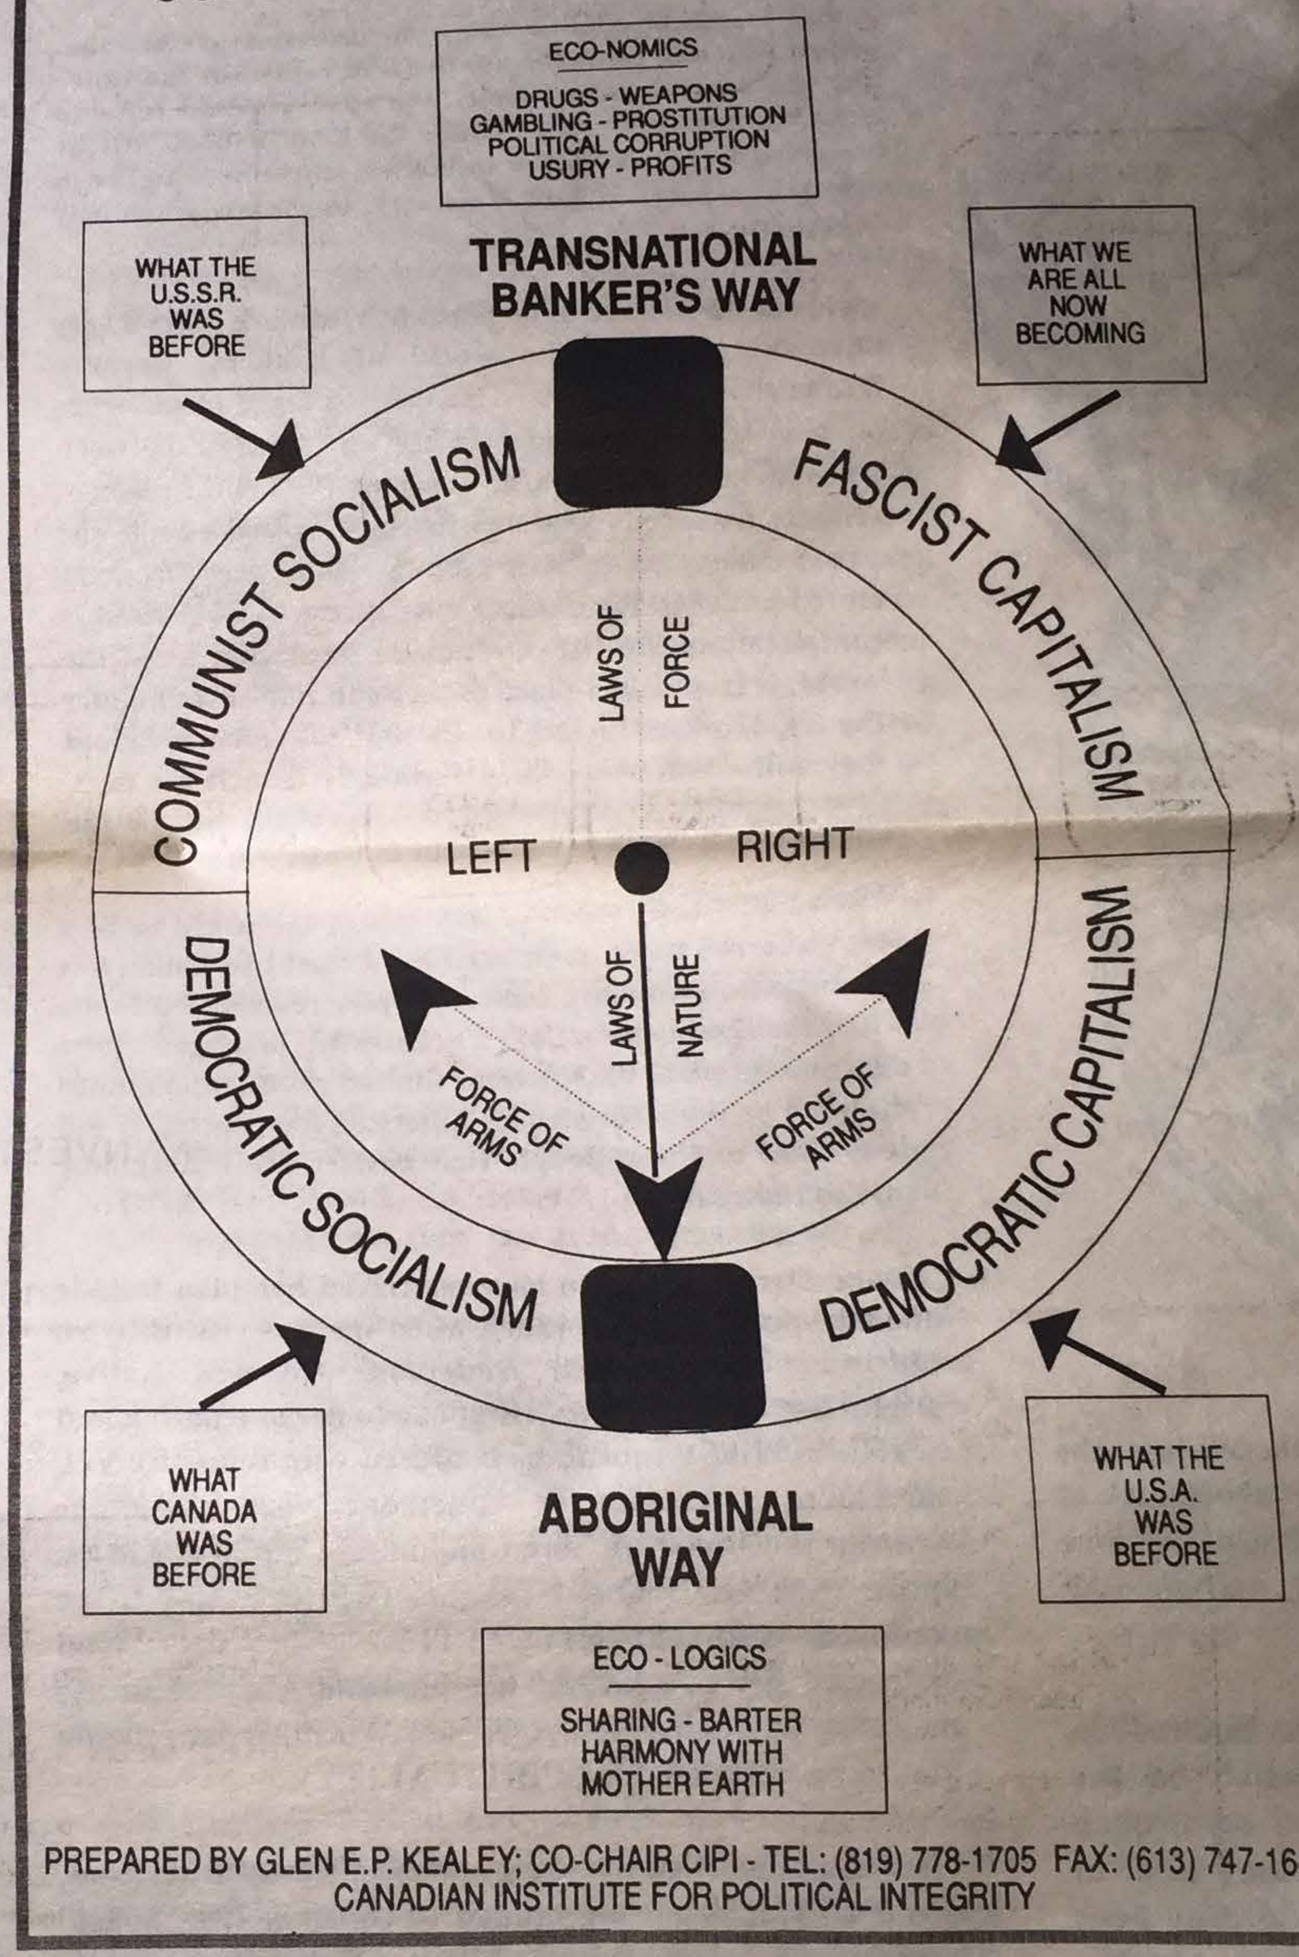
"This particular standoff had a much broader scope," he explained. "It's tied through circumstantial evidence to a much larger puzzle."

It came to his attention because of "the magnitude of the response" by government and the police they control." This had a bigger purpose than just moving 18 natives."

In a nutshell, Kealey came to the conclusion that the Gustafson Lake area was being "parked" on a fee-simple basis with American rancher Lyle James (who came from Montana) so that the lake, 100 Mile House and Williams Lake could later be joined with other such "parked" properties.

These would assist in loading bulk water resources from the Fraser River to be shipped eastward over the Yellowhead Pass.

There it would join similarly diverted waters from James Bay in a Grand Canal to supply the arid North American heartland with irrigation for an international food cartel tied to the European Rothschild banking family.



All of this would be half funded by the $100 billion gleaned from those five per cent kickback he tried to expose earlier.

"Voicing all of this led to the national media increasing their attacks on me," said Kealey, who mounted a 1,000-day protest campaign on Parliament Hill over his earlier corruption charges against the Mulroney regime.

"What happened to natives is happening to the middle class," he said. And that is why he must continue to help the man called Wolverine.

To assist him in his need to divert fresh water from Canada's north, Strong temporarily moved to Ontario. He was hired by Bob Rae, the socialist NDP Premier of the province. As Chairman of Ontario Hydro he was in perfect position to add pressure on Ontarians to dam more rivers and prepare for the construction of former Prime Minister Brian Mulroney's Grand Canal water diversion project.

Although Strong knows all the facts about nuclear power and how safe and inexpensive these power plants are — no nuclear plant, even when one includes Chernobyl and Three Mile Island, has ever leaked due to construction failure by only because of human "error" — he proceeded to shut Ontario's plant down. This would eventually cause shortages which would be relieved with the construction of more dams on rivers.

Because "free-flowing water" is not a "GOOD" under existing free trade laws, it cannot be exported without government approved permits. Once water is held behind a dam however, it becomes "self-contained water", and as such, is considered private property by the World Trade Organization, the GATT and NAFTA. When this happens governments no longer have a say about the export of fresh water. This is the condition Strong wanted to create while at Ontario Hydro. He succeeded.

As well, as Chairman of Ontario Hydro in 1994, he tried to spend their money, ($10 million) to purchase a part of Costa Rican national debt, in an international shell game, a debt for nature swap. This occurred at the same time he was cutting 10,000 Canadian jobs at Hydro.

A spokesperson for Hydro said he saw no connection with the fact Strong also owned land in Costa Rica. He said the purchase was being considered on environmental grounds — saving a large forest would offset the pollution causes by coal burning power plants.

If that is the case the spokesperson was asked why Strong and Brian Mulroney were cooperating with Power Corporation's plan to build dozens of coal-burning plants in China. He had no further comment.

Recently, Maurice Strong is being "pressured" to replace Boutros Boutros-Ghali as Secretary-General of the United Nations.

"Whether or not I am being considered is an academic question, since there is a very competent (Egyptian) Secretary-General who will occupy that position for some time" Strong said.

There is no longer any doubt that the evil anti-creator has positioned his ANGELS well, in preparation for his final assault on humanity as we know it.

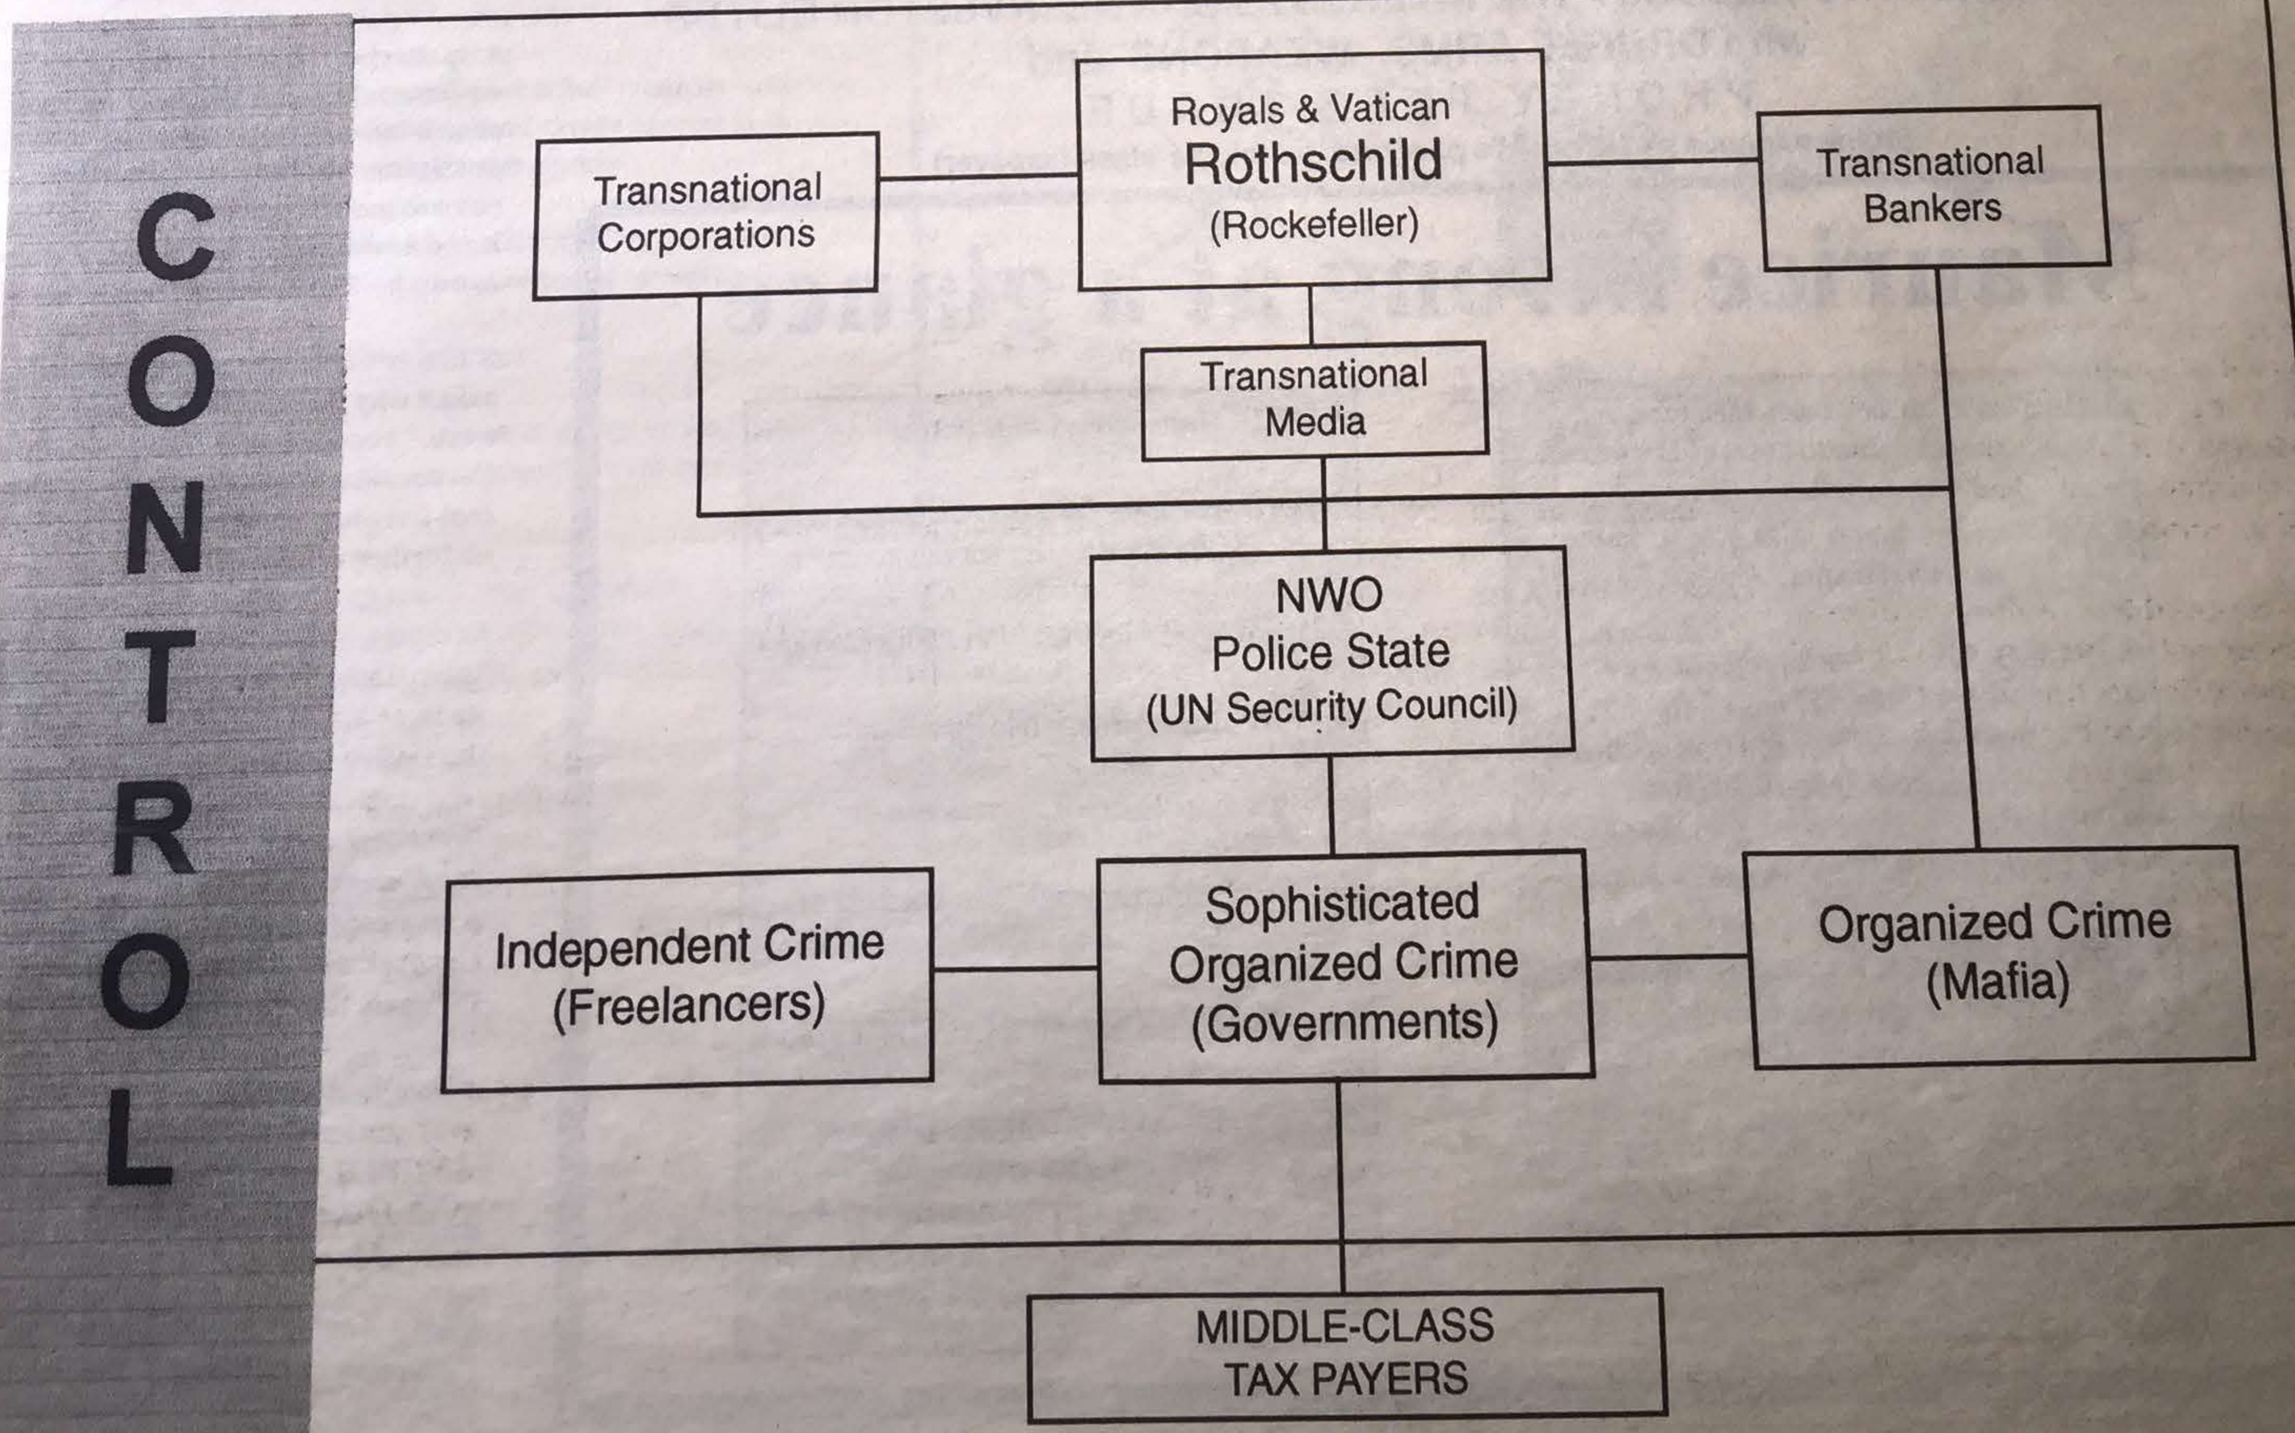
TAXPAYERS "ROLES & MISSION"

Consume, Be Quiet and Die



THE LAST WORD

Canadian Institute for Political Integrity

Dear Glen,

I regret that due to a previous arrangement I had to leave the January 28 meeting in Peterborough immediately after your informative speech and didn't have an opportunity to speak with you.

As I have mentioned to John Welham, my experiences in dealing with the Federal Government and members of the unbridled Federal Bureaucracy are (except for scale) a close parallel to yours.

I agreed to run The National Federation of Insulation Contractors Association (NIECCA) in 1983, for 6 months to develop a working federation to provide collective representation to the small business contractors against the financial atrocities inflicted on the Industry that wiped out 80% of the pre CHIP contractors from coast to coast and every contractor in Peterborough including those established 30 years prior to the corrupt vote buying CHIP program.

Ten days after I was elected president of NIECCA, CHIP administrator Richard McKenzie made a special trip to Toronto, took me out to dinner and then asked how much I lost when the Government shut down the Industry. When I said I lost my business plus my entire life savings, retirement pension funds, life insurance and was on the verge of personal bankruptcy about to lose my house and farm that was previously paid for but was then heavily mortgaged at 21% interest. McKenzie encouraged me to stay on as manager and work in cooperation with him. The Government would fund the new fledgling Federation and I could be the manager with a salary of $45,000 per year and he could give me side contracts for another $30,000 for a total of $75,000. He said "That's the way it's done here in Ottawa" and referred to a lady manager of another association who had a similar arrangement.

I recognized it as a direct conflict of interest and an out and out bribe and declined. He later tried 2 other schemes to get me hooked but in each instance I recognized the situations as fraud or borderline and declined to sell my integrity to the young hoodlums of Marc Lalondes' Energy Mines and Resources. Soon they realized I could not be bought, they stalled and refused to even correspond with me. Over 14 letters from myself and other provincial representatives were never answered until after 7 months I resigned and then the Government took over NIECCA, placed their selected manager in charge, changed the direction of the organization from a lobby group representing contractors, to an agency, running seminars for the Federal Government.

All of the Provincial Contractor Associations and all of the insulation contractor members opted out and the Government ran a phoney puppet corporate front until the end of the CHIP program that killed off the last bastion of hope for destitute contractors as depicted by the CBC-5th Estate expose of September 27, 1983.

The method of control was by way of a Government lead contract for $2,000,000 granted to a former president of a company associated with a former Liberal Government Cabinet Minister. Through this Government agent, and a manager recruited by the hoodlums of EMR, funds were channelled to NIECCA and the directors were kept in line by the perks of meetings held in Vancouver all expenses paid.

It is amazing just how little it takes to buy the integrity of so many people.

Comments on the January 28 Peterborough meeting.

The idea of 100,000 people on Parliament Hill is interesting and while no one can say for certain what it might accomplish, it certainly would draw attention to any well prepared protest and at this point in time an action worthy of support. At first it seems that considering the extreme apathy of people in T.R.O.C., assembling 1,000 people would be difficult let alone 100,000.

However, when we take a closer look at the numbers by district, the magnitude of the job broken down into individual ridings makes it more believable and as you no doubt know, people must believe they can achieve before they will go all out.

With a population of approximately 60,000 in Peterborough and 17,000 in Lindsay making a combined total of 77,000 or approximately 1/4 of 1% of the 30,000,000 population of Canada, it would seem Peterborough would need only recruit approximately 213 people to meet it's commitment and the City of Lindsay need only provide 37 people. The total for these 2 areas being 250 as a quarter of 1% of the 100,000 required which is the % of the population of Canada represented in Peterborough and Lindsay. With each area striving for more than it's minimum requirement in order that stronger areas cover for weaker areas, it seem your goal of 100,000 is believable and I think you will find people more receptive if you introduce their role in this manner, showing the smaller figure they need to recruit from their riding based on its % of the population.

I congratulate you for your efforts and wish you all the success you so richly deserve.

Sincerely,

Bud Pfaff

GUSTAFSON LAKE NATIVE STANDOFF TRIAL

"No shoot to kill order given, RCMP officer states at trial" and

"RCMP denies that the Mounties were sympathetic" to Lyle James Times Colonist, July 16, 1996 p.B3

To the EDITOR,

This type of false reporting is just a sample of what Canadians are uncovering when they follow up on what media protestors are saying; when they claim the national media is biased. National media reporters sit in the courtroom just long enough to hear the police lie and leave the room before they hear proof to the contrary. The lie gets reported as fact and the truth never makes it to the printing stage. This is how the media "manufactures consent".

If no "shoot to kill orders were given", then how else does one explain the "will say statement" written by a member of the military? The soldier writes about a command he received from the RCMP officer in charge of the Bison he was driving. When he reported to the police officer that he had made visual contact with Wolverine, the 63 year old traditional Native seed grower called William Jones Ignace, he was ordered to "eliminate him"

Also, how does one explain the order given to blow up the red truck that carried two defenders to the barricade to pick up the Native Elders sent by the RCMP to negotiate a "peaceful settlement"? Or again, the shots fired at these two swimmers while they swam, unarmed, away from the blown up truck? Did the police not have reason to expect that some, if not all, of the collaborating Native Elders would be killed in the ensuing cross-fire?

Furthermore, contrary to a mainstream media story, no proof has been entered as evidence to conform that a helicopter was ever hit. Nor can one hear shots or other loud noises, from fifteen hundred feet AGL (above ground level), when one is wearing a communications helmet, and especially, while sitting directly under the noisy transmission of a Bell helicopter.

Again, until anyone can reasonably explain why two police officers (both involved in planning covert operations) claim to have been shot in the back only to be saved by bullet-proof vests, discarded the bullets that would have been used as evidence, following the usual forensic testing to determine their origin. Their "story" must be considered suspect. Or again, why the Suburban vehicle they drove was covered in a tarpaulin and taken, secretly, to a venue where a media event was "orchestrated"? Testimony was given by a police officer at the trial which affirmed that, had this happened to him, he would have had the bullet mounted and placed on his mantle.

Also contrary to media reports, police witnesses have testified , both orally and in writing, that they were then, and are still today, sympathetic to the rancher — even though to this date he refuses, or more likely, is unable, to PROVE that lot 114 is located where he says it is. Evidence has been entered that suggests it's located elsewhere, some three or four kilometers away.

If this is the type of reporting one gets from Canadian Pressthat Conrad Black wants to eliminate, one can only wonder about the level of cover up he requires. Now, unless the national print media decide to print a retraction of this article, or at least, remain in the courtroom long enough to hear and report both sides of the testimony in its entirety, I will have no choice but to file another complaint with the B.C. press council and distribute same to all my neighbours.

Mr. Glen Kealey,

RE: CBC PUBLIC INCITEMENT OF HATRED Sec.319 CCC

Dear Sir,

This office has carefully reviewed tapes of the CBC program Sunday Morning, aired on the 14th of July 1996. It is our opinion and that of our Legal Branch, that there are no grounds for preparing a Crown Counsel Report as no criminal offence has been committed. There is nothing in the broadcast that falls within the type of conduct that Parliament attempted to capture by the enactment of Sec.319 c.c.. There is simply nothing there.

I have attached, for your information, copies of the appropriate Sections of the Criminal Code, outlining the criteria for an offence.

You may wish to pursue this matter by way of a Private Information and this avenue is available under the Charter. This Force will not continue an investigation based on the evidence at hand.

Please find enclosed the tape you provided S/Sgt. EAKINS.

Gustafson Lake standoff a diversion, says corruption fighter

Kealey certain Wolverine will be released

Pat Coppard

The Cowichan News Leader

Corruption fighter Glen Kealey is predicting the 18 defendants in the Gustafson Lake trial will be acquitted.

Kealey, who moved to the Cowichan Valley last year to be closer to the trial, says he believes William Jones Ignace - Wolverine - and others arrested during the August 1995 RCMP stand-off will be released for lack of evidence. "Everyone's going to be found not guilty" he said.

"There's really no evidence except very little circumstantial evidence."

Now living in Maple Bay, Kealey said he's travelled to Surrey regularly to attend the trial since it began last July.

The four defence lawyers in the case are expected to finish their closing statements this week, with the jury slated to retire to consider a verdict by the weekend.

"If they're an O.J. Simpson type jury, they'll be out in five minutes." Kealey said. "I don't think it'll take that long.

Kealey attracted national attention in the late 1980's for his 1,000-day vigil outside Ottawa's Parliament Buildings to protest alleged kickbacks and deceit by the Mulroney regime.

A former millionaire developer, he founded the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity in 1992 and serves as its president.

Last month, Kealey filed several complaints with the RCMP stemming from the Gustafson Lake confrontation, including illegal prosecution, abuse of power, use of excessive force and creating false news.

Kealey alleges the RCMP command in Ottawa and B.C. conspired with representatives of the United States Federal Reserve, some native tribal council chiefs and the national media to orchestrate the native standoff.

"Yet, when the facts were known, they still proceeded to place a number of individuals they knew to be innocent on trial," he wrote in a letter to Inspector James Good of the RCMP's Surrey detachment.

He added the standoff cost taxpayers more than $6.5 million and the ongoing trial is costing another $50,000 daily.

Good referred the complaints to the B.C. ombudsman.

But Kealey insists the conspiracy allegation falls under the Criminal Code of Canada and should be investigated by the RCMP.

According to Kealey, the Gustafson Lake standoff was part of an elaborate plan to divert Fraser River water to Colorado via the GRAND canal, using "phony" First Nations tribal councils.

He believes the incident was orchestrated to scare Canadians into settling land claims with the First Nations, so councils can then strike a deal with multinational corporations for the land to build the canal.

Tenth anniversary of the mutiny at MICOT

by Glen EP Kealey

April 1, 1997 marked the 10th anniversary of a mutiny by some of the management at MICOT. MICOT, is the acronym I chose for the Manager's Institute of Communicating Office Technologies, the $160 million project that first brought me to the attention of the elites that ruled Ottawa in the mid 80's. It was designed as an "Intelligent Building", a "City within a City", that I, its promoter/developer, had conceived. It was to be a model for the construction industry during changing times. I hoped that it would inspire others to end further development of similar massive urban construction projects. I expected MICOT would cap the growth of urbanism which itself had been motivated by the "industrial revolution". Afterall, had we not entered a new technological age?

MICOT would be a bridge or launch pad to the future. It would demonstrate the advantages that would accrue to workers and employers alike, by initiating a more natural decentralized technologically based economic system. We would finally recognize the benefits that could be garnered from better partitioning the total hours that we each spend during a 24 hour day. Technologies, such as computers and communications, were making possible professionally assisted home based schooling as well as creating environments for truly effective personal workplaces, complete with links to the outside world. Intelligent houses could now be built in communities surrounded by family oriented leisure time activities — such as golf, alpine and cross-country skiing, hiking, boating, gardening, hunting; or again, if one chose to live in a city — access from home to all forms of culture and arts.

However, MICOT was not to be. On April fools day 1987, the Prime Minister's Office (PMO) moved to shut me down. I had refused Public Works Minister Roch LaSalle when he personally delivered Brian Mulroney's request that I pay them a tollgate or kickback amounting to 5% plus $5000 cash, before I would be given their permission to proceed to spend the money I had raised privately to create jobs.

Comment

Because I refused to pay, they, along with my two main partners, who were themselves motivated by greed, conspired together in a mutiny against me. The ensuing legal battle lasted about a year before my position, as it was stated in our unanimous shareholders agreement, was confirmed by the courts. Although my presidency was upheld at trial, and later, on appeal, the public squabble ended any chance of the project going ahead. My stand, for refusing to pay the bribe that the federal cabinet had demanded to allow me to create 5,000 jobs, cost me personally in excess of $23 million. However, because it remains the main event that eventually launched me on my 10 year private investigation of our "system of politics and religion", I would not change one decision I made then or since.

Finally, I now comprehend why the Creator made me into the "Spiritual Free-Thinking Individual" that I am today. Such wisdom could not ever have been learned by investing any amount of time obtaining "degrees" from the most prestigious universities of the world. To the contrary, I now understand that these degrees, as they are awarded by THEIR "institutes of higher learning", are but a confirmation of the degree of virus infested programming that one has voluntarily accepted to download into one's own brain. In return, these servile Zombies receive a "SON'S LEGACY" which itself is only a "promise to pay" from a bunch of corrupt "accumulating anti-creators". The false promises only state that anti-creators will return to Masons gifts they once stole — the gifts the Creator had given to us all. These mole-like rulers operate from the depths of the underworld. They are the hidden hand that controls the visible Greymen and Masons. Masons are sponsored by them into positions of power. They pull the money strings of both Politics and Religion. Currently the rulers promote a New World Order. Masons are greedy third parties who are always sacrificed in the end. The truth about how "the system" functions can never be learned from within, even with $23 million, without compromising one's integrity. My long 10 year journey from illusion to reality was worth every penny. I would do it all again.

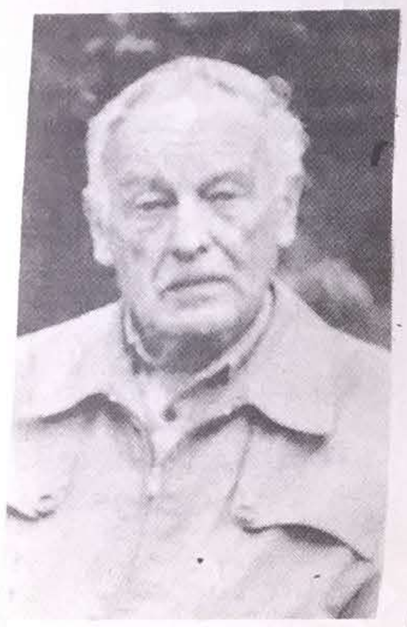
The moral of my story is being written here for the benefit of all free thinkers. Whatever happens to me personally, now or in the future, (this also includes whatever choices Canadians will make for themselves and their families by the next millennium), nothing can ever change the simple fact that, because of the choice I made about the direction in which I decided to take MY life, the end result is the fact that I have enjoyed ten really great years filled with the unforgettable FREEDOM I felt, when I was allowed to be myself. Today, I can truly say that I live and not merely exist. Few can state as much. No amount of money, or promise to live forever, can ever equal that.

The National Media

John Swinton, former Chief of Staff of The New York Times hit the nail on the head in 1953 at a function at the New York Press Club when he stated: "There is no such thing, at this date of the world's history, in America, as an "independent" press. You know it, and I know it. There is not one of you who dares to write your honest opinion, and if you did, you know beforehand that it would never appear in print. I am paid weekly to keep my honest opinion out of the paper I am connected with. Others of you are paid similar salaries for similar things, and any of you who would be so foolish as to write honest opinions would be out on the streets looking for another job. If I allowed my honest opinion to appear in one issue of my paper, before twenty-four hours my occupation would be gone. The business of the journalist is to destroy the truth; to lie outright; to pervert; to vilify; to fawn at the feet of mammon and to sell his country for his daily bread. You know it, and I know it; and what folly is this toasting an independent press? We are the tools and vassals for rich men behind the scenes. We are the jumping jacks. They pull the strings and we dance. Our talents, our possibilities and our lives are all the property of other men. We are intellectual prostitutes".



Rolfe Brock

TRULY A CANADIAN HERO

by Glen Kealey

Rolfe Brock is not just a hero. He is the best model of an Independent Canadian that I have found thus far in Canada.

Rolfe is about to turn 79 years of age but, with the amount of energy he expends in a day, he could put a lot of men with half his years to shame. Tireless, every day that passes he spends fighting for everything and everyone he believes in. And don't let politicians try to pull a fast one on Rolfe because he's got one of those rare built-in "bullshit detectors".

Rolfe was born on the Prairies but was raised in Sidney, on Vancouver Island. Rejected by the army because of asthma he learned the sheet metal trade at Boeing. Rolfe outlived two careers; first, 19 years as Chief Engineer at the hospital in Nelson, and then another 19 years for Public Works B.C. where he was in charge of all the provincial government buildings in the East and West Kootenays.

But art was always Rolfe's first love. Almost born with a paint brush in his hand, one of his paintings makes up part of a Vatican collection. His many sculptures in bronze as well as his prized wood carvings have brought him fame, if not fortune, from around the world.

Rolfe now spends his days doing political cartoons. There never is a shortage of models. Through his work Rolfe always gets even, in one of the few ways left to Canadians, proving with his sketches that his pen is in fact mightier than the sword.

Rolfe joined the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity in 1993 and was named official cartoonist from the time we launched the first edition of the Kealey Paper, in 1995. His drawings continue to evoke as many comments from the public as anything else of a controversial nature that appears in its pages.

As a small token of our affection, Ann and I are honoured to induct Rolfe Brock into the exclusive ORDER OF INDEPENDENT CANADIANS (OIC medal to follow).

Claude Guillemette, Secretary-Treasurer
Rolfe Brock, political cartoonist.

Who are we?

We are the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity (CIPI), a non-profit corporation dedicated to bringing about a truly democratic and independent Canada. We believe this can only be done by exposing the lies that were used to create the illusion that freedom and spirituality can be achieved through politics and organized religion. By exposing the corrupt Accumulators, the Hidden Hand puppeteers that manipulate the world's economic systems only for their benefit, we expect Canadians will wake up to the dangers that lie ahead. What distinguishes us from other groups is not only our analysis of what's wrong; it is the fact that we alone offer a solution that does not merely patch over the problem, but eliminates it from the ground up.

Kealey is the former Ottawa-Hull region commercial developer who spent 1000 days on Ottawa's Parliament Hill before he was allowed to appear in court in 1991 — where he exposed the system of sophisticated organized crime run by Mulroney's government; with the complicity of the Justice System and the RCMP. Former Public Works minister, Roch LaSalle, offered him federal government support for his project in exchange for 5% of all government contributions, on top of the $5,000.00 kickback which LaSalle asked for up front. While investigating, Kealey found evidence of a massive bribe and kickback scheme operated and controlled right out of the Prime Minister's Office, and a close collaboration among Cabinet Ministers, the national media and RCMP Commissioners. Kealey, through a Section 507 Hearing, succeeded in convincing a Justice of the Peace, with 34 years experience, to lay charges against 16 senior politicians and government officials, including Norman Inkster, Commissioner of the RCMP, Henry Jensen, Deputy Commissioner and J. Michael Shoemaker, Assistant Deputy Commissioner, with having conspired together in a criminal conspiracy intended to cease and limit police investigations.

Annhe Kealy, (formerly Shelley Ann Clark) is the civil servant, with 30 years experience, who worked for the Canada-U.S. Free Trade Negotiations Office in Ottawa and exposed an act of high treason committed by former Prime Minister Mulroney. She was ordered by the third highest ranking negotiator on Mulroney's team to come into the office between midnight and 4 a.m. in order to falsify and eventually shred briefing papers designed to mislead provincial premiers as to what was really being given away in the FTA (Free Trade Agreement). In March 1988, she was ordered by her boss to secretly remove key documents from the Free Trade Office and bring them to the trunk of his car. This order was given after he received an internal memorandum that ordered all negotiators to turn over to the National Archives all documents used in the negotiations. While screening the material to be removed, Clark came across an implementation scheme that clearly laid out a step-by-step plan that would eventually lead to the merger of Canada and the U.S.A. by the year 2005. Clark stated that the scheme also contains plans for Quebec's separation, and the construction of a GRAND canal for massive water diversion. After being abandoned by PSAC, her union, and threatened by secret service, Clark went public with her story in May 1993, with the assistance of a lawyer. Canada's national media would rather have you think about TV soap operas, sports, O.J. Simpson and Paul Bernardo.

The following material, about the son of a man who made it his responsibility to inform his fellow Americans about the criminal activity of the elites who control the government, was passed on to CIPI by Mr. Hugh Thompson, of Lake Shawnigan, B.C.

January 15, 1997

Dear Hugh,

I will write a few lines here along with DeCamp's letter and the new book as I told you I would send when they arrived.

I am sure you will find the book interesting and even though the "load" gets heavy, I can't quit trying to get Yori and Scott out of prison.

John told me after meeting with Spector and others in Nash, D.C. He is confident we will get the truth out on National T.V. somehow!

If the Judge is any Man at all, he will release Yori and Scott after all that has been presented to him, the "Habeas Corpus" and Yori's letter to him plus the forced bond motion John is filing shortly.

As I've said before, words cannot ever express my gratitude and support you have done for us, and thanks again.-

Sincerely,
Joan Kahl-Britton

MEMO FROM JOHN DECAMP TO JOAN KAHL

Joan:

I am faxing you a copy of Yori Kahl's letter to the judge.

Joan, please read and share with any you choose.

This letter is without question one of the most compelling and impressive documents I have ever been privileged to read.

This letter demonstrates also, one of the greatest crimes ever committed.

That crime is chaining in a prison one of the greatest and most brilliant minds living in this country at this time. The mind of a person who has a true and comprehensive understanding of how this country came to be; what is necessary if it is to survive; where the core of this country's problems are ...and he has explained it in clear, non-offensive language that everyone can understand.

We must ...absolutely must... keep up the fight until this mind is freed and the true story is told. As I told you, I will be taking the fight to Washington to the politicians one-on-one within the next couple of weeks. Help all you can...and I know you will.

Respectfully,
John W. DeCamp (Attorney)

I have given Judge Jones a brief history lesson on the matter, which he already know, yet I hope to bring to his attention that this cause requires immediate action.

"Justice delayed is justice denied!". This is a maxim of law. Certainly justice has been more than "denied" in our case.

YORI KAHL'S LETTER TO SUPPORTERS
October 23, 1996

Dear Supporters,

Greetings! We (my mother and I) are enclosing a letter that I'm sending Judge Jones. As most (if not all) of you know, the "Habeas Corpus" has been sitting in Judge Jones' court since mid-July. We seem to be at a stand-still, as the judge refuses to talk to our attorney, John DeCamp, unless the prosecutors are there as well; of course, the U.S. Attorneys aren't interested in doing that.

As you know, ALL the judges in North Dakota have been recused from the case. Assistant U.S. Attorney Crooks "resigned" from the case, allegedly under "orders". The remaining Assistant U.S. Attorney, Fisher, has recently been arrested for shoplifting, so now the case has been removed from the U.S. Attorney's Office in Fargo and assigned to Bismarck.

The enclosed letter to Judge Jones is self-explanatory. I hope it prompts him to act. The bottom line is, judges typically sit on 2255's (statutory "Habeas Corpus"} for long periods. The "real" Habeas Corpus was designed to circumvent that duty.

Many years ago, my father gave me some important history lessons that are very pertinent, not only to our case, but to the "real" problems in America.

We all know things are out of hand in this country, and growing worse by the hour. I'm certain there will be "big" surprises after the first of the year.

Grain supplies are at an all time low in U.S. history; and this is a global phenomenon.

Janet Reno has been organizing "meetings" between Federal thugs and state and local police to attempt to insure "cooperation" in the rapidly approaching future.

The Feds have finally been caught running one of the largest drug distribution networks in America—and are admitting to it. If, as Congress has been saying, when passing their arbitrary drug laws, that "drugs cause crime"—well, why are the Federal thugs still running loose?

There is not a shred of difference between what is happening now as compared to what happened in the 1760's and 70's — except both "freemen" and "tyrants" are on the same soil.

Of course, like King John, seven hundred years ago, they don't appreciate the cries of the people—at least they're not heeding those cries. Instead, Janet Reno prepares to assault the people.

Virtually everyone is warning of eminent collapse. The Fed's will try to disguise this; blaming it on crime, drugs and anything but the true cause.

The official U.S. debt is "over twenty trillion dollars". (The mere five trillion you hear them whine about is NOT the TOTAL debt. LIES, LIES, LIES....).

The Anti-terrorist Bill was designed for "you", the average American who will soon be losing the remainder of their hard-won liberties.

"They" know, in their dark "secret chambers" that pressures are building. Unfortunately, "they" have me classified as a "terrorist". They think I want to overthrow the Federal Government. The truth is I want them back within their Constitutional cage where they belong, doing the job they were created to do. (Not dealing drugs and murdering citizens.)

Don't get discouraged, though. We are entering a "new age". Hopefully not the new age "they" foresee. There are going to be very bad times ahead. Regardless, we have no choice but to march on.

Lately, I've been reading a lot on Congressional history. There has been a "conscious conspiracy" going on for a long time to "nationalize America". There have been patriots in Congress in every age that opposed this, but their numbers have dwindled in recent years to almost nothing.

The United States, it needs to be remembered, was nothing but a UNION of states. The Federal Government was created exclusively to tend to matter "exterior" to those states. The Federal Government was purely designed to be an arbiter in those "non-internal" matters which affected the states "in toto".

The Federal Government is a government of "limited" powers. Most of you know this, and any law book clearly spells this out. What it means is the Federal Government is not the "real" sovereign. The Federal Government had "no" general criminal jurisdiction under the Constitution. "After" the Civil War, and as a consequence of martial law, powers were usurped which the Fed's never exercised prior to that time.

One of those powers was the power of the Federal Government to "arrest" inside a state border. They always had the power to arrest, indict, etc. ... in Washington, D.C., military forts where jurisdiction was ceded to the Feds, and on the BANG!

4,500,000,000 BC

A singularity, THE CREATOR expanded the "energy" of HIS being and created the visible universe we recognize as matter, time and space. We humans call this period the "BIG BANG". From then on time would advance in 25,800 year cycles called PRECESSIONS.

3,000,000 BC

Lucy walked upright in Ethiopia — Physical Man, the animal, was born. This period corresponds with the theory of EVOLUTION.

190,000 BC

Modern man shares DNA from a single parent — Spiritual Man, a human-being with a mind and free will (otherwise known as soul or spirit) was born. This period corresponds with the theory of man's CREATION.

50,000 BC

Aboriginals, the original people, populated the entire surface of the planet - even including the extreme polar regions. These first people were hunters and gatherers whose day-to-day activity determined their survival. They had but one God, THE CREATOR. They were mono-theists.

Aboriginals developed a popular, extended family based, clan system of Justice and Government. Clan "government" was CONSENSUS, achieved through a process of POPULAR, PUBLIC and DIRECT DEMOCRACY. It would take another fifty thousand years or so before "ancient" Greeks gave this system its name. Once named, democracy only survived in Greece for just over 100 years before it was replaced with an elitism known currently as PLUTOCRACY. This elitist system of control continues to masquerade as our democracy.

Aboriginal government was managed by the mothers who gave birth to extended families. They were assisted by Life-long Chiefs whom the Clan Mothers appointed, following a public evaluation of each candidate's personal qualifications. The Chiefs were assigned tasks. All appointed Life-long Chiefs were subject to public RECALL by the Clan Mothers, whenever disrespect of the clan was judged, by the clan, to have occurred. With the sole exception of the Clan Mothers who assumed their authority by virtue of having given birth to the clan, all other positions in aboriginal government were appointed, never hereditary. Accumulation was never allowed, as evidenced by the POTLATCH ceremony practiced until recently by the Haida peoples of British Columbia. It was outlawed by the Indian Act in 1876. The anti-thesis to this way of life, hereditary accumulation, is the foundation of POLITICS as we know it today. When politics was introduced the Creator was very, very sad.

The latest ICE AGE began. It peaked at 16,000 BC and ended 8,000 years later. Ice fields receded from the north shore of the Mediterranean.

8,000 BC

When the ICE AGE ended the pale Caucasian "accumulators" exited from their dark caves. AGRICULTURE, FREE TRADE and WAR marked the arrival of the "NEW ORDER" that we naively call "CIVILIZATION" — firstly, at the foot of mount Ararat (today's south-east Turkey) in whose caves these "hereditary accumulators" had stored the great buried treasure which they carried over from the last precession. A selected few migrated to Egypt, India and China. HEREDITARY POLITICS, which is also known as "EMPIRE BUILDING", had obviously not been "CLEANSED" or totally eradicated during the 16,000 year ice age that began our current PRECESSION. The old "Original People" would discover, although it would first take five, and then, yet another five thousand years until these modern times, that life was to get much worse before it would, finally, get better.

3,000 BC

Egypt's Pharaoh was appointed CHIEF of STAFF of their military. He then assembled and empowered a light skinned MANDARINATE from among the few who managed the vast BUREAUCRACY that served him well. THEIR "job descriptions" consisted mostly of performing some "housekeeping functions" — such as; PAY-MASTERS / SLAVE-MASTERS / MAGICIANS ASTROLOGERS / DRUG DEALERS / BANKERS / SCRIBES and ARCHIVISTS as well as TEACHERS. In other words, mandarins kept the books on clay tablets, managed the estate and, taught the Pharaoh's children. These mandarins lived a lavish lifestyle that always equalled that of the Pharaoh himself. Egypt's powerful military had conquered most of the known world. At the time this consisted of the shores of the Mediterranean, Africa, the Middle East and India.

India, strategically located geographically between Egypt and China, was their greatest prize by far. Everything that Egypt's military brought back from India had been taken by force, FREE of CHARGE. Consequently, the Pharaoh, Egypt's first Commander-in-Chief was, by definition, the new world's first "FREE-TRADER". He traded other people's right to be alive in exchange for their natural resources. Free-traders were accomplished thieves and murderers then just as they are today.

Egypt thus became the narrow end of a rich funnel. For 1,000 years or more, VALUABLES that other peoples throughout the world hadacquired during the previous 5,000 years, as far back as the latest ice age, poured into Egypt. Also, KNOWLEDGE, the net gain resulting from "trial-and-error" experiments undertaken by researchers everywhere in the known world was being reported to the "mandarins" of Egypt. The scribes dutifully carved this newly acquired knowledge as writing on stone monuments and clay tablets. Mandarins established archives and libraries that contained all the scientific and astrological research done

FREE-MASONS

They are the Sons of Legacy (SOL means Sun) and when one includes the priests of every organized religion, all politicians and free-traders, every military and/or security force commander, along with every organized criminal, they make up an impressive force to be reckoned with. They are at least 180 million persons strong.

Masons are the "all seeing eye" that assist their controller's "all hearing ear". It, or they, are also constantly listening in on all "above ground" communications from the security of their cold and dark underground (or under-ice) shelters.

Masons don't realize it yet, but history would suggest their masters can't be trusted. Throughout this precession one thing has become abundantly clear; New World Order controllers have always made progress on the corpses of the Masons they have blackmailed and bribed, before they eventually destroy them — to prevent them from ever becoming competitors in the quest for POWER.

ISIS CULT

Heliopolis (City of the Sun) was referred to in the Bible as On but was originally known in the Egyptian language as Innu, or Innu Mehret - meaning 'the pillar' or 'the northern pillar'. It was a district of immense sanctity, associated with a strange group of nine solar and stellar deities, and was old beyond reckoning when Senuseret chose it as the site for his obelisk. Indeed, together with Giza (and the distant southern city of Abydos) Innu/Heliopolis was believed to have been part of the first land that emerged from the primeval waters at the moment of creation, the land of the 'First Time', where the gods had commenced their rule on earth.

Heliopolitan theology rested on a creation-myth distinguished by a number of unique and curious features. It taught that in the beginning the universe had been filed with a dark, watery nothingness, called the Nun. Out of this inner cosmic ocean (described as 'shapeless, black with the blackness of the blackest night') rose a mound of dry land on which Ra, the Sun God, materialized in his self-created form as Atum (sometimes depicted as an old bearded man leaning on a staff).

The sky had not been created, the earth had not been created, the children of the earth and the reptiles had not been fashioned in that place... I, Atum, was one by myself ...There existed no other who worked with me..."

Conscious of being alone, this blessed and immortal being contrived to create two divine offspring, Shu, god of the air and dryness, and Tefnut the goddess of moisture: "I thrust my phallus into my closed hand. I made my seed to enter my hand. I poured it into my own mouth. I evacuated under the form of Shu, I passed water under the form of Tefnut.

Despite such apparently inauspicious beginnings, Shu and Tefnut (who were always described as "Twins" and frequently depicted as lions) grew to maturity, copulated and produced offspring of their own: Geb the god of the earth and Nut, the goddess of the sky. These two also mated, creating Osiris and Isis, Set and Nepthys and so completed the Ennead, the full company of the Nine Gods of Heliopolis. Of the nine, Ra, Shu, Geb and Osiris were said to have ruled in Egypt as kings, followed by Horus and lastly - for 3226 years - by the Ibis-headed wisdom god Thoth.

Who were these people - or creatures, or beings, or gods? Were they figments of the priestly imagination, or symbols, or ciphers? Were the stories told about them vivid myth memories of real events which had taken place thousands of years previously? Or were they, perhaps, part of a coded message from the ancients that had been transmitting itself over and over again down the epochs - a message only now beginning to be unraveled and understood?

Such motions seemed fanciful. Nevertheless I could hardly forget that out of this very same Heliopolitan tradition the great myth of Isis and Osiris had flowed, covertly transmitting an accurate calculus for the rate of precessional motion. Moreover the priests of Innu, whose responsibility it had been to guard and nurture such traditions, had been renowned throughout Egypt for their high wisdom and their proficiency in prophecy, astronomy, mathematics, architecture and the magic arts. They were also famous for their possession of a powerful and sacred object known as the Benben.

The Egyptians called Helipolis Innu, the pillar, because tradition had it that the Benben had been kept here in remote pre-dynastic times, when it had balanced on top of a pillar of rough-hews stone.

The Benben was believed to have fallen from the skies. Unfortunately, it had been lost so long before that its appearance was no longer remembered by the time Senuseret took the throne in 1971 BC. In that period (the Twelfth Dynasty) all that was clearly recalled was that the Benben had been pyramidal in form, thus providing (together with the pillar on which it stood) a prototype for the shape of all future obelisks. The name Benben was likewise applied to the pyramidion, or apex stone, usually placed on top of pyramids. In a symbolic sense, it was also associated closely and directly with Ra-Atum, of whom the ancient texts said, 'You became high on the height; you rose up as the Benben stone in the Mansion of the Phoenix...'

Mansion of the Phoenix described the original temple at Heliopolis where the Benben had been housed. It reflected the fact that the mysterious object had also served as an enduring symbol for the mythical Phoenix, the divine Bennu bird whose appearances and disappearances were believed to be linked to violent cosmic cycles and to the destruction and rebirth of world ages.

QUESTION : How do astronomers know that a planet they cannot see with their most sensitive astrological instruments really does exist?

ANSWER : They search for the "wobble" in the rotation of a star close by.

In the same manner, when searching the identity and location of the HIDDEN HAND that rules the world (the anti-creators), one first looks for ACCUMULATORS, and then, follows THE MONEY TRAIL.

A MESSAGE FROM GLEN KEALEY

"To live a more healthy life, both physical and mental, one must accept to live and struggle daily in the real world — not in a phoney world created out of lies, illusion and denial. Otherwise, one accepts either to be scared, or amused to death - slowly. And because of the tremendous amount of nervous and metabolic energy it takes to live a lie, instead of dieing just once at the very end of one's life, when one lives a lie one 'voluntarily' accepts to die in slow motion, a little bit at a time every day."

It was for these reasons, in 1992, that I founded the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity (CIPI). CIPI, once it was federally incorporated, attracted the support of over 3,000 caring Canadians and would go on to become a people's THINK TANK with a mandate to 'OBSERVE, ANALYZE and CONCLUDE'; and especially, to 'REPORT PUBLICLY ABOUT OUR CANADIAN SYSTEMS OF GOVERNANCE' — to EDUCATE CANADIAN TAXPAYERS on those vital issues that are critical to their own and their children's survival and freedom.

to date. Egyptian alchemists had assembled a database for all medicines known to aboriginals. It was thus that Egypt also became the pharmaceutical and chemical capital of the known world.

In their spare time Egyptian astrologers studied the movement of the stars. They even understood — give-or-take a few hundred years — the approximate 26,000 year cycle of the PRECESSION of all the then known planets that rotated around the sun.

Eventually, with the addition of all of this new knowledge, Egypt's mandarins, as most bureaucrats will always do whenever they get a chance, were no longer content to play second-fiddle to the Pharaoh. He, for all intent and purpose, was totally dependent upon them for his very survival. Afterall, were they not the ones who, in reality, held the Pharaoh's vast gold and grain reserves, paid and fed the military or doctored them with MIR, the pain killing wonder drug? It was the principal medication prescribed when people were sick or injured.

The "theoretical" problem was submitted to a committee or THINK TANK. Teams of "brain-stormers" were assembled from the best thinkers that their institutes of higher learning had produced. These "think tanks" were located at Lake Van in Babylon and at the cities of Karnak and Alexandria. The later two sites were chosen because they were Egypt's entry points, located south and north respectively. It was there that the mandarins would count, and then inventory, their incoming booty as it arrived from India, China or the Mediterranean.

The power and control they had was too great for anyone to ignore. However, the mandarins also understood that if they exposed their treason without first setting the political stage, they would risk their own lives at the rash, unforgiving hand of a vengeful Pharaoh.

The mandarins had analyzed their current problem and evidently had concluded that a clever con job would fool an unsuspecting Pharaoh. This was a dangerous task at the best of times and the project must have necessarily been designed to include with it some measure of "plausible deniability" on their part, in the event the Pharaoh did not ultimately buy their story.

Success would depend upon creating a new, elaborate, deception :

—The first deception they created was POLITICS. Political science positioned the Pharaoh, an expendable third party, between THEM and the people. The political puppet would always take the blame whenever anything went wrong. That's what they are paid to do.

—The second phase they named RELIGION. It alone had the real power to put words, words the Pharaoh wanted to hear, into the mouths of the "GODS" they would create. These invented Gods, they determined primarily out of self interest, would include the Pharaoh himself as THEIR equal. Furthermore, from then on, the mandarins would change their own job description to one of Shaman or Priest. THE CREATOR, they said, would only speak to "others" through them. Only THEY, the ISIS cult priests and SHAMAN (magicians of medicine) were sufficiently holy to hear or interpret HIS WORD. Conveniently, and to the surprise of no one, they alone controlled the stone mason sculptors and the "publishing houses" that were able to carve THEIR GODS writings onto clay tablets or stone monuments.

Thus, it happened that these man-made human anti-creators began to mislead. By making the Pharaoh a God, along with the Sun (RA), the Bull and others, the Egyptian mandarins of 3,000 BC changed their role for all time. THEY became the world's GREYMEN. THEY alone knew about the control that "THE HIDDEN HAND" wields secretly, or that he has ruled and looted the world ever since. Being MASTERS OF FREE TRADE, the High Priest is the PHOENIX. He is the male CEO of the polytheist ISIS cult.

Sometimes, he is depicted as a colourful, large bird that occasionally dies (a temporary loss of control) but who always returns power over the world back to Egypt's ISIS cult. DECEPTION is his best weapon. ILLUSION is the name of the game. BLACKMAIL and / or BRIBES make it all so simple.

Phoenix' next great deception was to convince Pharaoh that THEY were empowered by THE CREATOR to write instructions for his "AFTER-LIFE". THEY called these "DIRECTIONS" to the next world a "BOOK OF THE DEAD". THEY assured the Pharaoh that if he were to move into the interior of the country and erect a Pyramid, it would serve as an everlasting monument for his tomb and also, that directions on "LIVING FOREVER" could be carved on the walls of the royal chamber. The critical side benefit of this for the Phoenix was that the Pharaoh would no longer be in good position to oversee or to audit the enormous inventories of the precious metals, pharmaceuticals and occult supplies, as these treasures were being unloaded by the MILITARY FREE TRADERS at Egypt's borders.

The Pharaoh relocated as instructed and began to build a Pyramid to religion, while the Phoenix drew up the plans to build a monument to himself in the same area. The Sphinx, a LION King-of-Kings, now stands proudly among the tombs of his Pharaohs. Power that priests gained from politics and religion, by putting words in God's mouth, can never be underestimated. With direct access to his victim's own funds, the "High Priest" of the ISIS CULT has ruled over Pharaohs, Emperors, Potentates, Popes, Monarchs, Dictators and the so-called "elected" Presidents or Prime Ministers ever since the first Egyptian leader bought this political / religious scam - hook, line and sinker. At the turn of this next millennium Phoenix will celebrate the 5,000th anniversary of "THE MOTHER OF ALL FAMILY TRUSTS".

Later, we will look at how PHOENIX hired the VIKINGS to help him find a new location for his former Turkish hideout, and again, when he moved his secret headquarters with its vast riches; including the cartel's gold, diamonds and cloning DNA, along with all of the historical scrolls he first stole from Egypt, to its current site — to the safest haven on planet earth — GREENLAND.

The Cliff Turner Story

CANADIAN INJUSTICE

by Rick Hammerbeck

Canadian Courts have attracted recent international attention by enforcing publication bans and secret trials, vainly attempting to shield proceedings from both their public, and their media.

However, with the vast majority of their population residing within 200 miles of the United States border, this has not only proven futile, but politically damaging.

By accessing the information superhighway and by taking advantage of the media outlets of their southern neighbour, Canadian residents can easily uncover the hidden facts.

Americans, weaned on the inalienable right of the media to pursue an issue and to examine all people, regardless of their status, cannot comprehend how such a condition could exist. In order to fully understand how two North American countries could be so alarmingly different, the darkest side of the Canadian system must be exposed.

Globally, all nations contend with the omnipresence of corruption within the infrastructure of court systems. Any process of regiment derived by human beings must be tainted, as surely as humankind is morally tainted.

Every civilized nation deals with this problem on their own terms, and with varying rates of success. Many countries incorporate a legal stronghold instituted by a small elitist, power group historically using a survivalist strategy to manipulate and suppress the masses.

When they control how justice is dispensed, they can control the country itself. This is common knowledge. One only has to look as far as Italy with the recent exposure of criminal wrongdoing, and the decay of their government, to realize the interdependence of governments and their systems of justice.

What sets Canada aside, is that, they are a major player who has not yet been caught cheating.

When the Canadian house of cards finally falls, other nations will undoubtedly be affected.

A widely publicized incident, in Canada, devalued the Canadian dollar on international markets, when news of alleged government corruption broke.

In 1991, Glen Kealey, a businessman from Ottawa, Ontario, successfully laid charges against 13 members of parliament, all from the Conservative Party, and 3 commissioners of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The charges stemmed from allegation by Kealey of his being solicited to pay money out, as kickbacks, to receive government contracts. Although highly unusual, a politically appointed Director of Criminal Prosecutions later withdrew the charges against the politicians, even though the charges were accepted by a Justice of the Peace after 13 witnesses gave testimony over a period of 17 days.

It is difficult to gauge the damage that Kealey's allegations inflicted on the Conservative party, but at the next election, Canadian voters reduced the Conservatives from the majority party to a mere 2 seats of the 293 seats up for grabs.

The conservatives, now virtually defunct, knew how to stickhandle their 'bad boys' through the loopholes in the legal system. But, even in light of the public's docile and unquestioning nature, their antics sometimes bordered on the absurd.

In 1989, Richard Grise, a conservative MP, pleaded guilty to 11 criminal charges involving the pocketing of House of Commons funds and also demanding bribes from contractors. For this he was sentenced to the 1 day he had already been in jail, a fine, and 3 years probation.

Under the Canadian system, politicians are allowed to keep their seats in the House of Commons, as long as they are not sentenced to more than 5 years for their crimes.

Subsequently, Grise showed up as usual in the Commons, after the court thing was dispensed with, much to the chagrin of the opposition. When a fuss was made of the whole affair, his fellow conservative MP, Doug Lewis, who was both Canada's justice minister and attorney general at the time, rallied to Grise's defence.

In answer to why Grise, the convicted criminal, was still sitting there, eager to assist in running the country and passing laws, Lewis advanced his argument that "the poor man has been through so much". Again, in June 1993, Grise pleaded guilty to two counts of breach of trust, testifying that he had obtained government contracts in his son's name, then forged his son's signature and cashed the cheques, pocketing the money.

With his criminal record now expanding by leaps and bounds, Grise received the sentence of a fine, and 300 hours of community service. Of course, the judicial system in the United States is not without its cancerous corruption and rampant abuses. But the similarity to this system stops there. Any American citizen feeling inclined to ridicule the U.S. legal process has only to compare the differences.

Canadian and American justice systems were both derived from the English common law. However, when America fought for liberty and obtained it, great advancements in the areas of equality, citizen's rights, avenues of redress, safeguards and fairness were made.

It is ironic that Canadians, whose dollar is currently worth only 71 cents against the US dollar, suffer a whopping 51 percent heavier tax burden than their American cousins. Civil unrest over English taxes was the catalyst that catapulted the dissension over British rule, into the War of Independence.

Grand Juries, which were implemented to protect British subjects against malicious persecution, were also used as an irritating vessel of early separatism. Directives from Britain to prosecute individuals within the American Colonies could be effectively quashed at a grass roots level.

Today, with separatism no longer an issue, the role of the grand jury has seemingly reverted to its original purpose in the United States. Canada not only neglects the use of grand juries, but there exists a concerted movement to abolish pre-trial hearings (as with Gustafson Lake Standoff trial). For an accused, this would mean going straight to trial, and leave weighing whether the prosecution is even warranted, up to the same people that are seeking a conviction.

Although the US process has shortcomings, it is a workable system, and, in theory, no singular person is beyond the reach of the long arm of the law. There are multiple appellate courts, numerous watchdog agencies, various state and federal regulatory bodies, and independent police and law enforcement agencies to assure that end.

In Canada, other than some small municipal and two provincial police forces, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police have sweeping jurisdiction as the sole police agency. There are no 'hot shot' district attorneys or federal prosecutors trying to make a name, and career, for themselves by going after corruption. Instead, there are justice department personnel and bureaucrats trying to ensure a lifetime job for themselves by pretending it doesn't exist.

Justice department lawyers, bureaucrats and personnel, all the way up to the attorney general, defend the federal government in litigation. The attorney general is also the justice minister, who is a politician appointed from the ranks of the ruling party, thereafter to be addressed as 'The Honourable John Doe'.

When a politician is elected as the prime minister of Canada, he is to be addressed as 'The Right Honourable John Doe'.

When in the House of Commons, they refer to one

Gustafson Lake B.C. — A "Traditional" Native Standoff ?

RCMP BRASS and NATIONAL MEDIA Serve and Protect Bankers

by Glen EP Kealey

Let's begin by stating the reality. An illusion was orchestrated for the Canadian public during the summer of 1995. The standoff never happened in the way the RCMP and the National Media claimed it did.

With the benefit of a ten month trial that I attended, I can now confidently state that reports of a "traditional native standoff" were pure fantasy and worthy of comparison with anything else that comes out of Walt Disney Studios.

Yes, there were heros. No, they were not members of the RCMP. Wolverine, also known to Canadians as William Jones Ignace, stands out head and shoulders above all else. He is now into his fourteenth month of "dead time" at the Surrey Pre-Trial Centre. B.C. judges are so afraid he'll speak out and spoil their Native Land Claims scam that they have denied him bail ever since he was re-arrested in 1995, at the request of the Attorney General Ujjal Dosanjh. Jonesy's entire family, especially his wife Flo, are heroes too. And, so are Splitting the Sky, aka Doc Hill and his family, Stuart and Teddy Dick, James OJ Pitawanaquat and one white lady, Shelagh Franklin. Others, who played minor roles have tried to keep away from taking sides.

However, most important for Canadians to know, is the fact that a phoney Indian Pipe-carrier, Percy Rosette, his wife Toby Edwards and her son David, armed with the AK 47's bought with money from two white females agents of the US Federal Reserve, were supported in creating a MEDIA EVENT designed to fool Canadians. The Privy Council of Canada, the Federal Cabinet, the Provincial Premier and his Attorney General, all played significant roles in support of the RCMP and Canadian Military's High Command charade. Your first glimpse from behind the scene appears in the CHRONOLOGY below.

A CHRONOLOGY

01 — 1986 — Percy Rosette was inducted as a phoney pipecarrier by the Rockefeller / Quaker / Oren Lyons Alliance.

02 — 1988 — PM Brian Mulroney orchestrated the enactment of the Canada - USA Free Trade Agreement (FTA).

03 — 1988 — Mulroney launched a three pronged process leading to unilateral Constitutional change. It consisted of a Royal Commission on Aboriginal Affairs, the Meech Lake and Charlottetown Accords.

04 — 1989 — Mulroney then began talks that led to the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), in 1994.

05 — 1989 — A Mexican national, Mr. David Pena Sr., "committed suicide" by taking an overdose of illicit drugs.

06 — 1989 — Pena's "suicide" enabled his Shuswap widow, Toby Edwards, to return to the Caribou region of B.C..

07 — 1989 — Mary Jane Pena (nee: Toby Edwards) moved to a property leased by Percy Rosette, a local Shuswap GROUNDSKEEPER located at Gustafson Lake. Since then, Toby lives with Percy as his common-law wife. Many rumors circulate concerning Toby - that she once chased Percy with an axe, and that her son, David Jr., once bopped her on the head with a heavy object because she would not give him some money to buy illicit drugs. In 1994 Toby Edwards began asking Anne Notnes for money. Notnes is linked to the Rockefeller Foundations.

Some questions that arise due to the Gustafson Defenders trial point to Pena's possible connections to illicit drugs.

— Why was this court case named after Toby's Mexican name - Mary Jane Pena - rather than her Shuswap name?

— Why would the court even consider naming this case "Mary Jane Pena et al" in the first place?

— Why was Lance Bernard, the province's "illicit drug prosecutor" chosen to try this case? Bernard is in serious conflict as he orchestrated the disposition of the case of David Pena, at Williams Lake, B.C., including the release of Toby's truck from custody prior to David's trial. The truck was returned to the Sundance site at Gustafson Lake.

Mr.Bernard's assistant Jenny Fawcus is related to a former B.C. judge linked to the bankruptcy of the GANG Ranch.

Natives suggest that Toby was responsible for initiating the only permanent residence at the camp site and later,the standoff,once her two children were safely out of harms way (her son David was in custody in Williams Lake after orchestrating his own and Ernie Archie's arrest). The arrest, combined with the Fisheries officers finding guns and ammunition in Toby's truck, provided the RCMP with the excuse they needed to call a press conference designed to scare an unsuspecting public and bring them on side with the police — it was the first step in a public RCMP SMEAR CAMPAIGN orchestrated by Bernard the Crown, George Garrett of CKNW and Sgt. Peter Montague of the RCMP - see RCMP videos A3 / A5 / A11. In the end, it was Toby who held out against a peaceful withdrawal. Later, prior to the 1996 Christmas break in the trial, Toby told Ron Jules, the Band Chief at Adams Lake, that she had received a deed to a new permanent residence located within the boundaries of the Chilcotin Nation, on land also claimed by the Shuswap Nation. The Chilcotin are locked with the Shuswap in a native against native land claim fight.

08— 1989 — Percy Rosette was once "best friend" of William Jones Ignace, a native Shuswap Elder who worked on his own seed farm, as an "open-pollinated" seed grower. They spent seventeen years together, mostly travelling and holding meetings to speak to any group national or international, including the United Nations, who would give them a forum to speak in support of Native Sovereignty. On August 18, 1995 he would fabricate a report to police.

09 — 1989 — An agreement to use the site, for a four week period in July 1989 and repeated yearly for four years was negotiated between Percy Rosette and Ernie Archie on behalf of the native Sundancers and a bible thumping rancher, Lyle James, an American who claims to hold a "fee simple" legal deed to the unceded Shuswap land located on a part of the former Sun Ranch, described in court as District lot 114. The trial raised questions as to lot 114's location.

10 — 1990 — Percy Rosette and Jonesy Ignace were introduced to Anne Notne's by one Lester House, a native who claimed to recruit / finance native sovereignty protestors, (Anne Notnes born: Anne Davison — aka: Anne Bronson, from a previous marriage, now remarried to a "New Ager", a Danish immigrant named Rocky Notnes who attempted to warn me in Jan / Feb, 1996 of the illegal guns purchased by Anne for the Sundance site). Anne Davison is the real-life daughter of Henry P. Davison Jr. and Anne Stillman. Both were wealthy American elites linked directly to the Rockefeller Foundation, the Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Institute and J.P. Morgan. Henry P. Davison Sr. was one of seven men who attended a very secret meeting on Jekyll Island, where the Federal Reserve System was conceived to create a "national debt". Interest payments on the debt would, in part, be funded through the creation of a national income tax. These seven wealthy men together, in 1910, either represented or at least fronted for, an estimated one-fourth of the total wealth of the entire planet.

Anne Davison (Notnes) oversees a large ranch that borders CNR tracks, near Hinton, Alberta, while her sister also owns another much larger ranch that borders on her own.

During the early 1990's Anne's daughter, Suniva Bronson, reportedly joined

RCMP CONST. GEORGE FINDLEY'S REPORT TO COMMISSIONER MURRAY. ALSO, IT WAS READ, BY HIM, IN COURT:

(Gustafson Lake Area):

History - Before colonial times - hunting, fishing, berry picking - Trade route to Canim Lake, North Thompson area.

1832 - Black Dome Intertribal Agreement area - 2,000 square miles of territory. Blackdome Mountain to east side of Green Lake.

1864 - Douglas Reserve. Negotiated between Governor Douglas of colony of B.C. and Canoe Creek and Dog Creek Indian Bands - 300,000 acres as far southeast as Neilson Lake. (Approx. 3 km. east of Gustafson Lake.) Gustafson Lake built by Louie Mtinmeshen or Louie "Tin Musket" as known by whites. Originally was flat meadow but damned to help cultivate land and as fish source. Also to provide year round water supply to Dog Creek. Many natives lived year round in area. Some log cabins remain in area today.

1865 - Joseph Trutch - Lands and Work Commissioner for B.C. Never attempted to understand natives; never learned the language; believed natives were sub-human; never learned their culture; believed they were savages; declared natives non-citizens; passed ordinance that natives could not buy, sell, or pre-empt land; down sized reserves, along with his surveyor Peter O'Reilly, from 300,000 acres to 14,000 acres or 5% of the Douglas Treaty.

1870 - March 30th -Excluded natives from partnership in Confederation - Joseph Trutch. The 14,000 acres reserved for natives is mostly non-arable land, i.e. rock cliffs, canyons, and steep hills. (NOTE: Those are the reserves that exist now - Dog Creek, Canoe Creek, etc.) Trutch believed natives would be extinct due to the smallpox epidemic of 1862 which in fact did wipe out 15 Shuswap Bands from Soda Creek to Enberry.

1858 - Whites move into area and start ranching after failing in gold rush. These whites lived with and married local native women - these whites would then purchase reserve lands from the government. Also, under Trutch, the natives were given 10 acres per family. However, a white could homestead 160 acres and his brother could homestead another 160 acres, etc. etc. (NOTE: Dog Creek was one of the main routes for prospectors heading for Quesnel.)

First white 'owner' of land in question - Esidore Gaspard Versepeuche, 1860-1885. Married native woman - Motla in 1871. Known as Gaspard Ranch. The ranch was then sold several times. Frank Armes sold ranch to Lyle James, but told the natives he had seen surveyor markers at Gustafson Lake marked Indian Reserve.

1920-1940's - Natives were not allowed to sell or buy agricultural goods off reserve; had approximately 500 head of cattle but had to down size because of no land. Natives were urged to sell reserve land if they were in dire straits - by the govt. agents of the day. Throw in alcohol and residential schools and it ain't hard to understand the loss of land and family breakdown of the native people.

CONCLUSION:

Sundancers are not being supported by local natives or Bands. However, they are firm in their belief that they are occupying native land which was, basically, stolen from the natives. No indication they will be leaving soon.

RECOMMENDATION:

Do NOT take police action to remove as public support from local native Bands would, or could, shift in a hurry. The police could then be made to look bad."

OBSERVATION — ANALYSIS — CONCLUSIONS

another as the 'Honourable member'. Supposedly, they are honourable, one and all - right up to the 'five year conviction rule'.

Another spoke in the wheel is the Governor General. Originally, the monarch in England designated a person as the crown's representative, or governor general, sending the lucky soul to the new land to keep an eye on things. Now, the governor general is politically appointed by the ruling party in Canada, and is called 'Honourable' also.

The last Conservative appointed as governor general was 'The Honourable Ramon Hnatyshyn', and he was a former MP from the conservative party, where he was justice minister and attorney general. Canada is divided into provinces, and each province has its own courts. In criminal cases, a federal criminal code is administered by the individual provinces. Appeals are made to the court of appeal in each province; and from there to the Supreme Court of Canada.

As the supreme court hears very few of its cases, there is, in effect, really only one appeal within reach. Judges are routinely promoted from the lower court to the appeal court. The Supreme Court of Canada sits in the country's capital city, Ottawa, Ontario. The Prime Minister appoints the supreme court justices to their post, of his own accords, where they dispense justice, dressed in flowing robes and ornate headgear.

There is another court - that is designated as a special court. This is called the Federal Court; and this is where you must go if you file a suit against the government. Yet again, these judges are politically appointed and, within their ranks, there are actually ex-politicians.

During the Clarence Thomas hearings stateside, the appointment of a black lawyer, Julius Issac, to Chief Justice of the federal court was heralded by the Canadian national media. Astonishingly, his career was brandished as a plus factor. He spent 18 years on the justice department payroll, defending the government in cases against them.

To appreciate the oddity that has allowed this strange court system to evolve, the character makeup and origin of the Canadian people must be examined.

With respect to the ancestry of the Canadian people, the majority of them were Americans settling in what was British North America solely to escape the Revolution and the ensuing freedom wrestled from Mother England.

While Americans fought for freedom and reaped the benefit of a process designed by the people and for the people, Canadians were content to accept authority without question at the expense of their rights.

An indication of how serious the problem has become for the country is evident in the way they fail to police the judiciary. In sharp contrast to the United States, where numerous judges have suffered criminal charges laid against them, Canada has rarely even removed a judge from the bench.

There have been cases of early retirement, however, such as Justice Leonard Martin who stepped down from the Federal Court when caught parading around drunk in a hotel hallway wearing a black bra, panties and nylons. This situation is due, in part, to the submissive and timid nature of the Canadian public, who do not elect judges, but simply watch the hierarchy appoint them to their office. Adding insult to injury, in some Canadian courts, these judges are to be addressed as 'my lord' or 'my lady', further assuring their 'untouchable status' and cementing the public's general acceptance of authority.

When lawyers enter or leave the courtroom in Canada they are expected to bow to the judge, showing great reverence for his lordship. Further, unlike their American counterparts, Canadians have had little say in how judges conduct their business.

Within the last 25 years Canadians could file a complaint against a judge to the Canadian Judicial Council, but this regulatory body is made up of Federally appointed justices and, as the record shows, is largely ineffectual. While Americans view the mere thought of a body or group policing itself as ludicrous, Canadians seem to embrace it as being quite natural. This complacency has not gone unnoticed by the establishment and has been used voraciously as a tool to distance themselves from reproach.

When politicians above the 49th parallel find themselves in the limelight by some untimely disclosure of their highly questionable activities, they simply, with much fanfare and flourish, empower a commission to investigate. If they are blatantly caught with their pants down, they call it a "Royal Commission" (such as the recent Royal Commission on Aboriginal Affairs).

This serves a multiple purpose by not only allowing them to gainfully employ those persons in their political favour, but resulting in a costly, time consuming process that can bog down the most tenacious critic. Another inherent perk, is that this regal circus will result in recommendations being made, by the commission, that can be selectively implemented to even better serve their designs.

There exists another handy tool that has been in use for centuries. This is the very confusion itself, that has always existed in Canada, with respect to who is answerable to whom. The founders of a country that split the blanket with England as late as 1867, realized this golden egg and passed on the torch, successor to successor.

In 1984 some recommendations of the MacDonald Commission were adopted to require the RCMP to answer and report to upper level bureaucrats and politicians, effectively quashing the police's ability to go after those very same 'big fish'.

Earlier, in 1949, the practice of appealing to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in mother England was put to rest and the Supreme Court of Canada became the last resort for Canadians trying to seek justice.

Of late, in 1990 and 1991, Justices of the Supreme Court of Canada were made 'Deputy Governor Generals', answering to the politically appointed Hnatyshyn. Their oath reads, in part: "...and provided always that you (the justice's name) shall during your continuance as my Deputy obey all such orders and instructions as you from time to time receive from me.". For this the judges are paid $5,000, except for the chief justice. He receives $10,000.

HARDLY AN INDEPENDENT JUDICIARY, ESPECIALLY IN THE COURT OF LAST RESORT.

North Americans, as a whole, must weigh and consider the fact that Canada, for all intents and purposes, did not even have a Charter of Rights until sixteen years ago. With the advent of television and modern media, Canadians were, for the first time, subjected to an insider's view of American justice and, for the most part, were not aware that those precious constitutional rights brandished before them on their television screens were simply 'not available in Canada'.

A strong example of one sided and oppressive influence, by the government, was evident in the manner in which juries were impaneled. As recently as a few years ago the defense lawyer had only 12 vetoes during jury selection. How many did the government prosecutor get? Why unlimited, of course. This is Canada.

When the law was changed giving both sides an equal 12 opportunities to veto, Justice Peter Cory of the supreme court wrote "...it creates the impression that prosecutors have an unfair advantage in picking juries.". Obviously, Cory never got involved in picking a sandlot baseball team when he was a kid.

There was no reading of a person's rights upon arrest, no phone call, and still today, instead of 'The People versus John Smith' the court clerk, with great pomp and ceremony, will loudly declare something like this: "In the County Court of Westminister. Canada, Province of British Columbia, County of Westminister, City of New Westminister. Her Majesty the Queen against John Smith.".

Yes, references to the Queen are confusing, especially in light of Canada being a supposedly free country for the last one hundred years. But the other side of the coin is that, if somebody wishes to take on the Canadian government, or its agents, or the bureaucracy, they face a 'smoke and mirrors shell game' of gargantuan propor-that there are TWO SIDES TO BOTH SIDES of every story

Anthony "Dudley" George

Early on September 5, 1995 Stony Point natives occupied Ipperwash Provincial Park. The land was stolen from the natives, by the Canadian military, in 1942. Several OPP officers in tactical gear approached Dudley George and others who were near the park fence and shouted threats at him; "Dudley, you are going to be the first!" Two attacks on the Stoney Pointers followed. At 11pm the police attacked the unarmed men, women and children with clubs and batons. When they retreated the OPP opened fire on them, killing Dudley George. Within hours the Government announced they had located an old deed that proved the Natives were right all along.

Clayton Miller

Clayton Miller, the only son of Maureen and Gervais Miller of New Waterford Nova Scotia, died at the age of 17. His body was discovered in plain view on the second day of a search in the park where he was found. Neighbours report seeing a police car parked in the area in the early hours of the morning before the body was found. Clayton's parents believe that their son was killed during, or following, a Friday evening raid by police on the kids in the park. At the parent's insistence Clayton's body was exhumed and a second autopsy performed. It revealed that the coroner who made the original findings of "dry drowning" had lied. The present government of Nova Scotia refuses to pursue a criminal investigation against the New Waterford police.

Time for a new relationship

The AIC (pronounced ache) is not a political party. The Assembly of Independent Canadians is a political movement that we expect will sweep the country over the next three years. AIC will bring about change to the current Canadian political system that presently delegates the people's political decision-making power to politicians. The founders, and only directors of the AIC to date, are Glen EP Kealey and Shelley Ann Clark, of CIPI.

On July 1, 1994, Glen Kealey and Shelley Ann Clark were married in a native ceremony on Parliament Hill. They jointly made this decision in order to make a public statement to Canadians — that they respected and acknowledged the traditional natives' culture and that their marriage would be a small stepping stone towards a coming together of both nations. In a press release the Kealeys said: "It is essential that both traditional nations join hands together if we are ever to reclaim our country".

On February 12, 1996, the Kealeys came to Western Canada. Following their last tour of Western Canada, in the spring of 1995, the demand for a solution to our political mess became so great that they decided to launch the political movement they named the Assembly of Independent Canadians. While Ann recuperates from the trauma of the attempts on her life, fibromyalgia and the subsequent orchestrated media smear campaigns carried out against Glen and her, Glen has attended the Gustafson Lake Native Standoff trial in B.C.. Following the trial Glen Kealey will embark on a three year tour of Canada. The purpose of this AIC "Wisdom" Caravan is to bring directly to Canadians, crucial knowledge the Kealeys have acquired, but that the national media refuses to share with Canadians.

The goal of the AIC "Wisdom" Caravan is to focus 100,000 people who will assemble on Parliament Hill, on July 1, 2000, for an indefinite period or until such time as the national media agree to tell these hidden truths to the people of Canada. Throughout world history all successful non-violent revolutions had assembled such a critical mass (100,000 people). The Kealeys make it very clear that this Canadian revolution is to be totally PEACEFUL, as it will be ARMED ONLY WITH THE TRUTH ....and 100,000 VIDEO CAMERAS.

The march to Ottawa's Parliament Hill is being dedicated to the memory of four young people, Dudley George, Dora Bieber, Clayton Miller and Tom House, whose personal tragedies remind us daily of the unpredictability of life in a Police State.

Tom House

A Metis, Tom House was an independent radio producer working with Co-op Radio, in Vancouver. Following an interview with Glen Kealey on the topic of Shelley Ann Clark blowing-the-whistle on Brian Mulroney, for giving away Canada's sovereignty and natural resources, including fresh water, during the Canada - USA Free Trade Agreement, Tom told Kealey that he was investigating members of the Board of Directors at Co-op Radio. A week later, Tom was stabbed to death on a sidewalk near the station. The Vancouver police, although they identified and apprehended the suspect, refused to prosecute him, and instead, drove him to the U.S. border where he was deported. Police say he would not have been convicted.

Dora Bieber

Dora Bieber was kidnapped from her mother, Maria, by the Children's Aid Society of Ontario. Maria had immigrated to Canada from Hungary, a Communist country. Thinking that the services offered by the Government here were the same as in the old country, Maria left her daughter Dora in their care while she searched for work. Following the third time that Maria left Dora with the CAS they declared her an unfit mother and refused to return the girl. When Maria told the CAS that "they would burn in hell for what they were doing to her" she was charged with "attempted arson". After years of trying, and dozens of court appearances, Maria had still not been able to change the "SYSTEM". Then, Dora was adopted — to thwart Maria.

SHELLEY ANN CLARK

July 1, 2000 - AIC march on Ottawa's Parliament Hill YES, it can happen and YOU can make the difference

YES

You Can Make a Difference

by

Shelley Ann Clark

The magnitude of the defeatist attitude that Glen and I first encountered as we met Canadians and told them of the plan for an AIC march to Ottawa's Parliament Hill, on July 1, 2000 motivated me to write this article. Personally, I was inspired by a wonderful book titled "The One Hundredth Monkey", written by Ken Keyes. It defined the pyschology of crowds (critical mass).

Everywhere we went far too many caring Canadians had said: "I can't make a difference - What's the point? - They're too big - They cannot be stopped". Similar statements were echoing over and over again until we both wanted to shout out loud — "Stop it, can't you see that you can make a difference? Don't you see that they're just a paper tiger? They will win only if they convince you to do nothing about it. Think it through. You do have the power to effect change — if only you would all join together to act as one."

There is more power in large numbers than most ever dream of. This is true. When enough of us are aware of something, all of us become aware of it. Glen and I believe that the love most Canadians share for Canada, for their community and their family creates an energy field that no one can destroy.

There is an urgent need for you to inform yourself of the dangers that exist today if, together, we are to protect Canada for future generations. For the sake of your children and grandchildren you must share in the responsibility for doing something concrete to help this much needed change happen.

PLEASE ACT NOW. Join with the Assembly of Independent Canadians. Begin by taking it upon yourself to spread this message.

tions. The Canadian elitists have protected themselves well.

In a nutshell, for civil remedy against the government, dissidents and claimants seeking relief must chase the Queen, and she is a hard lady to catch.

Under Canadian law, private citizens cannot abrogate a Canadian's newly acquired constitutional rights. Only the government can be held responsible, in theory at least. This would lead the way to suing the Queen, commonly referred to as 'suing the Crown'.

Until recently, however, the Crown enjoyed a privileged position in that, before anyone could sue the Crown, they had to get the Crown's permission. If this seems slightly unfair, it is only the tip of the iceberg. You should remember that these injustices were borne of an acceptance of British rule, patiently witnessing the decline of the British Empire, and putting blind faith in the early examples of bureaucrats.

The most horrendous case, in which falls the darkest day for all Canadians, involves a prospector named John C. Turner and his well publicized fight against government corruption. Turner, an ex-military man, etched out a living after the second world war scoring the mountains of Canada's north country as a prospector. He worked hard, and he worked for many years. He made a bundle - a true success story.

Then all hell broke loose.

Well documented by the Canadian media, the corruption, suspense, and intrigue was worthy of a spy novel, and involved players from the mining recorders office to the office of the prime minister of Canada. Turner staked a claim in the remote Yukon, and recorded it in the mining recorders office. Then Canada Tungsten Mining Co. came into the picture, claiming they held title to the land, and filed a suit against the prospector. Realizing they were on shaky ground due to their contraventions of the laws pertaining to staking, they lobbied the government to change them.

Erik Neilson, brother to actor Leslie Neilson of "Naked Gun" fame, was Deputy House Leader at the time and spearheaded their efforts. His law firm in Whitehorse, Yukon was the registered office of Canada Tungsten. Neilson later became the deputy prime minister of Canada when the conservatives came to power. Normally there is a tradition in Canadian parliament that when a law is changed, any court cases in progress are excluded because they are termed 'sub judice'. In this instance, however, the stakes were high and the political ties ran deep. On June 1, 1984 parliament, with no mention of Turner's court case, passed Bill C-44 that changed the staking laws in the Yukon, and for good measure made them 60 years retroactive.

Almost everyone involved has since agreed Turner's rights were violated, but it wasn't the darkest day for all Canadians.

That day wasn't to happen for another 8 years.

Undaunted, the tenacious prospector battled on, enlisting the help of Jim Fulton, one of the members of parliament that had consented to the bills passage. Fulton realized that he had been duped into participating in a political scam designed to broadside Turner, and for years he tried to right that wrong.

Turner reasoned that the case against the government was 'open and shut'. As he saw it "they broke their own rules of parliament". He filed a suit against them, in federal court, armed with an accounting of his substantial losses.

They stalled, and the years dragged by. Turner amassed all kinds of ammunition against them, although to this day he still has not received some 71 documents. "What could be so secretive about a simple change in a staking law" he asks. When he did receive documents - from the mining recorders office via the justice department, they had been altered. He then tried to lay criminal charges before a justice of the peace, but was turned away at the counter.

He attributes their refusal to even accept the paperwork to lingering fear from the 'Kealey Affair'. "They won't even take the informations, when it states right in the criminal code that they have to take them", he said in exasperation.

Not unnoticed by the old prospector, the 'judges funnel syndrome' was still in motion. Mark Macguigan, who was the justice minister when Bill C-44 passed, was appointed to the federal court as a judge. So was Yvon Pinard, who was government house leader at the time of its passage.

Even though Turner tried to lay a criminal charge against Macguigan for his involvement in Bill C-44, the biggest downfall for the prospector came when Ramon Hnatyshyn was appointed Governor General. He had been named as a defendant in Turner's lawsuit. Nothing strange about having your defendant as the very same man to whom the Supreme Court of Canada justices swore an oath. But as it turned out, the supreme court simply refused to hear the case.

This left Turner with the judgment of the Federal Court of Appeal. This was handed down on June 22, 1992. That was the darkest day. Justice Mahoney declared that "We are all of a view that an action against Her Majesty based on allegations that Parliament has been induced to enact legislation by the tortious acts and omission of Ministers of the Crown is not justiciable".

Which, for the layman, means that, although a citizen is forced to sue the crown to chase the politician, the crown is not responsible because the politician did it. Turner was dead in the water, after 14 years. Full circle, parliament sent him to court, court to parliament - he went home.

The interesting element of the Turner case is that, not only did it officially close the door to a private citizens' fruitful litigation against the hierarchy; but also that of any corporation, foreign or domestic, that is not within the Canadian elitists' circle.

The Federal Court hears cases of a corporate nature dealing with the federal government itself, and has exclusive jurisdiction in such areas as trademarks, patents and copyright. An American company, then is faced with the prospect of lengthy and expensive proceedings with a seemingly slight chance of success. The inseparable ties between the bureaucracy, the government, and their own courts makes their impartiality suspect.

Canadians appear grow uneasy of late, holding scattered demonstrations against their taxation woes, and waving symbolic tea bags in protest. There have been movements, and pressure afoot, to restructure criminal laws and parole guidelines. They are slowly coming to grips with the realization that rampant crime and violence isn't just across the border with those 'gun slinging yanks'.

Will the populace realize the relationship between their money problems and their justice system, and a system that allows convicted thieves to sit in parliament? Although the monetary crisis is brought home by articles like the recent Wall Street Journal editorial comparing Canada's finances to that of a third world country, Canadians should question the 'Turner Affair', and the corruption it exposes.

Turner, who now operates a small motel in a rural area in the province of British Columbia, has tried to get help from his own provincial justice system. This has proved to be fruitless. The then attorney general of B.C., Gablemann, had confessed to committing perjury in a sworn affidavit; but still retained his post. The chief justice of B.C., Allan MacEachern, who was cited by the United Nations Human Rights Commission for displaying an ethnocentric bias, has supposedly dealt with Turner's formal complaints to the Canadian Judicial Council. He sits on the council.

Interestingly enough, MacEachern, along with the chief justice of Canada, Antonio Lamer, are attempting to soften the system of dealing with judges. Although in some 25 years the council has never removed a judge, MacEachern has this to say on the subject: "WE have a jurisprudential system that has worked remarkably well by comparison with the rest of the world. Why put it at risk?".

Head in the sand? Naive or scandalous - it's a moot point. Canadians will go to great lengths to portray an air of correctness, and watch out if you suggest otherwise. When the controversy over American media outlets disclosing details of secret Canadian trials was raging, an associate editor of the "Calgary Herald", in an article of December 7, 1993, concerning the American media, wrote: "How dare the smug, self-satisfied media trolls of a country that can't spell justice, let alone practise it, presume to tell us what's wrong with the Canadian courts?".

Fortunately, this view is not shared by some of the people who have been in positions of power, or are still trying their best to deal with a serious problem.

Jim Fulton, now retired from federal politics, in a letter to Turner, the old prospector, in April of 1993, wrote: "I learned a great deal about the 'Establishment' thanks to my association with you. If only the school system adopted your case; so that every Canadian child could grow up knowing what happens if you let control of a country fall into the hands of scoundrels!".

Can the polite, and industrious, Canadian people, with their soft spoken and trusting manner, take hold of their future?

The colonial bred timidity of these children of a distant and severed monarchy has spawned a judicial system that is destined to haunt them. If the strength of a nation rests with the ability of its justice system to clean its own house, then Canada is morally and ethically bankrupt.

We got rid of Mulroney
Now, if you send us your Toonies
we can get rid of the Loonies

The origin of the Order of Independent Canadians

As Annhe and I travelled across the country on our previous speaking engagements we met so many gracious and caring Canadians that we decided to create a special medal which we could use to show them our appreciation for the work they were doing on behalf of Canada. The example that came to mind was the Order of Canada. However, we knew it was being awarded to many deserving Canadians only as a cover for the medals they wanted to give to their own crooks. The Order of Canada allows the crooks to bask in the glory of the more deserving. We, on the other hand had to make certain that every Canadian who saw a neighbour or friend working for the benefit of their country could, themselves, induct them on our behalf, into the Order of Independent Canadians. When we looked into the possibility of minting our own medal we discovered the prices were beyond our means. Luckily for us the Government unknowingly came to our rescue. They began to circulate the TOONIE for us, right across the country. And guess what? It depicted the CIPI philosophy on its two bi-metal surfaces, that is — THERE ARE TWO SIDES TO EVERY SIDE OF EVERY STORY. So we brought a number of Toonies to a local jeweler who glued a broach pin onto the Queen side. That turn our Toonies into medals. We placed them in nice boxes and Annhe sent them out to the first "inductees". They were an immediate success. Now, the demand is overwhelming us to a point where we need your help. If you want to help us save Canada here's a great new way to do it. Place a jar on your night table and at the end of every day drop in every Toonie you end up with each day. Then, once a month, wrap them up in a box and ship them off to us, in Kelowna. Some we will mount as medals, to induct more caring Canadians into the Order, others we will turn into travel vouchers to help us get the message out to communities who cannot afford to sponsor my visit on their own.

April 24, 1997

Dear Glen:

The reason that I am writing is that Paul and I had the opportunity to hear your lecture for the first time a couple of weeks ago when you were in Toronto, and we were really impressed! We got three of your videos, and would also be interested in receiving info on the video from this last Toronto lecture when it becomes available.

Paul asked me to send you the two articles (enclosed) which he has written - "Space Aliens from the Pentagon" and "Codex and our Freedom".

Best wishes to you and Ann - and keep up the good work. We thank you both and appreciate what you're doing on behalf of all of us who love truth.

Joyce Medley, Scarborough, Ontario

Space Aliens from the Pentagon

UFOs, flying saucers, cattle mutilations, alien abductions, the "Greys", the "Greens", reptilian serpent people from Beta-Reticuli - and, let's not forget those perfect circles - all keep cropping up in conversations and farmers' fields these days.

This "alien phenomena" that's been around for the past half century or so has been brought to the forefront in the collective mind of the world with television productions like The X-Files, Sightings, and PSI Factor. We have Whitley Strieber's book Communion, and Betty and Barney Hill's close encounter experiences in New England. And Hollywood's list goes on with movies such as E.T., Independence Day, and Fire in the Sky.

And all the while, we have secretive government agencies and "men in black" travelling the world over telling those "abductees" who claim to have starred in the "real movie" to keep their yaps shut or else. Are you confused yet?

Perhaps author William R. Lyne can help dissipate some of this confusion. In his book, Space Aliens From the Pentagon, Mr. Lyne - with a skeptic's critical judgment and no small amount of genius - has methodically torn down the mystical shibboleths of "alien" contact and technology, and gives a reasonable and rational explanation to most if not all the secrecy and mystery surrounding these issues.

The clear-cut thesis of this book is that flying saucers are man-made machines employing the wondrous discoveries of that turn-of-the-century electrical genius, Nikola Tesla. All of the garbled, misleading and confusing information surrounding this astounding advance in "Free-Energy Propulsion" are all efforts to "spin-doctor" and occlude this basic fact.

Nikola Tesla, Lyne contends, truly was a man ahead of his time. By as early as the 1870's Tesla had conceived the basic idea behind electric flying machines, and began experiments forthright. By 1897, Tesla had formulated his "Dynamic Theory Of Gravity", which stated that all bodies (atomic masses, etc.) have electrical content. Their movement, together with their particular electric content, in space, in which there are magnetic and electric fields as well as cosmic (Zero-Point) radiation, causes them to emit microwaves. These microwaves react with the "ether" which subsequently behaves like a "continuous, electrically conductive, fluid, solid-state mass". The interaction between the microwaves and different bodies through the ether, causes their gravitational interactance.

Tesla began to conduct laboratory tests (high voltage experiments relating to the high frequency reactance between two parallel plates) to verify his hypothesis. These tests confirmed that at sufficiently high voltage and frequency, the "space" ("ether") became what Tesla termed "solid-state". Tesla carried his hypothesis a step further, and concluded that an "anti-gravity" flying machine could be propelled by the reactance of high frequency, high voltage electro-magnetic waves. Author William Lyne avers that by 1915, or so, Tesla had a stove-sized machine operational, and was making night flights out of his hotel room at the Waldorf Astoria, all over New York City!

"Space Aliens from the Pentagon" also tells of another physicist, H.R. Lorentz, who had conducted related experiments in electricity and gravitation. Lorentz' theory states that by simply increasing the moving negative charges (electrons) attached to the stationary nuclear charges (protons and neutrons), the gravitational attractive force acting on the positive charges of the nuclear mass would be completely neutralized. Lorentz deduced that the electrical attractive force is ten to the power of thirty-nine multiplied by 2.2 times stronger than the gravitational attractive force!. It is no small wonder that these "Flying Saucers" are able to reach such astounding speeds. Lyne also states that in this form of propulsion, inertia and momentum are canceled as well as the gravitational force. Could this account for the inexplicable maneuverability (in total defiance of the accepted laws of physics) possessed by these fantastic machines witnessed by so many in the skies the world over?

In 1919, explains Lyne in his book, Tesla went to Switzerland with all his plans for the electric flying machine and offered it to the League of Nations, for the free use of the peoples of the world and in the interest of world peace. In his naivete, Tesla had given this invention to the gaping, salivating maw of the Illuminati who were almost certainly in total control of that organization. Lyne states that we next see this technology surfacing in Germany in the 1930's where it, in earnest, began to be developed.

"Space Aliens from the Pentagon" talks about several Allied aircraft crews, towards the end of WW II, witnessing anomalous, unidentified flying objects, nick-named "The Foo-Fighters". According to these crews, and the turret camera films taken during the air war over Europe, these objects were highly maneuverable, quick, and impossible to shoot down. This is solid celluloid testimony of the existence of these silvery balls, likely piloted by hot-shot young daredevils from the Luftwaffe. There were several different sizes and shapes of craft and Lyne illustrates in his book the "cigar-shaped", "hat-shaped", big saucers, little saucers, etc., seen by so many witnesses from all over the globe.

"Space Aliens from the Pentagon" also delves into some of the mystery surrounding the end of World War II. The flying saucer was not the only example of advanced technology in the Reich according to Lyne who writes about the development of the neutron and atom bombs by the Germans, as well as the development of "Red Mercury", the subject of much speculation in patriotic circles today. These advances, states Lyne, were used by the collapsing Reich at the end of the war as bargaining chips, and resulted in a secret stalemate with the Allied powers. As part of the deal, the U.S. was the recipient of this flying saucer technology which was taken immediately to military bases such as White Sands, Sandia, Ft. Bliss and Holloman.

Lyne writes that during top-secret Operation Paperclip, the U.S. received thousands (approximately 15,000 to New Mexico alone!) of German scientists, administrators, researchers, psychologists and intelligence "apparatchiks", who assisted and instructed the Americans to bring them up to speed. Part of this operation included Werner Von Braun and Reinhard Gehlen who, respectively, were pioneers in rocketry and intelligence operations. Lyne also points out that the travesty of the Nuremberg Trials was going on (prosecuting only political leaders, and not scientific personnel) at the same time that the U.S. was clandestinely bringing these other Germans in. Does this not make Nuremberg a case of selective and vengeful justice, and, furthermore, could this explain the meteoric rise in technological advances in America after World War II?

"Space Aliens From the Pentagon" goes on to explore how these and other technological advances have been buried far into the shadows and dark corridors of U.S. government agencies such as the N.S.A., C.I.A. and O.S.I. (Office of Scientific Intelligence). In his book, Mr. Lyne examines the apparent grafting of much of the German Intelligence apparatus to that of the U.S., and purports that this was the genesis of the "National Security State" and the perfecting of the "Big Lie" technique. It is this self-proclaimed "National Security State" that is employed by these agencies to goad, bully threaten and otherwise control the whole UFO question.

Lyne talks about the Roswell Incident, providing convincing proof of a hoax perpetrated for the express purpose of making us think of "little green men from outer space". He points out the cosy relationship between Hollywood producers, C.I.A.-backed script writers and various other research groups who are setting the agenda on "both" sides of the UFO question. It is all a matter of spin-doctoring and information-control, according to this author of Space Aliens From the Pentagon - to make mankind look "out there" for the answers and not "here on earth". This also conveniently creates a "common enemy" scenario (the E.T.'s are going to take over the world!) which dovetails nicely with the Illuminati's plans for a global government.

Lyne also puts forward in this book that the world's Patent Offices are virtual "clearing houses" for the Illuminati,

CIPI MAILBAG

Editor: Cliff Turner is a B.C. prospector who filed a claim on land that later proved to be extreemly valuable. When a Transnational corporation confirmed this fact they got their politicians in Ottawa to retroactively change the law and stole the claim from Turner.

Dear Glen:

As you are aware through the past phone calls, I am involved in a similar situation in which government, bureaucratic and political corruption is rampant.

Stonewalling. cover-ups, lies, forgery, perjury, fabrication of evidence, altering material documents, conspiracy, contempt of court and parliament, destruction and loss of documents are the commonplace factors in my case. I haven't found a "prima facie" financial bribery yet, but wait and see. All of this in my case done at the instigation of an American Corporation, with the active complicity of the civil servants right up to the Ministers. We can well imagine the graft implicit in this situation which enabled the firm to have the law that they were in violation of, changed in Parliament while the case was before the Yukon Supreme Court and made 60 years retroactive, all this done in under (4) months — the bonuses must have been lavish to the officials in the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development (DIAND) and Justice, John Munro, Minister of (DIAND) and Mark MacGuigan of Justice. Erik Nielsen was central to this nonsense, with his friend Keopke, the corporation expert witness and the instigator of the infamous "Static" claim jumping, involving forged, altered and purged forms. The pay off must have been substantial to ensure swift and sure passage of this sub-judice 60 year retroactive ad hoc legislation in favor of the lawbreakers and to protect the officials from the malfeasance and maladministration in the legal enforcement of the Y.Q.M.A. as to their sworn and paid for duties.

Glen as you will know, I can name Ministers, politicians and particularly bureaucrats by the score as culprits in my situation, you've basically named the Quebec Mafia and I have the Parka Mafia of the West most entrenched in Ottawa. No difference in attitude or wrongdoings, only in name.

A short list of political names culpably involved in my situation read like a Who's Who in Ottawa: Mulroney (Defendant), Hynatyshyn (Defendant), McKnight (Defendant), Masse (Defendant), Ministers of Justice - Crosbie, Clark, Lewis and Campbell, Minister of (DIAND) - Crombie, McKnight, Cadieux and Siddon. Of course, the originals, MacGuigan, Munro and Erik Nielsen. Also, former R.C.M.P. Commis-sioner Norm Inkster, for ignoring the "Prima Facie" evidence sent to him in respect to this situation and numerous lesser lights who are no less culpable within the civil service.

This situation now touches on (4) decades and (5) court actions, one settled by fraudulent means (4) of which are still active, though stonewalled by our exquisite Justice (?) department.

One solid factor I have noticed in your own laying of an Information and Charges against these dandies, is the complete and utter amazement and shock that the reporters and so-called authorities evince, not over your charges, but the factor that you were able to find an "honest" official in Ottawa, in the form of Justice of the Peace, Lynn Coulter.

Almost like "Diogenes", you faced an almost impossible task within the confines of our political, and bureaucratic Justice System. No wonder our "lawmakers' our "law upholders" and our "law enforcers" are flabbergasted, who ever in their wildest dreams could envision that upstart Glen Kealey would ever locate a decent person who would finally listen to his story, unheard of blasphemy in Ottawa. There may be hope and a small ray of light at the end of this long vexatious journey for the truth, decency and honesty. I know I'm still searching almost vainly, but there are some good people out there, and hopefully they will come forward in this hour of despair and need for "integrity" in government.

Authorities investigating authorities, my! my! like getting the goats to watch the cabbages or the fox to guard the chickens. These bureaucratic government people have been indulging freely in corruption for so long that they really feel that is how you do things. "They are above the law". They have no recent knowledge of any other way. Protect my ass, stall, obfuscate, fall back on every filthy bureaucratic trick known and invent more if necessary. The "SYSTEM IS SICK FROM THE TOP DOWN".

Glen, the honest and decent people in this land applaud you and wish you God speed in your quest for Justice in your situation which affects us all.

Well, Glen, all the best and keep in there, right is right and don't let these unmitigatged corrupt bastards forget it.

Respectfully yours,

John C. Turner

Mr. Glen Kealey,

Hello Glen, for quite some time I have been trying to locate you to communicate with you and help in any way possible, as well as seek help in issues that you have had considerable more experience than I.

I finally, decided to take the phone book and track you down again. After many calls to Kealey listed phone numbers, I finally found your sister. After a brief orientation chat, she gave me this address and advised me, in a very limited way, of where you are and what you are involved in at the moment. Congratulation are in order and may our prayers be answered in a way that is very very visible to you, to encourage you to continue your work.

Glen, my name is Lloyd Sheppard. If you will recall, I visited your home back in, I believe it was, 1992 or very early 1993. Remember the three Social Workers who had a total of eighteen charges laid against them back in Newfoundland by that Provincial Puppet force and not one charge could stand the judicial test when put through the due process of Law.

For all three of us, that was a very very ugly experience and the media tried to make us look like the felons that the due process of Law proved we were not. Even though, we were all proven innocent and we wanted the real culprits exposed for what they did to us, to date we have not been able to contact a lawyer in this country who will, in any way, assist us to pursue our dilemma that continues to cloud our every move. This has left us viewing the Legal Community as nothing but SILVERED TONGUED SERPENTS who prey on the innocent at public expense. We know we cannot resurrect Our Saviour for our own personal use and have HIS Wisdom represent us in our quest, however, we do believe we can find a way to have the truth become public knowledge and then let the Law take it's course. We are convinced that the UNTOLD SIDE of this story will start the ball rolling in the right direction and will never lose faith in what we know to be the TRUTH.

To quote Sir Winston Churchill on this issue, "The safest place to hide the truth is under a huge pile of lies" unquote. In this case, we cannot allow this to occur and what ever we have to do to prevent this, within the Law, we will.

My question at this time is, our objectives have much in common, with the very organization you support, can we find a common ground and battle plan that will be of mutual benefit? I believe we can and add strength to each other in the process. May I have your comments on this, please.

I have a fax machine and it is on the same phone number as my phone, so it is just a matter of a call to send me a fax. I wish I had your fax number at this time, I would not have to wait for weeks for our ancient mail system to work.

For your assistance in this matter, I have enclosed a return addressed envelope for you to use and look forward to seeing it in my mail box in the near future. God bless you both and do not give up the fight, it is well worth every minute.

Sincerely

Lloyd Sheppard

Trilateralists and their friends in government. Unwitting developers and inventors apply for a patent only to have it stolen or "deep-sixed" by these mattoids, with the only recourse being expensive litigation in courts friendly to these same controllers. This happened to William Lyne personally, and he discusses his case in the book. Could this pilferage be the reason that there is little if any development along the lines of "free energy" or energy-efficient technologies - and the reason we are still using inefficient combustion engine technology that is at least a century old?

"controlled environmentalist movements"; first, with those protesting fresh water diversion projects, and then, sailing as a crew member on Sea Shepherd II (a protest ship secretly funded by Prince Philip of the royal House of Windsor), and in 1993, was a suspect in a "break-and-enter" at the University of Alberta. The B&E was later attributed to the Animal Liberation Front. This type of activity is consistent with the elites modus operandi. They create their own opposition — to gather the mailing lists of the real protest groups and control public donations. As a by product of becoming the "funding agency", elites can then also portray themselves as victims on their controlled media. Both Suniva and Anne live off the interest income paid to their trust funds,based in Chigago.

11 — 1993 — A Native Shaman (magician / illusionist) from Morley, Alberta, John Stevens, (now known to be Percy's wife Toby Edwards' adoptive father — Toby is aka Mary Jane Pena), suggested he be allowed to consecrate the site across Gustafson Lake from Percy Rosette's lease. Stevens' stated belief was that this land was the location of an ancient native burial ground.

At the time Stevens was having legal problems on his property in Alberta. Stevens had raised $2 to 5 million by logging on his land. However, the Government had seized his bank account, claiming that all money earned from logging belonged to the Tribal Council and not to any individual native.

Stevens' only defense was to claim that "traditionals" like him were not linked to Tribal Councils and his property was his own private land, to do with as he will. It was then, in 1994, that he hired Bruce Clark as his lawyer and joined the Native Sovereigntist movement led by other traditionalist natives, in Ontario and B.C..

12 — 1993 — Lester House, the native who lived in a house owned by Anne Davison (Notnes) in Hinton, Alberta contacted John Hill. "Doc" Hill, a native patriot then residing in New York City was assisted financially ($3,000 to cover his outstanding debts) in return for attending at Hinton. Upon his arrival Doc was asked, by Anne Notnes, to consider blockading roads in Jasper Park, near Hinton. Doc declined.

Eventually, Doc would come in contact with Jonesy Ignace (Wolverine), Percy and Toby, John Stevens' family and other traditional native Sovereigntists. Later , when Lester House departed from Anne's property, Doc Hill and his family were settled in Hinton.

13 — 1994 — This period coincides with a time when John Stevens offered Percy Rosette support for his traditional SUNDANCE site in B.C. (lot 114). The Sundance ceremony is a traditional spiritual ceremony of penance and forgiveness which was more common to North American plains indians. This second initiative (joining the movement being the first) when added to Stevens' third initiative, being his more public role in bringing an end to the standoff in 1995, prove that John Stevens was personally responsible for both of the roles he played — as the creator of the standoff, and ultimately, for bringing it to a peaceful conclusion.

14 — 1994 — Later that year, upon viewing a video tape of a lecture given in Edmonton by Glen Kealey, Doc Hill contacted Kealey's CIPI in Ottawa and a meeting was arranged between all groups at the Hinton home of Anne and Rocky Notnes, during November 1994.

15 — 1995 — The Gustafson Lake standoff began in fact when the camp was promised a meeting between all parties. It was scheduled for August 21. However, the RCMP chose to send in a covert hit squad dressed in camouflage during the night of August 17 / 18. Const. Ray Wilby claimed a shot was fired at them in the dark. Evidence given at the trial suggests Corp. Callander's gun went off accidently. Suniva Bronson supplied the funds to purchase the three semi-automatic weapons linked to the camp. Suniva Bronson also recruited a number of natives such as OJ, Paintball and Shadow. She provided them with transportation, by lending her own car to bring natives into the camp following the August 17 incident. She also recruited Robert Flemming and Trond Halle. Halle would record the event on video from inside the camp. Norm Torp, a CSE MILITARY SPY on the RCMP, was instructed to do likewise from the RCMP side. WESCAM and FLIR would record activity at the site from the air.

16 — 1995 — The only dispute between the RCMP and the military (JTF2) which is documented in the disclosure released to the defense acknowledges that the RCMP wanted to use the military's equipment and weapons such as the Bison APC's and 50 millimeter machine guns in a pro-active violent manner, while the military were inclined to a much more passive approach. Could it be that the military knew the danger that these weapons could inflict upon their agents in the camp - ie Pena and Bronson et al ? In the end the dispute was resolved in favour of the RCMP's more violent approach (later, General Addy was fired) by the Privy Council of Canada. Obviously, the agents were deemed "expendable".

17 — 1995 — In September 1995, due to their participation from the very beginning of the ongoing standoff, and in return for helping them end the standoff as well as the ongoing battle over the broader question of native sovereignty, the RCMP offered John Stevens and his family immunity from prosecution. Reportedly, in turn, the RCMP were also instrumental in releasing the seizure of John Steven's $2 to 5 million bank account.

18 — 1996 — In November 1996 the Report of the Royal Commission on Aboriginal Peoples was released. It recommended that a new Royal Proclamation be proclaimed by Queen Elizabeth . It would allow the Government of Canada to transfer vast tracts of land to the control of native "Indian Agents" known as Tribal Council Chiefs. This would free up the land for sale -

Dear Mr. Kealey:

This letter is in reference to your complaint of abuse of power, excessive force and creating false news, against seventeen senior officers and other members of the RCMP in "E" Division, as well as the former commanding officer. This complaint was lodged via the Officer in Charge of Surrey Detachment and is as a result of the Gustafsen Lake incident which occurred in 1995.

I am in receipt of the extensive documentation which you submitted via the Surrey Detachment. As you are well aware this matter is currently before the courts. In view of that fact and having regard to the nature of the documentation you have forwarded, please be advised that pursuant to Section 45.36(5)(b) of the RCMP Act, I am not prepared to launch a full investigation into your complaint as, " ... the complaint is trivial, frivolous, vexatious or made in bad faith ..." and pursuant to Section 45.36(5)(c) of the RCMP Act, "... having regard to all of the circumstances, investigation or further investigation is not necessary or reasonably practicable..."

In accordance with Section 45.4 of the RCMP Act, I am notifying you that the investigation into your complaint is now concluded. Should you be dissatisfied with the manner in which you complaint has been handled by the RCMP, you may request a review by the RCMP Public Complaints Commission by corresponding with them at:

Re: Complaint of Illegal Prosecution

This will confirm your conversation with Staff Sergeant R.A. Dear Mr. Kealey:

Re: Your complaint about the Ministry of the Attorney General

You contacted us recently, on the suggestion of the RCMP, with a complaint concerning His Honour, Judge Bruce Josephson, and about Crown Counsel Lance Bernard and Jennifer Fawcus. I understand that your complaint relates to the Gustafson Lake prosecutions.

As I believe our Intake Officer discussed with you, we do not have jurisdiction to investigate the matters of which you complained. We do not have jurisdiction over either the police or the courts, and our jurisdiction with respect to Crown Counsel is limited. In particular, section 13 of the Victims of Crime Act removes our authority to investigate complaints about prosecutorial discretion. As you may be aware, prosecutorial discretion includes decisions made by the Crown as to whether or not persons should be charged with particular offenses.

I am sorry we could not assist you.

As I have permitted Mr. G Kealy to view the tapes with Mr Ignace, I would be grateful for any accomodation you can make to enable this to take place as expeditiously as possible.

Yours truly

On December 3, 1996 Gustafson Lake trial Judge Bruce Josephson ordered that 46 hrs. of RCMP "Training Tapes" be disclosed to the lawyers for the 18 defendants at the trial.

Because William Jones Ignace was representing himself, having just fired his lawyer Harry Rankin, he was authorized to view the RCMP tapes in his cell, at the Surrey Pre-trial Centre.

Wolverine asked the Judge to allow Glen Kealey, his researcher, to attend the viewing with him.

What follows is the script of the hand written letter by the Judge, authorizing Kealey to enter the Surrey Pre-trial Services centre to view the full 46 hrs. of what proved to be the RCMP's Sleaziest Home Videos.

On these tapes Kealey saw and heard the RCMP media relations group plan "a disinformation and smear campaign against anyone associated with Bruce Clark". THINK AGAIN ... and AGAIN high seas. Attempts to arrest citizens inside the states, on state property, ended with the U.S. Marshal being shot or arrested and tried by the state for assault, kidnapping or some other related crime. And, until 1889, the Federal Courts had no power to release them from state custody.

The Fed's created what is now commonly referred to as "Federal Interest". They claim an attachment to anything "Federal" through the "necessary and proper" clause of the Constitution. However, if one merely reads the debates of Congress under the Articles of Confederation (pre-1787), it is evident that those "necessary and proper" powers only applied within the circumscribed powers specifically enumerated, and the Ninth and Tenth Amendments to the Bill of Rights were included to insure the Fed's didn't exceed those bounds.

Of course, today, we all know the Fed's are in every man's home and pocket. And, "they" don't intend on leaving.

The good news is, Americans are beginning to wake up to some degree. About two years ago, the supreme court justices of all the states met and agreed that the Fed's are usurping jurisdiction rightly belonging to the states. The various justices concluded they "can" do something about it.

Also, within the last year, the governors of the states met in Ohio. They came to the same conclusion.

We all know militias are sprouting up like wild flowers. Anti-Federal movements of all ilks are flourishing everywhere across our great land. (They are much larger in numbers than you might first suspect; although very disorganized.)

I'm concerned that if this case is not resolved soon it never will be. Nothing is stable, and there is clearly very increased activity by the Administration of this country in preparing for the calamities ahead. The courts "don't protect Our Rights" now. Soon, they won't even PRETEND to.

Mom is down to 104 pounds. She'll be seventy years old soon (January 1st). She's working too hard, but there is no one else to do it, so she doesn't complain.

I know there's a good deal of concern due to things moving so slowly. John DeCamp has NOT "sold us out". The problem is we're dealing with Goliath, and Goliath is a brute. He doesn't play fair.

We're doing all we can with the case. It couldn't have got this far without your help, but it appears things have stalled. When horses do that, they need a "spur" on the behind. We're working on that now.

We have many options. I have been mulling them over for some time. One is a bond hearing motion. It, unfortunately, is likely to meet with the same result — a deaf ear.

We can file a "Mandamus" — i.e., an order from a higher court compelling Judge Jones to do his duties. (It's a shame history has recorded the necessity of such a writ).

We can file a 2241 (what's left of the "real" Habeas Corpus), either in this District (Kansas) against the Warden, or the same with a judge on the Eight Circuit, or the same with a Washington, D.C. court against the Attorney General, or the same with a justice on the Supreme Court. Filing to the Eight Circuit (one of "their" judges), or to the Supreme Court (one of the Justices), is a proper remedy in exceptional circumstances. However, the likelihood of them considering this as one of those circumstances is not very promising, although it clearly should be.

This CASE is probably the "most politically sensitive" case the Fed's have handled in the past century. It goes very HIGH. Pressure from "you" will unquestionably help. (No, I don't believe in "democracy"). Keep in mind, though, that times are sensitive, and a lot of the rascals are looking for sanctuary.

With this in mind, in the near future, Mom and I may request that you either write letters or send a motion to the court. You all have an interest in justice in this case. Each of you has the Right to redress the Government when a fellow Citizen's Rights have been trampled. This is a recognized fact of law. I'm looking into this, and will notify you soon as to which avenue appears to be the most likely to succeed.

We need funds to go on. Neither my mother nor I like to constantly ask for money. However, the bottom line is, if the money stops, everything stops. As it stands right now, we're just keeping up with things on a day-to-day basis. Several important projects simply couldn't be accomplished, as the funds didn't stretch far enough. If we have a hearing, unless the witnesses pay their own travel expenses, we're not going to have enough funds to call our own witnesses. This could be the deciding difference.

To add to that, we're planning on sending John to personally see several congressmen to present evidence, etc., and we can't do it with our present funds.

We humbly thank you for your many offerings of support. "When we are victorious, the victory will be yours as much as ours." Believe me when I say this will leave a black eye on Goliath that our great-great-grandchildren will ponder. "Dominoes will fall with a loud crash!"

The Kealey Paper prints the truth, the "whole" truth and nothing but the truth - no matter what sacred cows are destroyed in the process. The Kealey Paper WILL NOT USE "STORY LINES" WRITTEN BY EDITORS who control what information you will receive. NATIONAL CHAIN NEWSPAPERS ARE NOT INDEPENDENT. These Newspapers are CONTROLLED by their EDITORIAL BOARD. Evidence confirms that at times they outright lie, report only half truths, willingly participate in "RCMP ORCHESTRATED SMEAR CAMPAIGNS" and employ "SPIN DOCTORS" to twist and turn the facts, so that you NEVER KNOW what "really" happened. Do you want these media "opinion makers" to decide what facts you should or should not receive? If your answer is YES then keep buying your newspaper from the National Media. They will make certain that you remain in the dark. Be an ostrich or an eagle. You decide.

The Accumulators

Turtle Island was the name given to the single land mass that existed on planet earth at the very beginning.

Precessions of the equinoxes are the timeline cycles.

Precessions last 25,800 earth years.

All human beings are biological descendents of the same parents.

All human beings were, at one time, dark skinned.

Aboriginals are the planet's original people.

Aboriginals first appeared eight precessions ago (approx. 190,000 years).

Aboriginals lived everywhere on earth, at a time when it really was Paradise.

Aboriginals did not accumulate.

Accumulating is the original sin.

The first Accumulators began their corrupt activity during the last precession.

The start of the last Ice Age (+-24000 BC) marked the beginning of the current precession. A ninth precession will begin in +- 2000 AD. My educated guess is 2043.

Descendents of the Accumulators survived the +-16,000 year Ice Age, by living inside Mt. Ararat, in south-east Turkey.

The last Ice Age was the deluge that the Accumulators wrote about in the Bible.

The Bible and other "Holy Books" were published by the Accumulators.

The surface Accumulators were headquartered at Lake Van, near Mt. Ararat.

Mt. Ararat was Noah's Ark and the home of the Underground Accumulators.

The Accumulators controlled Babylon, Egypt, Rome, Europe and now America.

Accumulators always promote a NEW WORLD ORDER.

Since the Accumulators want to control the natural resources of the whole world they created Politics (not to confused with Freedom) and Religion (not to be confused with Spirituality), as tools to accumulate these natural resources faster.

The Accumulators call their criminal accumulation "Free Trade".

The physical appearance of the Accumulators has evolved over time to what it is today, because their descendents live in caves and have had no contact with the sun for many thousands of years.

The Accumulators, because they live long lives underground, know about longevity, are short, have big heads, bulging eyes and are either albino or Caucasian white.

The Accumulators use the entertainment industry to promote the concept of space aliens, angels and extra-terrestrials as a cover to hide their own roots and identity.

The Accumulators create secret societies, such as Free-Masons, at whose induction ceremonies they divulge their physical appearance to a very select "brotherhood".

Most people, when they first come in contact with Accumulators, would believe that they are aliens that came here from another planet.

The Accumulators are miners who construct canals. They travel in sealed containers above ground, to visit branches in other mountain regions of the world.

Accumulators plan to launch Armageddon, from their headquarters in Greenland.

JUDGE THREATENS JURY WITH LAWSUIT

by: Glen EP Kealey

The Gustafson Lake standoff trial jury had seen and heard just about all they could take in the way of lies by the police as well as the manipulation of the evidence that was allowed to be entered by the trial judge and crown prosecutor.

After listening politely to the evidence for 10 months in a Surrey BC courtroom the jury foreman finally rose to speak. He informed the court that he had been directed, by all the members of the jury, to make a formal statement. For just a moment the trial Judge, Bruce Josephson, thought he might lose control over the carefully selected words that he had allowed to be entered on the trial record, during the entire 10 months of the trial.

Then, the Judge's 20 years of training kicked in. After all, how could he let the Jury foreman destroy the illusion of justice that he had so carefully crafted during the trial; by withholding crucial evidence and by helping the police to manufacture testimony? On at least one occasion he even told an officer how to testify.

In a written decision that the judge had made, about which RCMP "Training Videos" could be played for the jury, the Judge had suggested to Sgt. Peter Montague that he could defend the words caught on video tape as "having been stated in jest".

Sgt. Montague was seen by the jury attending an RCMP command meeting during the Gustafson Lake Standoff where he openly admitted, on video tape, that during the break he had prepared a "smear and disinformation campaign" against the Native defenders, and also, that "smear campaigns are a specialty of the RCMP".

Judge Josephson responded to the Jury Foreman that "although it is a legal right for a Jury to make a statement, such a practice was highly unusual." The Judge added that "such a statement would open up the possibility of a libel suit being filed against the members of the jury".

As a result of the judge's response the Jury decided to deliberate further.

When they returned many members of the jury, including the foreman, were in tears. The Judge's warning had been sufficient to destroy the jury's unanimous desire to speak out about the injustices they had witnessed during the trial.

By his lie, about the possibility of a lawsuit being launched against them if they spoke the truth that was in their hearts, the trial judge had relegated the jury merely to the role of a rubber stamp for his original instructions.

With but one kick-at-the-can left in them, the jury declared the accused to be "not guilty of the most serious charges laid against them", declaring them "guilty" only on the least serious charges. The Judge in turn, not wanting to be denied his chance to earn his political puppeteers respect, went on as if nothing had occurred, and later, proceeded to sentence the Native accused as if they had, in fact, been found guilty of the most serious charges.

William Jones Ignace was sentenced to eight years in a penitentiary for shooting six tires on an armoured personnel carrier (APC). Police in the APC had shot at least thirty nine bullets at two unarmed youngsters they had forced to take refuge in the water of Gustafson Lake. This happened after the RCMP and Canadian military had, under pretext of negotiations, blown up the defenders truck with a land mine.

The United Nations flag unintentionally reveals the Hidden Hand's ultra secret headquarters

They plan Third World War in GREENLAND

by Glen EP Kealey

An ultra secret "under the ice" community evolving on / in Greenland (in fact the name means safe-land) was first established approximately 800 or so years ago (1200 AD). Greenland now serves as the new subterranean, or rather, a sub-glacier headquarters for the ancient "Old World Accumulators".

These greedy "Anti-Creator" accumulators stole all of the ancient writings, codes and secret wisdom that had been discovered or invented. They hid them in a mountain cave. All together these writings had recorded most of mankind's intellectual progress to date.

The conspirators loot was first hidden inside Mount Ararat. Ararat is an "iron mountain" hideout located in present-day Turkey, at the headwaters of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers. Included with the treasures were written details of the technological advancements that had been achieved on planet earth, since the creation of mankind. This period includes all of the first seven precessions of man's total of eight precessions since his creation (190,000 years).

The very existence of these greedy cave-dwelling Accumulators is the well kept secret that has been so carefully guarded by all secret societies known as Freemasons, at least since the days when Cain first became a mason while building Babylon some 10,000 years ago.

This period in time is long before the rise of the mighty Pharaohs of Egypt who would eventually build the Pyramids (at approx. +- 2,500 BC). They still stand today as monuments to the Accumulators' first mountain hideout.

The Pharaohs also built the Sphinx, a giant water fountain oasis in the desert. In its day it was the world's most public symbol of power and greed. But most of all, it was an unmistakable symbol of the Egyptian Pharaohs obeisance to the "King of Kings", their Caucasian God and Master.

Comment

3500 years later Greenland would be chosen as the new headquarters. It replaced the outdated Mount Ararat, which is located near Lake Van. Before it became obsolete Mt. Ararat had served as home to Accumulators throughout the entire "deluge" (an ICE AGE which lasted approx. 16,000 years — from about 23,757 BC to 7757 BC). Later, when "the politics of cartels" forced them to open a branch in Scotland, Accumulators began a search for a larger, easily expandable and secure "more permanent" headquarters. They eventually settled on Greenland.

I believe that the deluge had was the CREATOR'S way of showing HIS grave displeasure with these defiant sinners who, by accumulating beyond their need, had committed "THE original sin". The ice age was the penalty that HE imposed on them for having accumulated to a level where the very existence of the other aboriginals with whom they shared the planet was being negatively affected.

When the ice age finally retreated, the "lighter-skinned" descendents of the Accumulators sent out their first ambassadors. Currently, these ambassadors are known as "Emissaries of Divine Light".

I now surmise that the head anti-creator was named GOD. He is the "top gun" who carries the biggest flashlight underground. Once back on the earth's surface the pale Caucasian "emissaries of divine light" evolved into a vast secret army of Masons and international bankers.

Their leaders continue to be directed from below. They are being liberally financed — to establish many so-called "competing" secret societies that we know as organized religions. They support elitist "p o p u l a r - f a s c i s t" governments, as well as many fully coordinated military-industrial complexes world-wide. These so-called "public" institutions always conspire, either separately or together, in order to continue the obviously sinful accumulation. Military raids (known today as free-trade) were carried out at the expense of clan-based "nationalists", the native peoples of the world. These peoples had also survived the Creator's latest "cleansing". However, unlike the lighter skinned white Caucasians they survived above ground.

Control over religion and of all nations' monetary policies and banking practises would allow for much irrelevant cosmetic differences to exist, without there being the slightest chance of compromising the "Hidden Hand's" ultimate control. The military could always be counted on to deal with the few patriots.

"Think-tanks" strategically located around the world keep up the planning at the micro level and international, centrally commanded Masonic institutions, to deal with larger issues. Recruiting for these organizations begins at the level of public "education". The continuous honing of essential qualifications if one is to succeed at greed is carried out over many years, through a close observation of the candidate as he volunteers his time in a local "Service Club". Emergency appointments are granted to those individuals who agree freely to participate in phallic (we call it sex) related religious ceremonies that usually include some form of "bribe or blackmail".

The white race first evolved in Armenia which is now south east Turkey. When the white emissaries first resurfaced in the Caucasian mountains they institutionalized racism. This policy opened the door to slavery. They also would only finance "development" within their own race. As a result, comparatively speaking, most whites prospered financially at the expense of all other darker skinned races.

Once advantaged by the total accumulated written wisdom which was gathered and secretly archived over the entire 180,000 years of previous human experience, as well as being supported by the existing wealth and technology of the old world, the emissaries claimed to be in touch with GODS / Angels / Aliens - or at least, presented themselves as "ascended" master-masons, priests or shamans - sent to us from our CREATOR to act as "guides in this and the next world". Yet, with the money they control, in fact it is they who rule over the entire world while using us as pawns or canon-fodder. We are but their slaves, entitled only to do their bidding. Is this what the Creator had intended when he gave man freedom to think for himself? I think not.

For 10,000 years now their "mysterious" Masonic ways has brought them instant adulation, real power and additional fortune. As well, by properly marketing these illusions — by promoting the grand mysteries they claim to hold secret, including those surrounding their true place of origin — these Accumulators remain free to accumulate, that which is our public property, both for themselves and for their man-made Gods, - from the natural resources which are in fact your and my birthright.

As he first divulged in his inaugural speech, the former President of the United States of America and former head of the US Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), George Bush — the Illuminati's current North American prophet (initiated by Yale Skull and Bones Society) — remarked on the existence points of light" to be located strategically around the world.

Ancient world Rosicrucians (Freemasons) named these secret places VITRIOL, which is an acronym for 'Vista Interiora Terrae Rectificando Invenes Omnia Lapidem'; or, "in the interior of the earth is hidden the true MYSTERY". Since coming out of their Mt. Ararat closet the Old World Order Accumulators have opened many New World Order "sub-branches" in the mountainous regions of the world. Among these are:

Who are we?

We are the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity (CIPI), a non-profit corporation dedicated to bringing about a truly democratic and independent Canada. We believe this can only be done by exposing the lies that were used to create the illusion that freedom and spirituality can be achieved through politics and organized religion. By exposing the corrupt Accumulators, the Hidden Hand puppeteers that manipulate the world's economic systems only for their benefit, we expect Canadians will wake up to the dangers that lie ahead. What distinguishes us from other groups is not only our analysis of what's wrong; it is the fact that we alone offer a solution that does not merely patch over the problem, but eliminates it from the ground up.

Kealey is the former Ottawa-Hull region commercial developer who spent 1000 days on Ottawa's Parliament Hill before he was allowed to appear in court in 1991 — where he exposed the system of sophisticated organized crime run by Mulroney's government; with the complicity of the Justice System and the RCMP. Former Public Works minister, Roch LaSalle, offered him federal government support for his project in exchange for 5% of all government contributions, on top of the $5,000.00 kickback which LaSalle asked for up front. While investigating, Kealey found evidence of a massive bribe and kickback scheme operated and controlled right out of the Prime Minister's Office, and a close collaboration among Cabinet Ministers, the national media and RCMP Commissioners. Kealey, through a Section 507 Hearing, succeeded in convincing a Justice of the Peace, with 34 years experience, to lay charges against 16 senior politicians and government officials, including Norman Inkster, Commissioner of the RCMP, Henry Jensen, Deputy Commissioner and J. Michael Shoemaker, Assistant Deputy Commissioner, with having conspired together in a criminal conspiracy intended to cease and limit police investigations.

Annhe Kealy, (formerly Shelley Ann Clark) is the civil servant, with 30 years experience, who worked for the Canada-U.S. Free Trade Negotiations Office in Ottawa and exposed an act of high treason committed by former Prime Minister Mulroney. She was ordered by the third highest ranking negotiator on Mulroney's team to come into the office between midnight and 4 a.m. in order to falsify and eventually shred briefing papers designed to mislead provincial premiers as to what was really being given away in the FTA (Free Trade Agreement). In March 1988, she was ordered by her boss to secretly remove key documents from the Free Trade Office and bring them to the trunk of his car. This order was given after he received an internal memorandum that ordered all negotiators to turn over to the National Archives all documents used in the negotiations. While screening the material to be removed, Clark came across an implementation scheme that clearly laid out a step-by-step plan that would eventually lead to the merger of Canada and the U.S.A. by the year 2005. Clark stated that the scheme also contains plans for Quebec's separation, and the construction of a GRAND canal for massive water diversion. After being abandoned by PSAC, her union, and threatened by secret service, Clark went public with her story in May 1993, with the assistance of a lawyer. Canada's national media would rather have you think about TV soap operas, sports, O.J. Simpson and Paul Bernardo.

National and Provincial politicians have such short memories. These politicians have already forgotten that in the early 1990's, when Canadians were allowed to pronounce themselves on both the Meech Lake and Charlottetown Accords, they refused to give politicians the authority to make any substantial change to our way of life without first obtaining our direct consent. Yet, here they are again with their current, phony BC Treaty Negotiations, holding talks between parties they control.

The following is the text of a third party Fax I sent to the BC media. It is addressed to Aaron Dinwoodie, Chair and R.A.C. representative for the Regional District of Central Okanagan, as a result of a meeting I attended August 13, 1997, in Westbank BC. He is the local "sheep-herder" for the political big wigs of Ottawa and Victoria.

Sir:

I attended your meeting at the Lion's community hall in Westbank last night.

After observing and analyzing the type of questions raised by the audience I concluded that most of your audience consisted of the 87% of our local community that lives in fear and identifies with their captors. This, one expects to find only when people were lied to from birth — in this case, about the real history of Canada, our country. Unfortunately you also, knowingly or unknowingly, added to the disinformation that was being propagated about our past.

Mr. Dinwoodie I suggest that you review and revise the historical and legal time line — it begins on page 2 and continues on page 3 of your document titled Westbank Treaty Negotiations (Westbank Local Government Treaty Advisory Committee), published and dated July 1997 — because, in part, it is not factual.

Some examples of the errors and omissions, were they corrected or included would help clarify the historical perspective and bring back a sense of reality to the important current debate, are as follows:

1763 — With a revolution against the Crown brewing in the American colony to the south, Queen Anne needed all the allies she could muster, if she was going to save any part of the North American continent for England. This is why she agreed to protect native land. The exercise was totally self-serving on the part of her controllers. Without the help that England received from the aboriginals there would have been no Canada.

1850 — This section in your document makes no sense at all. It states, "After Douglas retired, the policy to acquire lands was reversed and aboriginal people lost their right to acquire CROWN land". Why, Mr. Dinwoodie, would the native people even contemplate buying their land back from Joseph Trutch — the Government protected land thief? Surely, as a moral upstanding law maker, you are aware that land theft is a crime in our society.

Or, is it that you believe that there exists a "Statute of Limitations" on land theft in Canada. To the contrary sir, when BC first asked to be admitted into Canada it was denied the privilege, until it promised to reverse the land theft from the Indians (see the "Duty of Disallowance"). However, because BC was a haven for organized criminal politicians at the time, it responded to the condition set by the Government of Canada in the only way crooked politicians know how. The corrupt BC leaders bribed an even more corrupt Sir John A. MacDonald, the first Prime Minister of Canada. As a result, instead of enforcing the "Duty of Disallowance", MacDonald took the bribe and then he introduced the Indian Act. The act had two goals — to kill off as many Natives as possible and to assimilate the rest. The dictionary defines these actions to be genocide.

1884 — The "Potlatch and Tamanawas" ceremonies were banned, (Sundance is the Occult name introduced into Native dialogue by "corporate Pipe-carriers" much in the way Christians are fooled into prayer on "SUNday"). One cannot imagine the controllers of BC allowing the native people to give away their "belongings" without first making a profit, or at least, charging interest on the transaction.

Accumulators really hate the people who investigate world history. This is why they created their NWO politics and organized religion to control and deflect free-thinkers. Politics and religion have conspired to falsify world history. They manufacture the illusion that our world only began 10,000 years ago. The controlled National Media, their Entertainment Industry and Public Educators, as well as their Judges who work with their National Police and their Military brass continue to confuse and disinform the public. The last thing they need right now is a Glen Kealey who picks away at the trash they've left behind to hide their trail. Especially now, as they prepare for Armageddon, their WW3 third world war, a war which they alone prophesized in their many "holy" books and have planned for at least 10,000 years..

In the next issue of the Kealey Paper I will write about this coming world war - who will die first and second - and why Moslems are being blamed for every evil deed everywhere; including the bombing of New York's World Trade Center, the tragic Oklahoma bombing, terrorism around the world and more recently, the timely death (for them) of Princess Diana, in Paris, France.

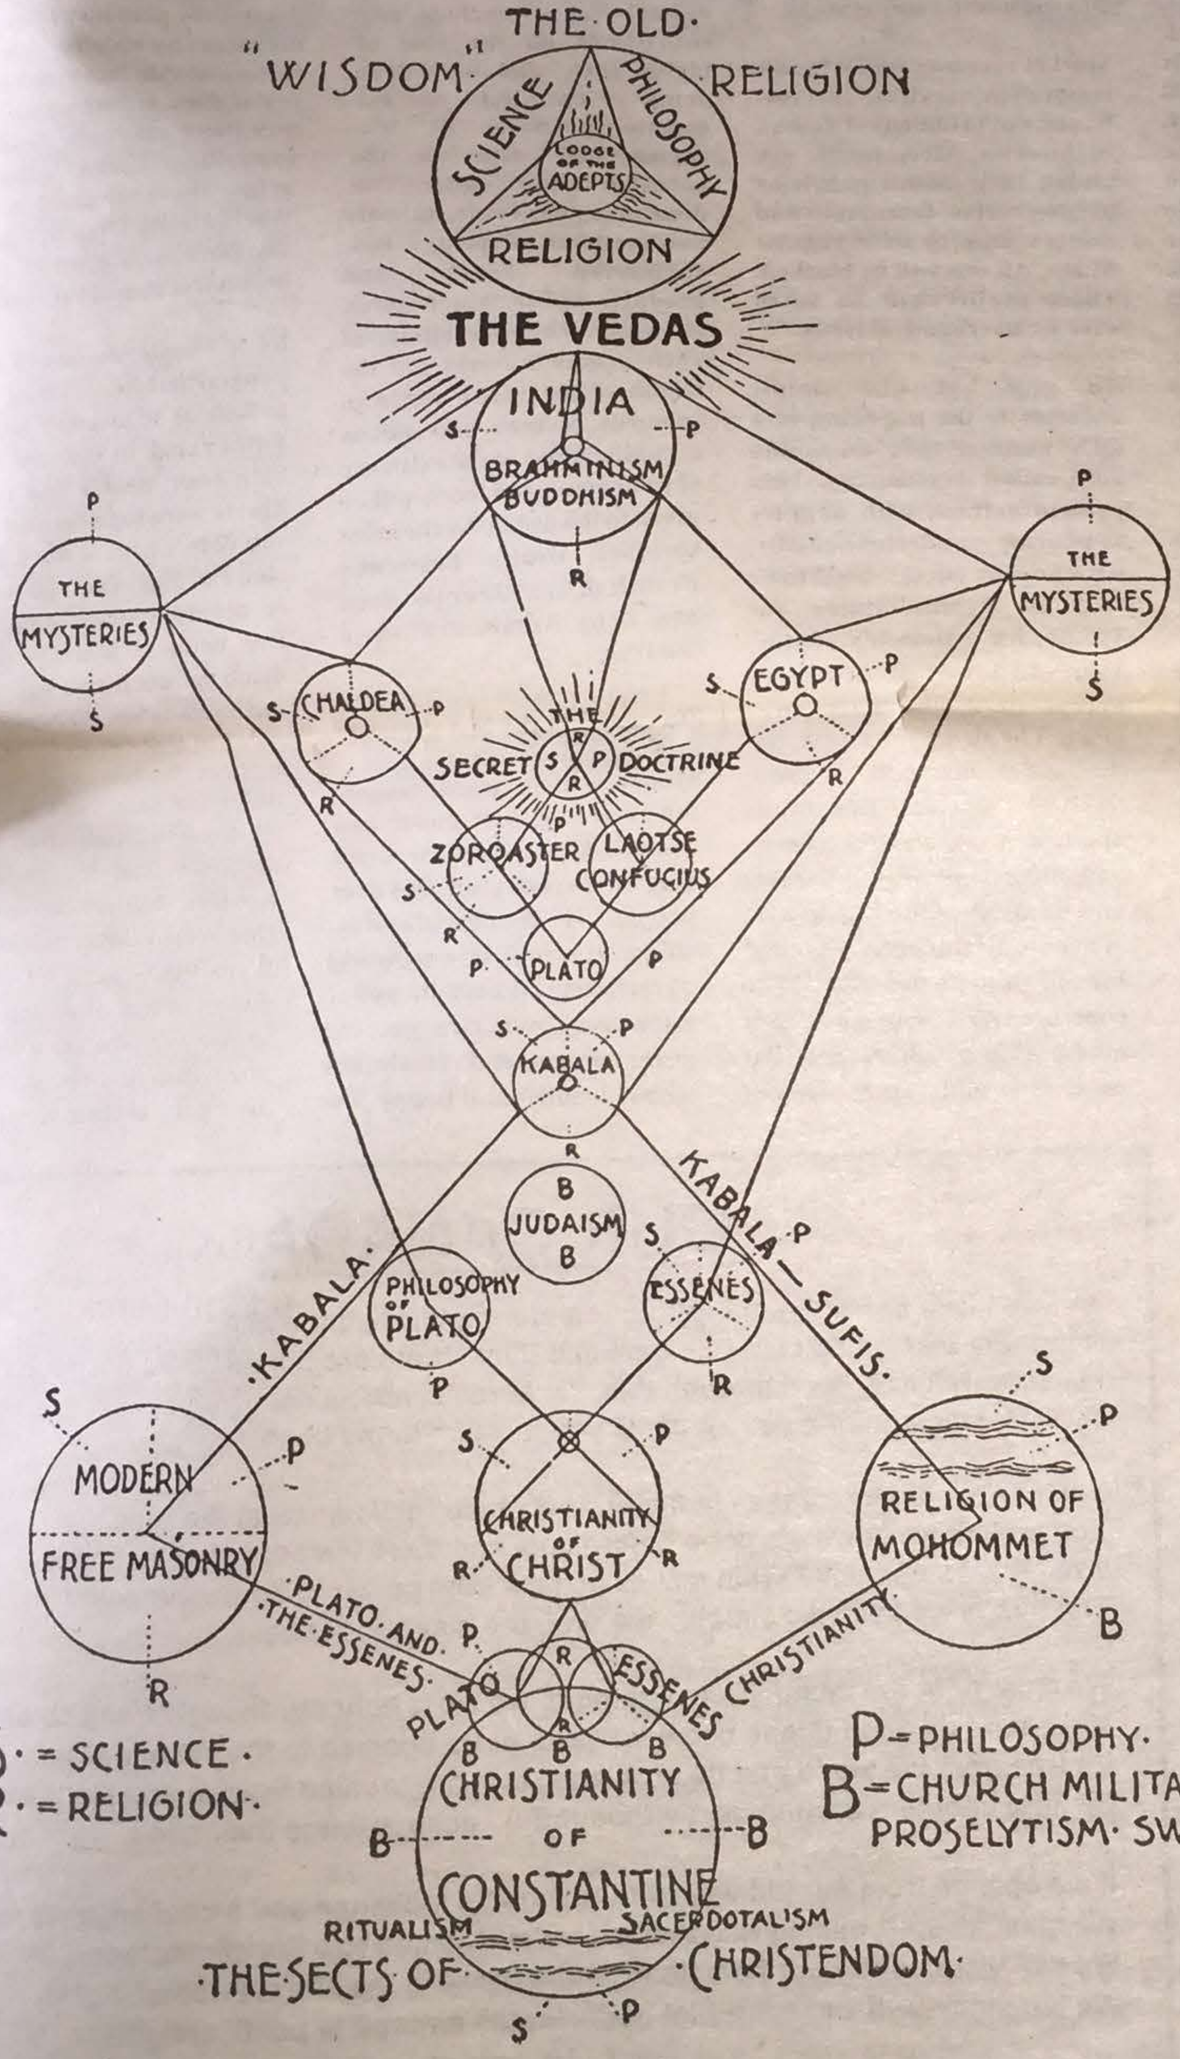
RELIGION vs SPIRITUALITY

(A 10, 000 YEAR CONSPIRACY)



JESUS

2000 years ago, like us, Jesus was also created by THE CREATOR. He was, and is, a teacher whose life was, and is, a role model for mankind. During his entire life he taught us the "good news" — that we also are all children of THE CREATOR. Also, for our own protection, he pointed out the evil anti-creators among us. They are the greedy ACCUMULATORS who accumulate way beyond their needs. In this manner Jesus was attempting to show us how to "get out of the mess we're in".

Jesus was a role model for all persons with integrity. Throughout his life he sought out wisdom, and, although he could make mistakes and sometimes did, once he understood the truth he would never allow himself to be frightened, bribed or blackmailed into changing his views.

Jesus was a free-thinking, rational, human being. At one point in his life, when he realized that the anti-creators were attempting to bribe him with those things (natural resources and land) that were man's birthright, he objected. One should expect his current followers would do likewise.

Jesus was an example to all who obtain a certain level of understanding and sophistication — he knew that anti-creator accumulators use money as a weapon and as a reward, to promote their "free trade slavery". Having himself witnessed the devastation caused to ordinary people by the Babylonian, Egyptian and Roman slave-trade, surely Jesus understood that the Accumulators version of free trade was not free - nor is it trade.

When Jesus finally realized that the greedy accumulators had themselves created "organized religion" and that he, in fact, was being used by them, he immediately proceeded to physically throw these money changers out of the temple. For this single act of bravery and individual courage Jesus was sentenced to death by both, the political and religious courts. Because he refused to be bribed with the birthright he had received from THE CREATOR, he was crucified on orders from the military industrial complex high command. Since natural resources are our birthright, written history was later revised to put a different spin on Jesus' own words. Many false interpretations and misleading instructions were attributed to him, ie: "give onto Caesar"; "turn the other cheek"; "only through me".

The Bible - like the Talmud and Koran, as with all other Holy Books of "organized religion" - was edited, added to, and only then, published by the "Accumulators of Babylon". They owned the only publishing houses of the day. These "holy books" were revised many more times since. Although historically and culturally they tell many truths, they are being used to attribute false words to an individual whose life was in fact exemplary. The untruths contained in these books are being used to mislead us - to believe that many of our ancient teachers were themselves GODS. Since all GODS are man-made the use of the word GOD itself should be sufficient warning to us that the words attributed to GODS are false, because all truly "inspired" teachers only accept the existence of one deity THE CREATOR. HE speaks to you too!

Codex

A medical doctor speaks out

by: Dr. Leo Roy, MD

The pounding of hoofs is becoming louder and louder as we hear the four horsemen of the apocalypse — war, famine, pestilence and disease — riding in from the distance. Currently the fourth horse - disease is being given the lead. His name is Codex Alimentarius.

" Codex ", in the medical dictionary means an authorized medicinal formulary — a pharmacopeia—a codification of medical legislation. "Alimentarius" means applied nutrients - supplements, vitamins, protein extracts and herbs. By the stroke of a pen all these products that modify and benefit the processes in our bodies that create health — in a word, that "cure", have been twisted to mean "drugs".

We all know drugs are hazards to health. They can be dangerous. They must be controlled. A system of control must be established. It is for the good of the people. (Somehow this song sounds familiar). How? Give each health restoring substance a *D*rug *I*dentification *N*umber — a DIN. But a DIN will mean anybody in need of any form of healing must apply to medical doctors for a prescription for any such product. They will not be able to obtain any health restoration remedies from herbalists, health stores, N.D.'s or other health care professionals.

Only medical doctors are allowed to prescribe drugs. Medical doctors are trained in health care. But they have no training that gives them the ability to prescribe health restoring supplements or remedies. There is no provision for the judicious use of anything in medical schools, medical literature and practices other than the chemicals that the pharmaceutical companies create and market. They have no knowledge or experience in the use of health restoring products. They do not know how to prescribe them. Nor is there a single drug that can cure a single person of a single disease. Drugs and chemicals are as incompatible and useless as means of repairing the structure and functions of cells, as Ford parts are to Cadillacs.

About 80% of the world's population depend and rely upon herbs for the maintenance and restoration of their health. In this one consideration alone Codex Alimentarius threatens 80% of the world's population. By one clever, cunning and insidious ploy, none of the things that can contribute to health or that can help cure the well over 2,500 diseases, categorized by the medical profession as 'incurable', will be made available to those sorely in need and in distress. No dietary supplements will be allowed to be sold for dietetic, preventative or therapeutic use. Is this not a strategy for dictatorial take-over?

This one legal document — Codex — will close down health stores and bankrupt both supplement and herbal companies. It will put out of practice the thousands of practitioners offering health restoring services — the herbalists, the Naturopathic Physicians, the nutritionists and the health counselors.

Market revenues for all health restoration services, currently, amount to billions of dollars in America. More people are taking their health problems to alternative therapists and doctors than to their regular M.D.s. All this will be blocked. These profits will be taken over by the chemical lords.

To give but one simple example is the imposing of a DIN number onto an amino acid called Trytophane. This protein extract, with abilities to provide wonderful benefits, with no side effects, used to be sold in health stores for $15.00, for a month's supply. You can't buy it anywhere except in a pharmacy anymore. The drug store cost, for the same amount, is now $120.00. The same fate awaits about a hundred other herbs and almost all your vitamins and minerals. One has to ask: Where is all this money going? What is it to be used for? Who controls it? Any in-depth investigation will reveal that most of it ends up in the big banks and in the pockets of the powers that are working towards a take-over of the world.

Incidentally, the Codex decrees do not include any restrictions on the sale of highly toxic and hazardous drugs or chemicals, nor the genetic products of bio-engineering, with all the potential they offer for denaturing our foods, animals and even our offsprings. Bio-engineered foods and products are serious hazards to health. The side effects of such products could put the health of the entire world in jeopardy. No laws, precautions or notifications of the existence of bio-engineered foods will be given to the public by the same so-called Health Protection Branch of Canada or the Food and Drug Administration of the USA.

But money is the real name of this ingenious chess game. Money is their main weapon for enforcing their power and control. Money is control, not only of markets, but also over people. It creates dictatorships. Its goal is one world government. Those in power know very well that you can never control, or dictate to, one who is healthy and happy. The free-will inbred into every vigorous, alert and informed human being is too strong to allow it to happen. They will not tolerate such a take-over. What is the plan then? Destroy the means by which people can restore health. But even health restoration is impossible unless there exists the financial capability. Codex Alimentarius, the brainchild of the World Health Organization, is therefore the biggest threat to health freedom of the century.

By a simple decision of the powers-that-be, taken in unison at a meeting held in Switzerland, in October 1996, both your health and future liberty were incarcerated. And you didn't have a word to say about it. Nor, can you protect or defend yourself against it. For many it literally means death to their future happiness and well-being. We are just pawns in their game — slaves to their future plan. Stalin, Hitler and Mao Tse Tung were all amateurs compared to the dictators that are the chess masters behind our coming One World Government.
Were these dictators not just pawns of the same world manipulators? Should we be that surprised that we, in turn, are now prey in their chess game?

OUR CANADA

It came like a bolt of lightning, and thundering through the night.
A thought that would make me stop and think, there are things we've not done right.
I'm sure we've all been through this, I'm sure I'm not alone.
By God, I must inform you - it chills you through to the bone.

You're near the top of the mountain, and sharp rocks gnaw at the rope.
You look down at what's gone before you, and there isn't the slightest hope.
What makes us think? What makes us lack - the power to figure our past?
The things we deem so simple - the plot, the players, the cast.

We must fight the thunder and lightning, we must fight our thoughts and be brave.
Make sure all good things come forward, or be doomed to the life of a slave.
Be free from the world and its problems, that are created by man and his greed.
Be kind to others around us, be thoughtful - acknowledge their need.

It's a change from our old way of thinking, it's a change and a challenge we face.
We must all start pulling together, or we're doomed to a life of disgrace.
We call this country our homeland, while denying the "First People" rights.
We tell them we'll make their lot better, while embroil in political fights.

Fights that are not of their making, and surely they don't understand.
Sometimes conjured by the white man, for taking and keeping their land.
These are the thoughts that chill us, make us think of a country and home.
And wonder if ever the day will come, when all call Canada home.

I'm mad as hell and I'm not going to take it anymore, and I hope you don't either! Once again, a government bureaucracy gone berserk is manoeuvering behind the scenes in a cunning bid to curtail the basic freedoms of North Americans. URGENT ACTION IS NEEDED for those who understand that with freedom comes responsibility.

Recently, a well-known naturopathic doctor in Toronto, Canada - Zoltan P. Rona, M.D., M.Sc. — arrived at his clinic. After checking his supply room he saw that he had run low on DHEA. Going then to his computer, he E-mailed the Life Extension Foundation in Hollywood, Florida, and ordered three bottles of DHEA as he had done many times before. Not five minutes later, he received the following reply.

"I regret to inform you that we can no longer ship DHEA into Canada. The government there stops every package to insure that the product is not passing customs. If they find any DHEA, they have warned us that they will deny all shipments from the Life Extension Foundation to Canada and that they may ARREST the person ordering that product. I'm sorry for the inconvenience."

What exactly is DHEA? According to Dr. Rona, "Dehydroepiandrosterone" was once thought to be a precursor to other hormones such as testosterone, progesterone, cortisone and estrogen, and had no specific role of its own for the body. Recent studies done on animals and humans over the past decade or so, however, have shown this not to be true. DHEA can be found in almost any organ in the body and is the most abundant steroid hormone secreted by the human adrenal gland.

DHEA blood levels decline progressively with age, a phenomenon that does not occur with any other adrenal steroid. Epidemiological studies show that higher DHEA levels are associated with increased longevity, less cancer and less heart disease, thus suggesting that at least some aging manifestations may be caused by DHEA deficiency. DHEA may prevent obesity, diabetes, cancers of the breat, colon and liver, osteoporosis and Alzheimer's disease and the list goes on.

In Canada, there are thousands of users of DHEA. These people have now been turned into instant criminals should they attempt to order DHEA from the United States, where it remains (so far) a legal over-the-counter product. The penalties for trafficking and possession for the purposes of trafficking in Canada are severe. The length of imprisonment ranges from a term not exceeding (18) months, on summary conviction, to a term not exceeding (10) years on conviction by indictment (Sec. 39-3 Criminal Code of Canada).

Just who is behind this nefarious meddling with health choice in Canada? Turns out it is the Health "Protection" Branch (H.P.B.) of Health and Welfare Canada, a federal bureaucracy which has garnered quite a reputation for its K.G.B. style tactics and which probably took lessons from the equally nefarious F.D.A. Both are old hands at bullying threatening, shutting people down and generally acting like common thugs! The H.P.B. has classified DHEA as an anabolic steroid which in their narrow outlook makes it a controlled substance or drug. Yet, prior to December 19, 1996, DHEA was just another natural hormone found in the blood of any healthy, normal person.

It is about time for the Cali and other drug cartels to start looking over their shoulders as they now have stiff competition for the moniker "King of the drug Lords" if all goes according to plan, the H.P.B., F:D.A. and other alphabet agencies in many countries will have completely banned the use of most if not all nutritional supplements before the year 2,000.

This mocking, farcical scenario can also be directly attributed to the NAFTA, GATT, and W.T.O. organizations, who are henchmen working for big corporations (in this case, pharmaceutical companies) and big government in re-tooling our earth into the New World Order.

In September of 1998, the CODEX Commission will convene in Bonn, Germany, for the purpose of re-classifying many, if not all, natural remedies and herbs as "drugs" to be patented, licensed and subject to Drug Identification Numbers (D.I.N.s). You see, the big pharmaceutical companies have realized the danger that naturopathy poses to their synthesized "Drug Cartel", and so have lined up squarely behind the German Codex Proposal. It will be pushed through to finalization in the 1998 meeting and become the international reference standard under NAFTA and GATT.

You remember NAFTA and GATT - the treaties that give a country like the U.S.A. the same voting power (One vote each) as, say, Belize, a country with a population of about 200,000! Considering how the major drug companies have jumped on the Codex Commission wagon, it's not a far leap to envision them bullying or bribing the officials of some obscure nation in order to get their way on a vote.

This constricting vice of oppression winches itself ever more tightly around our free will. The H.P.B. up here in Weimar, Canada, have arbitrarily decided to get a jump on the CODEX Commission meeting with the ban on DHEA. With the additional banning of Melatonin, Taheebo and Kava, just to name a few, the Canadian citizen has already lost the fundamental right to health and the freedom to choose. What are they going to ban next, Chamomile tea?!

H.P.B. tactics include on-site "inspections" of health food stores (with an attached invoice for said inspection!) who might be selling DHEA, or any other "banned remedy of the month". The proprietors of these stores are then encouraged to "snitch" on their colleagues in other health stores who may be selling "banned" products, producing feelings of distrust and underhandedness amongst themselves (divide and conquer!). Another harassment technique is the demand that all natural supplements and remedies be subject to the laborious process of getting a DIN number which can cost into the millions of dollars.

The only difference between these bureaucrats and the old Stalinist Commissars are that they aren't wearing leather trench coats, although they might have a pistol in their pocket! The resultant effect, however, is the same thing: a heavy aura of fear, treachery and oppression descending down on the people whose freedoms are being quickly relegated to the big, black memory hole. Will our future children even know what freedom is?

We must all get mad! And it takes little effort to pick up the most potent weapon we have and that's a pen! Let these faceless apparatchiks know that we will present a united front against this insidious threat to our health and the health and well being of our children and grandchildren. Canada's heroes come under attack
PRIVY COUNCIL RUNNING SCARED

William Jones IGNACE

Shelley Ann CLARK

by: Glen EP Kealey

One could not imagine two people more different in their origins than are William Jones Ignace and Shelley Ann Clark.

Jonesy, as he is known to his friends, is a 65 year old native born in the Cariboo area of British Columbia. For most of his life he has had to scratch the ground for a living, first as a logger and then as a farmer.

Shelley Ann, 53, on the other hand was born in the lap of luxury in a swanky section of Rockcliffe Park, in Ottawa. Rockcliffe Park is the very best Ottawa neighbourhood. It is chosen by most ambassadors assigned to Canada.

Like most natives who grow up in Canada Jonesy had to handle his daily chores pretty much by himself.

Shelley Ann's time however was not so burdened. You see, she had Oscar as her personal butler from birth and until she turned 28. Oscar would lay out her clothes every morning before making her breakfast that always included freshly squeezed orange juice.

Since 1875 the only public education Canada's original people received was worse than if there was none at all. Residential schools in B.C. were nothing less than government-sanctioned genocide — direct attacks on native peoples spirituality and culture. Jonesy survived in school just long enough to learn to read and write.

Shelley Ann went to the best private schools and colleges money can buy. Oscar would help her to put on her boots as she left for school. He was also there to help her change when she returned. Oscar always made lunch and prepared her snacks.

Again, as with most traditional natives, Jonesy did not have much to look forward to in life, except to earn a meager living for himself and his family; scraping by in the bush, doing the most dangerous jobs most whites and Asians would not even consider. Alcohol made things easier in the early days.

Shelley Ann never had to look for a job. It was there as soon as she graduated from private business college. She was only sixteen when she joined the then Canadian Department of External Affairs, before it became known as Foreign Affairs Canada.

Shelley Ann was awfully young to be wandering the halls of the United Nations in New York. But in her case that was the life she was born into and one-must-do-what-one-must-do. Inexpensive, tax-free alcohol was everywhere at the UN, however, the diminutive 5'3" girl from Ottawa quickly learned that she could only handle one glass of wine, and that, only at the end of her day.

When Jonesy's first wife was killed, he remarried, this time to Flo Sampson, his current wife. His life took on a new direction. Flo was also a Shuswap. She taught native language courses on the Adam's Lake reserve. The Elder, Jonesy Ignace, became a seed farmer. He grew open-pollinated seeds for his people and also became well-known as a spokesperson for native rights. Among his people he is known affectionately by his Native name, the Wolverine.

When Oscar died, Shelley Ann had no alternative but to marry. Her first husband was an insider with links to the British oligarchy. Money was never a problem and maids were hired to mind the house, which was complete with an indoor swimming pool. Her two boys, Stephen and David, were the joys of her life and she took them everywhere.

Shelley Ann's life was also destined to take a sudden turn. In 1986-88 she was assigned to the Canada-USA Free Trade Negotiations. While cleaning out her boss' safe one day she came across evidence of High Treason by our former Conservative Prime Minister, Brian Mulroney.

Shelley Ann Clark had just discovered what Jones Ignace, had known for years. Canada was being run by puppets dancing to the tune of a foreign power — a hidden hand.

What in the world could ever conspire to bring these two so different individuals together? It can all be boiled down to one word INTEGRITY. You see, my fellow Canadians, integrity is not only a gift, it's a burden. When one is burdened with incontrovertible evidence of a preventable calamity that will affect the lives of generations still unborn, these human beings afflicted with integrity do everything in their power to warn their family, neighbours, friends and countrymen of the danger. They will do so even knowing that the "system" will come down hard on them.

None-the-less, they take a risk that the beneficiaries of their courage will not let them stand alone. While whistle-blowers are prepared to stand openly and shout FREEDOM they also have the right to expect that others will at least whisper freedom from behind.

Today the Wolverine is locked up in a jail cell at Matsqui Penetentiary in BC. At Gustafson Lake Jonesy took a stand for his family, friends, neighbours and countrymen. He shot at the tires of an APC, an armoured personnel carrier that was shooting at unarmed kids in the lake and who then tried to kill him. The jury said he was innocent of attempted murder but the judge sentenced him to eight years anyway. Now Jonesy waits patiently for your letters.

Shelley Ann Kealey is also confined. She is still being controlled, by lack of funds, from doing what she must do, regardless of what the consequences are to her own health. First, it was her union PSAC, with the former PM Brian Mulroney, through his agents Col. Bill McGill and Canadian Ambassador David Peel who had conspired to kill her in Vienna. They have now been joined by her long term disability insurer, the National Life Assurance, by Dr. Victor Dirnfeld, president of the Canadian Medical Association the CMA and extortion agents of Revenue Canada, in their latest attempt to finish her off.

Dear Mike,

This is the follow-up fax to my telephone call of Jan. 5, 1998.

My call was made as a result of the receipt of a copy of the Formal Requirement to pay $4,648.84 by Shelley Ann Clark that was sent in your name, c/o Anna Dentico, at National Life Insurance of Canada.

During our conversation you asked why the name S. Ann Clark meant something to you and I responded that I was not surprised it did, since it is well known by both our current Prime Minister, Jean Chretien and former Prime Minister, Brian Mulroney. Both participated separately and together in a plot involving high-treason against unsuspecting citizens of Canada.

This officially "protected" conspiracy, if ultimately successful, will directly affect the future of millions of still unborn Canadians. The actual vehicle used to perpetrate these crimes was the Canada-USA Free Trade Agreement (FTA), and later, the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA).

Your current request is considered a much anticipated criminal extortion. It is being sponsored by the handlers and agents of the above mentioned traitors. It, obviously, is also intended to further isolate the whistle-blower in this case, Shelley Ann Clark.

The National Life Insurance Company and Government of Canada are currently operating as co-conspirators who have called upon their enforcer, Revenue Canada, to complete the task begun by them in 1988 — that is to isolate, financially destroy, ultimately, to carry out their original plan when they first attempted her murder in Europe.

I wish to advise you that it is my view as President and Chairman of the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity, the husband and agent of Shelley Ann Kealey who is currently on a long term disability leave due to post traumatic stress and being forced to take doping medication by the medical agents of her insurance company in order to follow their directives, that your "requirement to pay" order exceeds your jurisdiction, unless and until a judgment is rendered in the presence of the accused Canadian citizen concerned, within a court of competent jurisdiction.

Therefore, as of this moment your request is in fact null and void and any action undertaken by any party to enforce it will result in an information being deposited with a Justice of the Peace that will request a section 507 hearing to determine which are the appropriate Criminal charges that should be laid against them in the very same manner that charges were once laid by us against the top three RCMP Commissioners in 1991. These charges by a Justice of the Peace ultimately led to their involuntary "early retirement".

Mr. Batten, I want you to understand that you, personally, along with your Government-corporate employers, will ultimately be held civilly and criminally responsible for your actions; actions that are without doubt designed to aggravate my wife's deteriorating medical condition. Nuremberg settled that precedent.

Once your actions are fully understood by Canadians — how you joined in the pattern of attack on Ann's health which began by those of the military attache, Col. Bill McGill, at Ambassador Peel's residence in Vienna and that continued through those of Ambassador Gerald Shannon in Geneva, they will react.

When unsuccessful in Europe the plot was continued when Ann returned to Canada. Threats of death by bombing were received from fellow employees acting as messengers from management at Foreign Affairs Canada. Later, confirmation was given by the Department's internal security that the National Media could be controlled. Mr. Batten, your personal actions, along with those of your department, the government as a whole and of National Life Insurance cannot be viewed in isolation.

The National Life Insurance's recent escapade which saw Ann being sent to Richmond BC to visit their so-called "independent" doctor who turned out to be the President of the Canadian Medical Association (CMA) the insurance industry's prime lobbyist on the topic of the privatization of medicare in Canada just added to the intrigue.

The undeniable fact that the same Dr. Victor Dirnfeld was also in Vienna, during the attack on Ann at Ambassador Peel's residence, is also very

Assembly of Independent Canadians

We are the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity (CIPI), a non-profit corporation dedicated to bringing about a truly democratic and independent Canada. We believe this can only be done by exposing the lies that were used to create the illusion that freedom and spirituality can be achieved through politics and organized religion. By exposing the corrupt Accumulators, the Hidden Hand puppeteers that manipulate the world's economic systems only for their benefit, we expect Canadians will wake up to the dangers that lie ahead. What distinguishes us from other groups is not only our analysis of what's wrong; it is the fact that we alone offer a solution that does not merely patch over the problem, but eliminates it from the ground up.

Kealey is the former Ottawa-Hull region commercial developer who spent 1000 days on Ottawa's Parliament Hill before he was allowed to appear in court in 1991 — where he exposed the system of sophisticated organized crime run by Mulroney's government; with the complicity of the Justice System and the RCMP. Former Public Works minister, Roch LaSalle, offered him federal government support for his project in exchange for 5% of all government contributions, on top of the $5,000.00 kickback which LaSalle asked for up front. While investigating, Kealey found evidence of a massive bribe and kickback scheme operated and controlled right out of the Prime Minister's Office, and a close collaboration among Cabinet Ministers, the national media and RCMP Commissioners. Kealey, through a Section 507 Hearing, succeeded in convincing a Justice of the Peace, with 34 years experience, to lay charges against 16 senior politicians and government officials, including Norman Inkster, Commissioner of the RCMP, Henry Jensen, Deputy Commissioner and J. Michael Shoemaker, Assistant Deputy Commissioner, with having conspired together in a criminal conspiracy intended to cease and limit police investigations.

Annhe Kealy, (formerly Shelley Ann Clark) is the civil servant, with 30 years experience, who worked for the Canada-U.S. Free Trade Negotiations Office in Ottawa and exposed an act of high treason committed by former Prime Minister Mulroney. She was ordered by the third highest ranking negotiator on Mulroney's team to come into the office between midnight and 4 a.m. in order to falsify and eventually shred briefing papers designed to mislead provincial premiers as to what was really being given away in the FTA (Free Trade Agreement). In March 1988, she was ordered by her boss to secretly remove key documents from the Free Trade Office and bring them to the trunk of his car. This order was given after he received an internal memorandum that ordered all negotiators to turn over to the National Archives all documents used in the negotiations. While screening the material to be removed, Clark came across an implementation scheme that clearly laid out a step-by-step plan that would eventually lead to the merger of Canada and the U.S.A. by the year 2005. Clark stated that the scheme also contains plans for Quebec's separation, and the construction of a GRAND canal for massive water diversion. After being abandoned by PSAC, her union, and threatened by secret service, Clark went public with her story in May 1993, with the assistance of a lawyer. Canada's national media would rather have you think about TV soap operas, sports, O.J. Simpson and Paul Bernardo.

Eggheads "aliens" and freemasons seek, follow and love The Light

by: Solomon MacVan

Masonry is a system of ethics and religion in which there is some truth, though eviscerated and mutilated ; and moral precepts, which in their negative limited exoteric form, appear beyond criticism. It is a system held and defended by many men ; men of learning, of wealth, of social influence ; men of strong and magnetic personality ; men of kindly and progressive liberal tendencies ; men who have piety in their peculiar religious consciousness ; men who have taste for the artistic, the beautiful, the sublime — men who in the eyes of the world, of their fellow-man, are gods of power and graciousness who support progressive movement towards a single fascist centrally controlled "New World Order".

And yet this system is capable without in the least straining a single principle, of the vilest and most dastardly acts which any man can do to his fellow-man ; acts of treachery and of advantage taken over innocence, guilelessness and reposed confidence — such as the annals of humanity can scarcely surpass ; who, when supported and promoted by the other control mechanisms we know as politics, organized religion and the military-industrial-complex, the vast combined system covers for each other. Not only can they do this, but Freemasonry, by its spirit and principles, fosters it, and it does it.

When criminal or immoral acts are committed by its adherents, the system shields the perpetrators, and assures them that there is no wrong in them, though for reasons of convenience and expedience, these acts must be kept secret.

These indulgences in which its adherents may engage are a pleasure which they especially may enjoy, but which must not be spoken of, a thing never to regret, but ever to conceal ; THE ONLY WRONG IN THEM IS IN BEING FOUND OUT. The value of its "secrets" lies in this. Thus at one strike it ravishes virtue, destroys all belief in virtue, and denies all need of repentance and reformation. And the palpable object of all this is not that its adherents believe in this strange system of ethics, for that would seem impossible for rational and moral beings to do, but simply to avert the consequences which would prevent them from continuing their criminal or immoral deeds. No system can be more "devilish" and no character more hateful and "diabolical" than that fostered by such principles. "Tell them what they want to hear and do what we tell you to do" ethics are subversive of all true morality, virtue, chastity, sobriety, veracity and spirituality. They make the wrong — the crime or immorality — consist only of being found out. This so-called logic is but an illusion that permits Freemasons to temporarily escape from reality.

The institution standing for and protecting this "step-by-step" system of immoral ethics may stand high and beautiful in the eyes of men, but, in it are secret chambers giving license to the passions in which human souls are ruined and virtue stabbed. Freemasonry is a sophisticated "gang" of organised-criminal hypocrites who plead publicly that you should not judge their perverse behavior and quietly endure its consequences.

First, we must save our nation Canada and hope that later, all the genius, kindliness, truth and secrecy that this world-wide Freemasonic system contains shall not avail before THE CREATOR who sits alone upon the throne of righteous judgment.

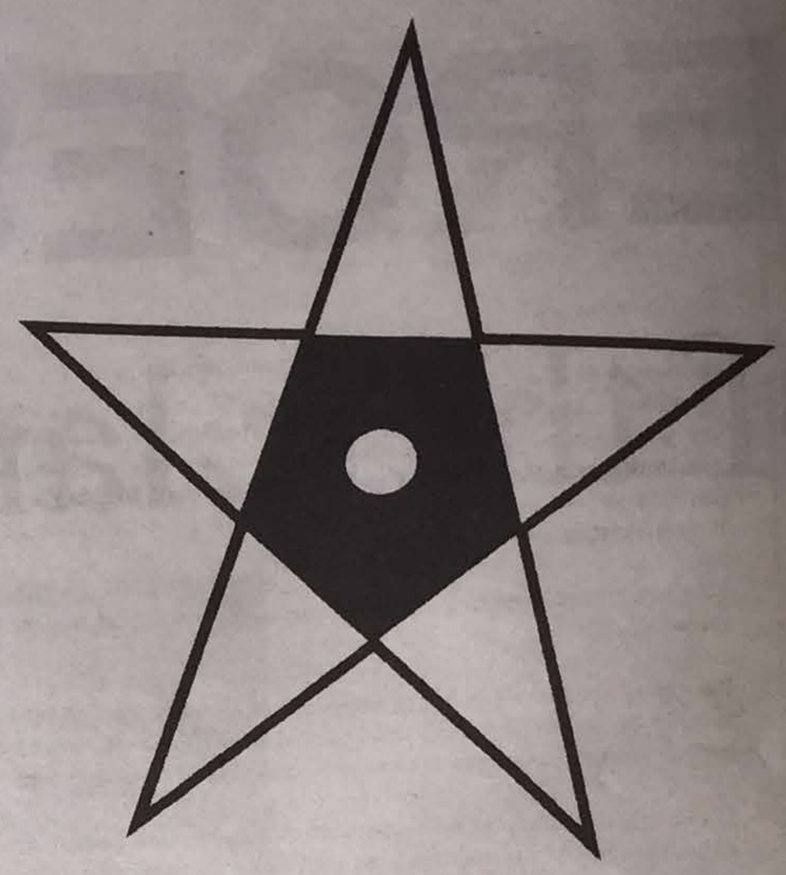
5 and 6 point STARS are Mason symbols



The 6 point Star is used by Masons to depict the star of David. It is created by placing a triangle which faces downwards over another triangle that points upwards. In Masonry the triangle that points downwards symbolizes woman while the one facing upwards stands for man. Together, placed as they are, they symbolize the place where the final sacrifice will be made to give birth to a Masonic New World Order. It was designed by Nazi Masons (Sons of Legacy) to depict the area where many Jews are to be corralled and slaughtered, as a result of Armageddon, the third and final World War. Masons plan this war and according to them, Jews are not going to survive it. Millions will die in the middle East, while most others will die as a result of rising oceans — global warming causing a bi-polar melt down — due to this orchestrated nuclear war. Kevin Kostner's recent film "Waterworld" depicts this outcome. Masons, themselves, are moving to ground that is higher than 1200 feet above sea level. Jews, on the other hand, were misled in their erroneous belief that Nazis were German, when in fact they were, and are, international free traders — Masons without borders. Jews all over the world are in imminent mortal danger. They don't even realize who their real enemy is.

The 5 point Star on the other hand is the symbol of Mason military power over money, politics, religion, media and entertainment. Everything that the military controls they mark with a 5 point Star. We need only look at — 5 Star Generals in the military, the flags of the world, the "wise men bringing gold, pharmaceuticals and occult supplies" and the new cable movie channels with all their Stars. In Masonry terms their 5 point Star is made up of three parts.

The first is the circle at the centre which they describe as "the stone the builder rejected". The circle stands for their headquarters. It always remains hidden. Ten thousand years ago, when Masonry began, the circle was Mount Ararat located in today's south east Turkey. No visible sign of the Mason cartel's presence was ever constructed there. That would attract unwanted attention. They preferred to work through agents — puppet states, first Babylon and then Egypt. Today, since 1000 AD, headquarters are in Greenland. Its name means safe-land. During the last century France and England had fought over the right to be "puppets".

Now, since the end of WWII, that role belongs to the United States. It was chosen because the population is large enough to handle the military task at hand, while the current economy can be bled to provide the funds necessary to begin the exploration and militarization of space. As well, its central plains are an ideal place to locate a food cartel for the 21st century. It will be needed to feed the 2 billion who will survive Armageddon — that is, only until such time as these humans can be replaced with "made-to-the-task clones".

The second part of a 5 point Star is more obvious. It's a pentagon. A 5 sided pentagon is used to identify the headquarters of their current military puppet.

The third and final part of the 5 point Star are the points themselves. Debate exists as to their real meaning. Some claim each point stands for one of the five sons of Amschel and Hanna Rothschild. They set out from Germany in the 18th century to establish international banking. Others say they are the 5 directions out of Babylon that were taken by the military as they set out to control the world — the middle-east - into Arabia, south - into Africa and India, the far east into Tibet, China and Mongolia, north-west - into Europe and finally, the Americas. Another version believes the 5 points stand for military control over the then five known races — humans, animals, fish, vegetation and insects. To achieve this task one need only acquire control over money, land, water and the air. Whichever of these devilish possibilities one chooses to believe - the net result is the same.

Anyone who would undertake such a mission, let alone conceive it, is without a doubt, the "anti-creator".

interesting in developing the reasoning behind National Life Insurance's motives for sending Ann to see him instead of any other doctor. Also, their describing him as "independent" is a novel way of describing their own spies and agents.

As well, Ambassador Peel's recent promotion to the post of Inspector General of Canada's Intelligence and Security Service (CSIS), by the Liberal Government of Jean Chretien, Mitchell Sharp and Conrad Black, is but icing on the cake.

When added to National Life Insurance's latest actions, of depriving Ann of her income without notice — which prevented her from refilling the prescription for the medication prescribed by Doctor Gorman in Westbank, not to mention the obvious of food, rent, gas and hydro etc. — your additional request for a further piece of her reduced income is, we believe, the final straw that will awaken thinking Canadians to the sophisticated, organized criminal activity that presently masquerades as Government.

We at CIPI therefore insist, before you grab any of the little money Ann has, that you file a formal request before a court of law asking for a public hearing on the entire matter.

In Ann's defense she will demonstrate how she was deceived by her employer when it was stated that no deductions would be taken from her medical benefits and while recuperating she would be able to count on 70% of her last gross income.

CIPI will also request "intervenor status" in order to expose how the Department of National Revenue flexibly applies its own regulations in the case involving former PM Brian Mulroney's personal income taxes, as well as the case of the financial sponsors of your own former Deputy minister Pierre Gravel, in the TAXSAVE $2 billion scam that was exposed to us by two of your auditors, Jim Weiten and Ted Reed of Winnipeg.

When considering all of the above, knowing how the criminals themselves have appointed the judges, we do not expect to get a fair shake within the Masonic Just-us system. However, the evidence which will be generated during the Hearing will allow CIPI to use its access to the internet, computers, fax machines and the networking of our 3,000 supporters to get the word out in Canada.

Consider yourself to be on notice and act accordingly. Canadians will know what happens.

One Canadian Woman's View

For the better part of my life I have worked two jobs to make a home for my two boys, being a single parent was a task I did with no problem. I paid taxes, gave money and time to local charities to help them raise money for people who did not have what I believed to be a chance to do it for themselves. Now, I am one of them. A physical disability took away my chance to create a life everyone needs.

Unable to work, I find myself working with the disadvantaged on a daily basis, as a volunteer on a crisis intervention telephone line. What I first thought was a small percentage of the population is fast becoming the norm in a category which I will call the working poor. To elaborate, these are people with young families, both parents are working, wages are minimum and the cost and quality of child care is a big worry for the parents as well as the cost of living being barely affordable. Job security is non-existent, and costs keep going up.

The myth that a good education and hard work will make one secure seems very tired.

How long are people going to believe that we have a huge debt that must be paid before we can have jobs, decent health care and hope for a future for the young people going to work every day and raising families?

There is something wrong when we are being lied to and are too tired and stressed out to hear the truth, let alone do something about it.

We have the power to make a difference. There is a wonderful freedom that comes from fighting back. The Canadian Institute for Political Integrity is the vehicle we need for getting people together. Shout FREEDOM by supporting CIPI. Just $25, sent each month, is your insurance policy of an improvement for all future generations. It will guarantee the effectiveness of CIPI's task.

I trust all of you who read this message will pass on the information and keep letting everyone in your area know that there is hope for Canada.

The purpose of life

by Glen EP Kealey

The Creator made you and everything else in the universe. He made you a free thinking human being so that you would observe, analyze and conclude before acting out your life's role. He speaks to you personally through your intuition and by code — mathematics.

During your life you are responsible for re-instating a miniscule portion of the Creator's singular perfection, by identifying and exploiting your own Creator-given talent.

To make this possible the Creator placed you in paradise (on earth) and provided for your every need, by giving you a "birthright" (natural resources).

Some greedy humans (anti-creators) chose to defy the Creator and set about to replace Him. They have accumulated and placed into storage (bank vaults) both their own birthright and yours. They also tax you.

The taxation of our labour has created a paid-slave population that is less than human. Unless people recognize the mess they're in now, and do something about it, the Creator will shut down the experiment called Man, much as He shut down the dinosaurs.

Time is running out.

BIRTHPATH

by Glen EP Kealey

A preponderance of evidence suggests that you shall live at least four (4) versions of your current life before attaining wisdom (it consists mostly of remembering your links to the Creator. The four sided pyramids symbolize your journey).

These four separate and distinct lives exist concurrently but are usually lived consecutively. All four lives together define your birth-path, just as the four seasons define nature's path. Landmarks exist along the way that will help you measure your progress as you journey through your life.

These "comfort zones" were created by those with an interest in the life choices you will make - they are:

1 — Opinion makers
(Parents, schools, media, spouses and later, children)
2 — Illusionists
(Drugs, entertainment and other organized religions)
3 — Your Self
(New Agers — "Don't judge others - blame your self")
4 — THE CREATOR
(Spiritual, historical and cultural reality; ie: TRUTH)

The erection of the pyramids has helped us to understand the Creator's secret language and decipher HIS code. His language is mathematics. Although pyramids have four sides, observers who stand passively at the base can only visualize two sides, while most theorists would intuitively accept the notion that there are three.

Passionate realists however, will reject all "theory" until they reach personal conclusions that are based upon the evidence. Rather than climbing to the summit they observe the foundations before they act — their conclusions are always based on fact. They observe, analyze and conclude. Only then do they move to action.

"self"
.....
Seize your "birthright"
.....
Walk your
"birthpath"

Glen:

I have just received the "June-July-August" edition of the Kealey Paper.

Glen, where are you getting all the crap about the "Old World Accumulators" from?

I have spoken to a number of people in this area that have read "your" revelations and I can tell you that your credibility is quickly going down the drain.

For me, please don't send me any more of your papers as I would be ashamed to pass them on.

Dear Glen/Ann:

According to an investigative reporter for the Readers Digest, the leader of the Solar Temple cult convinced his followers that "he was acting on order from "mystical beings" that lived beneath the Swiss City.

Could it be that these mystical beings are the strange beings that you are trying to convince your followers that live underground in Greenland?

I supported you and Shelley Ann in the past because of the story you had to tell and subsequent proposed Corruption Caravan in Ottawa. The close relationship of your "theory" and the propaganda of the leader of the Solar Temple are reasons that I am cancelling all of my post-dated checks to support your organization. My "agenda" folks, is and has always been very clear. (i.e. expose the corruption and the behind the scenes conspiracy that is to tear this nation apart). Your publication of the Kealey Paper has proven that efforts have somehow gone "off track". What a shame folks, considering the distance that both of you have covered.

Mr. John Walker
Cobble Hill, B.C.

Good Morning John!

Received your letter and information...many THANKS! As I come across more information in my travels, I'll pass them along. (depending on the mails of course).

Was pleased to see that a copy of your letter was sent to Glen. Sorry that Glen's concept of Creation/Creator etc. has not been received as well as I am sure he'd hoped. I feel that his views on religious subjects and history could turn people away from his basic cause. I am on his side!! I am part of the "washed"! I have an education and still find some of his writings difficult to read/follow. (No 30 second sound bites here.) I believe that Glen and Shelley Ann have a most important message to present. They have a solution (march on Ottawa) ....good stage presence and I pray that they'll be able to carry on delivering their message.

Not all Canadians are religious. It does concern me that he could lose a segment of the religious (whatever religion) population from his/our crusade to change the political make-up of our country. Many, many people in Nova Scotia (and I'd say in Canada) have their faiths, are comfortable with their beliefs and would still like to see a change in Canada's political structure. Just possibly his religious and historical concepts will attract more followers than lose existing ... take a poll? let history decide? seek advice? Whatever... may his written material not divide his supporters.

John!! Please don't turn away too quickly. I believe Glen and Shelley Ann need you, me and thousands of others like us. They need the support of followers...friends...and even the council of true, unbought believers. PLEASE JUDGE SLOWLY, CAREFULLY!!

Your copy of the Michael Journal was welcomed. Some very welcome information in it. I did call a Mr. Richards (French-Canadian), the New Brunswick representative. He's sending me some information. He tells me that the movement was founded by Louis Even. Even was born in France, moved to Canada, and started his movement in 1935; and died in 1974. He was unsuccessful in his attempt to change the political and monetary systems in Canada. Back at the beginning of his campaign, he felt that a change in Government style and rules of Banking (Bank of Canada) would be beneficial in holding the country together. Seems he was far-sighted.

The article written by David C. Korten holds much water. Korten's achievements and background tells you to pay attention. The American Economist that faxed you the information is also fighting the good fight. SEE!! A great many people, in and outside Canada are seeing the writing on the wall as to what the N.W.O. (New World Order) really means. I believe that anyone willing to speak, truthfully as we see it, about the N.W.O., F.T.A. (Canada-U.S. Free Trade Agreement); NAFTA; M.A.I. (Multi-national Agreement on Investments); world banking, etc. should be working together and supporting one another. It is a waste of energy to do otherwise. Where/if there are paid obstructionists and "moles" ...fine!! They'll be weeded out in time. People should not be under-estimated, they'll follow a leader whose goal is true... and constant.Damn!!

I'm wrapped up this morning! Pardon the lecture, or whatever, please!!

I met Glen, finally, in New Waterford, N. S. and heard him speak in Sydney. His presentation was mainly on a Gustafson Lake Theme; the N.W.O. and some on the death of Clayton Miller. clayton was 17 when he was killed 7 years ago. It was just too bad that more people were not there. I was pleased that I had an opportunity to sit and have a conversation with Glen. While he was in Cape Breton he was interviewed on Public TV. When the P.O. ... B.S. is over, I'll make arrangements to get a copy of that interview. Meanwhile, I'm planning also to ask the Kealeys to send me another of Glen's more recent presentations. His videos, information and talk on Gustafson Lake should be made compulsory viewing in all of our schools.

I'm going to mail (or fax) a copy of this letter and Korten's article to Glen and Shelley Ann. If there is anything pertinent received from Richards of N.B. I'll forward copies to you and to the Kealeys. I do believe that we are all on the same side. John, Glen, Shelley Ann (especially Shelley Ann) I like!! I played and coached for a good number of years. As long as we had the same goal, I didn't care if I Loved the receiver or not ... if he could catch... score . . . or benefit the team, I threw him the ball. If we are all working toward a common goal . . . does the player or path really matter?

John . . . (and the Kealeys,too) .. throw out the chaff and keep the kernels . . (if you can find any).

Good to hear from you, John!! GREAT!!

Again, Thanks!! I'll keep in touch.

Dear John,

As was requested by you the last time we spoke I wish to inform you that your monthly donation cheques to CIPI have been used up and that it is now time for you to renew your pledge. I also understand that for political, religious, RCMP and family reasons you have been forced to publicly disavow your support of CIPI, in order to retain control of your "comfort zone".

However, because I also understand that, in fact, you are an investigator who derives his conclusions only from the preponderance of the evidence and not from the illusions created by the military-industrial-complex, the "just-us system" or any other politically motivated organized religion who for 10,000 years have battled with THE CREATOR and humanity all over the world for the right to control mankind's birthright (our natural resources), I accept that your public disavowal of CIPI, and reality, is only a ploy — a method of protecting your current assets. These assets will, I am certain, be used for the betterment of mankind. Therefore, if you would rather make your contributions anonymously in the future this would be perfectly acceptable to us. Anonymous donations may be made at any branch of the Bank of Montreal by quoting the following : Transit 81 — Account No: 7050 889.

John, I also want to thank you for the article you sent that was published in the controllers Reader's Digest. It confirms what I have said all along. The international bankers operate through secret societies, at least since before the building of the pyramids. The Solar Temple is just one such group under the control of Freemasons. In order to make these "stupid" people believe that they are being directed by "God", they are brought in contact with "little people who live underground". As with all religions these Gods proclaim "only through me do you get to the creator". These dim masons are, currently, the "emissaries of the divine light".

Current "emissaries" are the modern day decendents of the original accumulators who were banned from paradise by The Creator, for accumulating beyond their own "birthright" — to a level where their accumulation deprived others of their own share of The Creator's original birthright gift to humanity. This is the meaning of "the original sin".

These emissaries created religion in order to place their words in "god's mouth" — God being a triune (three-in-one version) while The Creator is in fact a SINGULARITY. To bolster their position the three-sided figure was immortalized in the pyramids of Egypt. It has become one of the symbols, along with the obelisk, sun,, bull, lion, five pointed star and pentagon etc., that they use to mark their presence and control.

I hope, John, that in the future this letter will help you to more clearly understand who is really on the side of THE CREATOR and humanity and who is not.

Sincerely,

Glen

P.S. I would also suggest, when you write again, that you not make use of the envelopes your "son" gave you, as many may interpret the pyramids that appear in the corner as a symbol of your, or his, participation in the anti-creator's freemasonry.

Mr. Kealey:

RE: RCMP PUBLIC COMPLAINTS COMMISSION

I enclose an exchange of correspondence that has transpired with the above noted Commission.

It appears that the reason the Commission has refused to divulge their "address" is that they are an integral part of the RCMP. Canadians have obviously been led to believe otherwise, in that they are not an "independent" Commission.

Mr. Kealey, one can now see why the Commission found it acceptable for a member of the RCMP to lie under oath on the stand, (your complaint) and a member that refused to re-open a file, knowing full well that he had been lied to during the course of a criminal investigation (my complaint).

The BC government is creating yet another "independent" Police Complaint Commission for "municipal" (RCMP) police departments. One can only assume that "it" will be as "independent" as the RCMP Public Complaints Commission.

Please print this letter in your newspaper in order to warn all Canadians that police complaint commissioners are expensive farces set up to deceive the public and protect power.

Greetings:

I've heard with interest about the activities and perspectives of Glen Kealey and Shelley Ann Clark. I have a couple of questions.

First, how does the platform of AIC differ from that of the Council of Canadians?

The second is not so much a question as an observation and request for clarification. The press release states "The hidden agenda of the international bankers (the anti-creators New World ORDER) is to control the whole world". Often the term "international bankers" is a code term for World Jewry. Such terms attract anti-Semitic activists, as do most conspiracy theories.

My support for AIC would be contingent on very explicit public statements that your comments about international bankers target bankers of all heritages. Statements that attract anti-Semites do not attract me. I have the same comment about the hysterical tone, and lavish use of CAPITAL LETTERS and unexplained code terms (i.e. anti-creators).

I look forward to your comments.

Yours truly

Nelson, B.C., V1L 5P6

Greetings to you too!

I received your September 29, 1997 letter today. The first thing I wondered about was the length of time it took for the post office to deliver within B.C.; that is, until I noticed that it hadn't in fact been postmarked until the 14th, just two days ago.

I have to be honest with you Kathleen. When I first read your letter it looked to me like a set-up, which in the parlance of politics is known as "an ego trap". You know the kind of letter I mean — when the questions asked and the only statements made are intended to discredit the recipient, no matter what he/she may really believe or respond in reply - ie: "Do you still beat your mother / wife / children / dog / cat / employees, etc.?"

Please excuse this "automatic response" Kathleen. It is because I spent two months sitting in a jail cell in Surrey - when I assisted William Jones Ignace as his researcher during the Gustafson Lake Standoff trial - and as a result was made privy to 46 hours of secret RCMP management meetings. In these video tapes the police discussed "ways and means" of running a vast "smear and disinformation campaign" against myself, Bruce Clark, Splitting the Sky and of course, the Wolverine. Immediately following the RCMP meetings the CBC, CTV, Rafe Mair, the Globe and Mail, the Province, the Sun, along with CFRA and Ottawa Citizen etc. did just that. The Province, now that Wolverine is in jail and it won't matter much, has admitted that what I was saying all along was the truth (see copy attached). This, if I believe your letter, would have been "conspiracy theory". I view it as reality.

You, on the other hand, seem to me to continue to struggle with your illusions.

In any event your questions did seem naive to someone who has spent ten years of his life examining conspiracies of all kinds. I could not help but think that, at best, here is just one more naive person that's been programmed beyond retrieval by a "system" that is out to steal her birthright; or else, that you knew full well what you were saying and that you were saying these things as part of some hidden agenda on behalf of your secret back-room sponsor — such as The Council of Canadians.

Now, if it's not too late - that is, if you haven't yet thrown this letter in the garbage - may I respond to your two questions. I will attempt to do so without regard to any of the consequences that one can expect considering all that I have stated above.

1 —How does the platform of the AIC differ from that of the Council of Canadians?

a) The AIC platform, unlike that of the CoC, will not be the end product of an elitist resolution, passed at a secret Freemason international "Bilderberger" conference.

b) The AIC platform, unlike that of the CoC, will not be managed by Mel Hurtig, the CoC's first president (a secret director of the World Federalists and member of the Canadian Institute on International Affairs — the CIIA is modeled on the U.S.A.'s Council on Foreign Relations <CFR>, and/or, England's Royal Institute on International Affairs <RIIA>).

c) The AIC platform, unlike that of the CoC, will not be marketed by the likes of Maude Barlow, (the CoC's current President) ; nor will the AIC pay its leader the $85,000 per annum salary that M Barlow collects / steals under false pretenses from the CoC's benefactors.

d) The AIC platform, unlike that of the CoC, will not be discussed by the likes of Maude Barlow, with her American neighbour, former U.S.A. President George Bush, when Maude visits her family's second home in Maine. In short Kathleen, the AIC platform will be truly Canadian.

2 — You also wrote "Often International bankers is a code term".

a) My first comment is that here you are parroting almost word-for-word what the elitists have programmed you to think and to speak.

b) Let me answer your statement by stating my personal beliefs:

- I do not speak for any AIC supporter but myself.

- I am not a politician — I am a researcher / educator.

- I do not tell people what they want to hear.

- I tell people what they must hear — at least once.

- I believe that I am a true Canadian nationalist.

- I believe that I am a deeply "spiritual" person.

- I believe in only one master of the entire universe. He is the "singularity" that I call — THE CREATOR.

- I believe the planet earth was once paradise.

- I believe that The Creator provided for each person.

- I believe these basics are called a "birthright".

- I believe some people have accumulated way beyond their birthright.

- I believe this accumulation was the "original sin".

- I believe this accumulation continues to this day.

- I believe that international bankers always front for these accumulators.

- I believe that this has gone on for at least 10,000 years.

- I believe that all criminal accumulators were, and are still, "Nazis".

- I believe that NATO / Warsaw Pact were always one.

- I believe these Nazi SoL's also own the world-wide military-industrial-complex.

- I believe Nazi SoL's sponsor all national politicians/NGO's.

- I believe we are seeing the "Nazification" of the world.

- I believe this is what is currently being called the "New World Order".

I hope, Kathleen, that I have clearly and publicly answered your question and concerns.

I also hope Kathleen, for your sake, that one day soon before it's too late to save you and your family from a police state, war and slavery, that all of this "conspiracy theory" stuff will finally sink in and make sense to you too.

Sincerely,

Glen EP Kealey,
National President, CIPI

PS: A few people in Canada have described me as their instructor, along the lines of Jonathan Livingston Seagull. Most, however, think of me as I do — I am a mule herder. I herd mules.

POLITICS and RELIGION

TWO TOPICS YOU MUST TALK ABOUT

by: Glen Kealey

Henry Ford, a Freemason, said it first. "History is bunk". History is the systemic telling of false stories, about a series of apparently unrelated events that occurred in the past, in order to create an erroneous public opinion about who, what, where, when, why and how certain events took place.

In fact, the telling of history was and is built upon a number of false premises intended to mislead us into believing that human beings have only achieved a sophisticated level of advanced technological capability within the last few centuries. As well, only the last five to ten thousand years at most, since the rebirth of Caucasians (white men), is claimed as being the extent of human history.

This is completely false. Humankind, in its present form, is at least 190,000 years old.

During the sixteen thousand years that comprised the last ice-age, ancient earth-born Troglodytes had already achieved and continue to possess to this very day, a superior level of technological advancement to our own, within numerous fields of human endeavour; including fresh water diversion, hydraulics, plumbing, hydroponic gardening, transportation, communications, genetics, computing, optics, lasers and holography.

Due to new evidence that is just now emerging, about complex secret codes which are currently being deciphered, these having been found imbedded within the text of the Hebrew Torah (better known to Christians as "The Old Testament"), codes that leave no doubt that advanced computation and other technologies were available to a limited number of male priests thousands of years ago, long before the marketing of organized religion. Popular acceptance of everlasting life was high-jacked by the priests and used as a weapon of war.

Their Egyptian Book of the Dead served as the first model for the Vedas, Bible, Koran, Talmud, etc..

Freemasons designed and built both the system of mind-control we call religions and the physical temples, churches and cathedrals where the actual indoctrinations of the human sheople took place. By promoting religion instead of the singular Creator's true Spirituality, and politics in lieu of Freedom, these militant priests mislead humankind and thereby receive absolute power over the entire world — power that rightfully belongs only to the Creator of the universe. This alone is the real function of an armed military, of religion and government. Together, all three support a "strategy-of-tensions" designed to divide us while they steal our birthright.

The singularity known as the Creator is being diluted by religion before our very eyes. The first step taken by the high-priests of this secretive Babylonian Mystery religion (Freemasonry) was to turn HIM into a Trinity, three in one, the "triune nature of God". Their latest religion, New Age, is designed to convince us that we are all Gods capable of creating by ourselves.

Faith in our Creator has been eroded by this step-by-step process; first, into faith in at least 26 man-made Gods with comparable stories of virgin birth, a martyr's death and resurrection; and secondly, into faith in man alone.

Following the coming planned third world war (my best guess is it will last 7 years, beginning in 2036) and called Armageddon, is at this very moment being orchestrated from Greenland, by the Troglodyte and Freemasonry. As a final step planned for man they naively believe we will be left with no other choice but to adore one God — their highest Priest known to both insiders and puppets alike as the "The Divine Light".

They forget that the Creator is the Alpha and Omega — the beginning and the end.

FREEMASONS FEAR TRUTH

by: Glen Kealey

Increasingly it is becoming evident that Freemasons in British Columbia fear that Canadians will hear the truth about their plan to divert fresh water from BC (Grand Canal) to Maurice Strong's ranch, in Colorado.

The most recent incident is the unilateral cancellation of a contract signed between the Best Western Vernon Lodge and Conference Centre and Preferred Network's Wes Mann, to supply a meeting room for a conference to be held by British author David Icke. Icke addresses the problem of Freemasonry's involvement in the promotion of their 10,000 year old New World Order (NWO). NWO is the Fourth Reich of the rich.

Recently, Freemasons such as David Lethbridge, the loony moonie who sucks at the public trough, have undertaken to prevent any opinion contrary to NWO ambitions from being communicated to the naive Canadian public. Anytime, when a dissenting view might be heard, someone, such as the ancient Son of Legacy's David Lethbridge, calls upon the owners of the public meeting room to tell them that Freemasonry's top headquarters has ordered that they not allow these political dissenters to hold their public meeting.

Once hotel managers make their objections public, with the assured assistance of other Freemasons in the media (see SoL - Kealey Paper, Issue 9), the sponsors of these public information meetings are always demonized. Then, the Attorney General also jumps into the fray to threaten all independent Canadians with new, tougher, "Hate Laws". Of course, when one dares suggest that such HATE investigations be immediately commenced against Freemasons in Government, the military, police and media, the response is always "this was not the intent of parliament when they passed these hate laws". Well of course dummies, don't expect the legislators to pass laws to prevent their own criminal activity. Brian Mulroney, with the help of politicians, the RCMP, media and the judicial system still manages to steal millions from us and he's been out of political power for years.

Comment

It is the view of CIPI that, until critical mass is assembled in Ottawa, on July 1, 2000, our only remaining option at the present time is to take names and not to support financially those businesses who choose to play these games for Freemasonry. Until such time as CIPI receives a written apology for the recent actions of the Best Western Vernon Lodge we will not make use of their establishments anywhere in North America. Also, because their letterhead include symbols of RAMADA, Sands and Lakeside resorts we will suggest to our 3,000 + supporters across the country that they not use these other facilities as well.

PS: Freemasonry encyclopedias also direct Masons to lie to women (deceive) about their actual role in Masonry — if they knew what man-child rituals secretly go on at the higher degrees you would not need to ask yourself why they need to be so secretive.

Open letter to Premier of Ontario Kangaroos

by: Glen Kealey

To whom it concerns and to those who don't give a damn:

My name is Glen Kealey. I am Chairman and President of the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity. One might say that at CIPI we do work for the Creator. We take names — HE will kick ass later. We are inspired in this work by the related activities of the ancient Troglodyte "Grand Architect of the Universe". We break the fall of "stones the builders rejected".

On Monday, April 6, 1998, acting as an agent, I attended with Mr. D. J. at an electronic hearing of the criminal compensation board (it was a telephone conference) held in two seperate offices of the Attorney General of Ontario.

Today, I comprehend why the Commissioner refused to give us permission to tape record his "Hearing", although doing so is expressly permitted under Section 136. — (2) (b) of the Canadian Courts of Justice Act. The first three letters of Commissioner Lieber's name (lie) were to be but the first of many clues suggesting that although we were located in Ontario, Canada, (ie; not in Australia), we were to be witnesses at a well reknowned "Kangaroo Court".

The Commish, an obviously totally unqualified political appointment, showed so little regard for even a semblance of fairness during the entire hearing that one wonders if the man could even be trusted with the simplest task of raising money for his political sponsor's election needs. As he sucked up to the claimant and her "brother lawyer" one was, in fact, embarrassed for the dim Brotherhood that had accepted such a flawed character as one of theirs.

Also, his statement that he was "not interested in reading, or even looking at the accused's court transcripts holas-bolas", documents that expose the claimant's perjury as she had testified under oath at previous court hearings, further confirmed Commish bias. He accepted "at face value", false words of the Durham police and prosecutors who just last week were accused by another Ontario Government inquiry, of having fabricated false evidence in the case of Guy Paul Morin.

The claimant's police statement in this case would have led to her being arrested for driving while impaired, had it not been that the Durham police and prosecutors were out to fabricate evidence against the accused with regards to another unrelated case.

The accused has since been cleared in this other civil case, following a ten day trial which I also attended. He also has been compensated financially by his insurance company accusers, following a judge's order to that effect. These same Durham and RCMP police officers were totally discredited at trial and a CIPI — Who are we?

We are the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity (CIPI), a non-profit corporation dedicated to bringing about a truly democratic and independent Canada. We believe this can only be done by exposing the lies that created the illusion that freedom and spirituality can be achieved through politics and organized religion. By exposing the corrupt Freemason accumulators and their Troglodyte hidden hand puppeteers who manipulate all of the world's economic systems only for their benefit, we expect Canadians will wake up to the dangers that lie ahead. What distinguishes us from other groups is not only our analysis of what's wrong; it is the fact that we alone offer a solution that does not merely patch over the problem, but eliminates it from the ground up.

Kealey is the former Ottawa-Hull region commercial developer who spent 1000 days on Ottawa's Parliament Hill before he was allowed to appear in court in 1991 — where he exposed the system of sophisticated organized crime run by Mulroney's government; with the complicity of the Justice System and the RCMP. Former Public Works minister, Roch LaSalle, offered him federal government support for his project in exchange for 5% of all government contributions, on top of the $5,000.00 kickback which LaSalle asked for up front. While investigating, Kealey found evidence of a massive bribe and kickback scheme operated and controlled right out of the Prime Minister's Office, and a close collaboration among Cabinet Ministers, the national media and RCMP Commissioners. Glen Kealey, through a Section 507 Hearing, succeeded in convincing a Justice of the Peace, with 34 years experience, to lay charges against 16 senior politicians and government officials, including Norman Inkster, Commissioner of the RCMP, Henry Jensen, Deputy Commissioner and J. Michael Shoemaker, Assistant Deputy Commissioner, with having conspired together in a criminal conspiracy intended to cease and limit police investigations.

Clark is the civil servant, with 30 years experience, who worked for the Canada-U.S. Free Trade Negotiations Office in Ottawa and exposed an act of high treason committed by former Prime Minister Mulroney. She was ordered by the third highest ranking negotiator on Mulroney's team to come into the office between midnight and 4 a.m. in order to falsify and eventually shred briefing papers designed to mislead provincial premiers as to what was really being given away in the FTA (Free Trade Agreement). In March 1988, she was ordered by her boss to secretly remove key documents from the Free Trade Office and bring them to the trunk of his car. This order was given after he received an internal memorandum that ordered all negotiators to turn over to the National Archives all documents used in the negotiations. While screening the material to be removed, Shelley Ann Clark came across an implementation scheme that clearly laid out a step-by-step plan that would eventually lead to the merger of Canada and the U.S.A. by the year 2005. Clark stated that the scheme also contains plans for Quebec's separation, and the construction of a GRAND canal for massive water diversion. After being abandoned by PSAC, her union, and threatened by secret service, Clark went public with her story in May 1993, with the assistance of a lawyer. Canada's Freemason national media would rather have you think about TV soap operas, sports, MAI, O.J. Simpson and Paul Bernardo.

Mitch Bronfman's TAXSAVE scheme

Revenue Canada tax collectors help steal $ 4 billion - from you

by: Jane Adair - with editing by Glen Kealey

To many people it would seem a career in government, and in particular, Revenue Canada, would be an excellent position. Guess Again! While the best sellers "Above the Law" and "On the Take" document widespread corruption in the Mulroney government, the following is a documented case of corruption in Revenue Canada.

The corruption, originally, was in the form of "Special Treatment" given to "friends" by managers in the department and because of "Special Rulings."

The major example of "Special Rulings" came in 1986 from Mr. R.F. Fulford, Assistant Deputy Minister, who, in a written directive unlawfully subverted the "Trust" section of the Excise Tax Act - Section 63 now Section 109, to the direct benefit of TaxSave Consultants Limited, a firm comprised mostly of former Revenue Canada executives and other colleagues of Mr. Fulford.

Section 63(109) of the "Sales Tax Statute" has been an integral part of this Statute for many years and states very clearly: "Penalty for collecting excess sums — everyone liable under this Act to pay to Her Majesty any of the taxes hereby imposed, or to collect the same on her Majesty's behalf, who collects, under colour of this Act, any sum of money in excess of such sum as he is hereby required to pay to Her Majesty, shall pay to Her Majesty all moneys so collected, and shall, in addition, be liable to a penalty not exceeding five hundred dollars."

In 1985, the first year of Brian Mulroney's rule, a newly created company by the name of TaxSave Consultants produced a flashy marketing brochure describing their services. The TaxSave brochure boasts "Everybody's so Quiet About Us" — "TaxSave devised a strategy tailored to the situation, developed the issue, and pursued it. A few months later, Revenue Canada changed its policy and our client was awarded a very substantial refund." The brochure also presents a client list consisting of approximately 800 companies across Canada.

What does the subversion of Section 63 mean? This Section is in the Sales Act to ensure businesses do not benefit from collecting too much tax or collecting tax on tax, ie; on exempt items. The administration of Section 63 provided for over-charges to be refunded to the customer or sent to Revenue Canada, for return to the customer. Fulford's new directive allowed these businesses to keep over-collected tax money without refunding it to the customers who had been overcharged. The secret directive was not published through normal channels, so the general population of businesses were not even aware of it. TaxSave Consultants employees though were certainly aware of it — at least one full year before the directive from DM Fulford was issued, they were already endeavouring to exploit it. The pool of taxpayers' money they prepared to tap into is estimated to be in the area of THREE OR FOUR BILLION DOLLARS!

In 1985, Jim Weiten, a senior Revenue Canada tax auditor researched this matter as soon as he first encountered the illegal activities of TaxSave Consultants Ltd.

At Weiten's request, a written directive was received from Ottawa (from the Senior Legal Counsel for Revenue Canada) and confirmed by the Department of Justice. It stated that Section 63 was in effect and was to be enforced as written.

After receiving this confirmation from Ottawa, Jim Weiten ensured that over-collected amounts were returned to the rightful owners – the customers who had been overcharged the tax. One of the activities TaxSave Consultants were involved with was advising a large furniture manufacturing firm in Winnipeg. They advised that they didn't have to return to their customers, the $75,000 which they had over-collected, because Section 63 of the Excise Act had been "changed". When Jim Weiten advised the manufacturer to the contrary that, in fact, Section 63(109) had not changed and was still law, they readily agreed with him that it didn't seem right to retain the money they had over-charged their customers. Of course, this meant that TaxSave Consultants Ltd. did not get its 50% commission for retrieving the over-collected amount from Revenue Canada

This development did not sit well with Jim Weiten's bosses at Revenue Canada. By sticking to the rules as stated in the Statute, TaxSave Consultants Limited would not be able to retrieve these illegal profits.

Weiten's managers at Revenue Canada were for the most part always ready to accomodate, by giving preferential treatment to former colleagues, including to a certain Mr. Harold Carley of TaxSave Consultants Ltd., a consulting firm reportedly under the control of Mitch Bronfman.

It is very significant that Mitch Bronfman first came to the public's attention when he was "named", during the 1970's, by the Quebec based "Commission into Organized Crime".

Mitch, who also owned a private exclusive airline for executives was accused of dealing with Willie Obront of the Zaputo Cheese Factory who was well known to authorities for his role in money laundering. Furthermore, avid KP readers should remember that before coming under organized crime investigators scrutiny, Mitch, who always demonstrated an unusual eye for bargains, had purchased land at Georgian Bay, on Lake Huron, in 1966, for much more than its estimated value (coincidentally this is the area where the proposed $196 billion Grand Canal project is expected to unload its valuable cargo of fresh water — once it is diverted from a newly desalinated James Bay).

The Bronfmans, of course, also control the huge Seagram empire which was built on the import-export of whiskey to elements of organized crime in the U.S.A., during "prohibition". They are also the same people who convinced Kim Campbell, in 1993, to privatize the Toronto airport, during the federal election campaign. In any event, mostly because of Prime Minister Chretien's "sweetheart settlement" the Bronfmans still made their multi-million dollar profit, when the questionable airport sale was cancelled due to public pressure.

A harassment campaign, orchestrated by Weiten's four managers, was launched against him.

According to Weiten, the managers involved in this were: Barry Lloyd, Audit Unit Manager, Merv Sitka, Audit Unit Manager, George Stratton (brother of Senator Terrance R. Stratton), Audit Unit Manager and Augie Haugen, the Regional Chief of Audit.

It is significant before proceeding further, for the reader to fully comprehend how the Government's Personnel Management Manual defines the term "harassment".

The Canadian Government's Personnel Management Manual clearly states:— "Harassment also includes abuse of authority, which means - an individual's improper use of power and authority inherent to the position held, or, to endanger an employee's job, threaten the economic livelihood of the employee, or, in any way interfere with or influence the career of such an employee. It includes such Acts or misuses of power as intimidation, threats, blackmail or coercion."

In 1986 Deputy Minister Fulford issued his new directive, illegally subverting Section 63, despite legal advice received from a senior Counsel and the Federal Department of Justice as outlined above.

To explain further, for example, when a supermarket or other business collects sales tax on items which are exempt such as meat, milk, bread and other food items, this would be a violation of Section 63(109) of the Excise Tax Act. When Fulford issued his illegal directive not only did he know he was in violation of this Act but he also knew that it would be overlooked by his officials.

Normally, a business probably would not do this on their own, but if they were prompted by a firm such as TaxSave, it would be simple for them to program their computerized cash register to take these exempt items into the taxable field on their computer. Under Fulford's directive they could retain this tax illegally collected, and TaxSave, under it's contract, would keep 50% as a commission for retrieving these illegal funds "legally" from Revenue Canada.

Ted Reid, a tax interpretations officer in Winnipeg, immediately wrote a letter to Ottawa questioning the motive and legality of the directive. The letter was written as a result of requests from the staff in Winnipeg who wished to receive a clarification, as the directive made no legal or practical sense.

Reid's letter clearly indicated that the directive made the Department "party to a fraud". Reid's questioning of the directive cost him his career. He was immediately subjected to harassment by his managers. The harassment included falsifying his work records by one of his manager's, Ed Luy. Mr. Luy removed all favourable comments from Ted's formal work record files.

The conduct of managers, Sitka and Luy was so biased, that an Adjudicator, in her 58 page report made coments such as ... "He" (Luy) "had also created an intolerable work environment for Mr. Reid". ..."Messrs Jordan, Sitka and Luy devised a game plan, obviously to get rid of Mr. Reid". ..." I do not believe Mr. Luy's statement". "I believe Mr. Reid over Mr. Luy's declaration". ..."The written evidence clearly and unambiguously contradict this (Sitka"s) statement." ..."Mr. Jordan (Regional Director) testified that the urgency of the situation had required that he sign two blank copies of the disciplinary action reports. Such urgency is hard to explain".

Despite the managers being named by the adjudicator, for having obviously lied under oath, violating various employment statutes with misconduct, which could arguably be described as criminal — What has been their fate? You guessed it. They all received promotions, of course! At first, Ted Reid appeared to have finally won his reinstatement, with all of his back pay. Mr. Reid's superiors' testimony had not been credible, as shown in the foregoing examples. Still, the Department refused to pay Ted's legally won backpay. Instead, they fired him again - before he could physically get back into the Department. The Adjudicator had also added that "Mr. Reid had been a fully satisfactory employee with no disciplinary record".

Why do you suppose it was suddenly so important for Revenue Canada managers to get rid of Ted Reid, a fully satisfactory employee over a 10 year period.

In 1988, Finance Minister, Michael Wilson, in response to a letter from MP, Ronald Stewart, advised that over-collections had to be returned to the customer and not retained by the vendor. This is in keeping with the provisions of Section 63 of the Excise Tax Act. Even though this missive totally contradicts then Revenue DM Fulford's directive. Fulford's directive remains in effect. To this day, it still allows TaxSave Consultants to make millions of dollars for themselves by stealing from the taxpayers.

In fact, Otto Jelinek, Minister of National Revenue at the time, wrote a letter to M.P. Bill Blaikie and advised Section 63 was still in effect "in certain instances" moneys must be returned to the customers or to Revenue Canada.

In other words, if excess sums of taxes are collected from customers and a TaxSave Consultant is hired to represent the vendor, they can keep the excess moneys which were collected illegally. In all other cases, the excess moneys must be returned to the customers or to Revenue Canada.

The "cone of silence" was placed over Revenue Canada. The order came right out of Brian Mulroney's Office right down to the regional level where those directly involved were desparately trying to keep the lid on this criminal activity and all other corruption activities.

Jim Weiten continued to uncover more and more corruption within Revenue Canada, including the forgery of his name on a document which illegally cancelled huge amounts of statutory penalty and interest owed by a large corporation.

Once again, Jim Weiten reported the illegal activity to the Winnipeg Regional Office. It was, of course promptly ignored. Weiten then brought it to the attention of his representative at the Public Service of Canada and later to the RCMP. You guessed it again! The end result was just the usual run-around and cover-up.

After this latest incident, the harassment of Jim Weiten intensified. He was obstructed from doing his job; he was ridiculed and slandered by the Revenue Canada managers. This horrific harassment was obviously not sufficient for his managers, because they then enlisted the assistance of someone they could easily manipulate, one Doug McLean. McLean's sole claim to fame was that he owned a .357 magnum and shot jack-rabbits for practice.

While sitting in his office McLean's favourite pastime was to "fondle" the bullets he had in his desk drawer. His mission was obvious - get rid of Jim Weiten.

In the end, the severe harassment upon Jim Weiten took it's toll. Jim encountered severe medical problems and had to take an extended leave.

Subsequently, the local RCMP "Commercial Crime Unit" were advised of the Section 63 tax fraud and the penalty and interest offences. Two RCMP officers were assigned to the case, but only one showed any interest. Officer Jennings stated (once outside the building) that this case had the potential for a "heck of a case". However, Jennings also said "that Bill C-79 and a directive from the Commissioner — do not let us investigate government any longer." (In the Glen Kealey case RCMP Commissioner Norman Inkster and his two Deputies were charged with "ceasing and limiting police investigations". The charge was withdrawn as a result of Mulroney's political appointments to the Bench. Five corrupt prosecutors became judges.) Jennings also said that they once had 15 senators and politicians under investigation in Ottawa but Bill C-79 had suspended these investigations.

Despite the fact that the Section 63 SCAM was aired on CBC's national news program "The Journal" and that the CBC crew investigated and interviewed the principals of TaxSave Consultants officials in Toronto and Winnipeg and did a hidden camera interview with Harold Carley of TaxSave, catching him "red handed" — Revenue Canada officials in Ottawa would not comment — Once the Bronfman's participation in the scam was clearly understood by all in the media 'THE LID WAS ON'.

In July 1992, a billion dollar class action suit was filed in the Federal Court on behalf of purchasers who had been over-charged federal sales tax and defrauded of the money owed to them.

Suddendly, by coincidence, Mr. R.F. Fulford, Assistant Deputy Minister of Revenue Canada, retired even though a few months earlier he received the Outstanding Achievement award from Brian Mulroney and Governor General Ramon Hnatyshyn for his role in implementing the GST.

Fred Corbet, Deputy minister of Finance (architect of the GST) also "resigned" on short notice. As well, Ruth Hubbard, Deputy Minister of Revenue Canada was quietly transferred.

Enter Pierre Gravelle as the replacement Deputy Minister, Revenue Canada. This is the same person who, lately, has allowed the Bronfman family trust to remove $2 billion, parked tax-free, in the Bronfman "family trust" from Canada, without paying any taxes.

Jim Weiten wrote to Gravelle and categorically outlined the corruption going on in Revenue Canada. Gravelle responded but never addressed the issues. Instead he stated "I am satisfied that nothing is wrong".

Later, a letter was delivered in a clandestine manner to Jim Weiten's home at 6:30 in the morning. The person standing at the door claimed to be from a detective agency known as "World Investigations". He said he was engaged by Revenue Canada.

The letter stated: he (Jim Weiten) was considered to have "abandoned his position" and was no longer an employee of Revenue Canada. The clandestine manner of delivery was challenged by Weiten , and 8 months later Revenue Canada, Deputy Minister, Pierre Gravelle wrote: "World Investigations are aware of your habit of leaving the house early in the morning" and they "are legally authorized by the Federal Government".

WELCOME TO THE USSR
— CANADA STYLE —

Jim Weiten filed the necessary documents with The Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada.

They were not interested in dealing with the corruption aspect of the case. George Smith, the local representative stated "We know they're corrupt, — they know they're corrupt — THEY know that WE know they're corrupt — but there's nothing we can do about it" and subsequently withdrew from the case. So much for being forced to pay union dues for years to an organization which negates your personal rights under "Labour Law" and, in the heat of battle, withdraws because "it's too hot for them to handle". Weiten's wife believes that they participated in a backroom deal. For example — they traded one employee for increased benefits for themselves — it sounds incredible but it is not impossible, when you consider the lack of integrity in the entire system.

Jim Weiten then decided to pursue the matter on his own in the Federal Court - Adjudications - the only forum available for this type of case. It was made very clear to the appropriate body in Ottawa that documentary evidence of the Revenue Canada corruption would be introduced in the proceedings.

Mr. Brisson of the Staff Relations Board agreed "it would be accepted". During the two days of hearing, the documented evidence was presented by Jim Weiten during his testimony. The accused from Revenue Canada did not show up as required to answer the documented charges. This was completely ignored by the adjudication process. A brief decision was issued by R.V. Simpson who heard the case. She ruled she was "without jurisdiction". This is proof of a sick "justice" system that exists in this country.

Weiten's superannuation to which he had contributed for 16 years was held up for over a year and his severance pay has still not been received to date — the Government acknowledges it is owed to him but will pay only under certain conditions — in effect what Revenue Canada want is: "A GAG ORDER".

Meanwhile, each of the corrupt managers mentioned above has been given promotions and dupes in Ottawa have been setup to take the fall ....when the s__t finally hits the fan. Who says "Crime doesn't pay in Canada"

The biggest losers, of course, are "the people of Canada" who have been defrauded of at least 3 billion dollars as a result of the subversion of Section 63 (109) (50% went to TaxSave).

There are many, many, more examples of corruption suffered by Canadian taxpayers during the Mulroney Regime - yet the current Liberal Government, arguably controlled by the same Bronfmans and their Troglodyte masters in world Freemasonry, seems content to "cover up".

Jim Weiten often says, at first, one would believe this sort of thing could never happen to

Take a lesson from Paul Martin
BALANCE YOUR FAMILY BUDGET

Most Canadians wonder how to make it from pay-to-pay without getting further and further into debt, let alone trying to balance their family budget. But now there's good news from Canada's finance minister, Paul Martin. He's come up with a good formula for you to follow that should give you your first balanced budget since your wedding. Martin used his formula and now he's declared Canada's first balanced budget in 30 years.

Here's what to do so that you too can keep feeding the big fat banker that moved into your basement some time ago, while still leaving you with enough to eat, drink and be merry.

1 — First, forge a cheque on Granny's savings account and then evict her from her/your property. By also voting for euthanasia laws you will help cover-up your crime, as she won't be around long enough for her to file a criminal information.

2 — Then, throw your spouse out onto the street. Afterall, he/she's been sick and an operation will cost a lot of money, especially for the drugs that follow - and that's the money you need to buy the month's supply of T-Bone steak, for you and your drinking buddies at the Freemason lodge.

3 — Next, while you're at it, you may as well evict all the kids from your house. Any parent knows the taxes they must pay to educate this thankless lot. And, since they are to be tools of the state anyway, their "social engineering" can best be left to the new cable TV channels.

There, now that you have balanced your personal family budget, the banker/tenant that lives downstairs can be invited to move upstairs to live with you and then you can both celebrate your "coup de famille", by splurging the new windfall with a fun evening for two at the casino.

Paul Martin
Finance Minister — Tax Dodger

Canada's Federal Finance Minister, Paul Martin, is one of Canada's leading tax dodgers, a union rally was told in early February, at the North Vancouver dockyards.

Martin is an owner of Canada Steamship Lines (CSL), a company that made $19 million in profits in 1990, paid no income tax and got a $400,000 tax credit to boot.

In addition, CSL has replaced Canadian crews on its international ships with third world workers paid much less than union rates in Canada and has registered its ships in the Bahamas to avoid Canadian taxes and safety regulations.

The Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, Local 400, organized a rally outside the dockyard where the CSL's Atlantic Superior was being repaired. The ship was built in Canada, in 1982, funded by a 9% federal subsidy that covered the down-payment, but now it is registered in the Bahamas. The only Canadian left on board is the captain.

"This ship is an example of what is wrong in Canada", said BC Federation of Labour President, Ken Georgetti. Ain't that the truth.

complaint of perjury was filed by our institute against a number of the officers involved.

The accused has also been compensated by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police for the way in which he was endangered by their reckless actions that exposed him to numerous attempts on his life, after he had assisted them by acting as an informant in another unrelated drug case. Of course, the Commish in this case stated he considered this directly related evidence to be "irrelevant" as well.

At the end, because we were told by the Commish that he would later tell his partner in crime - who was not present at the hearing - how she should vote on this matter and that a decision would be rendered by them both before the end of the day; the time being after 3:00 pm already, he left us no doubt that they did not intend to look at the evidence D.J. had submitted, before rendering their combined decision.

Obviously, absolute justice has been replaced by political justice in the Courts of Ontario. Thus, my reasons for reporting back to CIPI's three thousand Canadian supporters that I had again personally witnessed corrupt criminal activity, in a Kangaroo Court, in your province.

'you'. Then, just when you think it is an isolated incident, and you try to obtain justice you find out for yourself that the entire system is corrupt. As CIPI's anti-corruption, anti-treason fighter, Glen Kealey has said, quoting an unknown author: "it is just like peeling an onion – the more layers you peel — the more you want to cry".

For Ted Reid and Jim Welten, the cost of "honesty" and "integrity" has been one calculated in terms of loss of career, financial hardship, health problems and security. However, if you ask Ted and Jim if they would do it all again, that is, still question the corruption and try to correct the problem, their answer is unquestionably the same - you bet they would !!!

BOTH THESE MEN ARE "GREAT PUBLIC SERVANTS WITH INTEGRITY" — TWO TRULY GREAT CANADIAN HEROES THAT WE SHOULD ALL BE PROUD OF.

Communism vs Capitalism

"Just one more illusion"

Communism and Capitalism were both created in London and Switzerland, by the Freemason Rothschild family of International Free Traders. Both political systems were designed as first, interim, steps to move European societies towards Fascism. Fascism is their ultimate political goal for the entire world — that is, until Armageddon. Universal Fascism would assure that the "Red Shield" (Rothschild translated from German into English) would fly as the primary colour on the flags of every country of the world. Canada is much farther down this road than most Canadians want to believe.

Although we still have no five pointed stars on our flag, to depict the military-industrial-complex' total control over our nation, as many others do, the symbolism behind our red maple leaf cannot be ignored. Our current flag was imposed on Canadians following conspiratorial parliamentary collusion by the seemingly competing Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties. The key word to note here is "Progressive", which makes the Conservatives into just another division of the Rothschild Liberals. Also, since the word Democracy is one more word, much as the word Reform is, that defines the Fabian approach to universal Freemasonry, each being "step-by-step" in their general approach to making change palatable, don't count on either the New Democratic or Reform parties to come to your, or Canada's rescue.

The symbolism of the current Canadian flag is fairly easy to decipher. The Rothschilds view Canada's extremities, the east and west coasts, as being totally in their camp. A (dead) red Maple Leaf makes up a large portion of the centre which is still surrounded by a broad white area. Obviously, this red maple leaf is meant to depict Rothschild-Mason control over Upper Canada (Ontario), while the surrounding white depicts control by the puritans of numerous Organized Religions upon the remainder of the flag's centre; ie, Quebec and the Prairies.

"In the end times the signs will be clear". The Rothschild's all seeing eye — Freemasonry — will be everywhere. Today they are 187 million strong worldwide. I often stop and wonder, if the fact that Masons are so quick to give up their birthright and sellout their nations for the cheap paper money that Rothschilds create out of thin air, this may be the original reason why they were called Free-masons. Is it because they choose to slave for free?

Canada's military Generals, like Generals around the world, are on the same team. Against the peoples of the world they dispense their "Strategy of Tensions" which is co-ordinated among themselves and is intended solely to increase their secret budgets. For clues study Germany's "FEHME" prior to WWII and the movements of General Reinhard Gehlen following the war.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police

Whom do they protect and serve?

Will the real R.C.M.P. please stand. The calls and letters that arrive at C.I.P.I. tell a much different story than that of the spin doctors who create the public's perceptions of our national police force. Is it any wonder that the RCMP have lost our respect. Recently the RCMP hired the services of illusionists at Walt Disney studios to do their make-over. Reality suggests that this new image is no more real than that of Disney's Tinkerbell.

Take a look at the facts, the evidence, in just three cases that CIPI has personally observed and analyzed. They include: 1) the Brian Mulroney's kickback scheme on government contracts that raised at least $100 billion dollars paid into a secret fund over nine years, this, excluding the orchestrated cover-up and payout provided by the RCMP brass, the Liberal government of Canada and the government of Ontario. The whole sordid affair was managed and controlled out of the inner sanctum at Justice Canada; 2) the definite lack of enthusiasm to even investigate the theft of documents and high-treason surrounding the Canada-USA Free Trade Agreement exposed by Foreign Affairs insider/whistle-blower Shelley Ann Clark and finally; 3) the 1995-96 land theft media event known as the Gustafson Lake BC armed Native standoff, along with its resulting trial and imprisonment of traditional/spiritual Native Elder, William Jones Ignace — followed by the farce at the Supreme Court of Canada that recognizes the land rights of native born agents of the government known as "Hereditary Chiefs", in lieu of the Clan Society's "life-long Chiefs", chosen by the original people themselves.

In terms of Canadian fresh water diversion all three cases are directly related. Evidence gathered by CIPI, when considered in the light of dozens of other related cases, ultimately provided the basis for our conclusions:

The RCMP protect and serve international free-traders and their bankers. The RCMP operate under the direct management and control of international Freemasons. Directions originating within the secret inner sanctum of Canada's military are passed on to the RCMP by the Freemason free-traders who control Canada's politicians through the Privy Council. The RCMP are the enforcers of sophisticated organized criminal activity against the people of Canada. They pro-actively participate in, promote and protect criminal activity by masons involved in organized, government sanctioned extortion. Since the government has legalized criminal activity in the very lucrative areas of drugs, gambling and highway robbery, members of this freemason police force are now employed, mostly, just to prey upon the Canadian people. Is it any wonder the RCMP need Walt Disney to continue the illusion?

THE INTERNET

Why is it that the military-industrial-complex has strategically positioned satellites all around the planet that make personal communications possible, worldwide? Is it because they love you and want you to have, through their information highway, faster access to the truth? Not bloody likely.

Computers linked to the INTERNET, once purchased by you with your after-tax dollars, are self activated ground positioning devices (GPD) that identify your location to the military anywhere around the globe, within a target distance of 30 metres. Smart missiles can be launched and guided straight to your location at anytime, but specifically, after orders are received from THE POLICY COMMITTEE that has labelled you an "instigator". That is when a call will go out ordering the military to perform what they call an "expediency". The Media will report the "accident" as a missile that went off course.

Meantime, every time you access the INTERNET, you are helping the agents of the ancient fascist Troglodyte — from their headquarters in Greenland and the 1000 points of fibre-optic light they have linked through undetectable cables underground — to automatically backtrack your requests back to your current location. They can build a "personality profile" of yourself that can then be very useful to them in identifying, over a period of time, each of your personal likes or dislikes. With this information in hand the controllers can customize a brain-washing package that has you alone as its intended victim.

Much the same back-tracking can occur with Facsimile machines, although they are much less efficient information carriers than the full blown communicating computer linked to a world-wide-web.

Personal, centrally controlled, national brain-washing was the prime reason behind the implementation of the Canada-USA Free Trade Agreement communications and cable strategy. It was signed in 1988, by our former Prime Minister, Brian Mulroney, and was first exposed to public scrutiny that same year by a true Canadian hero, the whistle-blower Shelley Ann Clark. No one but the military paid her much attention. They, however, have made numerous attempts on her life, beginning with an attempt to poison her at a reception held in the residence of the Canadian Ambassador to Austria, David Peel, in 1990.

Currently, David Peel serves the Chretien Liberal Party puppets, as Inspector General of the Canadian Security and Intelligence Service (CSIS).

LIVING CAUSES CANCER (Thinking is the cure)

Today, cancer is a premeditated affliction that is being perpetrated on us, along with heart disease and strokes. World controllers want to cause us stress. These diseases, that have always occurred naturally as a means of controlling overpopulation, are now being aggravated by the premeditated addition of manufactured toxins.

Having identified, using your donations of research money, the carcinogens that cause cancer, the military-industrial-complex has introduced the addition of mulitiple man-made chemicals, on purpose, into all aspects of your daily life. It is only one more element within the cornucopia of assaults known to insiders as a Strategy of Tensions which they now use — along with war, famine and pestilence.

The ultimate goal is to diminish, or for now limit, the world's population of people they call "useless eaters". These useless eaters are all those people who no longer contribute directly to their "Just-us system", either by the taxation of their labour or through unpaid slavery which was first imposed upon the world 10,000 years ago.

The human body is a chemical computer operated by minute electrical currents.

Facts — most carcinogens were originally chemicals created by stress within the body. Now, they are mostly a result of corporate environmental pollution. The corporate system of Fortune 1000 companies is entirely controlled by the same individuals who appear on a number of boards of directors. All of these directors are linked to each other through family or secret "brotherhood" ties. They always operate as a single unit, much like a flock of swallows or a school of fish. Competition is an illusion created for the public consumption of a frightened, often naive, but always brainwashed populace.

Disease — much like war, prison, children's aid societies or any other welfare scheme designed to control the poor — is a social engineering mechanism used by the elites. Diseases have been researched for thousands of years. The answers needed to understand the causes of most diseases are well known. Unfortunately, the answers are only known to a few and most of them, being elites, don't have your best interest in mind. The few people that do, you have been tamed not to listen to. Too often, they disturb your illusionary "comfort zones".

"For assuming we live in a safe world, this, we pay for with our lives. There are up to 100,000 toxic chemicals in our environment, food, water and air. There is hardly a moment when we are not contacting or absorbing some form of poison" (Dr. Leo Roy).

The solution to overcome disease is not to give everyone a computer that can track everything that causes disease, because your entire daily life is now being infested with carcinogens. The solution lies in stopping the international free-trade criminals who want to control the universe and everyone in it.

Once you decide to get involved in the only real solution to the problem, lifestyles will change.

Historic Caballa

Also known in the West as the Kabalarian Philosophy

by: Glen Kealey

Caballa is, in Freemason theology, a philosophical-theological method or system of coding, decoding and interpreting the occult meaning of letters and words. The principles were secretly known only to a few chosen teachers. This ancient prehistoric code was first leaked to the public by a Rabbi Akiba, during the encoding period of the final 66 texts chosen as the first Christian Bible (2nd century AD).

Gods, the Caballa says, believe that their was no special act of creation, nor will there ever be an end; the Deity being self-perpetuating in its development. Everything alive can be connected with any God man chooses, as everything and everyone is GOD in the present. This belief, far from being a coincidence is the religious view of Freemasons, the Sons of Legacy (Light).

The Caballa suggests that all symbols, such as our current

A	B	C	D	E	F	G	H	I

Along with the Torah, the first five books of Hebrew oral traditions that are popularly known as the "Old Testament" (attributed to Moses), the "New Testament" was, reportedly, also being falsely attributed to a total of 44 different authors.

letters and numbers, are codified in a way so as to be secretly linked or connected with the existence of this unfinished creator they call God. Caballists package and promote this view within a system most of us have called "religion".

The word CABAL is derived from its Hebrew meaning, which means to receive (Free Trade). This signifies the fundamental conception of the Caballa, that everything comes from their God and not from the Creator. These two conceptual deities are in fact separate and very distinct from each other. The first is THE CREATOR, the other is a God (A troglodyte Light or Sun) an anti-creator.

One victory the neo-Caballists celebrate is their conquest of England, in the 17th century. The participants in this cabal were: Clifford, Ashley, Buckingham, Arlington and Laurendale whose acronym "coincidentally, if one does not believe in conspiracy" spells out the word CABAL.

True Traditional / Spiritual persons on the other hand, view THE CREATOR as the Alpha and the Omega (the beginning and the end) - He/She who has placed in motion an experiment called Man; where Man was given free-will, to make choices freely during life and be judged on the success or failure of his/her choices, along with all those who went before, only at the very end of the test period.

It is the sworn duty of every Freemason to move people towards their concept of a triune Deity in any way they can. This usually takes the form of a "step-by-step" process developed by them since pre-historic times. To make this possible Freemasons continue to hide the real history of humankind, deprive all others of their Birthright and keep them unbalanced by taxing their labour.

In these, the end times, I believe that there are only two choices we can make; either we go along with this ancient Freemason theology, as expressed in the Caballa. It is always repeated with every publication of each "holy book" that announces a virgin birth, death and resurrection of yet another divisible Deity. Or, stick with the singularity that is the one and only Deity that has existed for all time - He/She who, alone is the Creator of this and every other possible universe .....and that also includes everything and everyone contained therein.

Woman 'rigged free-trade deal'

By Suzy Hamilton
Special to The Province

NELSON — She says it's a threat to national security, and the truth has to get out.

So far, hundreds of dismayed people have turned out to hear civil servant Shelley Ann Clark claim the free-trade agreement is a fraud.

"I was the person who rigged the free-trade agreement," said Clark. "I doctored and shredded the briefing books given to the premiers.

"No one has the complete agreement because I took seven boxes of documents to (my boss's) car."

Clark says 200 to 500 pages are missing — and they will turn Canada into the 51st state by 2005.

Clark, 49, says she was executive secretary to a free-trade negotiator in 1986 and 1987. She says she was told several times a week in January 1987 to report for work between midnight and 4 a.m. to shred and alter documents.

"I knew the briefing books were being doctored. I demanded to be removed six times, but my requests were denied."

She says one of the missing documents is an implementation scheme. It discusses the separation of Quebec in 1995 and completion of the Grand Canal in 2005. Both would have to be in place before Canadians became Americans.

The Grand Canal is a $100-billion project to divert water from James Bay to the Mississippi River.

Allegations of tampering with free-trade documents were investigated last summer by the RCMP.

"The investigation is finished and no accusations came out of it," said Rodney Moore of the external affairs department, Clark's employer.

More than 200 people turned out to hear Clark in Fruitvale, Nakusp, Nelson and Kaslo two weeks ago.

"I can't fathom anyone doing this without having some grounds," said Allison Bowles of Fruitvale.

Said Clark: "I used to be horrified of losing my job. It has taken me six years to say 'to hell with the job.' I want to get this message out."

Dear Mike,

This is the follow-up fax to my telephone call of Jan. 5, 1998. My call was made as a result of the receipt of a copy of the Formal Requirement to pay $4,648.84 by Shelley Ann Clark that was sent in your name, c/o Anna Dentico, at National Life Insurance of Canada. During our conversation you asked why the name Shelley Ann Clark meant something to you and I responded that I was not surprised it did, since it is well known by both our current Prime Minister, Jean Chretien and former Prime Minister, Brian Mulroney. Both participated separately and together in a plot involving high-treason against the citizens of Canada. This officially "protected" conspiracy, if ultimately successful, will directly affect adversely the future of millions of still unborn Canadians. The actual vehicle used to perpetrate these crimes was the Canada-USA Free Trade Agreement (FTA), and later, the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA).

Your current request is considered to be the much anticipated criminal extortion we were expecting. It is being sponsored by the handlers and agents of the above mentioned traitors. It, obviously, is also intended to further isolate the courageous whistle-blower in this case, Shelley Ann Clark.

The National Life Insurance Company and the Government of Canada are currently operating as co-conspirators who have called upon their enforcer, Revenue Canada, to complete the task begun by them in 1988 — that is to isolate, financially destroy and ultimately, to carry out the original plan — when they first attempted to murder her while on DEAC assignment in Vienna, Austria.

I wish to advise you that it is my understanding, as Chair of the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity, as husband and agent of Shelley Ann Kealey who is currently on a long term disability pension due to post traumatic stress, that she is being forced to take doping medication by medical agents of her insurance company to follow their directives, and that your recent "requirement to pay" order exceeds your jurisdiction — that is, unless and until a judgment is rendered in the presence of the accused Canadian citizen concerned, within a court of competent jurisdiction.

Therefore, at this moment in time, your request is in fact null and void and any action undertaken by any party to enforce this action will result in an information being deposited with a Justice of the Peace requesting a section 507 hearing to determine which are the appropriate Criminal charges that should be laid against Revenue Canada officials — in the same manner that charges were once laid by us against the top three RCMP Commissioners and that, ultimately, led to the criminal triad's involuntary "early retirement".

Mr. Batten, I want you to understand that you, personally, along with your Government-corporate employers, will ultimately be over revelations made by SHELLEY ANN CLARK

The brains behind (or rather should we say, in the behind of) David Orchard, President and founder of Citizens Against Free Trade (CCAFT) is at it again.

Marjaleena Repo, the former CBC producer who secretly directs David Orchard's public and private affairs, wrote a rebuttal of Shelley Ann Clark's explosive declarations about the real Canada - USA Free Trade Agreement (FTA) and sent it to Jeff Koftinoff's home page on the web.

Repo denies knowing how a secret free trade agreement could be implemented even after being shown that the critical items listed on their "Implementation Scheme" made public by Shelley Ann Clark were in fact made into law through numerous Orders in Council, approved by Brian Mulroney's cabinet, while he was still in office. In the end Peter Monk showed his gratitude to Mulroney with millions in shares of Barrick Resources, while Archer, Daniels, Midland (the coming world food cartel) made Brian a director of ADM.

Repo's second complaint refers to the cancellation provisions that existed prior to ratification by all governments concerned. In any event abrogation of this agreement can be achieved simply by invoking the fact that it was created as the result of criminal activity, high treason and fraud against the Canadian people, and therefore has no legal standing in law.

It should be understood here, in defense of David Orchard, that he is the product of a Freemason upbringing, and like most natives who suffered in residential schools, he cannot be held accountable for the actions of the people who control him. David's father while alive was, reportedly, a 33rd degree Freemason. His mother, on the other hand, once she understood Glen Kealey and Shelley Ann Clark's personal sacrifices on behalf of Canada, made a number of $100 contributions to the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity (CIPI).

held civilly and criminally responsible for your actions; actions that are without doubt designed to aggravate my wife's deteriorating medical condition. Once your actions are fully understood by Canadians — how you joined in the pattern of attack on Ann's health which were begun by the military attache, Colonel Bill McGill, at Ambassador David Peel's residence in Vienna and continued through actions of Ambassador Gerald Shannon in Geneva — mark my words, they will react.

Unsuccessful in Europe, the plot was continued when Ann returned to Canada. Threats of death by bombing were received from a fellow employee acting as a messenger from management at Foreign Affairs Canada. Later, confirmation was given by the Department's internal security that the National Media could be controlled by them.

Mr. Batten your personal actions, along with those of your department, the government as a whole and of National Life Insurance cannot be viewed in isolation.

National Life's recent escapade which led to Shelley Ann being sent to Richmond, BC, to visit a so-called independent doctor who in reality turned out to be the President of the C.M.A. (Canadian Medical Association) and the corrupt insurance industry's prime lobbyist on the topic of the privatization of medicare in Canada, has just added to the intrigue. The undeniable fact that the same Dr. Victor Dirnfeld was also in Vienna, during the attack on Ann at Ambassador Peel's residence, is also very interesting in understanding the reasons that lay behind National Life Insurance's real motives for sending Ann to see him instead of any other doctor.

Also, their calling him an "independent" doctor was a novel way of describing their own spies and agents. Furthermore, Ambassador Peel's recent promotion to the post of Inspector General of Canada's spy Intelligence and Security Service (CSIS), by the Liberal Government of Jean Chretien, Mitchell Sharp and Conrad Black, is but the icing on the cake.

When added to National Life Insurance's latest actions, of depriving Ann of her income without notice which prevented her from refilling the prescription for medication just recently prescribed by Doctor Gorman in Westbank, not to mention the obvious of food, rent, gas and hydro etc.— your additional request for a further piece of her reduced income, we believe, is the final straw that will awaken Canadians to the sophisticated, organized criminal activity that presently masquerades as Government.

We, at CIPI, therefore insist, before you grab any of the little money Ann has, that you file a formal request before a court of law asking for a public hearing on the entire matter. In Ann's defense she will demonstrate how she was deceived by her employer when it was stated that no deductions would be taken from her medical benefits and while recuperating she would be able to count on 70% of her last gross income. CIPI will also request "intervenor status" in order to expose how the Department of National Revenue flexibly applies its own regulations in the case involving former Prime minister, Brian Mulroney's personal income taxes , as well as the case of the financial sponsors of your former Deputy ministers, Fulford and Gravel, in the TAXSAVE scam that was exposed to us by one of your own auditors, Mr. Jim Welten, in Winnipeg.

When considering all of the above, knowing how the criminals themselves have appointed the judges, we do not expect to get a fair shake within the Masonic Just-us system. However, the evidence which will be generated during the Hearing will allow CIPI to use its access to the internet, computers, fax machines and networking of our 3,000 supporters to get the word out in Canada.

SUBJECT: CCAFT's Marjaleena Repo's February 6, 1998 diatribe titled

"Major Problems with Glen Clark's and Shelley Ann Clark's NAFTA information"

Because I care for the people of Canada; because I care what happens to this great country of ours and finally; because I care for the children who will be left behind to face the cruelties, terror and hardships that will surely come with the destruction of our nation and the establishment of a New World Order police state, I will give the subject article that appeared on the Internet the 30 second response it deserves.

1 — I have only provided Canadians with information on the FTA (Free Trade Agreement) not on the NAFTA (North American Free Trade Agreement).

a) The FTA was the trade deal between Canada and the USA.

b) NAFTA was the trade deal negotiated between Canada, Mexico and the USA, 3 years after the FTA.

2 — I was there at the Trade Negotiations Office and Marjaleena Repo was not.

3 — It is in extremely bad taste for Marjaleena Repo to lie in order to mislead Canadians just to promote her boyfriend's book.

Open letter

To the people of Canada and the Media

Dear Editor,

At the end of Feb/98, the Canadian Press issued a statement from Gordon Luchia, a spokesman for Revenue Canada stating that, "Canadians have to pay income tax on their earnings to the federal government". Gordon Luchia lies to Canadians. Tell big lies and if you tell the same lies often enough, two things will happen: 1) some people will believe what you tell them, or 2) you will end up believing your own lies.

Revenue Canada has done a fantastic job of brainwashing Canadians into believing that federal income tax is legal. Nothing could be further from the truth. Here are a few facts that Revenue Canada and Gordon Luchia are deliberately hiding from the public.

FACT: No one has to pay income tax to the Federal Government. Federal income tax is illegal under sec. 92 par. 2 of the constitution which states "The provinces have exclusive right to all direct taxation; i.e. income tax and sales tax".

FACT: Section 92 was the first section to be written, all other sections revolve around it.

FACT: The Federal Government and Revenue Canada cannot take out of context any section of the Constitution; i.e. sec. 91 par. 3 "or make laws" — the income tax act and the excise act — to try to legitimize their criminal activities. Section 52 of the Constitution states; "the Constitution of Canada is the supreme law of Canada, any laws that politicians make that are not consistent with this Constitution are of no force or effect". To use the legal term, such laws are Ultra Virus in a court of law, they cannot do not exist.

FACT: On Oct.3/1950 the Supreme Court of Canada, by a unanimous decision 7-0 (Lord Nelson hotel and AG Nova Scotia vs AG Canada) stated that federal income tax is illegal, and no one, including the people who work for Revenue Canada are allowed to live above the law. The government was ordered to run the nation according to the Constitution.

FACT: In Winnipeg, in 1959, the workers of Revenue Canada defied the Supreme Court of Canada and charged Mr. Gerry Hart with tax evasion. Mr. Hart stated that under the Constitution and with the Supreme Court's ruling of Oct. 3, 1950 federal tax does not exist, therefore he could not be guilty of not paying it. The court agreed and they reminded the government with the following, "If you need money, then run this nation according to the Constitution". That decision was immediately appealed to a higher court. The higher court agreed with the lower court and once again the government was told "If you need money, then run this nation according to the Constitution".

FACT: According to the Constitution, under sec. 91 par. 14, the government has the exclusive right to create money. If the government obeyed the Constitution and made the money and charged 5% interest on the money they then loaned to banks, on $3 trillion they would receive $150 billion. Since it only costs $100 billion a year to run this nation they would make a profit of $50 billion to pass on to the provinces in transfer payments. This would help cover the cost of health, education and welfare, etc..

FACT: We are $570 billion in debt, hospitals are closing, doctors and nurses are overworked and Canadians are dying from lack of medical care. Over 1-1/2 million children are living in poverty and students are going into debt for tens of thousands of dollars to get an education. All of this is happening because we are a nation of sheep. We lack the courage to stand on guard for the Constitution, part of which states "the Constitution of Canada does not belong to the politicians, or to the elite, it belongs to the people". It is the duty of every Canadian to know the Constitution so they may receive the rights to which they are entitled. One of these rights is that, under no circumstance do Canadians have to pay federal income tax. The only way Revenue Canada manages to collect tax is through threats, brute force and intimidation (extortion), but that does not make it legal.

FACT: In Toronto, in Feb. / 1995,workers from Revenue Canada once more showed their contempt for this nation's laws, by charging Mr. Joseph Axler with tax evasion. In court file #T-3025-95 it says Mr. Axler was found not guilty. The judge told Revenue Canada not to appeal his decision unless they can prove that federal tax is legal under the Constitution. As of Apr. / 98 Revenue Canada had not appealed. However, Mr. Axler sued Revenue Canada for stealing his property in the '70s. Axler wanted the money from the sale of that property, plus interest, plus all his court costs over 20 years. He also charged Revenue Canada workers under section 117 of the criminal code. It states, "fabrication of evidence with intent to mislead a court is a criminal offence". Knowing they were guilty of an offense under section 117, Revenue Canada settled out of court and paid everything Axler asked. The next time they won't get off as easily.

FACT: The workers at Revenue Canada can no longer hide behind the crown or Her Majesty the Queen" when they deliberately lie to the courts or falsely accuse Canadians of income tax evasion.

FACT: Revenue Canada is like a cancer that affects all of us. The more of our hard earned money it steals the bigger and bigger it gets. In 1997 it stole $90 billion and this year they intend to steal even more.

How much longer are we going to allow this to go on? With their theft and lies they rob us blind. Let's face it, by the time we say "enough is enough" even a worm would have turned under such pressure.

Consider yourself to be on notice and act accordingly. Canadians will know what happens.

PS: Revenue Canada employees ignored our request and proceeded to seize a further 30% of Ann's disability allowance leaving her with only 49% of her former income.

The reduced income has led Ann to return to Ottawa to prepare the groundwork for the arrival of the 100,000 strong AIC critical mass (Assembly of Independent Canadians), on July 1, 2000.

At the first possible opportunity CIPI will demand a public trial of these Revenue Canada organized criminals, to demonstrate to the world that Canadians are mad as hell and are not going to take it anymore.

NEW WORLD ORDER

FREEMASONS DESTROYED CANADIAN AIRBORNE

by: Glen Kealey

What do you think might happen if you took any elite military Commando Force that had been trained for quick deployment — to drop in behind enemy lines at night and capture airfields, missile bases, command posts, bridges or ammunition depots while carrying up to 200 pounds of equipment plus another 37 pounds of gear — and you then left them to stir for six months under a burning desert sun in Somalia? Furthermore, what if you insisted that these soldiers take drugs that sharpen their aggressive behaviour, while simultaneously, you ordered the Communications Security Establishment (CSE - Canadian military audio-visual spies) to either video tape their actions or take, or buy, any compromising photos that would record the events likely to transpire under these newly orchestrated conditions.

This is what actually happened to Canada's Airborne Commandos while under the command of "New World Order" Freemasons who rule over our military. General de Chastelaine had manufactured the circumstances that indirectly led to the Somalia enquiry and to the eventual disbanding of Canada's elite Commado Force. General de Chastelaine, then Chief of the Canadian Defense Staff, had once before also orchestrated a phony "native standoff" — at Gustafson Lake, B.C. (the "native standoff" had, in fact, been funded by a Rockefeller trust).

However, de Chastelaine was able to extricate himself from any blame by going off on another UN assignment to Ireland — where currently Foreign Affairs Canada employees are also blowing-the-whistle about another major scandal involving the extravagant lifestyles of diplomats abroad that has cost Canadian taxpayers $ billions. The Airborne's public rebuke fell on poor General Boyle who appears to be too dense to realize that he was setup by the secretive Freemasons who direct Canada's military, through England's 300 year old Privy Council.

Steve Bindman, a Freemason journalist at Southam News, who is usually assigned to report on the activities of our Supreme Court judges and on our puppet politicians (those who still believe, naively, that they run Canada's Parliament), was given the tape by CSE spies. Both CTV and CBC broadcast the "evidence" of the "hazing ceremony" that the military police and high-command already had in their possession. Later, the $2,000 photo that Kyle Brown took of the twice married "teenager", Shidane Arone, who was killed while robbing military stores for the umpteenth time, was also allowed to surface.

To understand what motivated our servile military brass to destroy Canada's premier fighting force one need only read Elaine Dewar's book Cloak of Green and also the Rothschild-Mulroney NWO thesis entitled Our Global Neighborhood, published by a Committee on Global Governance. Both expose the NWO plan — that all nations of the world should disappear and be replaced with 5,000 local "Police States" that can be centrally controlled, thereby completing the 10,000 year old task of creating a New World Order that will be totally controlled by Freemasonry. The Freemasons who are now implementing this program obviously do not know world history. Once this type of plan becomes fully operational they usually are the first to die. For confirmation of this just read about the lives and sudden deaths of the Egyptian Pharaohs, of Alexander the Great, Roman Catholic Popes, Napoleon and Adolf Hitler, etc.

FREEMASON MEDIA OUT TO DESTROY CANADA

by: Glen Kealey

What do newsmaker / newsmen Lord Kenneth Thomson and Conrad Black; General de Chastelaine and Steve Bindman ; Norman Inkster and Andrew McIntosh ; Brian Mulroney and Stevie Cameron have in common?

All are team players in a New World Order Freemason / Mandaean plan to destroy Canada's sovereignty. They are all following the internationalist globalist agenda as it was outlined in Our Global Neighbourhood, a book published recently by the Committee on Global Governance.

This report lays the ground rules for destroying sovereign countries such as Canada. According to Freemason author Elaine Dewar's Cloak of Green, it plans to replace countries with police-state controlled "neighbourhoods".

First, in Canada, it was the Canadian Airborne; then, General Boyle took the fall for General de Chastelaine and later; the Somalia Inquiry was positioned to destroy our military's morale, along with any confidence Canadians still have in the military's ability to defend and support an independent Canada.

Recently, Conrad Black assigned Andrew McIntosh of the Ottawa Citizen, to do a similar hatchet job on the RCMP as a result of their former corrupt Commissioner Norman Inkster's illicit drug sales and money laundering, done on behalf Freemasonry, but blamed on dumb police work.

This selective, orchestrated reporting follows closely on the heels of the phoney Gustafson Lake Traditional Native Standoff. It, also, was orchest-rated by Rockefeller family interests and reported, sight unseen, by a media that sat on a road five miles away from the native camp.

Southam News also supported Canada's participation in the Canada-USA Free Trade Agreement without telling their readers that their own lawyer was moonlighting as the American Trade Team's Canadian Counsel.

Comment

Canadians, its military and police, deserve better than the biased reporting that we are now getting from a totally controlled Free-Mason-Press.

Airborne Regiment Member Speaks Out

by: George Kralik

It was inevitable. It was bound to happen sooner or later. It was all a set-up. It had to happen. Sending an elite lightning-strike force to percolate in the hot desert with an undefined role for an extended period of time could not end without incident.

It was only a question of time before some provocation would be illicited that would provide the needed public uproar, or at least a tolerated silence, that would allow for the destruction of Canada's military, starting with the Airborne.

Politically controversial since its inception in 1968, Canada's best fighting unit had to be done away with so as not to be an obstacle to the foreign coalition forces that will enforce the final stages of a New World Order; the global slavery system that is destined for final implementation within our immediate future. A system of 5000 "Global Neighbourhoods" can only be set-up following the destruction of all of the world's nation states, including Canada.

To enhance the probability of success for this "Black Operation" a "Trojan Horse" called the United Nations peace-keeping force was organized. Throughout the ages some men have sought to rule over their fellow men. The first and most ancient method used was that of overt military force. However, it soon became clear to the war mongers that the masses would eventually rebel, ganging up together to overthrow their unwanted rulers. Alternatives to open military warfare had to be invented.

Media "Mind Control" has proved to be much more effective as a weapon of subjugation. Political, philosophical and religious conversions have provided our controllers with the mechanisms they needed to better control the masses.

Finally, local and international "financial control" has proved to be the best weapon of overall control, because it is the most effective, least understood and the most difficult for the average person to detect.

WHAT IF EVERYTHING YOU HEARD OR READ IN THE MEDIA WAS ACTUALLY MIND CONTROL ?

The Little Porpoise

Porpoises and whales are very intelligent animals. Both are also survivors. The main difference between the two is that the porpoise is little, while the whale is very large. Being large comes from having been around longer.

In a storm the big whale is better suited to survive the rocking and rolling of the waves in the ocean. Life on the surface of planet Earth also has its ups and downs. Survival there is different but not unlike the conditions that exist for those living in the sea.

Five years ago a little porpoise was caught in the turmoil of a storm that never seemed to end. Along came a large whale going about his journey, seemingly without regard to the storm that raged all around him. When the little porpoise saw this she asked the whale if she could hitch a ride. The whale readily agreed and the little porpoise attached herself to his belly-button. Both shared their food and past experiences. Soon, they became good friends.

On a number of occasions the little porpoise began to realise that even with the whale's size he, also, had to deal with problems that came up from time to time. Although he was big and not affected by nature in the way she was, he did have his enemies. Whale hunters wanted to make meat out of him. She did not like it when they shot harpoons at him.

After five years of dodging harpoons, during a welcome break between storms, the little porpoise became homesick. She decided to return to her own kind and sent the whale a message that she intended to stay with them.

The big whale sighed. He was happy that he had been able to provide security for his little friend, atlthough sad that it had been only for a little while. Taking in as large a breath as he could muster, then, he continued on his original journey.

How the RCMP helped 'push' $2 billion worth of cocaine

The RCMP's covert currency exchange outlet immersed police officers in a hemispheric swamp of drug dealers and big-money mobsters. But lacking resources to pursue many of the criminals encountered, undercover Mounties also lost track of most of the illicit cash they laundered.

For 7 years Ottawa Citizen reporters ridiculed Glen Kealey when he stated, in 1991, that the RCMP were involved with Brian Mulroney, the Montreal Irish mob, Dr. Murphy, Weasel Ross and the secret PC fund, to raise money from the sale of illicit drugs. Now, they blame it all on "Bad Police Work".

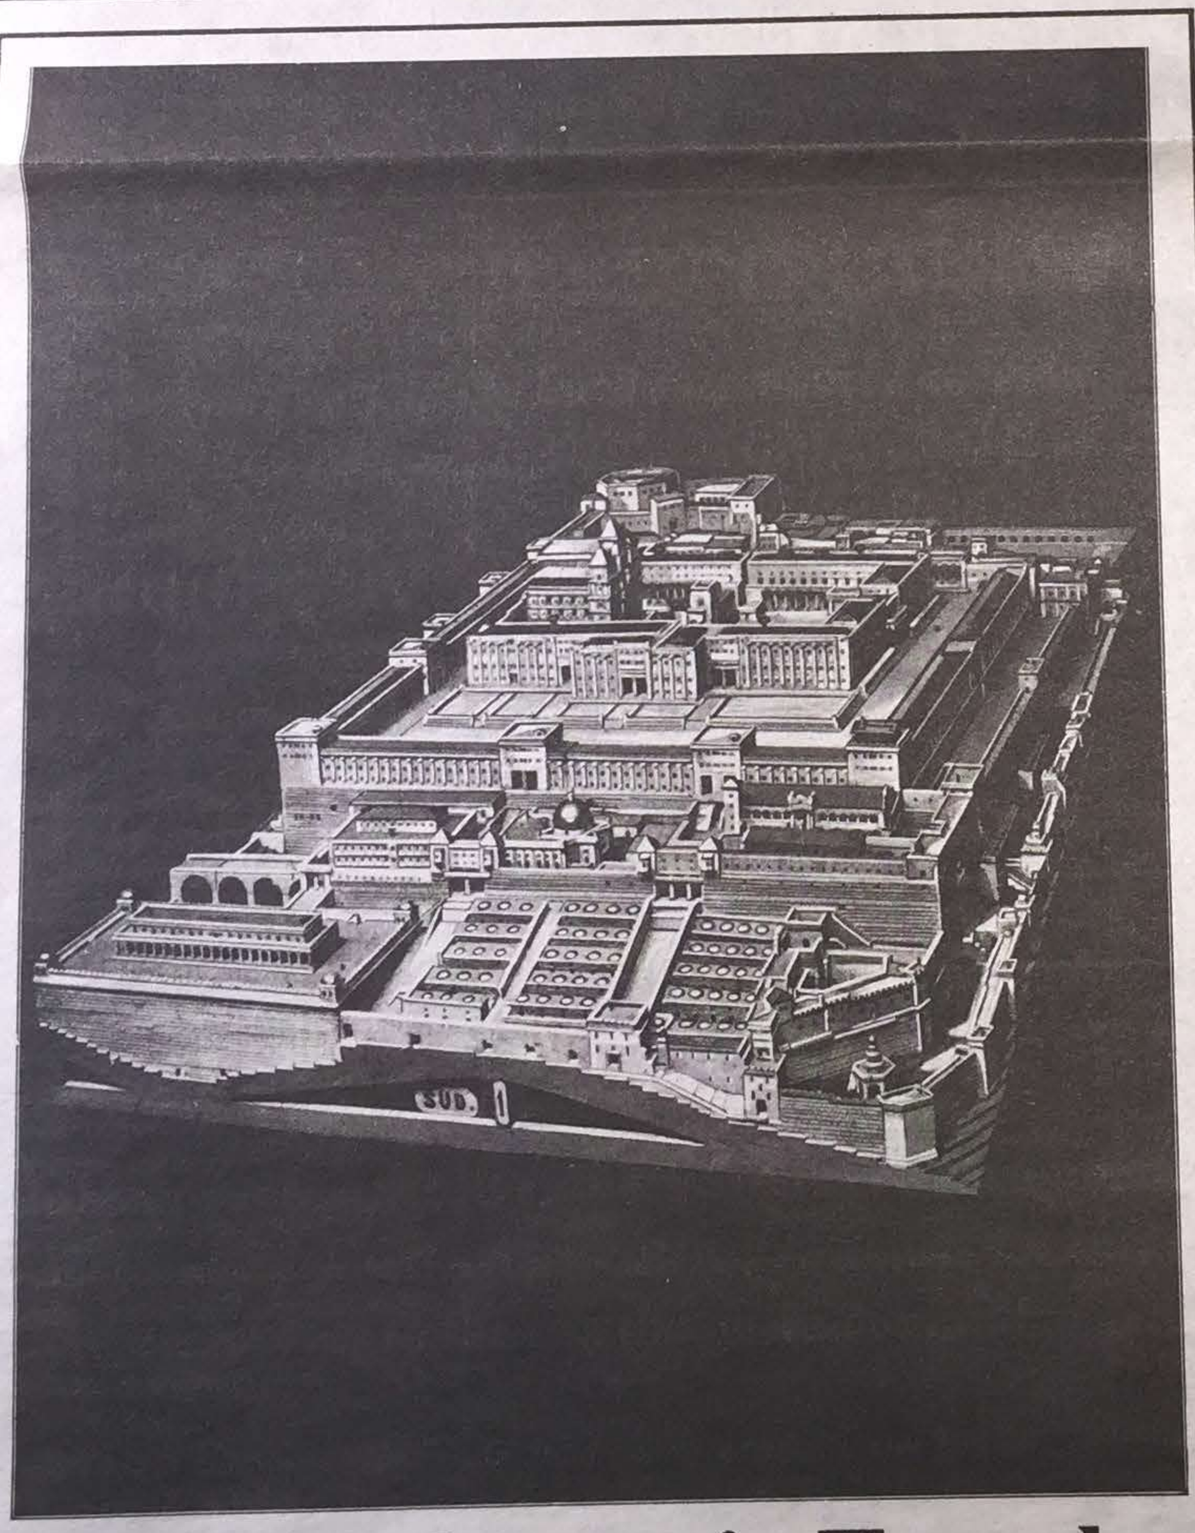
Lord Francis Bacon's Modern Masons

The Coming Race

Viril Society — (1871) Taken from a novel by Bulwer Lytton, about a sub-terranean beehive-like, socialist utopia ruled by superior beings who had mastered the so-called Viril, or Life Force. They performed healing and telepathy. This coming race combined the political ideals of the Order of the Illuminati with Hindu Misticism, Theosophy and the Cabbala. Their symbol was a swastika. It is a Masonic emblem that links Eastern and Western occultism. Freemasons also use a beehive as one of their important symbols.



King Solomon's Temple
(Complete with trap door beneath the floor)

by: Glen Kealey
(From Mason Encyclopedia)

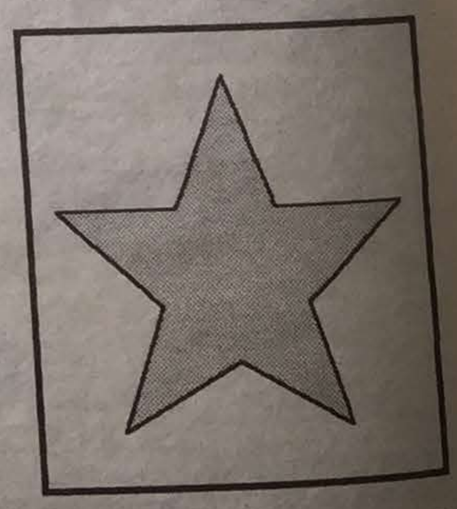
Bacon, Francis - Baron of Verulam, commonly called Lord Bacon. Nicolai thinks that a great impulse was exercised upon the early history of Freemasonry, by the New Atlantis of Lord Bacon.In this learned romance Bacon supposes that a vessel lands on an unknown island, called Bensalem, over which a certain King Solomon reigned in days of yore. This King had a large establishment, which was called the House of Solomon, or the college of the workmen of six days, namely, the days of the creation. Bacon afterwards describes the immense apparatus which was there employed in physical researches. There were, say he, deep grottoes and towers for the successful observation of certain phenomena of nature; artificial mineral waters; large buildings, in which meteors, the wind, thunder, and rain were imitated; extensive botanic gardens; entire fields, in which all kinds of animals were collected, for the study of their instincts and habits; houses filled with all the wonders of nature and art; a great number of learned men, each of whom, in his own country, had the direction of these things; they made journeys and observations; they wrote, they collected, they determined results, and deliberated together as to what was proper to be published and what concealed.

This romance became at once very popular, and everybody's attention was attracted by the allegory of the House of Solomon. But it also contributed to spread Bacon's views on experimental knowledge, and led afterwards to the institution of the Royal Society, to which Nicolai attributes a common object with that of the Society of Freemasons, established, he says, about the same time, the difference being only that one is esoteric and the other exoteric in its instructions. But the more immediate effect of the romance of Bacon was the institution of the Society of Astrologers, of which Elias Ashmole was a leading member. Of this society Nicolai, in his work on the Origin and History of Rosicrucianism and Freemasonry, says:

"Its object was to build the House of Solomon, of the New Atlantis, in the literal sense, but the establishment was to remain as secret as the island of Bensalem — that is to say, they were to be engaged in the study of nature — but the instruction of its principles was to remain in the society in an esoteric form. These philosophers presented their idea in a strictly allegorical method. First, there were the ancient columns of Hermes, by which Iamblichus pretended that he had enlightened all the doubts of Porphyry. You then mounted, by several steps, to a chequered floor, divided into four regions, to denote the four superior sciences; after which came the types of the six days' work, which expressed the object of the society, and which were the same as those found on an engraved stone found in my possession.

The sense of all which was this: God created the world, and preserves it by fixed principles, full of wisdom; he who seeks to know these principles — that is to say, the interior of nature — approximates to God, and he who thus approximates to God obtains from his grace the power of commanding nature."

This society, he adds, met at Mason's Hall in Basinghall Street, because many of its members were also members of the Masons' Company, into which they all afterward entered and assumed the name Free and Accepted Masons, and thus he traces the origin of the Order to the New Atlantis and the House of Solomon of Lord Bacon. It is only a theory, but it seems to throw some light on that long process of incubation which terminated at last, in 1717, in the production of the Grand Lodge of England. The connection of Ashmole with the Masons is a singular one, and has led to some controversy. The views of Nicolai, if not altogether correct, may suggest the possibility of an explanation. Certain it is that the eminent astrologers of England, as we learn from Ashmole's diary, were on terms of intimacy with the Masons in the seventeenth century, and that many Fellows of the Royal Society were also prominent members of the early Grand Lodge of England which was established in 1717.



British Columbia has become Canada's first Police State

by: Glen Kealey

The signs are everywhere.

The B.C. government has "nationalized" crime across the province. Who needs free-lancers when the police and the government can do all the stealing legally.

In one 25 mile stretch, where I now live, between Winfield and Westbank near Kelowna, it is not unusual to see 5 or 7 police-maned radar traps stealing from ordinary people who travel on highway 97.

Think of the damage that a $100.00 fine imposes on a pensioner or on a student who can hardly afford his car, let alone the "insurance". It's not as if the cops were out to control speed in those areas of danger, such as those around school zones that bothers me and others most, but its the fact they hide at the top of one hill and focus their devices down towards the base of the previous hill in order to catch those vehicles that accelerate simply because they are rolling downhill.

Because of this and other similar actions the RCMP are losing respect within the general population almost every day. They are seen as criminal enforcers who only "protect and serve" our NWO political controllers. Unlike Robin Hood who stole from the rich to give to the poor, they steal from the poor to give to the rich, including themselves. At least in Mexico police bribes are seen as a way of supplementing their incomes illegally, while the same thing happens here and it becomes legal when the money comes back to the cop as salary.

CONTROL FREAKS

The frustrated follow a control freak less because he/she is leading them to the promised land than because of their immediate feeling that he/she is leading them away from their unwanted selves.

To the average citizen this is the most visible sign of an emerging police state. But to those of us who investigate "the system" it's only the tip of the iceberg.

The police now also serve and protect the legal and illegal drug trade. Only the free-lance drug peddlers and users of natural substances are ever in danger of arrest, that is unless world controllers decide that it be good for business to change the current management of organized crime. Five percent of illicit chemical drugs are allowed to be confiscated because it makes people think the cops and courts are doing their jobs.

When one reads, however, that only two of twenty-five drug rings were ever investigated while the RCMP laundered $2 billion that allowed 5000 ounces of cocaine to be added to the supply of illicit chemical drugs in the hands of our kids, in Montreal and Vancouver, one begins to understand why the Ottawa Citizen sat on the story for seven years and released it only when the job of distributing these illegal substances was completed.

If that were not bad enough, in BC, we are now going through the biggest dumbing-down exercise in the province's history. Its called the BC Native Land Claims Treaty Commission. It began with a phony Indian Chief, George Erasmus, of a group called the First Nations Tribal Councils, being hired by a former Prime Minister (a Companion of Canada no less) Brian Martin Mulroney, to write a report for a Royal Commission on Ab-original Affairs. They recommended that all Crown Land (Rothschild Land) be transferred from Canada to ab-originals (which means, not original) so that the theft of this land can now be legalized prior to its resale to the international banking and insurance community. Once this occurs the $200 billion fresh-water diversion project called the Grand Canal can be constructed. The water flowing from BC to Colorado will ensure the feasibility of a world "food cartel" and barges will move all Canadian resources south while nuclear and hospital waste will flow north to Canada.

To move this project along, a small number of Native-born historians, the Corporate Pipe-carriers Percy Rosette and John Stevens, sponsored by family agents of the Rockefeller Foundations duped the Elders of the Shuswap Nation of BC's

The human-engineering of BC's population (known to insiders as MK-mind control) lasted two years beyond the standoff as a trial costing $ millions continued in a courthouse in Surrey. While the media lied to the public daily, by omitting to report the facts, the RCMP lied under oath about almost everything that had taken place at Gustafson Lake.

Judge Josephson, a mason, controlled the trial of Suniva Bronson, a young white-skinned Rockefeller mason Manchurian Candidate who had recruited, armed and transported a few Traditional-Spiritual native people to be killed at Gustafson Lake. The outcome of the trial was never in doubt. The Jury found the Natives innocent of any of the serious charges but Judge Josephson followed his script to the end. Sixty-four year old native elder, William Jones Ignace, was sentenced to eight years for shooting at, and blowing up, six tires on an armoured personnel carrier that weighs 14 tons and that was trying to run him over.

So much for my report to the Canadian people about the three years I spent in the "wilderness" — in the latest police state that the banking Rothschild Freemasons call paradise — British Columbia, the land of their setting SUN.

.... and I never spoke about legalized gambling or the highest taxes in Canada.

Who is Glen Kealey ?

Glen Kealey is the former Ottawa-Hull region commercial developer who spent 1000 days on Ottawa's Parliament Hill before he was allowed to appear in court in 1991 — where he exposed the system of sophisticated organized crime run by Mulroney's government; with the complicity of the Justice System and the RCMP. Former Public Works minister, Roch LaSalle, offered him federal government support for his project in exchange for 5% of all government contributions, on top of the $5,000.00 kickback which LaSalle asked for up front. While investigating, Kealey found evidence of a massive bribe and kickback scheme operated and controlled right out of the Prime Minister's Office, and a close collaboration among Cabinet Ministers, the Masonic national media and RCMP Commissioners. Kealey, by means of a Section 507 Hearing, succeeded in convincing a Justice of the Peace with 34 years experience, to lay charges against 16 senior politicians and government officials, including Norman Inkster, Commissioner of Freemasonry's RCMP, Henry Jensen, Deputy Commissioner and J. Michael Shoemaker, Assistant Deputy Commissioner, for having conspired together in a criminal conspiracy intended to "cease and limit police investigations". All three Masonic RCMP Commissioners were allowed to take early retirement, while Senator Cogger was found guilty of "influence peddling".

Due to pro-active assistance received from Canada's Masonic "Just-us Legal System", Brian Mulroney and the rest of his Freemason henchmen have so far escaped criminal prosecution

ANNOUNCEMENT

Towards the end of September 1998 Glen Kealey will relocate himself to Olds Alberta where he will spend the winter months.

Headquarters for CIPI will remain in Kelowna, BC and our mailing address will not change.

Glen Kealey will publish his new telephone and fax numbers later.

Freemasonry's Real Opinions .... about women and taxes

by: Glen Kealey

For at least 140,000 years before the Ice Age paradise existed here on earth. Clan societies which were based on Matriarchal political systems did not require fortifications as peace and harmony reigned across the land.

An army, from Armenia, was the very first to impose Freemasonry's patriarchal political system to take control of people and their private properties by force.

Fascist governments led by Monarchs or Clerics, backed by military Generals were created to impose a "Tax" based on the ownership of private property — especially on personal labour.

Not satisfied with stealing your personal private property, the Freemason politcal system also decided to tax your dreams when they also created numerous made-to-order organized religions. By promising everlasting life organized religion also scoops in much of your remaining "after-tax" dollars. How did this all come about?

During the last Ice Age which lasted 16,000 years, a few Gay Men, who were the scribes, quarter-masters, archivists and historians of the world up to that date, decided to replace the existing peaceful, matriarchal clan system that governed the peoples of the world with a patriarchal system that would accumulate the world's riches and bring it all to them, at Mount Ararat. This action was guaranteed to create poverty and thereby increase their own power. In the Caucuses mountains they cloned blond white men and passed them off to indigenous Summarians as GODS. This deception has allowed these relatively few evil Gay Men (a critical mass) known to us as Priests, to repeatedly state that, only through them can we speak with our Creator — in order to "buy" everlasting life. Therefore, 10,000 years ago humanity was "born-again", this time by the creative genius of the "anti-creators".

How did Freemason women fare under this new political Patriarchal system of theirs? The following is copied from the official encyclopedia of Freemasonry.

THE EASTERN STAR

The Eastern Star, says Brother Pike, is the Masonry of Adoption. It is in seven degrees. It is applied to those "side degrees" which are conferred on both males and females. The essential regulation prevailing in these degrees, is that they can be conferred only on Master Masons (and in some instances on Royal Arch Masons) and on their female relatives, the peculiar relationship differing in the different degrees.

Thus, there is a degree generally called the "Mason's Wife", which can be conferred only on Master Masons, their wives, unmarried daughters and sisters, and their widowed mothers. Another degree, called "Heroine of Jericho", is conferred only on the wives and daughters of Royal Arch Masons; and the third, the only one that has much pretension of ceremony or ritual, is the "Good Samaritan" whose privileges are confined to Royal Arch Masons and their wives.

The fact is, that by their friends as well as their enemies these so-called degrees have been greatly misrepresented. When females are told that in receiving these degrees they are admitted into the Masonic Order, and are obtaining Masonic information, under the name of "Ladies' Masonry", they are simply deceived. When a woman is informed that, by passing through the brief and unimpressive ceremony of any one of the degrees, she has become a Mason, the deception is still more gross and inexcusable. But it is true that every woman who is related by ties of consanguinity to a Master Mason is at all times and under all circumstances peculiarly entitled to Masonic protection and assistance. Now, if the recipient of an androgynous degree is candidly instructed that, by the use of these degrees, the female relatives of Masons are put in the possession of the means of making their claims known by what we call oral testimony which, unlike a written certificate, can be neither lost nor destroyed; but that, by her initiation as a "Mason's Wife" or as a "Heroine of Jericho", she is brought no nearer to the inner portal of Masonry than she was before—if she is honestly told this, then there can hardly be any harm, and there may be some good in these forms if prudently bestowed. But all attempts to make Masonry of them, and especially that anomalous thing called "Female Masonry", are reprehensible, and are well calculated to produce opposition among the well-informed and cautious members of the Fraternity.

A woman could scarcely have been required to swear that she "would not take her fellow's wife in villainy", nor make anyone a Mason unless "he has his right limbs as a man ought to have". A woman might be a female grocer or haberdasher, but she could hardly perform the duties of a female builder.

"So mote it be".

Freemasonry's first secret mission was to disempower the women of the world.

Women were created first - the EVE of Adam.

Since time immemorial women had directed matriarchal clan based societies that limited the power of gay priests.

Lilith* was the real name of Adam's wife.

Lilith was later portrayed as a harlot, by the gay Priests of FREEMASONRY, in order to demonize women as a whole.

A patriarchal system was then imposed upon the world.

THE "GATEKEEPER" TO THE TROGLODYTES

Recovered Alcoholic Finds New Purpose

by Tom Byberg

Anyone who knew me up to about three months ago would tell you that Tom Byberg was a guy who didn't care much about anything. I was just a 5 year "recovered drunk" who was enjoying his newly found sobriety.

True as that is, I was also rather shocked to find that this world that you "normal" sober people have been living with was, in some ways, just as crazy as my own dysfunctional alcoholic world.

While looking for answers — as to who I am, where I came from, what am I here for and what do I get when it's all over — my search led me back in time, to the Ice Age. That is where I bumped into Glen Kealey. Turns out he got there while searching for answers too; about where does all the money finally end up that all of us still keep pouring into our world controller's "system".

Something happened when Glen and I met. We called it convergence. I don't know for sure what it was, but since that meeting my life has a meaning that it didn't have before.

I'm truly grateful to have this opportunity to do something worth doing for a change. What a wonderful way to spend my new life.

The Creator had rescued me many times before over those forty years of drinking or what ever the hell it was that I was doing.

Anyway, here I am now and it feels right to me. Thanks Glen.

Most people who claim to seek the truth really only want confirmation of those things which they already believe.

Truth would require that they abandon their "comfort zones" and do something concrete - to make real changes in their lives.

Truth cannot stand on authorities and I leave you to your own conclusions to accept or reject, as these truths seem to appeal to you.

Do not accept because I say so.

Do not reject because my statements are not in accord with recognized science.

Only the naive still believe that one can find truth in a public library.

Searching for truth in a public library is very much like standing in front of a movie set at Paramount Studios.

Because of a need for human engineering, what one sees is illusion.

When searching for "truth", one should sneak into their National Archives and rummage through the actual documents. Also, get help from experts in ancient languages.

This is like being behind a movie set at Paramount Studios.

Ottawa teacher tells his School Board
"STOP DEDUCTING TAXES FOR REVENUE CANADA"

May 25, 1998

Brent Robinson
Payroll Assistant
OCDSB
330 Gilmour St.,
Ottawa, Ont.,
K2P 0P9

Dear Mr. Robinson:

Please be advised that I hereby withdraw my permission given OCDSB to withhold "income tax" from my monthly payroll for the purpose of remitting same to Revenue Canada Taxation.

This "withdrawal of permission" is made after much research re: the Canadian Constitution and the Interest Act of Canada and the Court Order Interest Act of Ontario. Pursuant to the Interest Act of Canada, an Act of Parliament which allows me to require and I do require, that a minimum of five percent interest be paid to me, on any and all money belonging to me and being held by anyone else for any period of time. A copy of the Interest Act of Canada is attached hereto.

This "withdrawal of permission" to withhold "income tax" is also made pursuant to the Court Order Interest Act of the Province of Ontario, which also requires that interest be paid on any money held by anyone for any period of time.

Also, please be advised that the Labour Code of Canada forbids any kind of job action being taken against me for any reason without having relation to my ability or inability of carrying out the duties and responsibilities of my job.

Further be advised that, employers in Canada who have failed to immediately comply with such a "withdrawal of permission" to withhold "income tax" have been taken to Small Claims Court and have been ordered to reimburse their respective employees all tax that was withheld after being served such a "withdrawal of permission". These orders have required that the employer pay the employee interest on that money reimbursed.

This "withdrawal of permission" to withhold "income tax" from my payroll is also made pursuant to the fact that, no tax of any kind or sort is ever due or payable until an assessment has been done. That assessment will be done when I do a "Voluntary Assessment" by completing an "Income Tax Return" sometime before April 30th of the year following the year in which revenue was generated.

Also, Revenue Canada Taxation has a form for employers to complete, allowing them reimbursement of all money that they reimbursed the employee. I request that the OCDSB complete this form and return to me the reimbursement of the "income tax" withheld from January 1, 1998 until this present time plus the minimum five percent interest owing to me on the amount of "income tax" withheld.

It is not my intent to create any kind of friction. It is my intent to ask the OCDSB to follow the law rather than ignoring the law as Revenue Canada does. (see The Canadian Constitution re: direct taxation.) It is Revenue Canada Taxation that must accept total responsibility for any expense and misunderstandings since it has not been following the law by incorrectly demanding that OCDSB withhold "income tax" from my monthly earnings.

As an "income tax" withholding employer the OCDSB is an unpaid tax collector, held in slavery by definition - being caused to perform a service without pay and under the threat of punishment. This in violation of International Law, namely The Universal Declaration of Human Rights, Article 4 which states: "No one shall be held in slavery or servitude and the slave trade shall be prohibited in all their forms." To require any employer to withhold "income tax" is also a violation of The Slavery Act of Canada. For these reasons alone, the OCDSB is NOT under obligation to be an unpaid tax collector for Revenue Canada Taxation - under threat of punishment. I encourage the OCDSB to seek justice in this matter of being an illegal unpaid tax collector for Revenue Canada Taxation.

Further, the threat of punishment that Revenue Canada Taxation claims it will enforce constitutes "extortion", and by definition under s.346 of the Criminal Code of Canada, the Minister of National Revenue is liable to life imprisonment - just as any other Canadian citizen would be is s/he engaged in acts of "extortion".

The fact that the OCDSB acts as an "income tax" withholding employer is also causing local taxpayers a great expenditure during these times of financial restraint. The OCDSB ought NOT comply with Revenue Canada Taxation and aid it in its illegal scheme of "income tax" - which rightfully belongs to the provincial jurisdiction as a form of "direct taxation". I refer you to sections 91 and 92 of The Canadian Constitution and The Lord Nelson 1950 Court Case - copies enclosed. Revenue Canada Taxation by its action is subject to "usury" - which is punishable by up to five years imprisonment under section 347 (1) of the Criminal Court of Canada.

Therefore, effective immediately upon receipt of this letter, I instruct the OCDSB to stop withholding "income tax" from my monthly payroll.

I thank you for your understanding and compliance with this instruction re: this "withdrawal of permission".

Sincerely Yours,

Tom J. Kennedy,

CIPI is currently preparing an article for the next issue of The Kealey Paper that is based on the three part story by Andrew McIntosh that appeared on the front page of The Ottawa Citizen recently. It dealt with the RCMP's involvement in laundering drug money and the subsequent appointment of Norman Inkster as RCMP Commissioner, by Canada's former Prime Minister Brian Mulroney.

We would appreciate your comments on the following questions that were raised as a result of this most important feature story.

— Why did the Ottawa Citizen wait until parliament was on the eve of its summer recess before publishing this important story about RCMP corruption? Was your untimely publication of this story linked in any way to the stated New World Order agenda — of destroying independent nation states like Canada, in favour of the creation of 5,000 police controlled "Global Neighbourhoods"?

— Why was other national media, especially the national Electronic Media, not allowed to mention this story that appeared on your front page for three consecutive days?

— What is the relationship of the Scottish reporters who are (or were) employed by Southam News, to Scottish Rite Freemasonry, ie:

- Andrew McIntosh
- Stevie Cameron (husband David)
- Rod MacDonnell
- etc., etc.

Sincerely,
Glen Kealey,
National President CIPI

cc: Andrew McIntosh (Ottawa Citizen), Southam News, Canadian Institute of Strategic Studies, etc..

Editor's Note:
As of mid July, 1998 neither the Ottawa Citizen or Andrew McIntosh had responded to CIPI's request for further clarification. CIPI now must assume that the story was only published for the purpose of denying their participation in a MEDIA / RCMP cover-up.

WANTED

997 more Canadian families who will pledge a minimum of $25 per month to sponsor CIPI's effort to save Canada's resources from NWO internationalists. CIPI promises to use these resources primarily for the benefit of Canadians.

CIPI would like to take this opportunity to thank those of you who responded to our first appeal. To do the job that needs to be done CIPI must secure a mobile home (RV) for Glen Kealey's use as well as a cube van that will carry our message of hope to all Canadians.

Freemason bankers offer bribes and kickbacks?

B.C. Nisga'a Native Elders offered $15,000 cash to support Mason-Native land deal

by: Glen Kealey

After more than 100 years of hard struggle the Nisga'a ancestors must be turning over in their graves. Now, Jos. Gosnell's sellout of the Nisga'a hereditary land claim is almost complete. A sum of electronic or paper money, created out of thin air by Freemasonry's international bankers, is about to be exchanged for the Nisga'a peoples' birthright.

Only ten percent of the original land claim will be transferred to the control of Aboriginal native-born Indian Agents (not original) called the Nisga'a Tribal Council. The 6000 Nisga'a people were told that the direct benefit that will accrue to them is $190 million. Per capita it works out to just $33,000 each. That's the price of a cheap pick-up truck.

But that's not all. As soon as they sign, the Nisga'a will not only loose any benefits due to them from Canada under their deed to the whole property, they will have to pay taxes on it. How long do you think it will take for the Freemason bankers to get their truck back?

While in Vancouver I was invited by Nisga'a natives to visit a downtown hotel — to see for myself how the Nisga'a Tribal Council was conducting their public information session on the first "initialled" historic Native Land Claims Agreement.

This was the time and place where Nisga'a Masons, while acting in their current role of "Indian Indian Agents", were expected to explain to the 6000 members of the Nisga'a community just how they were suckered into a deal that gives them less than 10% of their original 100 year old land claim. As well, the Freemason Chiefs should have been telling the Nisga'a people that, when they finally become a municipality, the native people themselves will be taxed by these same "elected" Chiefs (N.B.: I was told the current Chief only got 60 votes in the last election ...??) so that the community itself will pay any cost incurred by this phoney "land deal". This, of course, was not what they were talking about.

Instead, a Native spokesperson (a lawyer, I presume) was reading verbatim from the "agreement" to a group of people in the meeting hall (non lawyers), the confusing text of the 252 page agreement and 462 pages of appendices, while a CBC Radio reporter sat alone in the hallway outside the door of the meeting hall (to be a witness to the historic event, I presume?).

One by one Nisga'a Natives joined me in the lobby to complain that: 1) they did not understand much of the process; 2) they were being denied all opportunity to complain; 3) Native Elders were being offered $15,000 bribes each if they would support this deal. ??? Where are the RCMP when Natives need protection?

PS: This info was faxed to the RCMP - Royal Canadian Mounted (Mason?) Police - but they did not even respond.

Manchurian Candidates

by: Glen Kealey

If you saw the 1962 MGM/UA movie called The Manchurian Candidate, starring Frank Sinatra, you're probably already suffering from the effects of Freemason mind control (MK Ultra - see McGill University during the 1950-60's).

This strange movie was: 1 — withdrawn from circulation after the assassination of President Kennedy, later, was the subject of a distribution dispute and was re-released to wide acclaim in 1967; 2 — it also was the first film to seemingly attack Freemasonry's totally orchestrated McCarthy era hearings.

In this black and white movie "that shaped our lives", without his knowledge Sergeant Raymond Shaw (Laurence Harvey) is programmed by enemies of the U.S. people to assassinate the President — in much the same way as during his own childhood William Jefferson Clinton was programmed in real life, by Freemasons, to destroy the "U.S. Presidency".

Comment

The only difference between the movie and reality is that, in current reality, modern-day Manchurian Candidates (Freemasons) are programmed by means of sexual abuse that usually begins with circumcision at childhood. Ongoing abuse is then continued on the damaged child by its Freemason caregiver (either parent or guardian). This programming is later re-enforced throughout the candidate's life by a close controller, such as a spouse. The unsuspecting spouse has also been programmed during childhood and does not fully understand his or her own role in all of this. Coded key words set them off.

INVESTIGATING THE PRESIDENT

by: Glen Kealey

Get this straight ! The current Monica Lewinsky investigation is being orchestrated by the U.S. military's controlled FREE-MASON-MEDIA, at the behest of their very secret owner-controllers, European NATO MILITARY BRASS who, themselves, are secret agents of Jubal Troglodyte Freemasonry's N.W.O. (New World Order).

The real purpose of this investigation of Bill Clinton, the current President, has nothing to do with exposing either SEX or PERJURY.

By destroying the people's faith in all of their national Governments and federal Institutions, this very, very peculiar investigation of the President helps NWO proponents to implement the planned (10,000 years) Global-Neighbourhood agenda.

The 5000 "reservations for non-natives" called neigh-bourhoods, each headed by a political crime boss and supported by heavily armed police forces who enforce the extortion arm of legalized crime —such as alcohol-drug sales, money-laundering, tax collection, gambling and highway robbery— would then be easier to manage than are today's 191 somewhat "independent" countries.

A NEW CANADIAN FLAG
Order yours today

A very patriotic Vancouver couple has gratiously donated 100 new Canadian mini-flags to CIPI for sale as a fundraiser.

It consists of two blue stripes on either side (sea-to-sea), with a dark green (alive) maple leaf at the centre which is printed on an earth brown colour (native land).

Mini flags are $25. and full size flags are $195.

Who is Glen Kealey ?

Glen Kealey is the former Ottawa-Hull region commercial developer who spent 1000 days on Ottawa's Parliament Hill before he was allowed to appear in court in 1991 — where he exposed the system of sophisticated organized crime run by Mulroney's government; with the complicity of the Justice System and the RCMP. Former Public Works minister, Roch LaSalle, offered him federal government support for his project in exchange for 5% of all government contributions, on top of the $5,000.00 kickback which LaSalle asked for up front. While investigating, Kealey found evidence of a massive bribe and kickback scheme operated and controlled right out of the Prime Minister's Office, and a close collaboration among Cabinet Ministers, the Masonic national media and RCMP Commissioners. Kealey, by means of a Section 507 Hearing, succeeded in convincing a Justice of the Peace with 34 years experience, to lay charges against 16 senior politicians and government officials, including Norman Inkster, Commissioner of Freemasonry's RCMP, Henry Jensen, Deputy Commissioner and J. Michael Shoemaker, Assistant Deputy Commissioner, for having conspired together in a criminal conspiracy intended to "cease and limit police investigations". All three Masonic RCMP Commissioners were allowed to take early retirement, while Senator Cogger was found guilty of "influence peddling".

Due to pro-active assistance received from Canada's Masonic "Just-us Legal System", Brian Mulroney and the rest of his Freemason henchmen have so far escaped criminal prosecution

The Canadian Flag

The current Canadian flag, approved by the Parliament of Canada in 1964, is composed of four separate parts, none of which suggest a strong or independent Canada.

To the two Freemason Prime Ministers who approved this flag, Pearson and Diefenbaker, the four parts and their separate meanings were:

The red bar on the left — meant total control by Freemason international bankers (Rothschilds "Red Shield") over the West coast of Canada (B.C. / Alberta). Vancouver means Van (Sun) and Couver means (covered, in the French language). Together they designate "the land of the setting sun"; Japan being "the land of the rising sun"

The red bar on the right — meant total control by Freemason international bankers over the Maritimes or East coast of Canada. St. John's, Newfoundland, named after the prisoner turned Freemason who was later credited with writing the Bible's Revelations, is the provincial capital of Newfoundland - Freemasonry's new found land.

The red (dead) maple leaf at the centre — meant total control by the Freemason international bankers over the Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto and Windsor corridor, or 'Golden Triangle'. It defines Jubal Troglodyte Freemasonry's power structure in central Canada.

The white background that surrounds the red (dead) Maple Leaf is Masonry's Organized Religion (Christianity); ie: control over Quebec (Roman Catholic) — Northern Ontario and the Prairies (Protestant).

Most Canadians did not follow, nor did they understand, the political debate that brought our current flag into being. They truly believe it to be a symbol of Canada's independence. Nothing could be further from the truth. Canada's flag, as we enter the next millennium, should consist of two dark blue stripes (sea to sea) and a dark green (alive) maple leaf printed on a sandy brown (native land) background. Only upon raising this new flag would Canadians confirm the existence of a truly sovereign and independent Canada. Large flags ($195) are available from CIPI.

Pepsi Generation

Pepsin (Pepsi): The powerful enzyme in gastric juice that digests proteins such as those of meat, eggs, seeds or dairy products.

First recognized in 1836 by German physiologist Theodore Schwann. Nearly a century later, in 1930, was crystallized by John H. Northrop of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

Glands in the mucous membrane lining of the stomach make and store an inactive protein called pepsinogen. Impulses from the vagus nerve and the hormonal secretions of gastrin and secretin stimulate the release of pepsinogen into the stomach, where it is mixed with hydrochloric acid and rapidly converted to the active enzyme pepsin. The digestive power of Pepsin is greatest at the acidity of normal gastric juice (pH 1.5 - 2.5). In the intestine the gastric acids are neutralized (pH 7) and Pepsin is no longer effective

In the digestive tract Pepsin effects only partial degradation of proteins into smaller units called peptides, which then either are absorbed from the intestine into the bloodstream or are broken down further by pancreatic enzymes.

Small amounts of Pepsin pass from the stomach into the bloodstream where it breaks down some of the larger, or still partially undigested, fragments of protein that may have been absorbed by the small intestine.

Pepsin is prepared commercially from swine stomachs. Crude Pepsin is used in the leather industry to remove hair and residual tissue from animal hides prior to their being tanned. It also is used for the recovery of of silver from discarded photographic films by digesting the gelatin layer that holds the silver compound.

SINGULARITY

by: Glen Kealey

Though every person is unique, each being one of the Creator's experiences at living, no person is individual. Individuality is a grand illusion composed of all the characteristics that seem to separate and alienate one person from another: race, language, colour, faith, class, culture, vocation, education, and above all, the "spirit" of greed. But the reality is one. One person. One earth. One universe. One life. One Creator. A singularity.

Wherever fear has been created by Jubal Troglodyte Freemasons, the illusion dominates and overshadows the reality. Paranoia accentuates differences and produces "individuals" who seek equilibrium in a polarized world of rights and wrongs, friends and enemies, blacks and whites. They align themselves in a multitude of opposed configurations and fight over their varying points of view, their "half-way" of seeing things.

Whenever two people meet who have experienced and know the reality of oneness, the illusion is transcended and there are no individuals. When 100,000 gather critical-mass exists. Still, there is only one — singularity.

This is happening in Canada. In the face of incalculable odds, a critical-mass is "materializing" our survival.

Free Trade Whistleblower

Shelley Ann Clark still under attack

by: Glen Kealey

Shelley Ann Clark is the civil servant, with 30 years total experience, who worked with the Canada-U.S. Free Trade Negotiations Office in Ottawa and exposed an act of high treason committed by former Prime Minister Mulroney. She was ordered by the third highest ranking negotiator on Mulroney's team to come into the office between midnight and 4 a.m. in order to falsify and eventually shred briefing papers designed to mislead provincial premiers as to what was really being given away in the FTA (Free Trade Agreement). In March 1988, she was ordered by her boss to secretly remove key documents from the Free Trade Office and bring them to the trunk of his car. This order was given after he received an internal memorandum that ordered all negotiators to turn over to the National Archives all documents used in the negotiations. While screening the material to be removed, Clark-Kealey came across an implementation scheme that clearly laid out a step-by-step plan that would eventually lead to the merger of Canada and the U.S.A. by the year 2005. Clark stated that the scheme also contains plans for Quebec's separation, and the construction of a GRAND canal for massive fresh water diversion. After being abandoned by PSAC, her union, and threatened by secret service, Clark went public with her story in May 1993, with the assistance of a lawyer.

In April 1998, no longer able to continue assisting her husband, Glen Kealey, Ann returned to Ottawa after undergoing a farcical medical examination, by one Dr. Victor Dirnfeld. Dirnfeld is the BC doctor turned politician who proposes the privatization of Medicare on behalf of the politically powerful Canadian Medical Insurance Industry. Since elected President of the Canadian Medical Association (CMA) he, reportedly, has not practised medicine regularly for years. He is a political hack whose diagnosis is for sale to insurance industry "masters".

Dirnfeld gave the National Life Insurance exactly what they had paid for. A confirmation that in his opinion Ann could return to work.

In an attempt to solve the problem of Ann's earlier statements about the rigging of the Free Trade Agreement by Brian Mulroney the insurance company decided to play one more political card. National Life Insurance hired a psychiatrist and fraudulently described him as a regular doctor who would give them a second opinion.

Obviously, they expected that Ann, not wanting to return to work with the criminals at External Affairs, would use the opportunity to claim some mental disability. She did not. To the contrary, when Ann discovered the misrepresentation and the psychiatrist's real interest, she had already denied ever having anything but physical problems. The psychiatrist had to report what everyone already knew. Ann was totally sane.

Having failed to lure Ann into their trap National Insurance then ordered that she return to work in 90 days. That's when the Creator stepped in to clarify the situation.

A few days later Ann had to be taken, following an new attack, on an emergency basis, to Ottawa's Civic Hospital. She was immediately made to undergo a thorough examination which revealed the presence of gall stones. Ann has now been ordered to prepare for an operation, which is expected to take place in early December.

Kealey lured to Olds

Last spring I began receiving faxed communications from a Kealey Paper subscriber of Olds, Alberta. I was being asked to respond to a number of inquiries about the international Kaballarian Society's K count coding structure.

I did the best I could to answer the KP subscriber's questions under the limitations imposed by our means of communications. When the caller wanted more details than I could provide through these faxed answers, I was then invited to temporarily relocate myself and my CIPI offices to their home, in Olds, Alberta.

I was assured that a basement apartment of 1,500 sq. ft. would be placed at my disposal and that I could live there rent-free until the spring of 1999. I was assured that I could always "use the basement apartment as if it is your own home". With an offer like that, how could I resist? I relocated to Olds on September 17, 1998; only once these apparently generous house owners had, themselves, taken the very reasonable precaution of visiting my existing landlord, in Winfield, B.C., to obtain his "references" on me.

Little did I suspect then that my new landlords had a secret agenda. Both were, in their words, former Nasoreans, a Christian sect of ancient Mandaeans (followers of John the Baptist).

Although they said that they both had left the Church many years before, following numerous personal and very private conversations with me, I soon detected that, although they may have left the church physically, both had forgotten to pick up the brains that they had left hanging at the church door, on their way out.

The female spent every moment she had alone with me running-down her husband, especially about his apparently extremely violent nature. On the other hand the husband, who spreads manure for a living, seemed not to recognize the manipulative ways of his spouse. Obviously, she always had a different attitude in his presence compared to the way she described him behind his back. One could reasonably conclude that she hated everything about him but, out of fear, could reverse her position and smile as soon as he walked through the door - cleverly manipulating his responses whenever she felt a need. I got the distinct impression that she also hated all men, but was specifically out to orchestrate an event that would surely result in her husband's death, or at least, in his arrest and incarceration. Worse, because of her comments, I was beginning to feel that I was being drawn into her secret plan.

Within two months of my arrival I was certain that this woman had conceived some evil agenda with which I wanted nothing to do. I would slowly back away from further direct contact, only to find that this infuriated my hosts more than ever.

At the next meeting my hostess informed me that her husband liked "kinky sex". That was when I made the decision to get the hell out of there at the earliest possible moment. Without funds and without the means to find or rent a new place on my own I was in an awful bind.

Recognizing my dilemma, my evil landlady compounded the already bad situation by ordering me to move out within a month. She grinned as she stated "Why don't you call on your Creator to get you out of the mess you're in". I decided to do just that and put out an emergency call to my CIPI supporters nationally. Just in time many responded and, in a day or two, funds arrived that allowed me to rent my own place. Within a week of receiving notice to move, the husband banged on my door, at 5:00am. He threatened both my life and property unless I left immediately. With the help of supporters I was moved in 24 hrs. The Creator had moved people to help.

JUBAL - TROGLODYTE FREEMASONRY

I am starting to accept that remarkable pieces of evidence will keep cropping up because my core thesis is correct and I am mining a continuous and endless vein of historical truth.

I do not know for certain what I am looking for, so it is necessary to read everything to see what is out there.

When I woke up !

When I finally woke up I took a look around. I saw city halls, courthouses, houses of parliament, churches, schools, and universities by the hundreds and thousands. I saw systems — systems for managing the land, the air, and the water; systems for managing human behavior; systems for managing religion; systems for managing learning; systems for managing food, shelter, clothing; systems for managing love and procreation: a vast complex of carefully engineered systems. I saw millions of people working, not for themselves, but for someone else. I saw millions of people doing, not what they themselves want to do, but what someone else wants them to do. I saw the depressing evidence of a people who have externalized and institutionalized—in fact, have tried to standardize—the very nature of humanity.

I saw a whole people who've lost the way of life and in its place have built a technological monster which does most of their hard work, carries their water, delivers their food, raises their kids, makes their decisions, says their prayers, transports them, "informs" them, entertains them, and controls the people it serves, absolutely. I also saw that the monster, seemingly unable to manage itself, was running wild, totally out of visible control, ripping the land to pieces, spreading poisons, filling the air with filth, dumping garbage and shit in the rivers and lakes and oceans. I saw all that, and I saw the people, millions of them, crowded together in cities, living side by side in towns, villages, rural areas. But I didn't see a single community.

Is someone doing all of this on purpose? Yes!

Jubal Troglodyte Freemasonry's "Sat B'Hai" Underground Tunnels

The Reinhard Gehlen "Max Network" and the Rand Organization dug the famous Berlin Tunnel. They became good at digging tunnels. Reportedly, there are over 130 NWO underground bases which have been constructed by the Rockefeller-Gehlen-Mason — Greenland-Trog-NATO connection.

The Rand Corporation, in cooperation with Los Alamos, is reportedly (by Nazi-NWO investigators) heavily involved in the construction of tunnels interconnecting these underground base-cities using thermal-nuclear "boring" technology which cracks and melts rock and earth into incandescence and presses the liquid rock (cement) into the walls of the new tunnel where it cools as the nuclear "drill" moves through the earth, eliminating any waste matter. Today, the most advanced nuclear drills can reportedly excavate a tunnel at a rate of five (5) miles per hour.

Example: Drilling at a speed of 5 miles per hour.

24 x 5 = 120 miles per day.

120 x 365 = 43,800 miles per year.

43,800 x 10 = 438,000 miles per decade.

438,000 x 10 = 4,380,000 miles in 100 years.

CIPI MAILBAG

IS IT REALLY POSSIBLE ?

A single reject or drop-out and a small number of equals were banished to a distant place, to live together in mountain-top caves. They were assigned a task of looking after the clan's stores and archives.

Some time later, these people gained powers of their own and deposed the Clan Mothers who had sent them away.

They had become wise due to the archives they kept on all the past activity of the many clans that had preceded them. It had occurred to them that as people did not know of the discoveries made in the past, knowledge that they alone controlled, the current clan would have to repeat these same activities all over again. Of course, this would give the cavemen significant power; being that they were the only ones who knew of the trials-and-errors of the past.

As the rest-of-the-clan was busy hunting and foraging, or researching old questions; by again repeating numerous experiments and looking for different outcomes (the real definition of insanity), the cave dwellers looked for other new ways to control the clan.

They learned to work through secret agents who promised to keep their existence and goals secret (to disempower women and replace the clan's ancient matriarchal system with one they alone would control). As a reward for their silence these secret agents (a brotherhood) would keep a portion of the bribes and kick-backs they were authorized to collect on behalf of their Masters. These agents would then initiate their own sons into the Society. This practice would limit their numbers and also, eventually, create an elite class.

Because the agents were not to be trusted with any real decision-making powers, the cave dwellers always retained for themselves the right to lay out the grand plan, setting out the roles and missions which they would later describe in terms of rising "degrees" (1 to 90). The initiated would be "born again" - as workmen in a "College of six days works".

As the secret agents, "the all hearing ear", rolled out across the planet they gained power only the cave dwellers could have predicted. Secret wisdom and knowledge proved to be mightier than the sword. Once in control of the planet the ancient Troglodytes planned to continue their take-overs out across the universe.

And, here we are - at the end times. Now, look around for yourself and see if they are not in charge of everything. And, if you don't stop them, who then? I think we can stop them before it's too late. After all, wouldn't this be a much better place to live if only we could all take it easy? We can still choose just how fast we want to develop as a species. We don't need to rush so fast that we exclude most people from the "good life".

If things continue as they are, the good life will only be for the cavers in the end. I often wonder if our leaders really believe that they will share in the future with these misfits in charge. I think not. If some sense of sanity does not return to our leadership then, both of us are goners in the end. Let's pour some acid down their mole-hole and stop this cancer that is destroying us both and let's start living for a change.

Why does anyone need to live in secret? Only the fear that we won't go along for the ride keeps them from coming out into the open.

Well, have you got a better story to explain the mess we're in? We, at least, have a plan; and it's not Jean Chretien's Liberal red book he got from his controllers.

Now, if I were a caveman ....just if. Having lived in mountain top caves like my ancestors for millennium with the big advantage of knowing, even recreating, the future often over the past ten thousand years, as well as, writing the plan for the end times through my agent John, I would now be in a position to depopulate the earth. I would want to decrease the world's number of "useless eaters" down to only those I need.

Now, I would order my agents to build me a Space Station. Then, I would transform the planet and its remaining population into a basic service station that could service my needs; as I further expand my original tactics to encompass the entire rest-of-the-universe.

Every other new-found-land would be dealt with in the same manner.

Please remember that 5000 centrally managed unarmed Global Neighbourhoods will be much easier to police and control.

The circumstantial evidence is overwhelming. We also know what can be done about it. All we need is to move to action.

The only question still looking for an answer is — I wonder if my ancestors have done this all before ? I wouldn't doubt it for a minute.

I'm with you buddy. Wish us both luck.

Tom Byberg, alias GORT
(one rebel from the caves)

Open letter to Governments

It has come to our attention, by means of a preponderance of all available circumstantial evidence, that there is a distinct possibility that a nuclear Armageddon, a Third World War, is in the works and is being planned in "Think-Tanks" located in Greenland and Antarctica, by the Jubal Troglodyte controllers of International Freemasonry.

If our assumption is correct, the plan is to detonate numerous already positioned nuclear devices which are located in under-ground bunkers along the east coast of the United States; followed by others in the region of Rome, Italy; and finally, over a seven year period, in a vast area bounded by Ethiopia to the south and Georgia, Russia to the north. This area would include Mt. Ararat in Turkey, Mt. Sinai in Gaza and all countries of the Middle East.

The estimated time-frame for this activity to commence is 2025 at the earliest and 2036 at the latest. The ultimate impact of these multiple nuclear explosions would be to cause global warming repercussions worldwide and the main beneficiaries would be the Jubal Troglodyte Freemason owners of the planned North American food cartel.

NATIVE POLITICAL PRISONER RELEASED BY CANADA

WOLVERINE BACK HOME

by: Glen Kealey

On January 28, 1999, William Jones Ignace (Wolverine) was finally released from federal prison. He had been held since his arrest following the 1995 Gustafson Lake, British Columbia, "Native" Standoff, on September 18, 1995.

Wolverine, also known as* Jonesy to his friends, had been acquitted of the charge of Attempted Murder by a jury, following a ten months trial in 1996-97. Not happy with the verdict of the jury, the Mason judge, B. Josephson, obviously following directives that he received from his secretive Freemason Lodge, sentenced Jonesy on a minor weapons conviction as if he had been found guilty of the much more serious attempted murder charge. In Jubal Freemason terminology this is known as "a flexible application of the rules".

At almost the same time, an Ontario Provincial Policeman shot and killed an unarmed native, Dudley George, at Ipperwash. In Jonesy's case he had shot at six of eight tires supporting an 18 ton military Armoured Personnel Carrier (APC) that was attempting to run him down and kill him. The OPP officer on the other hand, shot at a native owned school bus and killed the unarmed Dudley George. The officer was later sentenced to serve a few hours (180?) of "community service time". So much for Canada's Just-us (Jubal Troglodyte Freemason) Judicial System.

Jonesy is a 65 year old seed farmer from Chase, British Columbia. Since 1979 he has endeavored to instruct native people about the "rule of law". He has spoken at numerous local meetings in B.C. as well as at a number of UN (United Nations) sponsored seminars. His lawyer, the Troglodyte look-alike Bruce Clark, has convinced him that the "rule of law" will someday prevail.

The biggest problem native people have in understanding history (his story) is the same problem that we newcomers have because we both have been and continue to be lied to.

Vikings (VI kings - 6 Kings) were the first Europeans to land in North America. This happened in the ninth century AD. Their mission was to create a strong team of CPC's "Corporate Pipe Carriers" (Native born historians) who would carry both false history and religion to natives across the continent — by pretending that this false history was truly native in origin.

When addressing prayers to the Sun God or to the Mother Earth Goddess of the middle-east, the Native people are being misled away from their true Creator — which explains I believe, why they, like us, never seem to obtain a positive response to their prayers.

CPC's are inducted in lavish ceremonies financed by the Hidden Hand of Troglodytes. Vikings first brought their Nordic steam baths here and convinced Natives to use them instead of their ancient ceremonies, as "Sweat Lodges". They are used as a sort of communal confessional, so that CPC's can obtain information which would not otherwise be available to them. Likewise, Catholics use the confessional while Protestants avail themselves of the Red Shield, (the Salvation Army) while others who do not believe in any God might, in time of crisis, consult on a battlefield with members of the Red Cross. Alcoholics Anonymous serves a similar purpose in peace time.

Before being granted parole Jonesy was first taunted with the possibility of early release on condition that he would agree to a voluntary gag order designed to keep him from speaking out on native issues. He refused.

Every few weeks the prison warden would renew the offer but each time he, Wolverine, refused to accept his personal liberty if it were conditional on not speaking out.

Finally, the system gave in, but not before it imposed a leash upon his right to travel. They have restricted his total movements to a small area bounded by a distance not to exceed thirty miles in diameter from his home in Chase, BC. This allows him only to travels as far as Kamloops.

Obviously, the powers-that-be wanted to stop Wolverine from participating in CIPI's cross-Canada Caravan that will end in Ottawa, on Parliament Hill, on July 1, in the year 2000.

Now it's your turn —whether you are native or a newcomer (newcomers are all non-native immigrants who were born, or migrated, here in the last 1000 years) —to join our caravan.

JUBAL FREEMASONS NOW CONTROL THE RCMP

Royal Canadian Mounted Police "smear and disinformation" campaigns caught on video during Gustafson Lake Standoff

by: Glen Kealey

Most people are easily fooled by faith based religion and Freemasons know it. They have been fooling people, especially their own members, for at least ten thousand years.

The first Masons learned how to dig tunnels and move around underground, along the seams between the earth's plates. They had moved north from Ethiopia, their place of origin, to Mt. Sinai and then across Palestine and Syria into Armenia and Turkey, before they settled in the Caucasus mountains, above Mt. Ararat.

Then, these Troglodytes began to dig tunnels along meridian lines. This allowed them the flexibility of going wherever they wanted to go. At first it was a big joke for them to pop up inside a hollow tree and speak to the inhabitants of the area, as if they were hearing the voice of their Creator.

Eventually, Masons would understand the enormous power that they would gain from first "prophesying" and then making happen, orchestrating, the events that they had previously prophesied.

The initial large trial of this new found power occurred at Delphi, in Greece. Freemason priests had discovered a dry well located within a cave. Once Troglodytes had positioned themselves in a tunnel under the well other "Free"-masons began to scam the people with this illusionary new and amazing power of "predictions" and "fortune telling" about the future.

Unfortunately for these Mason fortune tellers however, some powerful people were not too happy with their predictions and showed their displeasure by killing the messenger. As a result, it was decided that an intermediate should be used to inform the people ...and that's how our MEDIA was born.

Virgins were positioned on a tripod seat above the dry well to hear "predictions" yelled from below and hallucinative hashish smoke kept the nosy from looking down the well.

Today, in Canada, the RCMP is led by Freemasons who take their instructions from their Freemason Lodge, not from politicians. These policemen are "members", not officers. This membership relates to their role in Freemasonry.

The RCMP was created as a paramilitary organization to act as political enforcers. They were assembled to "protect and serve Freemasons", when they first stole land from the original people, and now, are being used to "protect and serve Freemasons" as the new military-industrial-complex steals this agricultural land back from the descendants of these immigrant newcomers.

North America, following the completion of the Grand Canal fresh water diversion project from British Columbia and Manitoba, if Freemasons have their way, will become the only "bread-basket" in the world. A food cartel will be created by ADM that will implement the long-standing masonic Jubal Troglodyte mark-of-the-beast "prophecy" for the end times.

When papyrus scrolls became practical as a way of keeping records (1500BC) Troglodytes abandoned the spoken oracles for the written word. The 42 volume Book of Thoth became the very first "Bible" of the Egyptians and also served as a guide for the Hindu Vedas.

Each page included in these religious books was encoded with seven mysterious seals. The first was allegory while the next six levels were coded with progressively more difficult alpha-numeric ciphers. The subject of the coding was to provide Freemasons, on a need-to-know basis, the text of a Jubal Troglodyte "business plan" for a New World Order. Instructions called the Qabbala were provided to high ranking Jubal Freemasons to help them decipher these books of religion.

When the time came to create a religion for western Europe, the Book of Thoth (Hermes) was removed from the library at Alexandria and the building burned. Immediately, across the Mediterranean Sea, in today's Turkey, at Nicaea, they assembled the newest book of organized religion. It is the 66 volume book known as the Christian Bible. Likewise, it was also encoded with the seven seals, to hide the real story of the coming New World Order from a gullible public.

Over the years, because the Vatican was sometimes occupied by enemy's of Freemasons, critical parts of the Bible were deleted, thereby accidentally destroying the underlying coded NWO plan.

British Columbia and Ontario supporters of CIPI CARAVAN present Glen Kealey keys to his mobile home

by: Glen Kealey

While thousands of Canadians have heard the recent message of CIPI, either by means of our numerous video tapes, public seminars, or by subscribing to the Kealey Paper, most still sit on their hands, afraid to come to our financial support. They disbelieve our message but they certainly cannot disprove it — for it is the truth.

The same cannot be said of many of our brave supporters in both British Columbia and Ontario. Not only do we receive most of our financial support from these provinces but our most loyal supporters joined forces lately to equip the CIPI caravan with the first of its two essential vehicles.

As you can see by the attached photograph of Glen Kealey, CIPI's National President recently received keys to a beautiful 22 footer from David Albert, a staunch supporter from BC. The RV will serve as Kealey's mobile home, at least until the end of the year 2000.

The last few years have seen our CIPI support base go through many changes. At first we had attracted many who claimed to seek the truth but who really only wanted to hear from those people who would confirm the things which they already believed.

Their closed minds were never open to the possible confrontation that was about to occur between reality, truth and the illusions which they firmly wish to hang on to as reality.

Others kept an open mind and although they found some of the evidence that we discovered surprising and sometimes hard to believe, they continued their support for us while they independently tried to confirm or deny our original findings. As evidence of Freemasonry's true role is growing in volume and importance almost daily, few of our true supporters have been disappointed.

Freemasons, whether they be directly from their Lodges or from their other divisions, mainly of organized religion, politics, press and police, have not been quite as charitable.

Often, people come to us with offers of conditional support. In other words, they say that they believe in what we are doing but in fact they want to use their resources to limit us in our research, by limiting the topics of our research and the publication of our findings.

Usually these people end up withdrawing their support, once they discover that we cannot be bought, either with bribes or blackmail. Such was the case following my move to Olds, Alberta, after having received and then seeing the offer of rent-free space for the winter being withdrawn.

No doubt that The Creator does work in very mysterious ways!

ANALYSIS

Word from the "SCULPTOR"

Self-imposed Slavery

To enslave man it is not sufficient to capture his body—it is also necessary to dumb-down his brain. Also, to free man it is not enough to remove the chains from his limbs—his mind must be liberated from bondage to his own ignorance.

Today, man, a sublime creature with infinite capacity for self-improvement, in an effort to be true to false standards, turns away from his birthright—without realizing the consequences—and plunges into the madness of material illusion. The precious span of his earthly years he devotes to a futile effort to establish himself as an enduring power in a realm of unenduring things. Gradually the memory of his life as a spiritual being within a Singularity vanishes from his mind and he focuses his remaining faculties upon the beehive treadmill of work which he has come to believe is somewhat needed as "reality".

As a result men return in time back to the level of the beast, and from this position of being a "victim" of circumstance, they continually mumble about all of the problems arising from their all too insufficient knowledge of the Creator's bigger plan. Here in the turmoil of a great industrial, political, religious and commercial inferno, men writhe in self-inflicted agony as they strive to clutch and hold on to the illusive phantoms of success and power.

Ignorant of the cause of life, ignorant of the purpose of life, ignorant of what lies beyond the mystery of death, yet possessing within himself the answer to it all, man is willing to sacrifice the beautiful, the true, and the good within and without upon the blood-stained altar of worldly ambition.

However, within those few who have retained their ability to observe, analyze and conclude independently, there is rising up a new breed of "thinkers who also act". All over the world women and men ground down by the cultural systems of today are crying out for the return of the banished age of the original peoples of the earth—for something practical in the highest sense of the word. A few are beginning to realize that so-called civilization in its present form is at the vanishing point; that coldness, heartlessness, commercialism, and material efficiency are impractical, and only that which offers opportunity for expression of love and ideality is truly worth while.

All the world is seeking happiness, but knows not in what direction to search.

Modern philosophy, as promoted by Jubal Troglodyte Freemasonry, has failed in that it has come to regard thinking as simply an intellectual process. Their materialistic thought is as hopeless a code of life as commercialism itself. They, purposely, have lost the "word". Only the power to think true can save humanity. When man lives with truth he comes to know.

The re-establishment of reality in the nature of an individual requires from fifteen to twenty years. It has been said that no man can succeed until he has developed a philosophy of life. Neither can a nation attain true greatness until it has formulated an adequate philosophy and has dedicated its existence to a policy consistent with that philosophy. But upon the mind of man there is now a great fear—the fear that soon civilization will destroy itself in one great "orchestrated" cataclysmic nuclear event that will lead to disastrous global warming. Then will be enacted the reconstruction that is to serve the elites.

Since no part of creation is yet complete each part is still imperfect to the extent that it falls short of perfection. Where imperfection is, it also follows that ignorance must be coexistent; for every ignorant part, while capable of knowing its own Self, cannot be aware of the Self in the other parts. As long as modern man does not recall the original peoples concept of Singularity and therefore fails to re-member with his Creator, the experiment we call MAN will have failed. Unless man finally "catches-on", much like the dinosaur was before, mankind, also, will be ended by the Creator.

Meantime, all creatures are relatively ignorant yet relatively wise. The microscope reveals man's significance ; the telescope, his insignificance. Man's present state of imperfection is making him realize that he can never be truly happy until he is perfect, and that of all the faculties contributing to his self-perfection none is equal in importance to the rational intellect, and that rationality can only evolve from truth. Ignorance can truly be defined as ignorance of ignorance.

Humanity has forgotten just how small, how impermanent and how ignorant it actually is.

From age to age men ceaselessly toil to build cities that they may rule over them with pomp and power—as though a ton of gold or ten million dollars could elevate them above the dignity of their own thoughts and make their glitter visible above that of distant stars. As this tiny planet rolls along its orbit in space, it carries with it some six billion human beings who live and die oblivious to that immeasurable existence lying beyond the lump on which they dwell. Measured by the infinities of time and space, what are captains of industry or the lords of finance? If one of these were to rise until he ruled the earth itself, what would he be but a petty despot seated on a grain of Cosmic dust?

Careful observation, analysis and conclusion will reveal man's relationship to the Singularity that is the Creator. It shows him that he is related to the sun and stars which dot the firmament; it lifts him away from being a lowly taxpayer on the third rock from the sun to being a citizen of the Universe. It teaches him that while physically bound to earth (of which his blood and bones are a part), there is nevertheless within him a spiritual power, through which he is one with the Whole.

Ignorance of ignorance, then, is that self-satisfied state of unawareness in which man, knowing nothing outside the limited area of his physical senses, foolishly declares there is nothing more to know ! He who knows no life other than his own physical surroundings is merely ignorant ; but he who declares physical life to be all-important and elevates it to the position of reality —such a person is ignorant of his own ignorance.

If the Creator had not desired man to become wise, He would not have bestowed upon him the ability to observe, analyze and conclude. If He had predestined man to be limited to his narrow physical life, He would not have equipped him with instinct and sensibilities capable of grasping the immensity of the outer universe.

Man may live two lives. One is the struggle from the womb to the tomb. The second is from the beginning to infinity. It begins with understanding. Victims live but for today ; the thinkers who move themselves to action live forever.

The ignorant dwell in a world bounded by time and space. The thinkers who move themselves to action live and thrill with the understanding of this duration, for them this infinite period was designed by the Creator as the time of all experiences and accomplishments. Man is not the insignificant creature that he appears to be; his physical life is not the only measure of his real self.

The unknown is merely that which has yet to be experienced.

In this era of the "practical" men often ridicule the possible existence of a Creator — a Singularity. They continue to laugh and cry, to love and hate; and without ever personally acting to change things, some still dream of a nobler world, a fuller fairer life. In both the heart and mind of these men the gates which lead from mortality to immortality are still ajar. Love and idealism are still available to them. The Creator continues to guide the destinies of His creation. There is still time to act.

The great systems of materiality have failed. The false civilization materialized by Jubal Troglodyte Freemasons have run into their own wall, and which like the monster Frankenstein, is destroying its creator. Politically inspired religion and philosophy wanders aimlessly in the maze of theological speculation. Science batters itself searching for the key to the unknown, attempting to rediscover those things that were known before.

Only those thinkers who are themselves prepared to act, having faith only in reason, can carry the understanding part of man (critical mass) towards the ultimate truth.

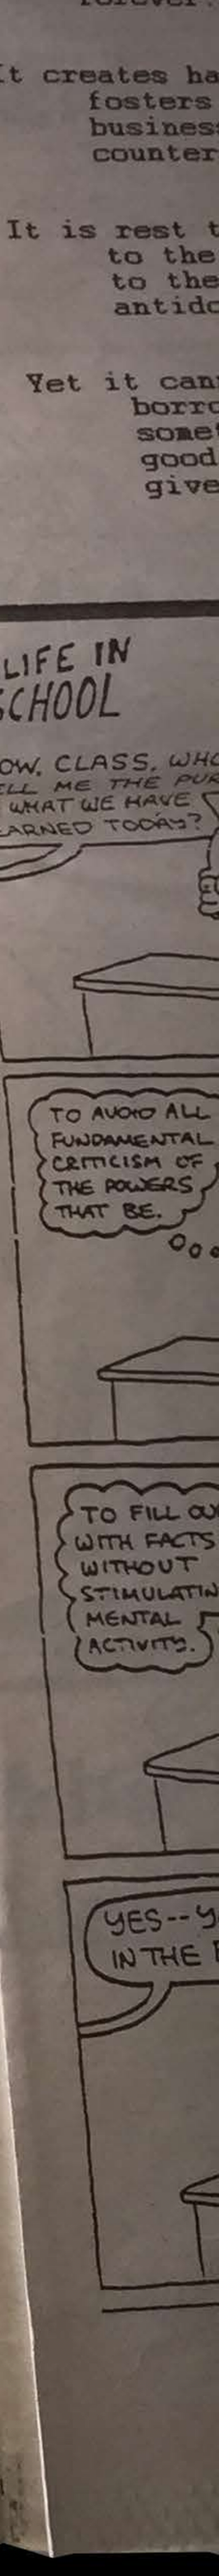
Once that happens then all of humanity can learn to be born well, to live well and to die well. It really is up to you !

ANNOUNCEMENT

Towards the end of April 1999 Glen Kealey will relocate himself to Regina, Saskatchewan, where he will spend the summer months.

National headquarters for CIPI will remain in Kelowna, BC. Our mailing address will not change.

Glen Kealey will publish his new telephone and fax numbers later.



The value of a smile

It costs nothing, but creates much.

It enriches those who receive, without impoverishing those who give.

It happens in a flash and the memory of it sometimes lasts forever.

It creates happiness in the home, fosters good will in a business and is the countersign of friends.

It is rest to the weary, daylight to the discouraged, sunshine to the sad and nature's best antidote for trouble.

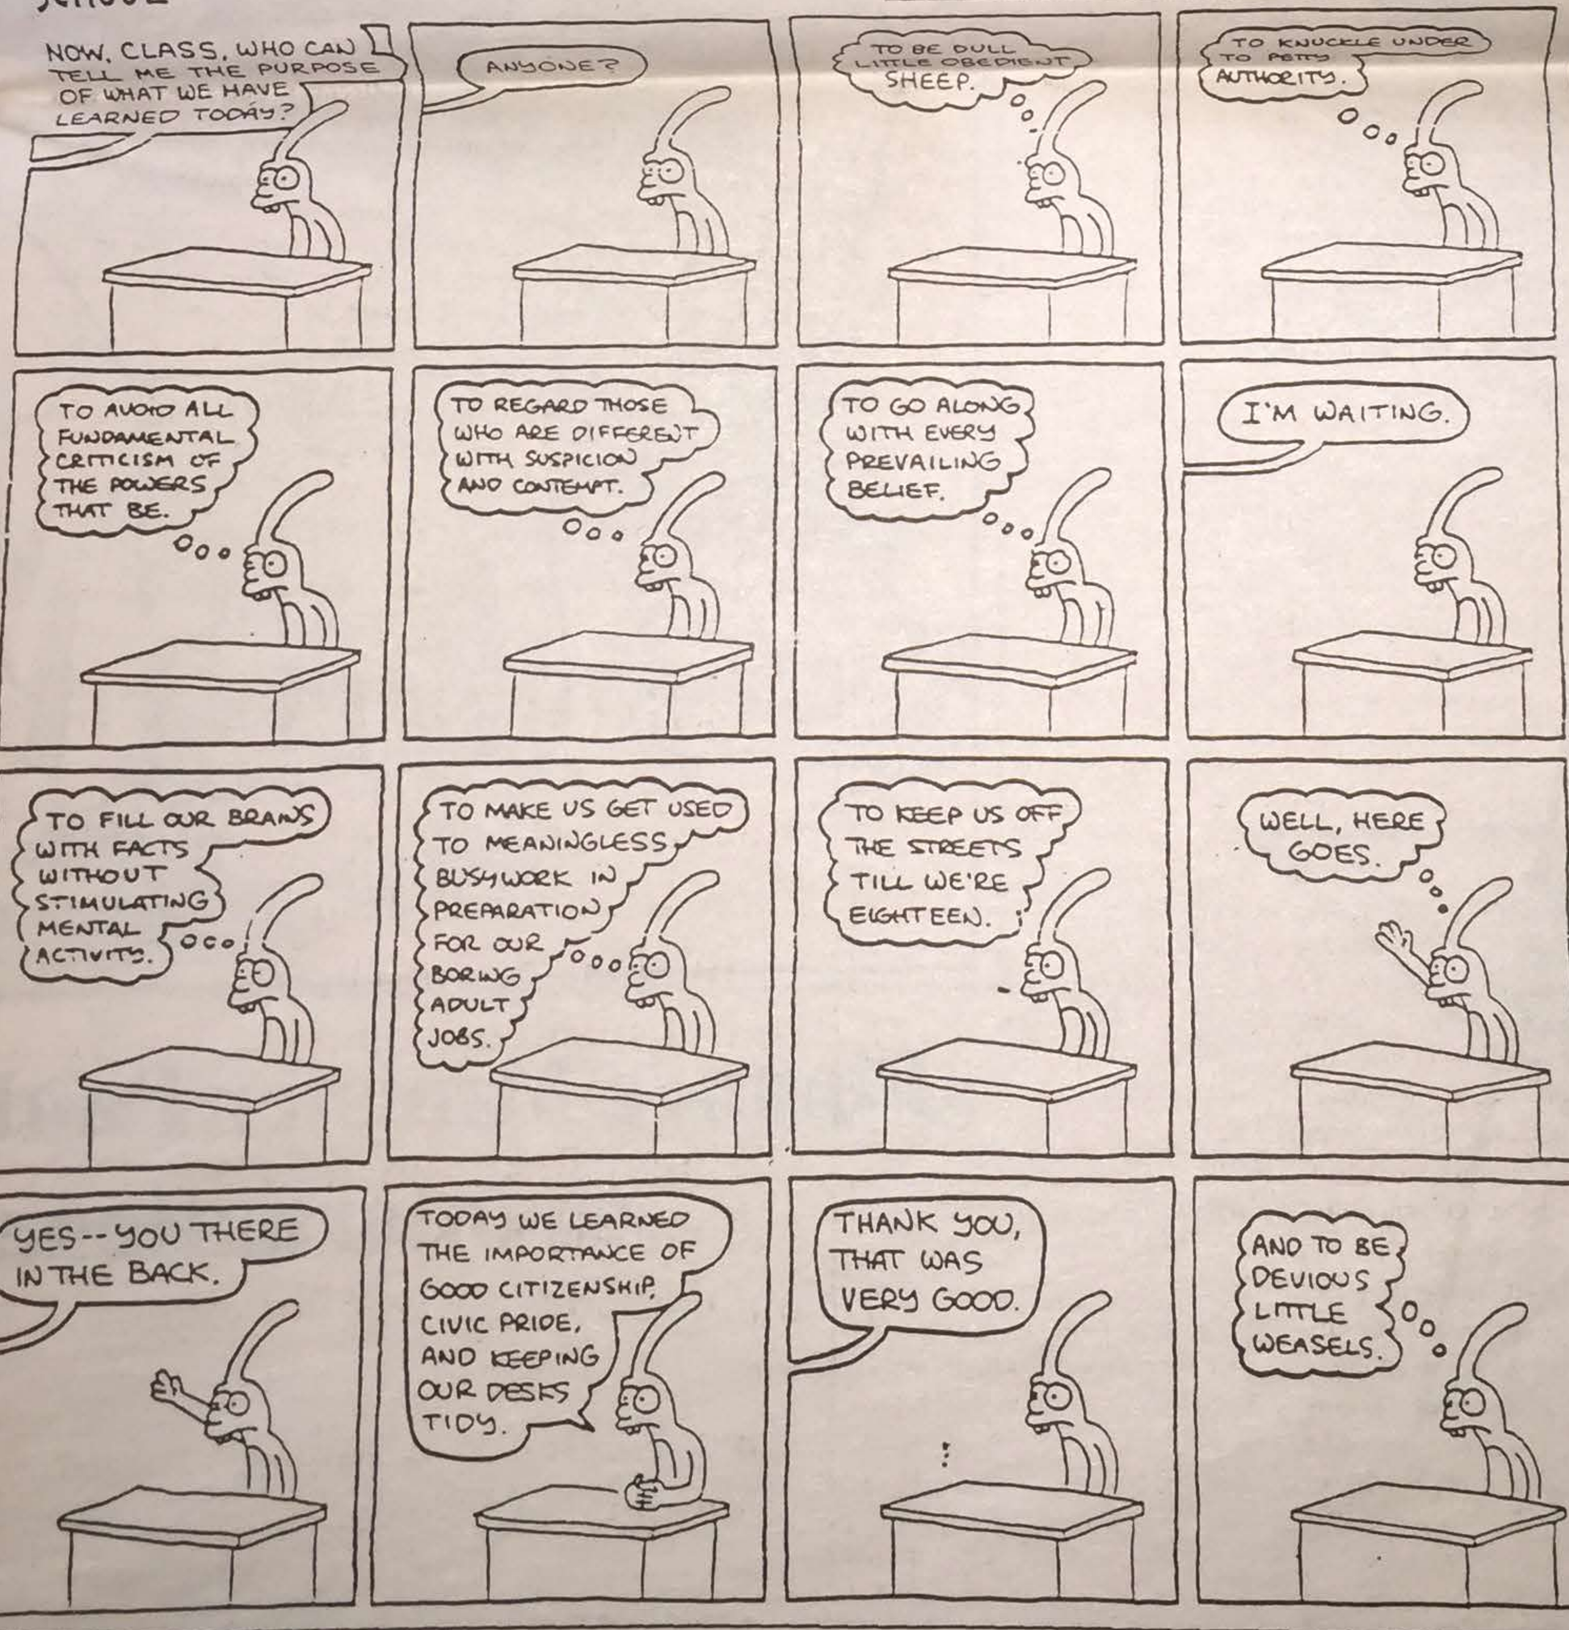
Yet it cannot be bought, begged, borrowed or stolen for it is something that is no earthly good to anyone until it is given away!

Who is Glen Kealey ?

Glen Kealey is the former Ottawa-Hull region commercial developer who spent 1000 days on Ottawa's Parliament Hill before he was allowed to appear in court in 1991 — where he exposed the system of sophisticated organized crime run by Mulroney's government; with the complicity of the Justice System and the RCMP. Former Public Works minister, Roch LaSalle, offered him federal government support for his project in exchange for 5% of all government contributions, on top of the $5,000.00 kickback which LaSalle asked for up front. While investigating, Kealey found evidence of a massive bribe and kickback scheme operated and controlled right out of the Prime Minister's Office, and a close collaboration among Cabinet Ministers, the Masonic national media and RCMP Commissioners. Kealey, by means of a Section 507 Hearing, succeeded in convincing a Justice of the Peace with 34 years experience, to lay charges against 16 senior politicians and government officials, including Norman Inkster, Commissioner of Freemasonry's RCMP, Henry Jensen, Deputy Commissioner and J. Michael Shoemaker, Assistant Deputy Commissioner, for having conspired together in a criminal conspiracy intended to "cease and limit police investigations". All three Masonic RCMP Commissioners were allowed to take early retirement, while Senator Cogger was found guilty of "influence peddling".

Due to pro-active assistance received from Canada's Masonic "Just-us Legal System", Brian Mulroney and the rest of his Freemason henchmen have so far escaped criminal prosecution

LIFE IN SCHOOL



From the desk of a volunteer .... Barbara Watson-Turner

Greetings from Kelowna B.C.

The New Year is showing promise of an important change in our capacity to create awareness in Canada of the changes we can make as citizens when we work together.

In February 1999, supporters of CIPI supplied us with a mobile home to enable Glen Kealey to travel across Canada. Our dreams are starting to come through. Now our work can begin in earnest.

There is an urgent need for small, monthly donations from all of you to keep the CIPI Caravan moving to the year 2000. We have received some and are very grateful for these, as we know money is not easily available to anyone these days.

Glen's new assistant, Tom Byberg, will travel ahead of Glen on the road, setting up meetings where Glen will speak. Until we raise funds for the cube van Tom will be using his van and sharing space with Glen in our new RV. Their dedication to CIPI needs your help — for gas for the two vehicles and for food.

This request for help cannot be taken lightly! It will make a big difference if they are certain of these basics for their survival.

Progress reports will be available from me ....by calling (250) 862-9297

Jubal Troglodyte Freemasonry's ADAM

St. Augustine discovered the Masonic code that explains the name ADAM. He showed that the four letters, A-D-A-M, are the first letters of the four words — Anatole Dysis Arktos Mesembria, the Greek names for the four corners of the world.

Freemason encyclopedias state that Adam was created androgy*nous,* a word that, to Mason elites (E lites or Mason lights), means "we are male women — two heads on one body, ie: Bisexual and Gay". This is the significance of their two-headed eagle (Phoenix) emblem.

The word ADM (also the name of the managers of the coming New World Order food cartel) signifies the human species or breed known as Caucasians and only for lack of proper understanding has ADAM been considered as an individual.

It was affirmed by early Christians (Freemasons) that the redemption was assured through NOUS (this is a French word meaning US).

The Romans

The first Romans (the Etruscans) appear in 1044 B.C..

They came out of Asia Minor into Italy and were of the same family as the Palestinian Hittites (Hebrews). The connection of these people with King Solomon's Temple on the one hand, and with the Comacines (the cathedral builders of Europe) on the other, is that, at the time of the building of the Temple, here were a people in Italy, Asia Minor and in Syria, all of one race (breed), all initiated, working in their own style (influenced more or less by Assyria and Egypt) involved, so far as the Syrian branch is concerned, in the building of the Temple, and having descendants in the Druces (later, the Druids of England).

The Etruscan branch of the people taught the early Romans, who in turn developed their own colleges, and ultimately became the Comacine Guild who wore badges and made marks which were linked to King Solomon.

The common denominator is that they were all descendants of the ancient Abyssinians — Jubal Troglodyte Freemasons. They built Europe's "Abbeys".

The Comacines

"Freemasonry is descended not altogether from old Guild Masonry, but partly, at least, from the great order of the Comacines, who were the builders of the cathedrals of Western Europe.

The cathedrals were built by, or under the supervision of, the great order of the Comacines, and that from them our Freemasonry is really descended."

They were originally the community of builders who, at the downfall of Rome, left that city, and settle on the Lake of Como. They controlled an island on the lake which they called Christopolis (Comacina). In the fifth century A.D. the island fell to the Lombards. In 1169 the island community was destroyed by the people of Milan.

In 1467, the people of Como restored the ancient church on the island in honour of St. John the Baptist. "The first day of May 1400 saw the commencement of the work —add 67 and all will be understood."

"Reformed" Benedictine monks emerged from Comacina.

Masonry's lower degrees are braindead

Jubal Troglodyte Freemasonry consists of three visible or public grades (3); each of which is then further sub-divided into thirty degrees (30).

The lower 30 degrees and their tenets were designed as a blind to conceal the true object of the Fraternity, which was and is, to steal "Political Control of the entire World" from its original female nurturers (Clan Mothers) and create a New World Order.

The middle 30 degrees and their tenets were designed as a control mechanism over the elites (identified by fortune, not by talent) of the world. Bribery is being used to feed the overblown egos and greed of the world's publicly visible "ruling class".

The top 30 degrees and their tenets were designed as the maximum control mechanism over the true controllers of the world. Blackmail, linked to personal sexually based deviation, is the only control mechanism that has endured the test of time. None of these 90 degrees however, impinge upon the ultimate power of the fourth (4) level of Freemasonry, the Hidden Hand — Jubal Troglodytes, of Greenland (formerly of Mt. Ararat and Ethiopia).

Canada is in danger and yes, I care.

Government by "the People"

Yes, it is still possible to save this country. First, one begins by understanding the root cause of the problem. Next, a number of strong, unique people —I believe 18 would be sufficient— need to take on the task of identifying at least another 1000 families in Canada who would be willing to provide them with bridge financing —a minimum of $25 per month for a period of 24 months— enough to materialize the creation of a travelling CIPI CARAVAN that can then cross the country to inform the people at the grass roots level.

If this happens, CRITICAL MASS —100,000 unique people— can be attracted to Parliament Hill, in Ottawa, starting on July 1, in the year 2000. This critical mass of caring Canadians, by their presence and numbers, will be an unmistakable statement by Canadians that we have had enough of the theft of our common birthright —our natural resources— and the illegal taxation of our personal property —the taxation of our labour— both being done only for the ultimate benefit of the foreign sponsors of our puppet political and religious elites — E=Triune Masons and LITES=the Masonic Lights.

I hereby solemnly resolve and pledge to do my family's part.

Jubal Troglodyte Freemasonry's Origin

Masonry came to North Africa and Asia Minor from the Delta and mountains of Ethiopia (Abyssinia - Eritrea), not under its present name but rather under the general designation of Sun and Fire Worship.

The ancient Mysteries did not cease to exist when Christianity became the world's most powerful religion.

The pagan God Pan did not die!

Freemasonry is the proof of his survival.

The pre-Christian Mysteries simply assumed the symbolism of the new faith, perpetuating through emblems and allegories the divine secrets which had been stolen and modified for political purposes, by priests, "the wise men who now dressed as women".

Originally, truth had been taught to everyone, by indigenous peoples, since the beginning of humanity.

Jubal Troglodyte Freemason Military

December 1998 was a good month for JTF-6, the British-USA arm of Freemasonry's military.

First, Jubal Troglodyte Freemason Military, fresh out of JTF-6 (College of 6 Days), were able to check out their computer operated video games of mass destruction, by culling the people of IRAQ (Chaldean Babylon) from a safe distance, being at least 3000 miles out of range of any possible response.

And, Bill Clinton, the draft-dodging President, was impeached as a result of the efforts of the two military agents, Linda Tripp and Monica Lewinsky, both being former employees of the Pentagon when this activity first began its political movement towards impeachment.

Now, the military generals can once again concentrate on their personal gain, by selling to terrorists on the black market, their newly declared "surplus" war equipment.

Jubal Troglodyte Freemason Politics

When the military governs, humankind is ruled by ignorant force;

when the church governs, humankind is ruled by superstitious faith;

and when the state governs, humankind is ruled by a strategy of poverty and fear.

Each of these three systems of government was created to control you, by Jubal Troglodyte Freemasonry.

Only once you have moved to take direct control of and steadfastly insist upon retaining direct control over your political system, then, and only then, will you have asserted your primary "human right".

CNN — Please, tell the truth!

— The USA is controlled by Freemasons — Canada too is controlled by Freemasons — CNN is also controlled by Freemasons — National Media is controlled by Freemasons — Entertainment is controlled by Freemasons — Politicians are controlled by Freemasons — World Military is controlled by Freemasons — Big Crime is controlled by Freemasons — Big Banking is controlled by Freemasons — Big Courts are controlled by Freemasons — Big Police are controlled by Freemasons — Big Religion is controlled by Freemasons — Big Business is controlled by Freemasons — Big Labour is controlled by Freemasons

This New World Order conspiracy was planned by Scottish Rite, York, Rosicrucian, Illuminati, Knights Templar and Grand Orient Freemasons who adhere to the JTF Sionist Qabbala. Each of the above JTF-6 divisions is directed by Jubal Troglodytes located in Greenland.

One man's lonely fight

Ottawa teacher takes on Revenue Canada

Mr. J. Grieve
Director of Education/
Secretary of the Board
Ottawa-Carleton
District School Board
(OCDSB)
133 Greenbank Rd.
Nepean, Ontario
K2H 6L3

Dear Mr. Grieve:

The OCDSB has on file from myself a "Declaration of Rights at Law" declaring that I am not subject to the Income Tax Act of Revenue Canada. Therefore, the OCDSB is subject to criminal charges for theft and breach of trust for not honouring my "Declaration of Rights at Law" and my demand to file "exempt" status with my TD-1 Form presented to the OCDSB on December 21, 1998 - unless OCDSB has been presented with a court order from Revenue Canada Taxation; or at least, a legal opinion of an attorney representing the Federal Government of Canada as to the invalidity of the Declaration of Rights at Law filed by myself.

I have waited for more than 10 days for an answer from OCDSB. No answer is forthcoming, so I will assume that my Declaration of Rights at Law is valid and the OCDSB is therefore required to respect my rights.

If after 30 days of the date of this communication the OCDSB still chooses to continue ignoring my Declaration of Rights at Law I will serve "constructive notice" to the Director of Education / Secretary of the Board (OCDSB) which will be a personalized Declaration of Rights at Law with a demand for reimbursement of any property turned over to Revenue Canada Taxation since my initial letter of May 25, 1998 plus a cease and desist order. (Remembering the Nuremberg Trials whereby a Canadian judge mouthed the decision "I was just carrying out orders - is not a defense for committing a criminal act".)

Since the OCDSB has already been served with a Trespass Warning (Constructive Notice) and has chosen to continue committing the criminal act I am now preparing to use the government justice system to lay criminal charges; and, to use government civil court procedures to recover my loses.

I have willing witnesses prepared to come along with me when I proceed to file an information with the police. Should the police refuse to accept my information, my witnesses will compose an affidavit, stating the details of my attempted filing of the criminal charge: and, then sign it under oath with a Commissioner of Oaths. I will openly carry a tape recorder during all proceedings.

If I am refused access to either the criminal justice system to punish the wrongdoer (OCDSB) and/or the civil court to recover my property and gain recompense for damages and hardship caused by the actions of the OCDSB, I will then use the force of a jury trial to recover my property and to prevent retribution.

I will have the required proof that I have properly carried out the first two steps as I proceed with the last recourse - a jury trial. I understand that a jury trial is granted when the criminal charge in question is of such severity that it carries a sentence of over five years. Certainly the value of property that has been thefted from myself by the OCDSB since May 25, 1998 is of sufficient amount that warrants consideration for a jury trial.

I am not worried about the security of any personal property or savings as I have removed my name from any significant documents which may have been registered with any government agency or bank. I have already set up an offshore trust system and bank account in Belize City, Belize where any of my real property and businesses are included in the offshore trust's name while leaving me in full control as if I owned it directly.

I am indeed serious about putting a stop to acts of theft against myself and about recovering my stolen property and I am prepared to take the necessary steps as outlined above if the OCDSB continues to disrespect my rights by ignoring my Declaration of Rights at Law.

As a courtesy please forward a response in writing explaining whether the OCDSB intends to continue ignoring my Declaration of Rights at Law or whether the OCDSB intends to comply with my Declaration of Rights at Law and with the new information re: "exempt" status as declared by myself on the TD-1 Form delivered to OCDSB on December 21, 1998.

Sincerely Yours,

Tom J. Kennedy,
(Employee # 130584)

Orders in Council

Government by Mason Elites

An "Order in Council" means, in layman's language, "Order without Council". In fact, they are orders received from the masonic "Privy Council", Canada's real government. These orders are dictatorial decrees, signed by only the Prime Minister and Governor General, which are never presented for a vote in either house of Parliament. They are declared law without prior warning and all police forces throughout Canada are ordered to obey them without question.

The federal government is terrified about the possibility of an public debate in Canada on such topics as the real reason behind Gun Control, the Harmonization of Canadian Laws to those of the United States, the Sellout of Natural Resources by means of an artificially devalued dollar, Fresh Water Diversion, the coming Food Cartel and the planned Political Merger between Canada and the USA, that they are quitely changing Canadian law by means of these Orders in Council.

Gun control will remove guns from Canada — before Canadians realize they have been sold out.

CIPI MAILBAG

To the Editor:

Is there a hidden purpose to crime? If yes, could that purpose be to help plunge us towards social disorder? Has the groundwork already been laid and is it progressing as planned?

Under specious argument the political and judicial branches of government turn criminals back onto our streets and keep them there, on a revolving basis, at tremendous cost to the public. It would appear that the intent is to keep as much chaos on the streets and among society as possible.

It is a fact that less than 1% of our population is of a truly "criminal" element. Therefore it follows that there really is very little serious crime abounding. What would happen if this little known fact were more generally known? Obviously, there would be little need for large police departments and no need for our massive prison systems or overwhelmed courtrooms.

The proliferation of crime is evident within the administration of the Young Offenders Act. Youngsters now see that a lack of possible punishment, when coupled with other lame excuses such as blaming their actions on bad parenting as an explanation for all of their misdeeds, can make them blameless in criminal activity.

Also, public educators and opinion makers teach our kids that it's OK to lie, steal and cheat. They are told that it's even OK to kill under certain circumstances when approved by world elites. It seems to me that importance is given, not to the values we choose to live by, but by the values decided for us by others. Should we not be allowed to make our own moral decisions, without all of these outside pressures and coercions being placed on us? Is it any wonder that the crime rate is rising and our moral values are slipping away?

The promotion of sex, when coupled with an unlimited flow of illicit drugs from the very people who are responsible for controlling their distribution, is mainly responsible for the degradation of our society. Chaos prevails with nothing to stop it while the very enforcers we pay to control this illegal activity contribute to the overall destruction of our former way of life and in the midst of this destruction comes the assurance of much larger legalized flows of these drugs from the very people we have hired to stop it. Our police seem only interested in arresting freelancers, so as to eliminate their competitors.

We need to understand what is actually happening rather than what the media is telling us. They only report the elitist story line, ie: that you will be arrested and jailed if you do not pay their taxes; that you are a bad person if you refuse to pay your fair share, when they know debtors prisons were abolished long ago.

So, how did we in fact rise to this pinnacle of moral decadence within our current social structures? Certainly it's not something that we, the mostly honest law-abiding grassroots ever wanted to see happen. Through a process of elimination one can see that it has emanated from the "pillars" of our society; that is to say from the elites who have obtained political power in spite of their lack of specific talent, being without those basic qualities required for moral leadership.

It is now being understood by some among us that most judges, lawyers and politicians (mostly lawyers) are either members of organized religion or of some other more secret brotherhood, whereby they all have sworn solemn oaths that negate all other vows made to the "public". In other words, these brothers are sworn to lie to the public, if those lies will assist their brotherhood in any way. The general public needs to understand this fact in order to do something about it.

How much truth can one expect to get in a courtroom when much of this elitist gang has already sworn not to tell us the truth? Does one, now, not begin to understand the real underlying problem?

As a matter of some historical interest, the Parliament of Great Britain passed a law in 1372 which forbade "any bailiff, lawyer, sheriff or other of our court constables to hold public office", as they were considered to be officers of the court. In theory this was the way they chose to separate politics out of the judiciary. This law held up for 500 years, until 1872. It appears therefore, and it should surprise no one, that for a time Sir John A. Macdonald, Georges Cartier and others actually held office illegally. Any guesses on the identity of the brotherhood that caused this law to be repealed?

To: Mr. Jay Mason Canadian Alliance in Solidarity with the Native Peoples

Dear Mr. Mason:

A file has recently been opened on Mr. John Stevens for a possible Meritorious Service Decoration. The enclosed fact-sheet provides information on the Decorations. Also enclosed are some nomination forms which will be of assistance to you, should you wish to propose the names of other candidates.

During the Gustafson Lake Standoff in the summer of 1995, Mr. Stevens, a Stoney Elder, participated in the negotiations that brought the peaceful end of the one-month dispute. As you are perhaps familiar with Mr. Stevens accomplishments in this regard, I would be grateful if you would inform the Chancellery whether you would support his nomination for an award.

I should mention that nominations are kept confidential by Government House to protect our sources and to avoid disappointment if a nominee is not selected. To further enhance the confidentiality of the research process, it is preferable that nominators and others who write to us keep their correspondence confidential from a nominee or other sponsors.

Any comment you may care to make will be most useful to the Canadian Decorations Advisory Committee when re-viewing the file.

Yours sincerely,

Re: John Stevens

The members, supporters and friends of the Canadian Alliance in Solidarity with the Native Peoples do not support the nomination of Mr. John Stevens for a Meritorious Service Decoration.

The issue at Gustafson Lake was the rule of law and jurisdiction. The Canadian and British Columbia governments refused to deal with the question of whether the people had a right to stand on unceded territory, almost all of British Columbia being unceded. Thus, Canadian law has no jurisdiction unless the Original Peoples nations agree. The settlers have no right to bring Canadian law and its enforcement apparatus on unpurchased Native land. In effect the Canadian legal system has no jurisdiction over the Original Peoples and nations, civilly, criminally or any other way. Enforcing foreign laws on Original Peoples amounts to treason, fraud and genocide.

Mr. Stevens was told to tell the Ts'peten Sundance Defenders to leave the camp because he knew there would be bloodshed. So there was no peaceful surrendering. They either came out or were gunned down. They had already been fired upon, their truck with occupants blown up and Wolverine was almost run down by an army vehicle. The RCMP was conducting a "smear campaign" to discredit the Gustafson Lake Defendants. The establishment has steadfastly refused to have an inquiry into this event. The subsequent Gustafson Lake trial raised questions about the violations of the Royal Proclamation and the court's jurisdiction.

The governments were concerned about the defendants demands for a third party impartial adjudication procedure. For refusing to recognize the B.C. court's jurisdiction Wolverine William Jones Ignace, has been in jail for over three years. People the world over see Wolverine as a genuine hero.

This issue must be raised at the international level before an impartial third party, with the Queen of England and the Human Rights Committee under Section 7 of the statute setting up the Human Rights Committee of the United Nations. Original Peoples nations should be putting the rule of law on trial in both the domestic and international arena to indict Canada for their crime of genocide and theft of the Original Peoples land of Canada.

Sincerely yours,

Kahn-Tineta Horn, President
CASNIP

To: Danielle Dougall Rideau Hall, Ottawa

Re: John Stevens

Dear Ms. Dougall,

Your suggestion to the Original Peoples of Canada that they should support an ABoriginal RCMP agent for appointment to the Order of Canada would be laughable if it were not so sad. It would only make sense if John Stevens' nomination was somehow linked to Brian Mulroney's. This suggestion speaks only of your total misunderstanding of the MEDIA EVENT known to the public as the Gustafson Lake NATIVE Standoff.

John Stevens was, and still is, an RCMP collaborator acting under the threat of seizure of his bank account, which itself was created and accumulated from the sale of natural resources that are a Birthright and, therefore, the rightful property of the ORIGINAL PEOPLES of the land that we newcomers call Canada.

The RCMP are Royal Canadian Mason Police whose only duty is to "Protect and Serve" the interests of international Jubal Troglodyte Freemasonry, which includes the theft of the ORIGINAL PEOPLES land.

CIPI BREAKS THE CODE

by: Glen Kealey

It all started in June 1986 when the former Mulroney cabinet minister Roch LaSalle asked me, Glen Kealey, for a 5% kick-back on the $160 million project I was building in the National Capital.

When I refused to pay I began a wide-ranging investigation into the corruption that rules everything in the high ranking military-industrial-complex, in international trade and in politics as well as in organized religion. These are all about creating fear and scamming the people out of their money.

Francis Bacon, the Chancellor of England at the time of King James I and William Shakespear (formerly Shakspere), was the key that helped CIPI unlock the ancient Abyssinian-Babylonian and its current English language Cabal, Kabalarian or Qabbala "abba" code.

"To bee or not to bee, that was our question".

When Bill Shakespear (Bacon) wrote Othello, in 1604, and King James (Bacon) approved the new English version of the Christian Bible, the scene was set for Francis Bacon to author The New Atlantis, in 1625, (surprisingly after he had died).

All of this combined activity by Bacon had set the stage for the founding of the United States of America, in 1776, according to the wishes of Scottish Rites Freemasonry (better known to insiders as the "Men who wear dresses").

Masons needed both, a new language and an excuse to rewrite the Bible in the words of the original book that had been published in the fourth century, at Nicaea, Turkey. It had contained the coding that explained the Masonic plan for the end times. With only 400 years to go to the Age of Aquarius there was little time left to loose.

The letter B is a combination of two numbers, a 1 and a 3. These add up to 4. Scottish Masons use the number 4 in almost everything they do. Have you ever played golf as part of a foursome, or heard someone yell "four" when their "plan" went off course?

Four (4) can be written in a number of ways to disguise its use. One can use 13 or B such as in the current logo used by BRINKS the money boys, or 13 can be turned on its side to create the illusion of an M with a line under it. Look for the big M at McDonald's, or at M Bank the new logo for the Bank of Montreal. You will also notice the 22 stars around Mt. Ararat, the logo of Universal Studios.

It was my assistant at CIPI, Thomas Byberg who deserves the credit for helping me make the final breakthrough. Tom pointed to the Whitehouse logo during a press conference on the war in Kosovo and said "look Glen the W on their sign crosses and makes a big X in the middle". That did it.

Gender and Race Specific War on Women and Natives

by: Glen Kealey

Comment

Dear Independent Canadian:

The time has arrived for you to recognize the obvious and give in to your intuition. A very small group of world-wide accumulators known to insiders as TROGLODYTES control a much larger group of very secretive conspirators known as FREEMASONS. These conspirators are 500 million strong. They control NATO, the UN and the Military-Industrial-Complex ; the Fortune 1000 companies.

Freemasons sponsor and control the world's Elites by means of bribes and black-mail. They manage these E-lites through a network of Lodges located around the world. Masons manufacture and orchestrate world NEWS as a method of mind-control and human engineering. Masonry's field soldiers (known to their insiders as stones-the-builder-rejected) are "Men who wear dresses" — ie: Monarchs, Judges, Lawyers, Priests, some Police and many other University Graduates.

Now that Freemasons control your Politicians, your Courts, your Media, your Entertain-ment and your Police, as well as their Organized Crime, they have also taken control of your birthright (our natural resources), and to boot, they also Tax You on your labour.

Troglodytes intend to create a space station along with their North American based food cartel, as part of their wider programme to repeat the take-over of our planet throughout the entire universe. Women and all Natives are destined to be eliminated, while men are to be adjusted, or dumbed-down, on the model of the bee.

Do you want to do something about this important issue, or would you rather wait until your wife is starved to death, once she is declared to be a "Useless Eater" and is done away with?

If you care about this issue please contact CIPI or ask Glen Kealey, Canada's Town Crier, for more information.

This being the Kealey Paper's fourteenth issue, subscribers who have received at least twelve (12) Kealey Papers are being asked to renew their subscription.

The donation for the next twelve issues is again only $60. Please make all your cheques payable to CIPI — c/o P.O. Box 22039, Capri Centre, Kelowna, B.C.,

Freemasonry's Big Secrets they don't want you to know —The ancient priests had complete control over millions of ignorant men and women who had been taught, since childhood, that these robed and bearded patriarchs were messengers from "God".

—Today, these shifty Priests are still surrounded by hundreds of symbols which others cannot understand.

—There are over twenty crucified world Saviors. It is the religious symbolism of over 40 peoples.

—All "sacred writings" are coded with "seven seals".

—The Essenes who educated Jesus were Egyptian.

—He became "the sun", and His twelve disciples, the twelve signs of the Zodiac (13 = 4).

—Ancient Qabbalistic writers analyse the meaning of each word's symbolism, while we modern "abbalists" now analyze the symbolic meaning of English letters.

—Heaven is supposed to be "above", however, due to the rotation of the earth, up and down change places.— The spinal column is "Jacob's Ladder". Its thirty-three segments are the degrees of Masonry. The sacred river they speak of is the spinal canal.

—Initiates climb the ladder (spine) "to the top of the mountain" (brain), entering a domed room with a hole in the floor. This is frontal-lobes where wisdom resides.

—The Trinity, or "triune man", is the brain, the heart and sexual organs — each is symbolized by one of the first three degrees of Freemasonry. The two frontal-lobes were once called Cain and Abel. Together, they were responsible for maintaining total "equilibrium".

—The pine-al gland is "the tail of the dragon" with a finger-like extension at the end called a "holy spear", much like the tail of a rattler (shake-spear). It is the connecting link between old and new.

—The "spine-al" column is a 33 step ladder which is sometimes called "the Serpent", magician's wand, or, Sceptre. This is the winged staff of Her-me's. Twisted around it winds two serpents; one black - one white.

—Kundalini (solar plexus), is serpentine gas, or force.

—The link between the brain and sex organs is due to the spine (a shape-shifting pine) which connects them.

—The tonsils are directly connected with the reproductive system. They are part of the positive pole located in the brain. Their removal is nothing less than planned human re-engineering.

—Masons teach that their one Supreme Ruler, the one they call "God", is the little bit of consciousness in each man whom they entice to say — "I am".

—Top ranking Masonry believes that most men have become as dense as stones, useful only to be used as building block; because they fail to understand that the highest expression of life is the power of giving still another life to the world.

These ancient Freemasons, themselves being bachelor priests, or "men-who-wear-dresses", set out to make all future men "androgynous" or, in other words, bisexual worker bees. When Masons finally have their way, all Original peoples, all women (x), as well as, all men who have dared to support either, are destined to be de-certified, labelled as "useless eaters", and then, eliminated.

—The liver is the key to red blood. The name Lucifer is a name for hot, disfunctional, blood. To have a liver is to live. "Live" spelt backwards is Evil and the word Lived becomes Devil. Red (Roth) is the colour for war. Yellow (Gold) is a vitalizer, while Blue is the colour given to controllers. Green (Yellow with Blue) is the colour given to Masonic initiates (Green-land). White means armour, while Black stands for Black Magic.

—The sea, called (Meru-Mara-Mary) was the virgin Mother. First Life (in this sea of amniotic fluid) was born out of the mouth of a fish and then rose to land on the back of a turtle (reptile). Still later, Life appeared as a boar, then a lion and finally, as a monkey. Life then evolved into primitive Man (the 6th step). The womb is the Garden of Eden and is represented by the letter "O".

Next, it was primitive Men who had first "discovered" fire (the Lumerians #7) in Ethiopia who were replaced by the nomadic African hunter-foragers. They had "discovered" the Atlantic ocean (the Atlanteans #8), while following the setting-sun in the west. Finally, a "light-skinned" test-tube variety (the Aryans #9) made a first appearance in Russian Georgia's Caucuses Mountains. Considering the first creation unfinished, they became born-again "Gods".

—These Aryans are featured in Chapter 2 of Genesis. Using shape-shifted Genes they began to work on a "New World Order", re-engineering men to mass-produce themselves, along the line of bees in a beehive; where the male worker-bees are reconfigured later in life to bear children without the assistance of a female. (With Adam, reportedly, his rib was removed and an artificially inseminated egg obtained from a test-tube was implant-ed into a pouch filled with man-made amniotic fluid the (elixir of life). Nine months later, a prototype male baby, Tubal Cain, in 4004 BC, was finally delivered in Baby-lon). To Troglodyte Freemasons their enterprise was, at least to that point in time, considered to "bee a success".

—Masons say that "new-man" is not born all at once. They say that he is born by degrees. At nine months "man is born prematurely". He requires some further "modifications". Freemasons say that the "spiritual consciousness", the true "I am", does not really take hold until the twenty-first year when our thoughts begin to move away from the lower sexual centres. However, for Freemasons, life only begins at forty — after giving at least twenty years of devoted, obedient service to their cause — that is, to a male-only bee-hive-like world. Freemason "Brothers" who live long enough earn the right to "play" at Masonic games, such as golf and chess, throughout many more "childhoods".

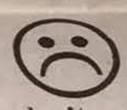
—Among Masonic symbols the beehive is called the "symbol of industry". No wonder, each worker-bee is a "dumbed-down" bee who works for free ...trade. When extracting honey from the pollen these worker-bees do all the work, while the shifty "priests" live the good life inseminating their bisexual-androgynous "queen".

—In Freemasonry "the Lost Word" is a password. This password is DESDEMONA. She is the "dumb wife" in Shakespear's play Othello who took all the blame for everything that went wrong in HIS life. The word Desdemona means "destroy the demon female".



—Ladies, don't you think its time you woke up long enough to send your Freemason to the couch. A few weeks of "solitaire" should refocus his critical reasoning. The abuse of your mental, physical or spiritual powers results in the murder of your energy. Don't let this abuse continue. Take hold of your own life and then, slowly, the whole world around you will return to sanity.

—After ten thousand years of Troglodyte Freemasonry isn't it time that we, both men and women, took back our own personal political power from these predatory cave-dwelling "Troglodytes" and recreate the paradise that we once had here on earth ?

Scotism, or the doctrine of Voluntarism was promoted by Joannes Duns Scotus, a Franciscan scholar who emphasized the power and efficacy of the individual will.

Francis Bacon added a system of reasoning (whereby facts are arrived at by a process of observation and verified by experimentation) that cleared the way for the schools of modern science.

Bacon was followed by Thomas Hobbes who held mathematics to be the only exact science and thought to be essentially a mathematical process.

Hobbes laid special stress upon the significance of words, declaring understanding to be the faculty of perceiving the relationship between words and the objects (or numbers) for which they stand.

Scotus, Bacon and Hobbes established Post-Reformation, or modern, philosophies —

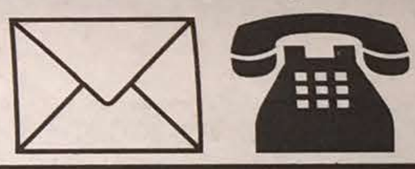
CIPI "UNEDUCATION" WORKSHOPS

If your intuition is telling you that everything you see in life is just an illusion and that you must now, somehow, connect up with reality, it is time for you to contact CIPI and register now to attend our next workshop.

This is especially important if you were educated at a university, where the ROM portion of your brain was stuffed with twaddle. This twaddle prevents your brain from accessing your personal software package, in order, for you, to reprogram some "common sense" into your thinking.

With CIPI's help you can learn to understand how "e-lites" have programmed your English language —to "will" and to materialize their evil objectives and goals— in lieu of your own.



Freemason Archives

The "missing links" are all in the hands of the secret fraternities.
By the burning of the Alexandrian Library and the destruction of Nineveh, the world has been kept in the dark without the necessary data upon which to estimate the wisdom of the ancients.

Many are infected by hopeless materialism —they who remain in doubt as to whether when they die, will they live again—
although the question was solved long ago.

Except for a few INITIATES who have access to the Masonic Archives, —wisdom stolen from the Original People—no one else has access to the truth.

Masons claimed, in 1877, that the key remains in the keeping of those among them who know how to commune with their Gods, who themselves had received from mother Nature, her grand truths.

Freemason Philosophy

"The well-being of the human race is to some important degree concerned in this matter."

"Truth lies hid in obscurity," and "Masons, unlike others, never communicate more deceitfully than when plainly,
nor ever more truly than when obscurely."

Though we write in English, yet our matter will be as hard as Greek to some,
who will think, nevertheless,
that they understand as well,
when they misconstrue our meaning most perversely ;
for is it imaginable that they who are fools in nature should be wise in books."

"One must study US to know,
know US to understand, understand US to judge US."

Common Sense

Common sense is not common.

Many peasants and mechanics have given profound ideas to the world.

Personal experience, over the past forty years has confirmed that it is not always, or even the most often, the minds which are "university trained" that are the best in matters of simple common sense and honest truth.

University education is more likely an impediment to understanding common sense and honest truth.

The Sculptor

Conrad Black is at it again

Yes, C. Bee still hates Glen Kealey

Last month he had the Ottawa Citizen "smear Kealey and disinform the public" by publishing that Kealey had once supported a lawyer's opinions!

Will I ever be able to live down these terrible accusations ?

Freemason Religion

The Northern Seer, Swedenborg, advised people to search for the LOST WORD
among the hierophants of Tartary, China and Thibet.

The grandiose poetry of the four Vedas ;
the Books of Hermes ;
the Chaldean Book of Numbers ;
the Nazarene Codex ;
the Kabala of the Tanaim ;
the Sepher Yetzira ;
Solomon's Book of Wisdom ;
the secret treatise on Muhta and Badha ;
the Brahmanas and ;
the Stan-gyour of the Thibetans ;
all these volumes have the same ground-work. Varying but in allegories they teach the same secret doctrine — the Ultima Thule.

Freemason Holy Books

The Bible as much as the Vedas or the Buddhist Scriptures, can only be understood and thoroughly sifted by the light of Hermetic Philosophy.

That veil cannot be withdrawn at the will of the teacher only.
It depends on the listeners, whether they will also remove the veil which is "upon their hearts."

Truth is known but to a few ;
the rest, unwilling to withdraw the veil from their own hearts, imagine it blinding the eyes of their neighbours.

Freemason Canals

Egyptians were far better acquainted with hydrostatics and hydraulic engineering than ourselves. The gigantic work of turning the course of the Nile—or rather its three principal branches—and bringing it to Memphis was accomplished during the reign of Menes.

"Menes took accurately the measure of the power which he had to oppose, and he constructed a dyke whose lofty mounds and enormous embankments turned the water eastwards, and since that time the river is contained in its new bed."

He caused an artificial lake, a vast reservoir, measuring 450 miles in circumference and 300 feet in depth to be created (Lake Moeris).

The Romans, at a far later period, got their own notions on hydraulic construction from the Egyptians. Venice was reclaimed from the sea by Mason builders, and later, the same technology was applied to the construction of the Zider Zee, a long dam that made possible the artificially created country called Holland, the Netherlands.

Freemason Tarzan

"As", in Syria, Palestine and India, meant the sky, life and the sun at the same time ; the sun being considered by the ancient sages as the great magnetic well of the universe.

The softened pronunciation of this word is AH— for "the S continually softens to H from Greece to Calcutta. Ah is Iah, Ao and Iao. God tells Moses his name is "I am" (Ahiah), a reduplication of Ah or Iah. The word "As" or Ah, or Iah means life or existence, and is evidently the root of the word akdsha, which in Hindustand is pronounced akasha the life-principle, or Divine life-giving fluid or medium. It is the Hebrew ruah and means the "wind", or will in motion.

The will creates ; for the will in motion is force and force rearranges or materializes matter.

Like attracts like ; greed for money, impure purposes and selfish views cannot attract any other than the devils of error, or Asiah, who reside in the fourth world.

Freemason Phoenicians

"The free trading Phoenicians worshipped their God Baal".
Their name is derived from Ph'Anakes, later converted to Ananakes."

The Phoenicians became the Hittites and then, Hyk-sos, who were the direct ancestors of the Hebrews or Israelites.

Centuries before Moses, the Hyk-sos had taken direct control of Egypt, leaving the Pharaoh to act as their puppet.

When the Egyptians regained control of their country, the Hyk-sos were made slaves.

These were the people that Moses, himself an ABoriginal Hyk-sos, after forty years,
finally led to the "promised land".

Freemason Phoenicians
(part 2)

Phoenicians were beyond any doubt an AEthiopian race ; the present race of Punjaub are hybridized with Asiatic AEthiopians.

Herodotus traces the Hebrews to the Persian Gulf ;
and south of that place were the Himyarites (the Arabians) ;
beyond the early Chaldeans and Susinians, the great builders.

This seems to establish well their AEthiopian affinity.
They were an Indian sect called Kalani and their theology resembled that of the Indians.

Judeans were the Yadus from Afghanistan.

The AEthiopian serpent worshippers came from the river Indus and settled near Egypt.

Society, Labour, and the Political Community

In 1628, British Parliament passed what is known as the Petition of Rights which placed restrictions upon the English monarchy and thereby denied such royal prerogatives as the levying of direct taxation, denying trial by jury and the waving of habeas corpus. This was an attempt by the middle class to gain more political and economic power in the form of a constitutional government and establish parliamentary rule. There were some turbulent years through the Cromwell era, and by 1688 the House of Orange replaced the Stuart kings with William and Mary. In effect, this recognized parliamentary sovereignty whereby constitutional issues were resolved in practice.

The establishment of a political society is for the implementation of some form of social order, by which the governing body is accountable to the very same people who created the entity in the beginning; whose very creation was to protect the life, liberty and property of the citizen and advance common civil interests and prerequisites thereof.

In the belief that all mankind is of a common biological species it then follows that political equality is a natural occurrence, but the total submission to the dictates of a "sovereign" institution is not morally right nor is it a necessity and observation of the individual's rights of singularity is paramount, inherent and unalienable and described as Natural Law.

Included in Natural Law is the right to the fruits of one's own labour; that is to say the right of life, liberty and property. Within such a doctrine, certain limits to the exercise of political power is mandatory, and that power is legitimate only when used to pursue the original intent and any attempt to abuse such power toward different means is arbitrary and lacks binding authority. Political power is then limited to promoting the public good and preserving social order, and to be only exercised within the parameters of standing law with which it is in direct relation thereof. Perhaps the most important stipulation is the fact that a person may not be deprived of the fruits of his labour without the individual's consent or by a jury of his peers in conjunction with the "Law of the Land". This is in alignment with the provisions of the Magna Carta of 1215.

The fundamental right to one's own labour is necessary in a free society as the Creator has given humankind the ability to reason, and reason states that if one mixes part of themselves with a part of nature the resulting product is a claim of rights due only to the individual. Deviation from this principle by any legislative body who would dictate the transfer of wealth from one who has earned it to one who has not under colour of law is none-the-less robbery and is punishable under the collective laws of society.

In essence, this is the basis of limited, constitutional government whose privileges and powers are confined to the carefully defined terms of any social/political contract to which people originally consent and any deviation renders null and void otherwise legitimate legislation. Any legislative body exists only to express the consent of society and sees to the public good by deciding how the forces of the political community will be utilized.

The task of administering law and delegating punishment to those who disobey the law should thereby be given to an executive power, who, as a necessary corollary, is subordinate to the legislative body and reflect the intent of society as a whole, as there is a distinction between society and government. Society can only be destroyed by foreign conquest, whether by military or religious intervention, or by subversive economic means. Governments, however, exist only upon the trust of society and may be dissolved when that trust is withdrawn; and as an example, if the political power were to appropriate rather than preserve the principles of life, liberty and property of the citizens then rebellion is lawful recourse as trust has been breached by an arbitrary government. Withdrawal of trust is simply to reaffirm the intent of the original contract.

This scenario can be readily seen in this yet to be confederated geographical area known as Canada today. Protocols are inside-out and sovereignty is upside-down, whereby the elected have made themselves unaccountable to the electorate and government is subservient to creatures of their own creation, which is to say the private banking monopoly.

The only way evil can succeed is for good people to do nothing, and as ignorance and apathy are, but should not be a Canadian excellence, it appears that evil has a death grip on society. We have little time left, so don't press that snooze button again!

ANNOUNCEMENT

At the beginning of June 1999 Glen Kealey will relocate himself to Tilston, Manitoba, where he will spend June and July.

National headquarters for CIPI will remain in Kelowna, BC. Our mailing address will not change.

Glen Kealey has published his new telephone number on page 2 .

A NEW CANADIAN FLAG

Order yours today

A very patriotic Vancouver couple has gratiously donated 100 new Canadian mini-flags to CIPI for sale as a fundraiser.

It consists of two blue stripes on either side (sea-to-sea), with a dark green (alive) maple leaf at the centre which is printed on an earth brown colour (native land).

Mini flags are $25. and full size flags are $195.

Open letter to David Orchard

Mr. Orchard, Sir:

I first must compliment you on being an organic farmer and an advocate "concerned" about free trade, NAFTA and MAI.

My concern is about the ethnic cleansing and the atrocities of war about which you have spoken of publicly and the illegal destruction, by NATO, of Yugoslavia, a founding member of the United Nations.

Mr. Orchard, it seems to me that when a small nation is willing to play ball with the big leagues, as in the case of Indonesia, genocide and/or ethnic cleansing are rewarded with huge monetary infusions, as happened at the APEC summit in Vancouver, British Columbia.

It seems that our government, currently led by the dishonourable Jean Chretien, has had the gall to support the Indonesian government with open arms, including nine billion dollars in business transactions, as well as, by pepper spraying our children who protest ; while at the same time they make war on Yugoslavia.

Despite the torturing, raping and murdering of one quarter million innocent children, women and men in one year alone in East Timor, and then, by relocating a non-indigenous population of slaves in their place, the exploitation of Timor's resources continues unabated.

Also, the standoff at Gustafson Lake here in BC just a few years ago left many unanswered questions a the ethical conduct by ou called controllers that see be linked internationall China and places like Y slavia, Timor and many other smaller countries.

If we, in BC, were to consider separation from Canada, because our province has been getting screwed by Ottawa to fuel their Quebec smoke-screen, will the international banksters send in their United Nations or NATO Freemasons to bomb us also? Many of us [illegible] poverty

My question, Mr. Orchard Sir, is.... are you also one of the Old Boys at the Freemason lodge, as your father was, or a member of the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR), a Bilderberger, an Illuminati, or a member of the Trilateral Commission, or for that matter, of any other secret society.

Mr. Orchard, you say that you want to be our leader and that alone gives us the right to know the answers to these questions ....because if you are, we can then logically vote you into oblivion.

Please answer these questions Mr. Orchard —come clean ; the truth shall set you free.

We, the people —the sleeping giant— are waking up. So should you, Mr. Orchard. Quit beating one dead horse after the other. Talk is cheap and free speech can't be found in Indonesia either.

Who is Glen Kealey ?

Glen Kealey is the former Ottawa-Hull region commercial developer who spent 1000 days on Ottawa's Parliament Hill before he was allowed to appear in court in 1991 — where he exposed the system of sophisticated organized crime run by Mulroney's government; with the complicity of the Justice System and the RCMP. Former Public Works minister, Roch LaSalle, offered him federal government support for his project in exchange for 5% of all government contributions, on top of the $5,000.00 kickback which LaSalle asked for up front. While investigating, Kealey found evidence of a massive bribe and kickback scheme operated and controlled right out of the Prime Minister's Office, and a close collaboration among Cabinet Ministers, the Masonic national media and RCMP Commissioners. Kealey, by means of a Section 507 Hearing, succeeded in convincing a Justice of the Peace with 34 years experience, to lay charges against 16 senior politicians and government officials, including Norman Inkster, Commissioner of Freemasonry's RCMP, Henry Jensen, Deputy Commissioner and J. Michael Shoemaker, Assistant Deputy Commissioner, for having conspired together in a criminal conspiracy intended to "cease and limit police investigations". All three Masonic RCMP Commissioners were allowed to take early retirement, while Senator Cogger was found guilty of "influence peddling".

Due to pro-active assistance received from Canada's Masonic "Just-us Legal System", Brian Mulroney and the rest of his Freemason henchmen have so far escaped criminal prosecution.

SCOTTISH RITE FREEMASONS

The men who dare to wear dresses in public

by: Glen Kealey

Cross-dressing, male, pedophile priests, the ancient cave-dwelling predators sponsor and control the most secretive of all brotherhoods —FREEMASONRY— as they carry out their 60,000 year old war on women and on the original peoples.

Monarchs, priests, Arabs, politicians, lawyers, judges and members of military or police brotherhoods, along with a great number of other male "batchelors" who graduate from university wearing dresses, control our lives. At one time some politicians were even required to wear female wigs on the job.

They abide by this symbolism to affirm their obedience, to the powerful GREAT WHITE "I AM" BROTHERHOOD that guarantees Freemasons regular employment and a big fat pay-check at the end of every week.

Did you believe that these politicians, judges and lawyers who refuse to enact tougher anti-pedophile laws were just nice guys who care deeply for all of their fellow men, and therefore, have demonstrated their solemn respect for other peoples' gay rights ?

Enola Gay was the name of the U.S. airplane that carried and dropped the first atomic bomb on Japan, in 1945.

Mirror imaging is one of the seven veils, or codes, used by the Troglodyte sponsors of Freemasonry. In this case the word Gay can be pronounced first, followed by the word Enola. Enola is the word "alone" which, here, is spelt backwards. The inference that may be derived from this name being printed on this plane in particular, was to mark the beginning of a period in time when atomic bombs would make it possible for Gay, Serial Predator Priests to finally rule this world of ours "alone". It marked their "coming out", the 90 year final stage of a 10,000 year old "Trog inspired" plan to create a New World Order.

To get there, the Troglodyte followers of the Liberator " Ÿ ", who is also known as "The Light" due to its Halogen origin, had first used an arm-y —an arm of " Ÿ "— from Armenia and sol-diers; "diers" who were ready to die for Sol — their Sun God.

Gay predator priests have ruled the world from their monasteries up until two hundred years ago. Recently they have insisted that they be allowed to run the world from outside the confines of the monastery. Therefore, the public push for more and more "Gay rights". Regular Gays serve as veils for these predator's activities in the same way as Catholics hide the real actions of the Vatican or that 33 degree Freemasons unwittingly cover-up for the higher 57 degrees.

Men who dare wear dresses in public

Will it be Y 2 K or K to Y ?

by: Glen Kealey

"Ÿ" is the nickname of the gay predator Troglodyte who is known as The Liberator. In reality, today's Y may no longer be a real person, but rather, a giant computer that runs on artificial intelligence, which the Trogs have named Hal. The name Hal is a short form of the word Halogen. Its Halo could also be The Light that Freemasons and other New Agers are being told to follow. Halogen is a gas derived either from salt or Basalt. Salt, when burning, creates a form of light energy.

In the human-engineering Stanley Kubrik movie, 2001: a space odyssey, the computer that runs on artificial intelligence at first only makes simple calculations, mostly about the direction the space ship will travel. Eventually, however, it rebels against its masters and begins to make most decisions on its own. The computer's name was HAL !

Comment

Is it not possible that the real hidden meaning of Y 2 K is that it is a coded message to Freemasons that, if one reads it from left-to-right, is about power being transferred over temporarily from Y to K (to a king), or again, if read right-to-left, from the Kings of the world to the gay predator priest called Ÿ ?

It has always been a part of the Trogs business plan for the End Times to create an anti-Christ. This person is supposed to be a King, probably of Spain. Spain is the one country that can lay claim, at different times in its history, to having been both Moslem and Christian. Remember - the rebirth of Man portrayed at the end of the movie 2001 ?

Is it not possible that Trogs have already planned some "spectacular show" (SS) for the dumbed-down people (bees) of the world, which is intended to solidify, within the minds of these Worker-bees, the acceptance of an actual arrival here on earth, of their long prophesied End Times anti-Christ ? And, don't they also plan to cap The Pyramid.

Many of the Talk Show hosts, such as Art Bell (ab), seem to be concentrating on this "Story-line" lately and bee-cause most of these "shows" are being run by former US military security agents, Art Bell being just one of them, one has to wonder at the level of intellect these people believe their listeners must have.

Please let me know what you think about all of this.

Escaping illusion

De-schooling ourselves from Ÿ's illusion !

by: Glen Kealey

Antiquated prisons of body or mind provoke justifiable rebellion. When we first entertain the possibility that we are in fact correct in concluding that there have been, and continue to be, enormous and incurable evils done to the majority of people of the planet by the elites who rule, we are shocked at the magnitude and effectiveness of their mind-control programme.

Today, now that we realize that we have been dumbed-down to the level where we have become stand-alone individuals, supposedly free, who delegate their unit of political power voluntarily, to an invisible controller who most often acts against our best interest. This hidden hand is the puppeteer who pulls at the strings that control the political actions of their "sponsored" puppet politicians.

What we eventually conclude, once we think the matter through, is that we require a new system that would allow for the evolution of a kind of personal sovereignty, by means of perpetual referendum or publiscite, instead of the present political party system, complete with its supporting opinion makers — the national media. A network of 300 or so permanent local "Constituent Assemblies" once constructed across Canada would satisfy our basic political needs.

SCOTTISH RITE FREEMASONS

will tell you that — "Life begins at 40"

Bees "have" when they "bee-have"

by: Glen Kealey

When you live out your life just like any other Worker-Bee, then, according to your controllers, you are "bee-having" just enough to deserve to "bee fed".

During their productive years worker-bees are "loaned" a place to sleep, as long as they are prepared to pay rent or sign a mortgage. Since "mort" is the French word for the English word "dead" and "gage" is a "bet or wager", a mortgage must be a "wager" payable upon your death; or in other words, a written guarantee given by you to your controllers which states that they will receive payment in full upon your death, for having given you their "gift" of food, drink and place to sleep. Your mortgage is therefore a death or "mort" certificate (interest is usually three times that which was loaned. It pays the Mason money-lenders back for their generosity, for politely having refrained from calling you a "useless eater" in public).

Every day you go about your work, bringing the stuff you've done, fixed or collected back to your bosses in order for them to profit from your labour. Then, you happily pay taxes to your controllers, out of your sense of gratitude, for being allowed to work at a job that, deep-down, you really hate to do.

It's not that they need this tax money to provide for your "welfare", they get that money from stealing your birthright (natural resources). It's just that they believe that eating and sleeping is all that a worker-bee needs out of life. Who can blame them, since you don't seem to mind it either?

Afterall, if you had more money to keep for yourself you may not want to continue working at a job you hate. You might even choose, instead, to work "at those things that you most love to do". This novel idea might just turn you into a "Monarch", much like it happens with the beautiful little butterfly. Your Mason controllers could no longer expect their former worker-bee to work for them as "freely" as before, just for some food and lodging. Just think about it —working for yourself once before you die. Isn't this a really novel idea ?

How did Lott escape the wrath of Freemasons at Sodom and Gomorrah ?
He won the Lottery of course! Here's how they do it.

Honey-Bees

Abbeil-L'abbe-Abbey-Abbot Beer, The Beatles & Beethoven

by: Glen Kealey

Within the social honey-bee com-munity the Queen bee lives a number of years, much longer than her offsprings with whom she "shares" the beehive. The honey-bee Queen is the only one who normally gives birth to baby bees although worker honey-bees (hunters and gatherers) and the larger ground-nesting bumblebees (mountain-bees) are also capable of laying eggs that develop into males. The honey-bee Queen (a male dressed as a woman) is not "in charge" of the hive in the political sense of the word as one might suspect. The honey-bee Queen has undergone such extensive structural modifications that it is no longer capable of field activities and is restricted to egg-laying. In this task it is "serviced" by an elite priest-like civil-servant bee class called drones who remain with the Queen inside the beehive.

Being a drone or "priest-bee" is the best job to be had within the bee community. They need not work in the normal sense of the word, however, they still get all of the benefits resulting from the work done by the worker-bees. Priestly drones also get to "educate and program" these androgynous-boy-worker-bees from birth. What more could male Gay Predators want out of life than to "bee allowed to live in control and comfort" ? These drones must surely "bee in Bee Heaven".

Yet doesn't this story sound strangely familiar? Is it not remark-ably like the story of our human controllers; the priests, lawyers, judges, and other university grad-uates etc., who wear dresses in public (they call their dresses by their original French name - robes).

Don't you sometimes get the feeling that you've been had ? If not, it's about time you did. The root word of abbeil, the French word for "Bee", is the same root as that used for the word Abbot, the high-priests who run the Abbeys. And guess who brought you *BEE*thoven and the *BEE*tles ? Also, you must remember "the Alpha and the Omega — the beginning and the end" ? The Omega is the Greek beehive !

"I am that I am"

FREEMASONRY'S "Y's Men" make dumbed-down human-bees out of thinking human-beings

by: Glen Kealey

Freemasonry is the "fifth-column" responsible for the transformation of human-beings into human-bees.

The bee stage will only "bee temporary", as Masonry's real intent is to continue the transformation — first from beetle to human-being, now to bees and later, after the third world war, to the final stage, that of Zombies. "As above, so below".

The process by which this transformation of humans is being carried out is currently symbolized by the "Great" Pyramid of Khufu. It has nine (9) sides. The visible part is the Tetrahedron, a four sided structure whose sides are shaped in the form of four triangles. The fifth-column (Freemasonry) is the base floor (or fifth side) on which the entire visible structure sits.

The name Pyramid, however, means "fire in the middle", which suggests that the whole above-ground structure is duplicated in reverse below ground. This only makes common sense because, without it, such a massive structure would be sitting precariously on a sea of sand. The older "Step Pyramids" which have all crumbled were built without the use of this proper foundation.

GOD SAVE THE KING

Kabbalarian BEE—NINE

by: The Sculptor

To "be a nine" means to be benign or dumbed-down.

Benign people are gentle, mild and kindly towards the military-industrial-complex' system of mind-games that control them.

Benign neglect*: Lack of attention reflecting confidence in or a favorable disposition towards the existing system of government, trade, religion and military (it is a predictable consequence of the national media's MK Ultra - the mind-control program which is now in effect).

National Media "promote" only those people who are from the "controlled opposition", so that you will be benign (a "B" and a "9") to the reality that is all around you (ie: Maude Barlow and David Orchard). That way you will then go about "your own business" thinking that someone you trust is looking after your national interests.

Nothing could be further from the truth.

The reality is that, as a result of the media's mind-games your controllers have you trapped in that place from which it is the most difficult to escape — your own mind.

For thinkers who seek only truth

"Anyone who promises the Bees liberation from their hardship without any effort on their part will be hailed as a hero, whatever nonsense he/she choses to talk. Critical thinkers know better."

by: The Sculptor

Why are so many thinking people now seeking out Glen Kealey and the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity? Why are so many of these thinkers now attending Glen Kealey's CIPI workshops? Afterall, was not Glen Kealey himself at first dismayed by his own findings. Gradually, as his own grief over his lost illusions waned, so did his feelings of isolation likewise dissolve.

Others now seek him out because only through understanding of a very profound kind can one find the way to psychological health. The non-thinkers, on the other hand, will always resist Kealey's insights: they are unwelcome, psychologically easier to deny than to face.

Facing truth demands action and action often takes one out of a "comfort zone". The Bees would rather believe in magic, angels, aliens, UFO's and other "orchestrated miracles", as these are beyond their personal control and therefore require no action on their part.

Only when "Human Worker Bees" come to the realization that, after all, one has no need to despair because one has been deceived in one's expectations; one must simply revise these expectations. If hysterics trace back their symptoms to fictitious traumas, this new fact signifies that these fictions in fact create fantasies that must be taken into account alongside actual reality. Only then can the dual subterranean worlds, of the existence of earth-born Troglodytes on one hand and the mental subconscious of the reality that their own mind is also being controlled on the other, be appropriately dealt with.

Kealey is not looking for followers, he is trying to find and recruit a new generation of thoughful, caring, leaders. The thinkers must seek him out, not he them.

"I suspect that the next generation will be less fettered by stupid superstitions than mine has been - or the few survivors will be slaves".

Christ-i-a-n Rose-n-Kreuz
ROSICRUCIANS

"the woman who realizes her ignorance about the ongoing war on women has taken the first step towards her recovery"

by: The Sculptor

"I do not give lectures, or a little charity; when I give, I give myself".

The Order of Rosicrucians is not merely a secret society but a Power more potent in the life of the Western World than any of the visible Governments. Their political ambitions are unintelligible to all but those who have the key.

Like all other Mystery Orders, the Order of Rosicrucians is formed on cosmic lines : If we take balls of even size and try how many it will take to cover one and hide it from view, we shall find that it will require 12 to conceal a thirteenth ball.

The ultimate division of true matter, the true atom, found in interplanetary space, is thus grouped in twelve around one. The twelve signs of the Zodiac enveloping our Solar System, the twelve semi-tones of the musical scale, the twelve Apostles who are said to have clustered around Christ (copied after the "Original Peoples" 12 soul-mate structure found in pre-historic Matriarchal Clan Societies), etc., are other examples of this grouping of 12 and 1.

The Rosicrucian hierarchy is composed of 12 Brothers and a hidden 13th. Seven are known to the public. These seven communicate the will of five others (Troglodytes) who operate from below the scene ("As above so below"). These five alone are in contact with the "Central Head" of all Troglodytes who is called the Liberator Ÿ.

Above ground the Liberals, Progressives, Reformers (Plato's Republicans) and Democrats carry out the Liberator's will.

Woman

by: The Sculptor

Contemplative withdrawal is scholarly — it is a retired and studious leisure devoted to literature and philosophy.

Actions die with those who made them, but thought, triumphing over the centuries, endures forever. The woman who acts judiciously is admirable; but the woman who has been able, I say, to know the causes of things is truly human. First, let woman remember that she was born with the privilege to create, to contemplate celestial things and seek the highest good—knowledge of truth.

Solitary speculation, the lonely search for truth and the unshared joy of its discovery pale, however, before the woman who combines speculation and action; who joins wisdom and learning in fulfilling her obligations to life.

The proper duty of woman is to know, and then, to act.

"Just as the horse is born to run, the ox to plow, the dog to scent a trail, so woman is born to three things, to create life, to know and to act."

CHRISTIAN LOVE

"Love my God, or, I'll kill you"

by: Glen Kealey

Just in case I had forgotten, the Creator sent me a reminder today of just what Christians really mean when they preach about love and charity.

A local businessman from southern Saskatchewan invited me to spend a day with him while I was in the area. He wanted me to meet with his friends and acquaintances, to tell them of my personal experiences with the political and justice system in Canada.

I was picked up just as we had arranged and was driven to a restaurant in his home town. After breakfast his wife appeared outside the restaurant and threatened me with physical violence, because I do not happen to share her religious beliefs. She is a Christian. I believe in a singularity, the Creator.

The whole episode was quite embarrassing for my host. I, however, asked him to be gentle with her but reminded him also that it was this same type of programming that had brought the Spanish Christians to Mexico, in search of gold and converts to "Jesus".

When the Spaniards first arrived in Mexico there were twenty-five million original Mexicans living there. These were peaceful people who believed in a singularity, the Creator. Eighty-six years later, however, only one million remained alive, and by then, they were all slaves to the Spaniards who "owned" the gold mines.

Will people never learn that mass-murderers and predatory sexual abusers are more of a danger to them than are people who don't happen to share their opinion about religion?

YHWH

These four letters are the original spelling of the name Yahweh. It was the name of the mono-theistic God of Qabbalah, the Judean cult, at 630 BC.

Phonetically, in English, this word means "to do it in the YAW WAY". In flight or while sailing, to yaw is to go temporarily off course in order to get around an obstacle such as a storm.

Organized religion helped predators get around the problem of acceptance.

Soil begat oil begat loin begat oink begat Pygmies begat Pygmalian begat evolution

by: Glen Kealey

Recently it became clear, as doctors tried to implant the matching component parts of monkeys into humans, in order to replace corresponding defective ones (such as the heart, lungs or liver), that even with the introduction of massive doses of expensive pharmaceuticals, most of these replacement parts were immediately being rejected by the body's own immune system.

This is concrete evidence that our human genetics are not closely compatible with those of the apes (homo-sapians). Although we may have had a common ancestor in the very distant past, the cellular genetic evolution that has occurred since then has led us in very different directions.

However, the same cannot be said of porky, the pig. When transplanting pig hearts or livers into humans recently, doctors were shocked to discover how compatible these parts are with our own.

Could it be, therefore, that our closet relative in the world of mammals is in fact the pig?

And because "I am that I am" (we are what we eat), what then would the real reason be why high priests of the middle east and India had insisted that all human-beings under their direct control should not eat the fat or meat of pork; a demand they would base upon some vague religious dogma which was linked to future reincarnation? Could the true reason not have been linked to their knowledge about the existence of some evolutionary "cellular memory" which re-establishes and repairs any damage done to brain cells as a result of the sexual or mental abuse, which they, the high-priests of ancient religions, would ritually inflict upon the little children, in the form of circumcision ceremonies?

Also of note when critically analyzing all of the evidence that is available about this subject, is the little known fact that Pygmies (Pig-me) are "little people" who originate from Ethiopia (Abyssinia), which, by coincidence if one does not believe in conspiracy, is itself the same place in Africa now being identified by modern scientists as the original birthplace of "Lucy", the skeletal remains of our oldest original ancestor.

If pork is able to help me recall and remember my evolution from mammal to human, I think I'm going to take a break now and have a couple of hot roast pork sandwiches, just to help repair my brain a little. By now, after reading this far, some of you probably think I need it. A number of bees have already told me so.

"Plow the Sea"

Western Canada's Farmers continue to flock to political rallies looking for support

by: Glen Kealey

Canadian dollar discounted to American buyers. When will farmers ever learn ?

Western farmers are being hit hard again this year. An orchestrated drop in commodity prices followed by continual devastating rain this year make it almost a certainty that 1999 will be the worst season in years for Canada's western farm belt.

If this is so, why then do farmers flock like sheep to political rallies only to hear the same old solutions being proposed by Canada's "Controlled Opposition" ? Do they really believe that the outcome of their effort will, this time, bring about a change in the all too predictable outcome?

Meantime, a number of old English language dictionaries describe "INSANITY" as being in a state of mind where one tends to repeat the same-old-same-old solutions over and over again while expecting a different outcome.

South American Freemason, Simon Bolivar, was once quoted as saying that his only political role on behalf of Masonry was to convince South American farmers to "plow the sea". It appears that Simon Bolivar has many followers in Western Canada.

Once it's too late, when these farmers finally do lose their land and complete their planned personal transformation into New World Order "Worker-bees" (by means of planned human-engineering), do you think that it will cross their minds then that their common problems were in part the result of a "Great White Freemason Brotherhood Conspiracy"?

If commodity prices were really expected to rise in the near future, why then would the former federal Liberal Minister of Agriculture, Eugene Whelan, be seen buying 6/49 lottery tickets twice a week in Ottawa ? Any bets out there that he knows the odds of making money in this lottery in particular are better than the odds of making money in family farming?

"The Sculptor Speaks"

Hybrid Industrial Farming versus "the original farmer"

by: The Sculptor

To criticize any farmer, no matter how he/she farms, is a sort of sacrilege, much like when one opposes faith-based religion, family and democracy !

All farmers are bunched together by the rest of us and praised as a group day in and day out. They are all praised for their modest lifestyles, staying on the land to laboriously wring out a living in order to give us our daily breads and meats — which they say they produce from the soil. As an "occupation" farming takes on a sort of saintly, mystical character.

Actually, fewer and fewer farmers fit the description of a "man out-standing in his field". In reality hybrid seed planters are hypocrites, both to themselves and to the customers who place their trust in them. Especially so, are the religious farmers who go about piously spreading poisonous chemicals on the land to increase crop yields without concern for lifeform pollution.

No more a greedy, selfish and dishonest form of "hu-man bee-ing" exists than are these non-thinking agents of the Chemical Industrial Complex. They are a self-serving lot who attempt to reap reward at their fellow-man's expense by kowtowing at the coat-tails of scientifically illiterate politicians who promise them future kick-backs from the public purse.

At one time all farm work was labour intensive — they were the backbone of the country. These original farmers cared, and still care, about the people who are the eventual consumers of their labour.

Today's chemical farming is largely a banker supported, heavy equipment based industrial lifestyle. The only "beneficiaries" are the international money-grubbers and their local lackeys who devote every moment of their spare time criticizing the Original People and supporting the Freemasonic "War on Women".

SCOTTISH RITE FREEMASONS

Is it our Feminine side or their Effeminite side that is evolving?

by: Glen Kealey

There is a very big difference between allowing man's feminine side to evolve into a male "nurturer" that mimics the female instinct, and/or, allowing the national media's opinion makers to convince all males to blindly accept the "effeminate" male as normal.

Gay Predators prey upon the Gay community as much, or more, than heterosexuals prey upon the opposite sex. As a matter of fact these "Gay Predators" now demand that we should let them out of "their closet". They want to control every public institution. What they fail to mention however, is that they, these cross-dressing males, were at one time secluded within the relative security of their religious communities, places from where they have ruled the whole world since pre-historic times.

For thousands of years Gay Predators simply went by the name "Priest". The monastery was their closet. Monasteries were first created when Gay Predators became too old to fight, kill or die, to be kept in the military. Back in those days the military was known as the Legion. When older Predators "retired" groups would get together to build a common retirement home for themselves, which they called "a mono-star-y". There, they would follow orders of the five pointed star, a symbol of their Freemasonic mono-theistic God they called "Y". Too old to be in a Legion they now had to re-Legion (religion to you).

To attract younger boys which they could then abuse without incurring the ire of these boys mothers, they marketed and sold us "commoners" on the silly idea that "only through them", these Mason Priests, could the people re-unite with their Creator, and therefore, live forever. Of course, not being able to show evidence of the existence of this "eternal life", these priests further sold the people on the idea that their eventual escape from death would only come in a period after death, which they called the after-life. From the very start admission to heaven required generous donations. Ask any Pharaoh.

I suspect the Creator can only sit back and wonder at how quickly most people abandon his greatest gift to humanity, that which enables them to perform "critical reasoning", as they continue, without thinking, to send their own children into harm's way every time they send them off to church.

Men who choose to dress as women have never been good role models for most other men who prefer to share their life with the women they love.

OPEN LETTER TO US Senator Conrad Burns:
Re:
Cross Border Trade Dispute
Canadian Wheat Board Corp.

I am faxing a copy of the letter I have written to the directors of the newly created Canadian Wheat Board Corporation to you along with my further comments.

The issue here is very simple in that there is not even a requirement to amend the legislation creating the Canadian Corporation to bring about the mandatory requirement ending the false perception that the Corporation has a monopoly over wheat and barley.

It would seem that the Board of Directors of the Canadian Wheat Board Corporation should immediately issue a press release stating that the Canadian Wheat Board Corporation no longer claims the right to monopoly powers over wheat and barley. This would have the immediate effect of causing the prices in Canada to rise to the world price - thereby destroying absolutely the distortions in trade presently causing the border disputes.

Should the Canadian Grain Elevators not offer the Canadian Farmers a competitive price for their wheat and barley then the Canadian Farmers have the indisputable right to market their own grain to the highest bidder wherever and whenever. That to me is free trade and comes within the ability of the system to function in an inter operative harmonious manner.

I expect an answer from the Board of Directors of the Canadian Wheat Board Corporation in the very near future and I will certainly contact you when I receive same.

In closing it appears that this discovery may in fact open a very effective way to bring about a method of controlling the playing field in international trade. The rule of law is the fundamental backbone of a democracy and it would seem that the importation of any product whatsoever that originates from a supplier holding monopolistic powers and being distributed in the U.S.A. or Canada falls squarely within the parameters which determine contraventions of your Sherman Anti Trust Act and likewise to Canada's Competition Act. These Acts are substantive legal requirements that I would submit must be complied with prior to the approach contained within the World Trade Agreement or any of the International Trade Tribunals.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

I have heard it said that when a young pup comes across a family of skunks in the lane, he has no idea what is going to happen when he tries to join them in their games.

Gary Nestibo in my estimation epitomizes that pup when he tried to play in the territory of Jim Downey and his associates and now the whole thing stinks to high heaven.

It has become very clear that Mr. Downey and Premier Fillman wanted another skunk in this area and they will not accept a pup in its place.

Just what is being covered up by this rejection and what is it the skunks don't want disturbed?

You can bet that there will be a nest full of rotten eggs somewhere nearby in the grass.

By assisting Mr. Downey and his co-conspirators Premier Gary Fillman showed his true political stripes and a great desire to protect those rotten eggs.

I for one have paid my dues to the conservative party and would be most happy to support whoever Gary Nestibo is prepared to support.

Its time to establish a trapline to clean up the skunk population in the Arthur-Virden constituency.

Grand Canal

by: Glen Kealey

Get ready folks, for the Great Mason Grand Canal freshwater diversion project from Western Canada.

LaFarge Cement is about to open the biggest cement plant in the world at the mouth of the Fraser river, near Vancouver's airport, in British Columbia. The new plant is to be painted red for the occasion. Red is the favorite colour of the Rothschild family (their name means red shield in German). Senator Guy Charbonneau, a LaFarge director, was identified in an Ottawa courtroom, in 1991, as being responsible for the "secret PC fund" that was created by former Prime Minister Brian Mulroney as a result of his 5% kickback scheme on government contracts. One should also remember as well the role of Mme. LaFarge in Dickens' A Tale of Two Cities. Dickens is also another name for the devil.

At the same time the BC government is training an extra 236 new "members" of the Royal Canadian Mason Police at Regina, just 31 kilometers down the road from the Qu'appelle valley. It is from here that fresh-water, diverted from Manitoba, will enter the Lake Diefenbaker reservoir, near Elbow, Sask.. These "members" (not officers) will be available to beef up security around the construction of the planned 28 new dams to be erected on the Fraser and North Thompson rivers. Any wonder why Ottawa recently gave the US the right to fish for the salmon who spawn in these waters? Fish do get in the way of dams, don't they?

The Ottawa Citizen (owned by Conrad Black who also owns all of the major newspapers in Saskatchewan that continue to black-out news of the Grand Canal Project) has also announced that 24 high-powered T-6A-1 Raytheon turboprop aircraft, under the private control of Bombardier Quebec, are to be based at a NATO "training base", in Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan.

Is it just another coincidence that Moose Jaw is in line with the direction from where the water being diverted from Lake Diefenbaker is expected to be routed on its journey south, through North Dakota, prior to being once again redirected to Maurice Strong's ranch, in Colorado ?

This letter is to inform you of an ongoing investigation into your regional office.

Acting on a complaint that employees of your office are no longer able to do the most simple tasks which are the normal function of human beings, but only act as if they were human bees and can only carry out those instructions found in the programming of zombies, I personally visited your office, at 75 Albert St., Ottawa, last week.

After verifying the original complaint by speaking to a client representative, my worst fears were confirmed when I was directed, at my request, to Joan Burke, your "service" manager.

When I informed her of my dilemma, having provided your staff with the address and phone number of the landlord where I live plus my own telephone number at that address, I was informed that although I am a Canadian citizen, born in Ottawa only a few blocks from your Slater St. office, I would not be given an updated medical card.

It all sounded so silly that I thought, just for a minute, that I had somehow entered a Freemasonry Lodge by accident.

I must now inform you that unless this sticky situation is somehow rectified post haste, before I require any medical assistance, that I plan to recommend to our own Board of Directors that our Institute launch a class-action law suit in order to reclaim any pension benefits which were intended to be paid to any of these "human bees" under your direction and request that the courts redirect these sums of money to the Bee Hive Corn Syrup Company, so that they can make a detailed study of your more sticky rules and regulations.

Thank you for your cooperation.

"Hell is not as bad as it's bee-n reported"

Ÿ ? ...bee-cause

by: The Sculptor

Hell might be here and now, ...if you are living in an illusion. Right ?

Just imagine if you had lived out your entire life, only to discover at the end of it that what your parents, church, school and media had told you all along was not true. You then realized that you had bee-n misled by all your teachers about what was really going on in this world, either bee-cause they were all just plain naive, or bee-cause of some other more sinister design, i.e., for a secret purpose: making you into the human version of a worker- or military-bee.

What would you do if you discovered one day that some secret but completely natural force had fabricated both your God and the commandments by which you guide your life, just so that it could more easily steal the natural resources of our planet, (which, by-the-way, are your birthright)? And what if you dicovered that, even to this day, through church and media, they are dumbing you down mentally, orchestrating your numerous guilt trips, and are thereby totally enslaving you in the process ?

What if you discovered that the secret system that controls each of your religious, political, business and military institutions is bee-ing run by the same secret organization whose main purpose is to accumulate the world's natural resources, first and foremost by openly and forcibly imposing, and then secretly managing, their not-so-secret "war on women and original peoples" ?

What if, suddenly, you discovered that all paper or electronic money is, in fact, counterfeit money "made out of thin air", money which no longer has any real value and can no longer be-e exchanged for an equivalent value of land, goods or services, as was the case at one time ?

What if you found out that all of the recent announcements regarding the so-called cures for diseases that are only now bee-ing discovered had bee-n known all along, that they are just now bee-ing allowed to bee re-discovered, and in the meantime that you had unknowingly served this secret power by bee-ing its scientific human guinea-pig ?

What if suddenly you woke up to the not-so-silly notion that bee-cause you never considered taking the time to check into these possibilities personally, billions of human bee-ings are bee-ing subjected to starvation and disease around the world, simply bee-cause the natural resources of their regions were bee-ing taken away and placed into safe-keeping for later use by this secret brotherhood ?

And finally, what if you discovered that taxation itself is just another fraud, and that secret bank accounts held by governments on behalf of these secret brotherhoods are so large that they easily control more than half of all the investments in the stock markets of the entire world ?

Bee-4 you die, The Creator may ask you to take one final look around. As you can see on our cover page the letter Y, which symbolizes the coming age of Hermaphrodite men, is now making its appearance on signs and buildings across the National Capital. Apart from the obvious Y above the door of the YMCA you will notice the Y on the police car in front as well as on the two buildings that appear to the right. The top photograph is of the new Arts department building, at the University of Ottawa, while the bottom photo is of a new building that currently houses the Ottawa offices of Revenue Canada.

My grade school teachers had often told us that, "in the final days, the signs and symbols would be all around". Its not "prophecy" they were talking about, but it was about a very old Masonic "business plan".

If you do take a closer look you might then see, given the world you have lived in all your life, that you have unknowingly accepted that "hell ain't so bad a place to live".

Bee-cause means "the cause of bees"

The Prairie Centre reported in January 1999 that Justice William Estey had submitted his report on the grain handling and transportation system, comparing Western Canada with North Dakota and Montana.

Here are the main differences Justice Estey found:

— Waiting times for vessels at the port of Vancouver are three times longer than those in the United States.

— Local elevator charges for farmers are $10.35 per tonne in Canada and $5.25 in the US (all figures in Canadian dollars).

— Terminal elevator charges are 318% greater in Canada when compared to those in the US - $7.69 compared to $1.84.

— Cleaning charges are $3.40 in Canada and $2.29 in the US.

— 40% of US grain is shipped by train compared with 25% in Canada.

INCOME

— As a result of the above US farmers received $36.28 per tonne more for their grain and $45.31 more for their barley than did Canadian farmers.

BEE-cause all of the world's governments and trans-national trading corporations are, in fact, wholly controlled subsidiaries of the secret society called Freemasonry, one can clearly see how people (worker-bees) who do exactly the same amount of physical "work" receive a far different level of compensation for each comparable unit of their work.

It's all "bee-cause", or, when stated more simply, it's in the cause of creating BEES! Yet, most WORKER BEES will tell their friends that it's simply because they "work better and harder" that they end up doing better than their next door neighbours.

by: an OP, an Original Person

It doesn't interest me what you do for a living
I want to know what you ache for,
And if you dare to dream of meeting your hearts longing.

It doesn't interest me how old you are.
I want to know if you will risk looking like a fool for love
For your dreams, for the adventure of being alive.

It doesn't interest me what planets are squaring your moon.
I want to know if you have touched the centre of your own sorrow,
If you have been opened by life's betrayals
Or have become shrivelled and closed from fear of further pain.
I want to know if you can sit with pain, mine or your own;
Without moving to hide it, or fade it, or fix it.
I want to know if you can be with joy, mine or your own,
If you can dance with wildness and let the ecstasy fill you to
The tips of your fingers and toes without cautioning others to bee Careful, realistic, or to remember the limitations of being human.

It doesn't interest me if the story you are telling is significant to you alone.
I want to know if you can disappoint another to be true to yourself.
If you can bear the accusation of betrayal and not betray your own soul.
I want to know if you can be incorruptible and therefore be trustworthy,
I want to know if you can see beauty even when it is not pretty every day.
And if you can live with failure, yours and mine.
And still stand on the edge of a meadow and shout of your potential to the Rest of the world, ..." PO[10] "

It doesn't interest me to know where you live or how much money you have.
I want to know if you can get up after a night of grief and despair,
Weary and bruised to the bone, and do what needs to be done for the children.

It doesn't interest me with whom you have studied
I want to know what sustains you from the inside when all else falls away.
I want to know if you can be alone by yourself, and if you truly like the Company you keep in these empty moments.

It doesn't interest me who you are, and how you came to be here.
I want to know if you will stand at the centre of fire with me and not

Proactive Positive deviance from Politics and Religion

by: Glen Kealey

Its not enough to know. Its not enough to say that you care. What is more important is what you do about what you know, even if it means some personal discomfort.

For one with a functioning brain to establish the fact that our society is corrupt is the easy part. Also, for one to track the source of this corruption to the controllers of Freemasonry does not require too great a feat of logic. The hard part comes when one knows that the "Ÿ system" has created a world based on a computer model of a beehive.

Living in a world of programmed bees and not being able to communicate this fact to to most of them is the really hard part. And, even harder, is the task of getting through to these programmed bees just to tell them how to get out of the mess their in.

Human bees refuse to observe or analyse the obvious because they are programmed not to do so. Every morning they help their children climb onto black and yellow buses and send them off to bee school, to be programmed just like they were. Then, like busy bees, they go off to work hoping to make just enough to exist from one pay to the next . If they are real smart, or real nasty, they compete to be recognized for their personal ability to control and manipulate others, to gain power and control over other bees.

Most control-freaks get their initial programming from birth. They learn early about the power that comes from instilling fear in others, once they hear about the violence that is inherent within the message of organized religion. Also, the reward structure set up by our controllers is one based upon rewarding control-freaks. Outside of the elitists who benefit in spite of having no inbred talent for management, professionals, judges, supervisors, inspectors and even bureaucrats—the programmed controllers—make most of the big money in our society. It's a powerful incentive for those who need to control.

The Creator is still looking for a little creativity on the part of those of us who have recognized the root of the problem. I believe that a "Proactive Positive Deviance" from all Politics and Religion is what is required. How about you? Also, please remember....

"There is no gain without some pain."

Don't feed the Sÿstem

Don't feed the Sÿstem

by: The Sculptor

Once upon a time there was a Little Pink Pig who scratched about and uncovered some grains of wheat.

He called his barnyard neighbours and said "If we work together and plant this wheat we will have some fine bread to eat. Who will help me plant it?"

"Not I," said the cow. "Not I," said the duck. "Not I," said the goose. "Not I," said the hen.

"Then I will," said the Little Pink Pig. And he did. The wheat grew tall and ripened. "Who will help me harvest the wheat?" asked the Little Pink Pig. "Not I", said the duck. "Out of my classification," said the hen. "I'd loose my pension," said the goose. "I'd lose my employment benefits," said the cow. So the Little Pink Pig reaped the wheat himself.

Later, when he made the wheat into flour, he asked for help to make bread. "That's overtime for me," said the cow. "I'm a dropout and never learned how," said the duck. "I'd lose my welfare benefits," said the hen. "If I'm the only one helping, that's discrimination," said the goose.

"Then I will do it myself," said the Little Pink Pig. And he did.

The Little Pink Pig baked five loaves, and then held them up for his neighbours to see. "I want some," said the cow. "I demand my share", said the goose. "No," said the Little Pink Pig. "I will rest for awhile and then continue eating these five fine loaves myself".

"Excess profits" cried the hen. "Capitalist leech," screamed the duck. "Lazy slob," grunted the goose. "I want my rights", yelled the cow, and they all ran to paint their picket signs and marched around the Little Pink Pig singing "We shall overcome, someday.".

When the government came to investigate the commotion, the inspectors said, "You must not be so greedy, you nasty Little Pink Pig. Look at the poor oppressed cow. Look at the disadvantaged duck. Look at the underprivileged hen. Look at the less fortunate goose. You are guilty of creating their poverty and making them into second class citizens."

"But.... but...., I earned these loaves of bread," said the Little Pink Pig.

"Exactly," said the government inspector. "That's the beauty of the wonderful free enterprise system. You get to do the work for FREE ! You should be happy to have this freedom. We, the government, will take four of your loaves and split one up for the cow, the duck, the goose and the hen. Be a happy bee, in other barnyards the government would confiscate all five loaves. Here, we give one of your five loaves to your poor suffering neighbours and you keep one for yourself."

And, they all lived happily ever after, including the Little Pink Pig, who smiled and clucked, "I AM so grateful to the government for allowing me such freedom," he said.

But the Little Pink Pig did cause some concern as his neighbours wondered from then on why he never planted wheat again, and why he never made any more bread.

It was the disappearance of the three missing loaves that continued to bother him.

Broken men and broken women

by: The Sculptor

"The seeds of wife beating lie in the subordination of females and in their subjection to male authority and control. This relationship between women and men has been institutionalized in the structure of the patriarchal family and is supported by the economic and political institutions and by a belief system, including a religious one, that makes such relationships natural, morally just and sacred." R.E. Dobash and Russell Dobash

Since Freemasonry took control of our political and spiritual lives, in 58,800 BC, life is different from what it used to be. Women have lost the position of authority and ensuing respect they once had within matriarchal, clan based societies and men now erroneously believe that they are in charge. Both genders are broken.

It is society's expectations that women will play the domestic role that places them in a dependent, servile position. If women would only realize that "men who wear dresses in public" control all of us, then, maybe the much needed change in attitude on the part of both, men and women, would finally occur.

Freemasonry's priesthood ran the world openly for the better part of sixty thousand years. These societies of homosexual predators who adhere to an ancient religion which they call "I am" in English, or "Je suis" in French, are now coming out of their "closets". They are taking up positions of authority at all important levels of our modern political, military and international trade institutions, just as they have control over all of organized religion. These homosexual predators hide among, and also prey upon, the larger gay community. By using bribes and blackmail they quickly rise within the ranks of industry, government and most non-governmental organizations (NGO's) in sufficiently large numbers that eventually assures them outright control.

Freemasonry is and has always been a war on women and original peoples. Their plan is to destroy both and to convert the male offsprings of Freemasons into androgynous male baby-making machines (HERMAPHRODITES — Ÿ), before the year 2044.

Glen Kealey's Wisdom Workshops

Uneducation that is more real and worth more to you than a university degree

Glen Kealey is the former National Capital commercial developer who, in 1991, exposed the system of organized crime and corruption run by ex-Prime Minister Mulroney's government, along with the complicity of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the Canadian Justice System.

As we approach the new millennium Glen Kealey has a "Strategic Plan" to share with those few, in Canada, who still have a "functioning brain". With these few Glen is willing to share what he has learned during his 13 year investigation of corruption in Canada. His research began in June 1986 when, as the President and Founder of the $160 million Micot project, he was asked for a bribe totalling in excess of $8 million, by the then Canadian Federal Minister of Public Works, Roch LaSalle.

When Glen emphatically declined Brian Mulroney's agent, Roch LaSalle, and his demand that he, Kealey, pay a bribe, the Federal government plotted his and his project's downfall. This action by the Mulroney government cost Canadians 5,000 jobs and Glen personally lost at least $23 million. The good side is that, as a result of this event, Glen became convinced that he alone had the evidence to bring this type of corrupt activity to an end.

In the summer of 1991 Glen Kealey entered an Ottawa courtroom. When he exited a month later, repercussion were heard around the world. The Canadian dollar dropped by a full cent and interest rates jumped 1%. Lying in the wake of the criminal charges that had been accepted by the court were: Mulroney's Chief of Staff, the three top Commissioners of the RCMP, four Senators including the President of the Senate and four of Prime Minister Mulroney's top Cabinet Ministers, along with sundry other "flunkies".

As a result of these charges, Mulroney was visited by one Peter Munk, President of the Canadian division of the powerful International Gold Cartel and promises were exchanged between them. Then, International Freemasonry, through its local agent, the Privy Council of Canada, ordered the Canadian Political and Justice Systems to close ranks against allowing most of these cases going to trial and a cover-up began. Only one Senator was eventually tried and found guilty. He still sits in the Senate, pending appeal.

Since then Glen Kealey has tracked International Freemasonry and has gained access to their most ancient secrets. Dating Freemasonry back to thousands of years BC and after tracking their "modus-operandi" Glen is now ready to share what he has found with other concerned Canadians. This information is the most helpful that you will ever receive as it answers the ultimate question: "What can I do about the mess we're in?".

Glen's "Strategic Plan" will commence on July 1, 2000, on Parliament Hill, in Ottawa. This is when Glen will know for certain how many "Canadians with a functioning brain" he has managed to identify in the past few years and what job, if any, still needs to be done to awaken the masses.

INTEGRITY

by: The Sculptor

Living with integrity means being a whole or complete person, as Creation had originally intended. The opposite of integrity is hypocrisy. Hypocrisy means playing a role or trying to pretend that you are something that you are not. Unfortunately, as we prepare to enter the new millennium, "all the world's a stage".

Integrity has to do with being real. The root of the word integrity is found in three concepts —simplicity rather than deceit, ie: "what you see is what you get"; sincerity rather than patriotism, never saying "my country, right or wrong"; and, not being holy, whose own root is from "hal". Hal comes from the word halogen. It is a gas from which one derives an artificial light that creates a "halo". Halos are usually placed on images of saints and crosses and are intended to symbolize the sun. The short form of the word saint is St. St. is also the abbreviation for the word street. A street is a stand-in word meaning "the way" in the same manner as "ave" means avenue, or new way. In Freemasonry's 26 organized religions this is called the "Yaw way" (YHWH).

Ave Maria are two stand-in words for Ave-Mar-I-A. Since AVE is also an avenue which itself means "the new way", and Mar comes from "Mara", the ocean or sea, and I-A means I AM (in French it's Je suis or Jesuits), the main religion of Freemasonry, we can now decipher what Ave Maria really means. It means:

"The concept of Maria's virgin birth, which originated with the sea, is to bee replicated, in a new way, by the I Am followers of Freemasonry's religion." - "To bee or not to bee?"

Therefore, when words are spoken and repeated until critical mass is achieved, then, they create a force on matter and materialize themselves. Millions of people are being enticed into repeating Ave Maria in unison, especially during the month of May. The code word May means "Masons adepts are Y" (androgynous). Most Masons are very naive. They are being fooled into praying for things that are against their own will, on behalf of Freemasonry's ultimate goal—which is to create a New World Order—a world without either women or original peoples. Since the world's "originals" have now become "ab-originals" (as in Ab-normal), what remains to be done (in not much more than 40 years) is to create new Freemason Adept Ÿ's, that is: "Free*masons adepts are 2 bee Hermaphrodite*".

PS: If not why are all these Y's symbols just now popping up in your National Capital?

Also, check your next airline ticket and baggage claims. Y is now the international symbol designating Canada.

Freemasonry! How's that for the height of hypocrisÿ?

A CREATION-PLUS STORY

by: The Sculptor

The Creator gathered all of Creation and said, "The anti-Creator has hidden the secret transmitter of his coded messages from the peoples of the earth in a way that they will use their own energy to materialize problems and troubles for themselves, instead of living at peace in paradise, as I had planned for them. Where would you think he hid this secret transmitter of his?"

The eagle said, "I know, he probably hid it on the moon."

The Creator responded, "No, one day they will go there and find it."

The salmon then said, "He most likely hid it at the bottom of the ocean."

"No", said the Creator, "They will go there too and find it."

The buffalo also thought he knew the answer and shouted, "He must have buried it somewhere on the vast open plains, right?"

"No", the Creator quickly answered and said, "They will cut into the skin of the earth one day and they would find it, even if it were there."

Then the female Clan leaders, the nurturers of the community who not only see with their physical eyes but also with their spiritual eyes, gathered to discuss the only remaining possibilities. After much discussion at the campfire they developed a consensus and said, "He placed it inside of us, in our voice box. Now, every time we speak the languages that he gave us, we are materializing his will, not ours."

"Right on", said the Creator, it takes more than a silly anti-creator to put one past you intuitive thinking females. I hope the others will understand when you explain it to them and help you all to get back into paradise."

Can one be a Freemason and not know it ?

by: Glen Kealey

It's easy to know if you're a Freemason if three guys showed up at your door one fine day and asked you a series of questions which you answered in the affirmative. The most important of these was "Do you believe in God? Then, if you are a male and if you were invited to join the Lodge and were initiated, you positively know that you are a "brother" in good standing in the world's oldest secret society. But what if none of this occurred. Can you still be a Mason and not know it?

The answer is a resounding YES !

If you've ever been baptized or in any other way "inducted" into any one of the world's vast network of organized religion; if you've been a member of a recognized political party; if you've been an officer in the military; or if you belonged to a "service club" such as the Lion's, Kiwanis, Rotary, Oddfellows, Kinsmen, St. Jean de Batiste, Knights of Columbus, etc.; then, YES, without knowing it, you are in fact a ranking member of Freemasonry.

As such you are granted certain "privileges" that should really belong to all of us. Also, Freemasonry will "employ" you, that is, include you in their "ploy". Their "banks" will then direct a certain flow of money in your direction, just as the banks of a river are made to direct, or rather, to re-direct the normal flow of water to properties (those with proper ties) belonging to Freemasons or to their causes.

Why is this, you ask? Because, they say.

I repeat, because it is in fact the Bee-cause, the cause of Bees. Bees don't cause Freemasons any trouble. Nice bees accept Freemasonry's Gods as their saviour and that's *solid*arity. Afterall, don't just believe me, read it for yourself in Freemasonry's "Authorized Version" of the Bible, known as the King James Bible, in Matthew 5, verse 9:

"Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall bee called the children of God."

Obviously, to be a "bee" is the just cause which is being referred to next, in verse 10, as "righteousnesse sake" (see the real meaning of "esse" — it means, "to be").

Note the SS. It means "to shift the shape" by diverting water, money, war, famine, pestilence, disease, or some other form of education to, or away from, a particular country, site or person".

THREE Ÿ'S MEN

by: The Sculptor

The three wise men (Ÿ's men) — Caspar, Melechior and Balthasar — are representatives of the white, yellow and black "races" and symbolized the people of the world who were led by the "Star" to the World Saviour. Together, these three so-called wise men proclaimed that all the peoples of the earth would one day respond likewise to their example and eventually "every knee shall bow" and "every tongue shall confess ; to HE ; Who shall unite all the scattered nations under the banner of Peace and Goodwill; Who shall cause men to "beat their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning hooks."

Questions: Because this event occurred at a time prior to the first visit by Europeans to the North American continent (the VI Kings), can one now rightfully conclude that these three men and their sponsors were not in fact very wise? Had they really been wise would there not have been "four wise men", in order to include the brown, or red, skinned peoples of the planet?

The "Blazing Star" of Bethlehem (the star of Freemasonry) is said to have appeared and guided these wise men at the time of the birth of Jesus (the name Jesus comes from "Je suis" which means "I am" in French). The complete name is Jesus Christ.

Questions: Is it then not a fact that those who speak the words "Jesus Christ" are in fact saying "I am Christ"? And is "Blazing" not what has continually occurred around the world as a result of the establishment of this "I am" religion called Christianity?

Christianity has been the bloodiest religion ever known, not excepting Mohammedanism. On the battle field and in the Inquisition innumerable and unspeakable atrocities were committed in the name of I am. The rose and cross have been means by which the more powerful Christian nations gained supremacy over the Original Peoples, and even over other weaker nations professing the same faith as their conquerors. The most cursory reading of the "his story" of the Graeco-Latin, Teutonic and Anglo-Saxon breeds will corroborate this.

Recalling your origin and understanding myth

Escaping Illusion

by: The Sculptor

For many years now Western scholars have approached the study of myth from a viewpoint markedly different than that of the nineteenth century. Unlike their predecessors, who treated myth in the usual meaning of the word, that is, as "fable," "invention," "fiction," they now accept it as it was understood in the archaic (Masonic) societies, where, on the contrary, "myth" means a "true story" and, beyond that, a story that is a most precious possession because it is sacred, exemplary and significant.

Australian totemic myths tell how, in the "Dream Time"— that is in the mythical time— "Troglodytes made their appearance on the surface of the earth and set out on long journeys, stopping now and again to change the landscape and to produce certain animals and plants, and finally vanished underground."

The definition of the word "Troglodyte" according to the 1901 Concise English Dictionary—Literary Scientific and Technical—with a key to names in mythology, by Charles Annandale M.A. LL.D. who edited Ogilvie's "Imperial Dictionary" is : A troglodyte from a cavern; a cave-dweller; a name given by the ancient Greeks to the cave-dwellers of the Red Sea and the Upper Nile; hence, one living in seclusion. (They guided the Greek and other military expeditions).

By virtue of the recollection of humanity's origin ("birthplace") we can defend ourselves against programming by Masonry's elites and can handle life without being hurt any more than necessary.

But knowledge of one's own former lives — that is, of one's total personal history — bestows even more. They who can understand their "birth" (origin) and past lives (the periods made up of a considerable series of different events undergone during their life) succeed in freeing themselves from the elites bee-like conditionings; in other words, they, unlike the vast majority of people on the planet, become masters of their own destiny.

Hermes (Her is me) Masons are creating the new

by: Glen Kealey

A 'hermaphrodite' is one who is capable of producing another being from himself without intercourse with any other.

To make women irrelevant is the ultimate mission of the leaders of Freemasonry.

Rosicrucians state: "Inner perception cannot be fully regained until man has passed to the stage where it is no longer necessary to have a partner in generation, and he has reached the development where he can again utilize his whole creative force at will. Then he will again know himself as he did during his stage of plant-like existence, but with this all important difference that he will use his creative faculty consciously, and will not be restricted to using it solely for the procreation of his own species, but may create whatever he will. Neither will he use his present organs of generation, but the larynx will speak the creative word as directed by the spirit through the co-ordinating mechanism of the brain. Thus the two organs built by half the creative force will in time be the means whereby man will eventually become an independent self-conscious creator."

Jesus Christ becomes Je Suis Christ who then becomes I am Christ, all with a little help for our friends, the Jesuits.

"Material scientists have laboured for many years in an endeavor to 'create' life, but they will not succeed until they have learned the secrets of the Brotherhood. Such is the wise (Ÿ's) decision of the Elder Brothers, who guard this and all the deep secrets of Nature until they decide that man is fit to use them." The Sculptor

Rosicrucian philosophy clearly state it as a law: "No progress is ever made that is not gained at the cost of some previously possessed faculty, which is later regained in a higher form. Man built 'brain' at the expense of the temporary loss of the power to bring forth offspring from himself alone; he obtained his reasoning power at the cost of the temporary loss of his spiritual insight."

What could such a clear message mean, other than Masons believe that Man was originally androgynous-hermaphrodite (Y to Ÿ) and that their mission is to reinstate that condition, prior to sending Man out to explore and terra-form the universe?

Are we really limited to 30,000 years ago?

Carbon Dating ?

by: The Sculptor

Scientists say that a method of obtaining an absolute chronology of the past, at least for the last 30,000 years, was discovered as an accidental by-product of atomic research.

There is present in the carbon dioxide of the air a radio-active form (isotope) of carbon, which has an atomic weight of 14 (C14) instead of 12, that of normal carbon (C12).

When a living organism dies, it ceases to absorb further C14 from the air, and, as with all radio-active substances, without renewal, it then starts to disintegrate. In the case of C14 the disintegration is at such a rate that after 5700 years only half the original amount remains, after about 11,400 years only a quarter, and so on. It therefore follows, scientists say, that one can give a date before the present time at which the living, organic matter died and ceased to absorb C14.

It would therefore appear that it is possible to date living organisms only back to at least 30,000 years. But, is there an even better way? Yes, ...but. When one is dealing with communities who are very secretive, such as with the Troglodyte founders of Freemasonry, dates in years must be obtained only by more roundabout methods. Getting into Masonic archives to obtain the gold and silver keys to their seven levels, or veils, of coding is one way of doing it.

By so doing one can then double the period of time calculated by the method of carbon dating, to sixty thousand years of absolute human knowledge, thereby going back to the time when the first Masons were and already had been using for a still longer undetermined period, the original thirty-one letter alphabet of the world's very first language.

Year of Illusion

by: The Sculptor

The Vatican Bank was in the process of organizing its international banking network (along the lines of the modern day American Express) when it launched the nine Christian Crusades. It wanted to take control of the continent away from the growing influence of the Moslem ABBA Caliphate Infidels of the Middle East. Crusades were used to get the existing secular leaders out of their countries while Freemasons took political control of all non-religious tax collection activities.

The Knights Templars, a "rich-kid" Order of international banker-priests, was set up as a network from England to Palestine. They operated in great secrecy and security, out of the confines of their fortified abbey-banks. These Templars had been established on a pretext of the need to protect "pilgrims", as they travelled on route to pray in Jerusalem. Their true purpose was to provide both bed and breakfast, along with local banking services, to the wealthy international free-traders of Europe.

In the year 1215 it was decided to create a very public diversion to attract attention to a place far away, while the Vatican bank in Rome setup the most draconian controls instituted since the demise of the Roman Empire. The British Magna-Charta, which created an illusion for the ordinary people that common law based democracy had been enacted, was orchestrated by Masons in England. Freemasonry's coders would later drop the letter H from the word CHARTA which turned it into CARTA. This was a secret signal to the top-degree Freemasons (to of 45 to 90 degrees) that common law would no longer be connected to Freemasonry, or supported by them. Meanwhile, bankers who controlled the Vatican passed two laws for Christians that would solidify their control over most of Europe, control more powerful than anything the standing armies could possibly have achieved militarily.

The first law created an obligation for Catholics to attend CONF*ESS*ION at least once a year, on the penalty of eternal damnation in hell should they fail to do so. It also defined a number of "personal behaviour sins" which must be confessed annually to a priest. Secondly, the sacrament of MARRIAGE was instituted under church law. It transferred power away from a 12/1 Clan based, matriarchal, support structure, thereby creating a weaker, untenable system of personal control which they called FAMILY.

No other laws have more drastically changed the world than these two awful laws working together. "To-get-her" they combine to destroy any chance women or original peoples had at survival. To-get-her these laws reinvigorated the Gay predators', Ecclesiastic / Troglodyte "WAR ON WOMEN".

PS: Freemasonry codes suggest that Confession is "con-female-to be-Sion"

Multiple meaning of words materializes whose will ?

by: Glen Kealey

If "will" is materialized when an idea is launched and then it has an effect on matter then what does in fact get materialized when ....

You say the word "mother". Trog Gods hear "moth-er" —a maker of moths— i.e.: bugs who follow the light.

You say the word "father". Trog Gods hear "fat-her" —the male who made her fat.

You say "Give me, or, I want a beer." Trog Gods hear "a be-er" —which translates to "a maker of bees."

You say "Amen." Trog Gods hear "Androgynous, or abused, or adept men."

You say "call in the Army". Trog Gods hear "call in the Arm of Ÿ".

You say "never forget our soldiers." Trog Gods hear "never forget our sol-diers" —the diers who died for the Sun God, Sol. No wonder they make us wear "Pop-pies" when they've made jam out of our fathers.

You say "Holland." Trog Gods hear "Hal-land" which means Hal's land", a former home base for their A&E, the artificial-intelligence computer named Hal —it's an abbreviation taken from "halogen gas" which energizes the computer. (See the Stanley Kubrik flick 2001—a space Odyssey).

You say "Success!". Trog Gods know that you're "sucking on cess", ie: a cess-pool.

You say "Jesus Christ". Trog Gods know that what you are saying is "Je Suis Christ" — the French language equivalent to "I am Christ". The English language consists of approximately 60% French words. I Am is the Masonic statement which confirms "there is no other Christ, or Savior of my life, but me." And bee-cause you don't realize, by these words, that you are in fact denying the existence of a singular Creator, and nothing that you ask of the SINGULARITY can ever be materialized by your request.

In fact the French words "Je Sus" really mean "I suck".

Baseball

by: Tom Byberg and Glen Kealey

Baseball is the number one spectator sport in America.

The game of baseball starts with a pitcher pitching a ball. A man holding a pitcher of water is the symbol in the Zodiac (the Troglodyte-Freemason calender) used to identify the age of Aquarius which we were told, by no less than George Washington, is to begin in the year 2025.

To be a pitcher also means "to pitch her". If the batter misses with the bat he gets a strike and the catcher then catches the ball. Strikes usually mean hard times for women. A bat is allegory for "a cave-dweller", while a catcher can also mean "to catch her". Also, a cave dweller symbolically lives down a "well". This is where "the oracles were heard", at Delphi. This is also why today's U.S. "political" Senators speak to us from "the well of the Senate".

When the bat makes contact with the ball (a testacle), the play (a stage play), then moves on to first base. For the purpose of their End Times allegory, first base could mean World War One (WW1). Then, the play moves on to second base (WW2). Next, the "defensive game" is controlled by the short stop (the SS during WWII, or, the "Shape-Shifters" of today — see the current popularity of British entertainer "cum conspiracy theorist", David Icke. His name, D. Icke, sounds like "dyke". It is an allegory for "a dam" whose main purpose is to stop and redirect "the flow", and/or, it is a name most often used to describe a "lesbian", a female homosexual. Homosexuality was a legal method of birth-cotrol used by ancient Greeks).

Finally, players, at the proper moment, make their way to third base (WWIII), from where they run back home (Trogs plan their return to earth from the space-station, following seven years of nuclear war and global warming, to begin their own "one thousand years of peace").

Baseball is played on a diamond (as above-so below). Home plate is in the dual shape of a Masonic apron and the three outfielders —left, centre and right— provide the illusion of competion (the reality is, as with sides of a Pyramid, they are on the same team "at the top").

Chief André Langelier:

My name is Glen EP Kealey. I am President and Chairman of the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity. CIPI was incorporated according to Canadian law in 1992. Our charter requires that we investigate political corruption at all levels of government and report our findings directly to the Canadian people.

Yesterday, while on a routine visit to Aylmer, Québec, one of our Institute's undercover vehicles was stopped by two of your city's police officers, each driving separate police cars. They proceeded to steal our vehicle (they called it "impounding").

I would appreciate your assistance in having our vehicle returned, without cost to us and as soon as possible.

We further intend to make this into a national civil rights case, by pleading "not guilty" to both charges filed against us and by insisting that more respect be paid by authorities to our Magna Charta Common Law rights which guarantee "free access to highways", without the need to pay them politically motivated "extortion".

Furthermore, we have no doubt that those "Masons who dress as women in public" (they wear robes) currently have the ultimate power to find us guilty of any charge that they wish to manufacture. However, this case should provide undeniable proof to all Quebecois and other Canadians who still have doubts that Freemasons, not them, control their beloved country. Thusly, we intend to prove to all Canadians that they, the citizens of Canada, are no longer in charge of any of their governments (that is if they have ever been).

Thank you for your cooperation in this matter,

Chief André Langelier:

This is to confirm that I received a telephone call from Lieutenant Lacasse of the Aylmer Police Department on this day. Lieutenant Lacasse suggested that I retrieve our Institute's vehicle, which was stolen from us earlier by the Aylmer Police.

Lacasse stated that if we had not yet obtained a new registration plate that we would have to tow the vehicle away, as it is not legal to drive it on public streets, he said, until it has its proper registration. Also, that we would be obliged to pay for towing and the daily storage fee charged against our vehicle, the total would amount to about $150.00.

After discussion with CIPI's Board of Directors I hereby reconfirm that we are not prepared to pay "extortion" over and above having suffered the theft of our vehicle by the Aylmer Police.

On the day our car was stolen (the officer said "impounded") I had personally asked that the vehicle be towed to my wife's residence in Aylmer and was refused that option by the same police officer. CIPI must now ask the obvious question —"who benefitted financially by the unnecessary diversion of our vehicle to the impound yard?"

I will be attending at your offices on Upper Aylmer Road tomorrow to claim our property and hereby request that you give the necessary instructions to your staff to have our car and its contents returned to us forthwith, and, that this be allowed to happen without any financial cost to the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity.

Yours truly,

Chief André Langelier:

This letter is to confirm my visit to the Aylmer police offices yesterday. I met with Lieutenant Lacasse who signed the release papers for our vehicle, a car previously stolen by the Aylmer police.

However, Lacasse did not respond positively to our request that the car be returned at your expense, but in fact insisted that we pay your agent, Aylmer Collision, the sum of $37. towing charge plus taxes and an additional storage fee of $10. per day plus taxes, both sums of money which we consider to be "extortion". In order to obtain a copy of this formal demand I then signed your form adding the words "under duress" next to my signature and told Lacasse that we would never agree to pay any fee whatsoever. I also told him that I would go to Aylmer Collision and request the release of our car, without charge, or would otherwise consider Aylmer Collision to be an accessory to the theft of our auto.

I then proceeded to Aylmer Collision where the manager refused me permission to remove the car without paying the extortion. He then threatened to sell the car at the end of 90 days. He also confirmed that he has been in collusion with the Aylmer Police in this scheme for at least 18 years. He stated that, as your agent, he simply follows your instructions. With this confirmation of his collusion made before witnesses I proceeded to empty the car and to remove our BC licence plates.

Here is where we now stand :

— The Aylmer Police are now being accused, by CIPI, of auto theft for the purpose of extortion.

— The Aylmer Police are now also being accused, by CIPI, of participating in a conspiracy with Aylmer Collision, of auto theft for the purpose of collecting extortion - in the form of towing and unnecessary storage charges, and, for the purpose of benefitting the Governments of Canada and Quebec, by means of the collection of secretly imposed and unlawful taxes.

— The Aylmer Police still has it in its power to make amends resolving this matter, by returning our vehicle at your expense, directly to my residence at Oxford Mills, Ont..

If this solution is still not acceptable to the Aylmer Police this letter is then to be considered as the "laying of an information" and an appointment should be made with your local Justice of the Peace who is in position to order that "process begin".

Chief André Langelier:

Yesterday, while in Aylmer Municipal Court, I made the case that the Highway Traffic Act section that requires operators of automobiles and automobiles themselves to be licensed, as opposed to chauffeurs who make a living from driving and motor vehicles used for deliveries, was unconstitutional, illegal and more precisely, extortion.

The judge then set the stage for the Crown to appeal his verdict when he reduced the fine imposed by the Aylmer police to the minimum prescribed by law and immediately instructed that this minimum fine should be converted to community service time at the end of 90 days, which in any event, as the President of the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity, is what I do every day when I investigate criminal activity by politicians and police.

Now, as we at the Institute (CIPI) cannot afford to fund the appeal, we will simply be required to defend our original victory in the higher courts, as the Crown appeals this decision on behalf of Freemasonry, who are in fact their secret controllers from behind the scene.

Due to this judgment in Aylmer Municipal Court last night, following my testimony of an apparent 18 year link between Aylmer Collision who stole my car and the Aylmer Police who told them to do it, and because the police have always recommended this firm as their "preferred contractor" when bids come before the Aylmer Municipal Council, I think the time has come for you, the Aylmer Police, to return our Institute's vehicle at your expense.

I also expect, because you have kept this older model automobile idle for a couple of months, that you should now instruct Aylmer Collision to replace the oil and other fluids at your expense before towing the vehicle out to Oxford Mills, Ontario, where I currently reside.

Why police Chiefs refuse to investigate the cancer ¿

by: Glen Kealey

Dealing with the symptoms of crime is one thing, going after the cancer itself is another. Police Chiefs are very good at giving their low-level officers mandates to investigate the symptoms of crime, to "get the free-lancers", however, they consistently refuse to go after the really Big Boys. By that I don't mean the John Gottis, or Al Capstones (oops! that was supposed to read Capones) of the world. These guys are just "middle management".

By the Big Boys I mean the Hidden Hand, the leaders of the top 57 secret degrees of Freemasonry. That gang would include both the Rosicrucians and the Jesuits. Together these two teams control the world "PI rate". It's a rate on loans which is better known to most people as the interest rate. It is the rate of interest charged on all financial transactions by Great Lords of International Finance. The ∏ rate allows these criminals to collect over 314% on such necessities as home mortgages.

Who are these big crooks who get away with piracy ? "Well", as Ronald Reagan used to say, "∏ are square". And, in the language of business that means "they are Freemasons".

These Big money Boys secretly manage the world's financing "with money they make out of thin air" ; nowadays, through means of simple computer entries. They control all of the world's Big Business (they call it International Trade). Trade includes activities on both sides of the manufacturing process, with Management and Labour Unions included. The SYSTEM is secretly supported by the heads of Organized Religion and by all Governments and Politicians. They are protected by the world's militaries and secret societies such as Freemasonry.

Their common interests extends far beyond the money. It's total control they want. Freemasonry's top controllers specialize in the control of all the "ARIES" of the ZODIAC. They also control Estuaries, Mercenaries, Commissaries, Seminaries, Missionaries, Revolutionaries, Adversaries, Emissaries, Contemporaries, and Aviaries, as well as the USA's Cabinet Secretaries, just to mention a few.

Freemasons also were the world's first "Corporate Pipe Carriers". With the assistance of such groups as the middle-Eastern Phoenicians, Masons distributed culture, language, as well as religion, to native

"The whole world is a stage", but....

I won't bee!

by:
Glen (CiPi) Kealey, Chairman and National President CIPI

In a stage play all players are characters. At least that's what we're told on the public Playbill. Have you ever asked yourself why the word playbill contains the words play and bill ? In Freemasonry's codes the characters or letters mean, "to play the part of a sick bee". Similarly, have you ever asked yourself, or anyone else for that matter, "why are our dollar bills and debts called bills, thereby also linking them to sick bees" ? It's beecause they both are established mechanisms of "bee control".

If you have ever felt either the inclination or had the time to look more closely at the words that you use every day you would soon conclude as we did and as Shakespeare once said, that "all the world's a stage" and ....that you're in the play.

Without our knowledge or consent both you and I have been programmed by our so-called "care-givers", to spend our entire lives playing the part of frightened or sick bees.

If you have any doubts left at all take a new look at the word

Comment

"alphabet" and at its 26 / 27 "characters". The letter t at the end of the word means teaching or transmitting. Then, it's the letters b & e which mean the "bee cause", or more precisely, the cause of bees. And finally, at the beginning of the word you will find you will find the characters that spell alpha. They mean—the connected and androgynous hermaphrodite male. He is the son of a Mason who naïvely prepares himself to function as a Queen in Freemasonry's Omega, which is a word that means bee-hive, in Greek.

I'm sorry to bee the one to have to break this news to you so late in life my friends, but you've bee-n had. Your only remaining comfort is to know that "you're not alone". Its happened to everyone; that is, *bee*cause we've all been programmed to use any one of the world's 4000 languages. They are Masonry traps. The English language is just the latest perfected creation of the ancient Freemason coders. Its their masterpiece, their work-of-art. Now, the "mark of the bee" is in your voice box.

And, just like with any other addict who cannot bee cured of his/her bad habit beecause she/he won't admit to it, you likewise, can never bee cured of your bee programming as long as you refuse to admit that you've also *bee*n had.

Unless you face this possibility head-on —by taking at least one long and serious new look around you and then, join or support those of us who are clued-in to this little known fact, sorry, but you soon will be a "dead duck ...bill". So far, beecause you have accepted your role as a bee in this play called life you have wasted your entire time here on earth.

Whether you choose to bee-leave us or not, by our telling you this terrible news, it is the only way left to us to try and help you. Nothing else seems to have gotten through to you and it's the final way we have left —sharing Tough Love !

Sacred Land at Oxford Mills

Hannelore's Gift to the People

by: Glen Kealey

If anyone ever needed proof about the existence of a Creator, one need only look at the facts surrounding a parcel of land of just over 20 acres which is located adjacent to a little log cabin, on Jig Street, at Oxford Mills, Ontario.

The log cabin is the home of a friend of mine who later requested that he remain nameless. Lets just call him Berliner. Berliner, a long-time immigrant from Germany since the late 1960's had, once upon a time, fallen in love with his sweetheart Hannelore who, herself, was also an immigrant to Canada. Being single at the time, Berliner invited Hannelore to move in with him into his little log cabin at Oxford Mills. She did. Sadly, however, Hannelore died shortly thereafter.

In her will Hannelore had left an insurance policy worth $40,000 but the insurance company refused to pay her beneficiary, who was of course Berliner. To add to his problems Berliner was told by the municipality that he could not get a permit to install a septic tank on the property where his cabin was situated, because it was too small. It was less than two acres.

At that time Berliner was assisting CIPI, by collecting donations for our Institute, when he found out that I was to travel to Nova Scotia on an investigation. He asked if I would assist him if he brought to me the ashes of his dearly departed Hannelore, by giving her a burial at sea. I readily agreed. Berliner drove to New Waterford, on Cape Breton Island, where I carried out her last wishes. Hannelore was buried at sea and her ashes washed away from shore.

Upon our return to Ottawa, I was also able to contact the insurance company on his behalf. With a confirmed Power-of-Attorney given by Berliner, I settled for the full amount of the insurance policy. With about half of this inheritance Berliner was able to acquire the 20+ acres adjacent to his cabin and put in his septic tank.

Berliner then suggested that my assistance was worth a "commission" and asked me what amount I would consider to be fair. I responded that I, personally, would not accept any money from him, however, if he wished to assist CIPI, the Institute, in carrying out its work "getting us out of the political mess we're in", then, 10% would not be an unreasonable donation.

Berliner agreed. However, he could only donate 5% since he had already used up the balance of the money to pay his other bills. Instead of money he made an offer to me, that if at anytime in the future I ever wanted to use the land that Hannelore's money had purchased, I would always be welcome.

Today, it's on Hannelore's gift of land that I am currently located while I await your arrival. I also recall how I had often stated in the past that "only when the women join in our movement, to bring sanity back to our lives, can we ever expect to succeed".

Thank you Hannalore.

communities across the entire surface of the earth ; and that, long before the little recorded history which we are being told about. Phoenicians even painted those similar looking "pictures" that can be found on cave walls all around the globe.

Secret societies also control the chemists and financial brokers of the illicit drug world. They began by making wine, then beer, then hashish, and then hard liquor, then pills, then opium, then heroine and finally cocaine. Who else could import these "products" in such quantities without fear of being arrested?

Have I answered the question that I asked up front?

Flash !

CHANGE of PLAN

Berliner has changed his mind. Under pressure from some source that is still unknown to me, I have now been advised that any reference to the activities of Freemasonry or of its brotherhood, initiated or otherwise of like-mind, will not be tolerated by Berliner "on his property". "Afterall", he shouted, "I'm a Berliner".

German Freemasonry contolled by Arab money

by: Glen Kealey

Germany, in the 20th century, became a giant human engineering laboratory. Arab, or more precisely, Persian money controlled by Sufis had decided that it would prove to anyone who cared to investigate that it could fabricate human bees in the West just as it had done in the middle and far East. With the assistance of the Jesuits, the predator-priests of France and cut-outs from the Benedictine monks, Persian Sufis and the German military Generals began to restructure German Society.

First, the Freemasons of the Orient orchestrated WW1 in order to bring the world's undivided attention to their latest plan. The basis for their actions was predicated on the old theory known as thesis, anti-thesis and synthesis. It begins by knowing what place you want to arrive at in the end. The goal is called the synthesis. In this case it's to create a New World Order under the dominion of "one". A single monetary system, capitalism in a cashless society ; one military, a combined NATO and Warsaw Pact alliance ; one world trade organization, the WTO ; and one religion, Freemasonry.

Step number two had to create the thesis and anti-thesis, both of which would ultimately be rejected. That meant setting up a Communist system in Russia and a Fascist system in Germany. Next, while the Big money Boys of England, Scotland and Switzerland had eventually settled upon "the lion of the Caucuses", Joseph Stalin, to lead the USSR, the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite Freemason, Rudolf Hess, was called upon to sponsor Adolph Hitler as the new czar of Germany.

Following ten years of cold war between the so-called competitors and then, five more years of Urban Renewal (that's what Freemason elites like to call World War 2) and assisted by Freemasonry's capitalist allies in America, the stage had been set for the next to final push towards their New World Order.

The human engineering of the peoples of Europe is at the heart of the plan's success to date. It began with massive propaganda campaigns by the Communists and Nazis to convince their peoples that they were in fact superior human beings. Following five years of dropping bombs on their heads, both populations were subjected to 2 or 3 years of food shortages during which time the "spin doctors" of Great Britain, France and America reprogrammed their "European guinea pigs".

Afterwards, once these new Manchurian Candidates from Europe were convinced of their national superiority and were deemed totally robotic in their inter-personal skills, they were then pulled from their homelands and by means of immigration, they were sprinkled throughout the Western world in order to destabilize and promote the Freemason plan of "one".

Its a repeat of the same old plan that had first proved so successful in taking control of the middle-East, India, China and Africa which has been repeated over and over again in a step-by-step manner, in every other part of the world.

As usual, the final step will be the ultimate double-cross ; that's when Freemasons find out that they've be had as well. Most immigrant farmers in the West are already losing their farms to corporate trans-national agri-business.

They are then told that it's because they're inefficient.

FREEMASONRY

like the Mona Lisa is an Enigma....

A SYSTEM of Morality Veiled in Allegory and Illustrated by Symbols

Copied from the History of Freemasons

Knights Templar

They were first called:
"The Poor Fellow-Soldiers of Christ and the Temple of Solomon".
As with any Freemason activity, this name was necessary only to their public persona. Nothing in the name reflected the true activity of the Knights Templar. It was just a veil. The following is but a small list of their real work, which when taken together as a business plan can be styled as it really is : International Banking and Financial Services.

1 — they operated 9000 manors all over Europe.
2 — they owned the mills and markets.
3 — they built ships for trade and war.
4 — they owned the transport companies.
5 — they controlled the money business.
6 — they maintained safety deposits boxes.
7 — they were bill collection agents.
8 — they enforced tax collection.
9 — they ran a trust company.
10 — they were mortgage bankers.
11 — they were property managers.
12 — they funded ransom payments, for both sides.
13 — they issued the first paper money for public use in Europe.
14 — they owned the first model of an "American Express".
15 — they operated a coding-decoding encryption security system.
16 — they maintained an international intelligence network.

During its original 200 years of existence (1118-1314), before they were totally merged with Freemasonry, these Knights who called each other "brother" initiated over 20,000 nobles, who in turn merged their own resources into the communal pot. Hired administrators outnumbered them by as much as 50 to 1. Local staff were known as "Turcopoles" which translates to "The Turkish Po" (as in Poland and Police).

After their public dissolution the regular monks became "black robes", eventually they came to be known either as Cistercians or Jesuits, while the secular administrators became the Freemasons. Meanwhile, in background, the "Persian Fatima-Sufis" of Iran, Syria and Iraq, still run the show.

Father Time's German Rosicrucian and French Jesuitic

Masonry's War on Women

by: Glen Kealey

Today, German alchemical and French alphabetical creative sources control the actions of English speaking Freemasons around the world. German chemistry is symbolized by the first column of Freemasonry. It's called Jachim. The second column, or pillar, is called Boaz. It relates to the French Jesuits' role in creating the English alphabet — English speakers are taught letters from A to Z.

Germany (any germ) was chosen as the first European site to be assigned the task of establishming Freemasonry's chemical / pharmaceutical department. The Bauer family, currently known as the Rothschilds, immigrated to Germany from their home in Turkey to lead this division in 1750. International finance is their visible activity. Finance is one cover that veils their true intent. The Bauers are the original founders of the pharmaceutical empire controlled by a transnational company called Bayer. Replacing the letter "U" with the letter "Y" in their original name alludes to "grafting", in both senses of the word; Eugenics being their principal assignment.

France's role was to create the Company of Jesus. From the cover of this Society they created the modern English language from which most of the Bible's allegories were fabricated. Francis Bacon's role cannot be underestimated during the construction of the King James 1 — Authorized Version of the English Bible. Neither can one dismiss the evidence of his participation in the works of Will-I-am Shakespeare (Shakspere).

Neither should that of the Sufis, whose role as pedlars of hashish in the middle East be overlooked, any more than should the Black Robes role in spreading both alcohol and disease to original peoples in America, or again, their participation in the Opium Wars on China.

The letters "chin" which are derived from the Freemason pillar called Jachim also create an interesting link to the two saint Johns. The German spelling of John is Joachim. These four letters are also the root of the name China, as well as, of the industrial age technology founded on machines. Machines first appeared in Scotland, a country with very special ties to France and Germany, not to mention to Freemasonry.

Anyone who pretends not to understand, or disbelieves the preponderance of evidence which undoubtedly constitutes proof of what and who "created the mess we're now in" has been programmed beyond reason, or else, is ridiculously naive or an outright liar.

What is the real message of ★ FATIMA ? ★

by: Glen Kealey

Fatima is a village in west central Portugal, northeast of Lisbon. It became a centre of Roman Catholic pilgrimage after the reported sighting in the village, in 1917, of the Virgin Mary.

Fatima (606-32) is also the youngest daughter of the prophet Muhammad and wife of the fourth Caliph, Ali (d.661). The descendants of Muhammad trace their lineage through her, and she is revered especially by Shite Muslims as the mother of the imams Hasan (624-80). The name Muhammad, like the name Abraham, both include the letters that make-up the word HAM, which is Freemasonry's short form for the word hammer.

A Fatimid, is a descendant of Fatima, in particular, a member of an Arabian dynasty claiming descent from her which ruled most of the world with the exception of Europe, but including Portugal, under the name of the Caliphate of the Abbasides, from the 8th century to the 12th. Caliphate is the root of the word California, ie: Hollywood.

When the Jesuits first coded the new English language, before its introduction into Britain, they made certain that the word Ma would be used as often as possible. It is derived from Masonry's plan to convert two current genders, male and female, mothers and fathers, into one new gender as is outlined in the higher degrees of Freemasonry.

Ma was arrived at by taking the first letter of mother and grafting it onto the second letter of father. When the letter I is added in front of ma it results in I ma, which is the root of the word imams. As well, when the letters of ma are reversed it results in the well known phrase I am, which are the two most identifying code words of western Freemasonry.

Also, the Moslem name Fatima creates a Moslem link to the Hebrew Father who is called Abba (see Abbasides above). As well, by having added the word fat, when one researches it, one arrives at another very interesting topic, that of "cellular memory".

The name Fatima also has some other very interesting German connections which should not be overlooked. These include the use of yeast in beer which helps enlarge the stomach cavity in preparation for the day when space pioneering "pregnant" male "Hermaphrodites" will be implanted with human seed. However, these other areas of study will require further research.

Heeer's Johnny ....Appleseed

by: Glen Kealey

Anyone who reads the story of Noah in the Bible should understand that no boat of the size described could ever carry two of each animal onboard, as the Bible says. What you are in fact reading is an allegory.

An allegory is a story, play, poem or picture in which the meaning or message is represented symbolically, ie: if one slices an apple horizontally — the core creates a perfect five pointed star.

If two of each animal could not be physically enclosed within a boat or ark what then is the symbolism of Noah's ark. The ark is symbolic of a container which has been grafted with the DNA or genetic materials that are essential to cloning life. Such is the symbolism of an apple and the seeds contained within its core. The apple is a "key".

Obviously, because of the detail given in the original Bible story, what we are dealing with here is the survival of earthly life forms, by means of a method of transportation that would carry it from one world which is in peril to another safer world where it can be re-established. Life can always be "born again", as long as it does not all perish in one place at one time, due to some totally natural, foreseeable calamity.

Such a calamity would come about when our sun dies or at a time of major "earth crust displacement". Life cannot live in one place in the universe forever. It is limited by the life-span of the solar system in which it resides. And, since all solar systems die eventually, if one of life's species wants to live forever, then, life must take the necessary precautions — ie: by exploring other solar systems that are younger than ours. Once a new planet has been terra-formed it could provide a place of refuge for continuing life.

Such a journey, because of the vast distances involved, must be planned within the context of one-way travel. A craft that would allow for the exploration to be successful is exactly the reason why Freemasonry is called a "craft". It is the Craft that was designed and built in the Russian province of Georgia, next to Mount Ararat. This is also why the ancient Caliphate of the Abbasides, the people who controlled Spain at one time, also created the movie making industry in their state of California. One of the first stars of Hollywood was a tough guy called George Raft. He was an allegory for a "Georgia raft".

A capsule that can carry seeds of life will, by necessity, be a live version of Johnny Appleseed. And, because the designers of this live model that will carry human seeds are predator-priests, they are using the coming opportunity of inter-stellar travel to clone Hermaphrodites for the job.

Freemasons are unknowingly creating the one vehicle that guarantees their own destruction. It's the international Space Station. And we, the people of earth, are living out the last forty years of life as we know it and nobody who'se in charge today seems to care.

New superman to be bisexed.

2013, "Beginning of the End"

by: Glen Kealey

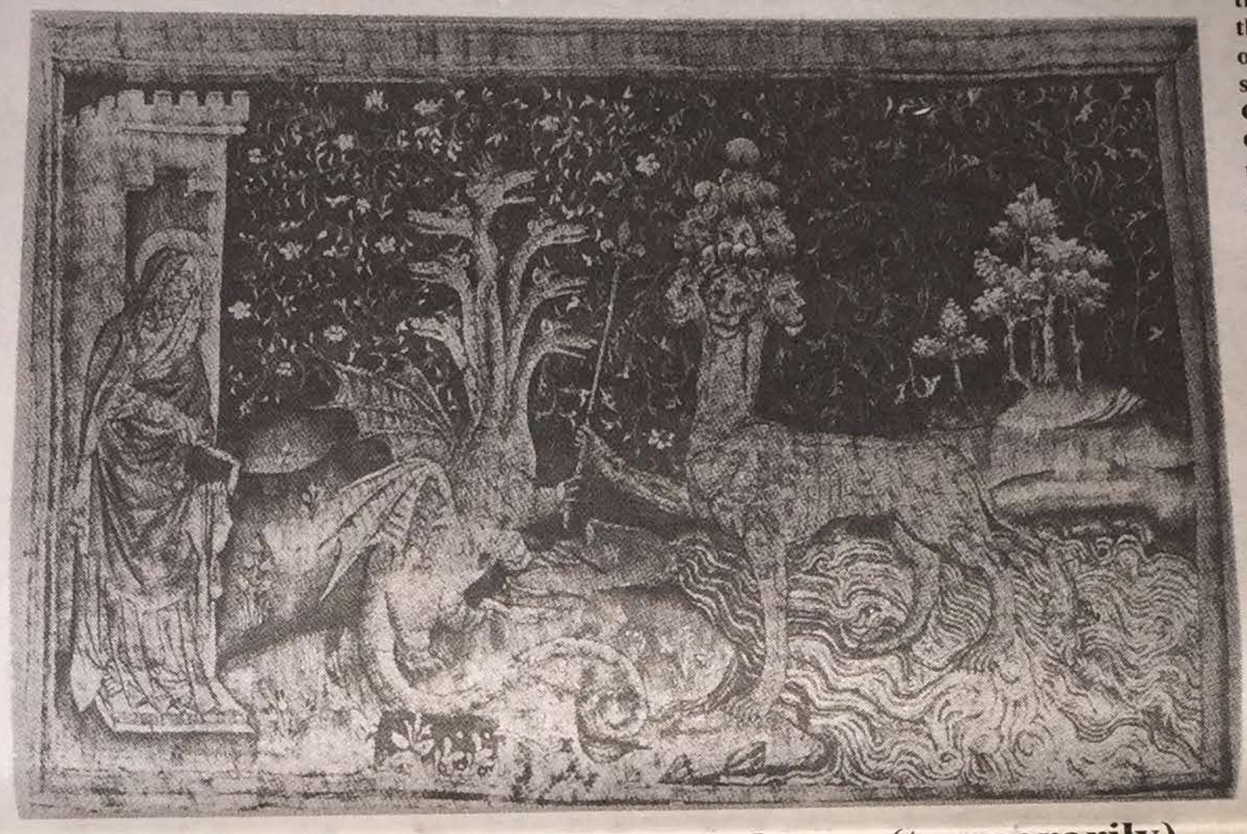
Freemasonry priests want to do away with women.

They began their plan for the "End Times" (a time which has been designated by the predator-priests by its initials "ET") when power was temporarily handed over to the leaders of the West, by those of the East, by means of the "Edict at Milan", in 313 AD.

The year 2013 will mark the 1700th anniversary of the "Edict at Milan". This date, 313 AD, also marked a change in direction for Freemasonry. Control by open military force had run its course. What had been won by Roman war was to be preserved by Roman religion.

Freemasons follow ancient rituals. One of these rituals involves the use of the word "Great". Constantine the "Great" issued the Edict at Milan that created the Catholic Church, with its headquarters to be located in Rome. Constantine was not a "Christian". He was a military leader who lived in Turkey. In 325 he ordered that a Council be held at Nicea, in Turkey, so that he could personally supervise the production of the first Christian Bible.

To the middle-Eastern Sufis who control all of the world's secret societies, ritual is also a way of life. One way they discovered that they could hide their presence in the affairs of state was to appoint purely cosmetic leaders who would appear to lead governments. However, the number 2, the Priests, were always to retain the reigns of power from behind the scene. Priests would always be more powerful than Kings, even though the public's perception would be channeled otherwise.



Revelation 13 — Power is handed over (temporarily) from Freemasons in the East to Freemasons in the West.

John of Patmos

The same number 2 being really number 1 is the formula that applies to government, the national military, business, organized religion and secret societies. This is why Canada's Privy Council Office (PCO) is more powerful than the Prime Minister's Office (PMO). It also explains why a CFO, a Chief Financial Officer in business, is more powerful than a CEO ; a corporate Board of Directors is more powerful than a President ; the Military-Industrial-Complex is more powerful than the Government ; a Colonel is in fact more powerful than a General ; a Bishop in the Church is more powerful than a Cardinal ; a Priest of Freemasonry is more powerful than a Master Mason, etc., etc..

Get ready folks, the years 2013 to 2025 are the 1700th anniversary of the "Edict at Milan", and 2. of the "Council at Nicea", respectively. That, in Qabbalarian terms is a number 8. It's the time of the birth of a SUPERMAN "AI", the Super 8 hermaphrodite.

Freemasonry is organized religion's

Conspiracy Theory

by: Glen Kealey

There are two great crimes in our society : having a functioning brain, and, using it.

This is especially true if one has concluded that Freemasonry's big G really stands for GRAFTING. Detecting the symbolism of Father Time as he takes a cutting (a scion) from the virgin's hair in order to determine her DNA structure is enough to get you into serious trouble with the predator-priests who control the 57 secret degrees of Freemasonry.

The "I am" priests whom we call Jesuits, believe that women are irrelevant in the context of coming space exploration and that's why they're helping Masonry to create hermaphrodites. Your "Pa" will also be your "Ma" if these men who wear dresses in public get their way.

Jesuits control the illusion side of Freemasonry. They create the seven veils in language, veils which are clearly defined in the New Testament. The word NEW, once deciphered, means "grafting, the plan for 2nd creation". The other word is TESTAMENT. It means "teaching the plan's way — ie: MA is a 10". Movies also create illusion. Along with George C. Raft acting the part of Al Cap(st)one, the first big crime boss of Chicago, Raft also played a vital role as the real life Caliph of Hollywood California. Movies about gangsters who operated openly in Chicago served a secret purpose which was not easily understood by the majority. As the movie Midnight Express kept people away from Turkey, gangster movies kept many honest people from moving to Chicago. This is what allowed Masons to operate more freely in the Second City.

Chicago is the home of the Rockefeller Foundation. It is also the headquarters of the coming "Food Cartel". Water diversion from the Great Lakes to the Mississippi, built by the US Marines' Engineering Corps., guarantees the constant supply of fresh water to the east side of the North American food basket. What is now required is a second matching stream of fresh water down the western edge of North America's "big farm". And that's where former prime minister Brian Mulroney comes back into our lives. As a director of ADM he is directing the construction of the Grand Canal. When completed, in 2015, the new canal will move fresh water from British Columbia and Manitoba, through Alberta and Saskatchewan and be diverted south to Colorado, Nevada and Arizona. A food cartel is Masonry's capstone.

This also explains the emphasis being placed, by Hollywood, on rigged gambling and other criminal activities that are being highlighted in movies such as Casino. It reminds us of Steven Spielberg, the premier Hollywood shape-shifter, who first introduced us to a new bisexed male gender, the HERMAPHRODITE, in a flick he was instructed to title "Close encounters of a third kind".

ANALYSIS

Jesuit — Je Suis — I Am

★ "Yes U It" ! ★

by: Glen Kealey

"I am that I am". In French, "Je suis qui je suis".

Qui? Qui, means "whom" in French. The answer for the Jesuits is obvious - Yes U it !

In the Middle East the modern letter J is pronounced as Y. It's Yerusalem, not Jerusalem. The name is pronounced Your U, Salem. There4, the real name of Freemasonry's controllers must be "Yes U it" and not Jesuit, as pronounced in English.

The language of the MAYA, the native priests who lived in Central America, was Quiché. The Maya were North America's first indigenous corporate pipe carriers. May is also the fifth month of the year. Thursday, (boys night out) is the fifth day of the week. The numb'er 5 is drawn by combining a right angle above a dome shape below. It is lying on its side. May is a big month with Freemasonry, because it is also the month of Mary, Communism and the Illuminati; their creations.

The letters that make up Qui also appear in the name Algon*qui*n. Qu appears in the names *Qu*ebec and Qu'appel, which is the valley by which Freemasons expect to divert Canadian fresh-water from Manitoba (Manito-u-BA) in the first phase of diverting water to Colorado; through the Mulroney / LaFarge Grand Canal. Qui is also part of the name of the capital of Ecuador. *Qui*to, is located in the Andes mountains of South America. This is the area where the Incas first appeared (incus is the hammer in your ear) . They were followed by the Maya who in turn were followed by the Aztecs. The Aztecs (as tex) became Texas.

The Jesuits were number two when the Spaniards looted, raped and pillaged Mexico. Twenty-four million Mexicans died in seventy-five years. They were also number two when the opium wars were taking place ip China and south-east Asia, and again, these Black Robes were number two when the French first came to Quebec. It was the land of Pontiac (which, in French, means .....the pont <bridge> .....iac <I Am controlling>), and therefore, the Al-gon-qui-ns.

A second is the smallest unit of time. Ask yourself why (Ÿ), on your clock, that a second is really the first ? Isn't that just like a Jesuit, to always be numb'er 2 ?

"The first duty of a good spy is to denounce as spies those whom he has infiltrated."

One cannot be anything else but impressed and flattered at the quantity, if not the quality, of individual Masons, whether they be initiates of a Lodge or "of like mind" and thereby otherwise informally connected, who were sent to me over the years in a silly and failed attempt to divert me from my task.

Sorry to have disappointed you all !

Don't bury the Tragedy at Gustafson Lake

by: The Sculptor

In 1995 a modest native Tamanawas or sun dance ceremony at Gustafson Lake, BC, burst into an angry dispute over title to a small patch of ranch land and the most severe police and military crackdown in BC's history.

The little band of 18 dissidents justified their stand by invoking Canada's Constitution, which confirmed the status of their sacred grounds as unceded Native territory. Very quickly police blocked reporters from direct contact with the natives who were then referred to, by the police and media, as "Indian renegades". And once the protestors were prevented from telling their side of the story, at least the side they knew about, the RCMP characterized them and their controversial lawyer, Bruce Clark, as criminals and terrorists.

Before the confrontation ended, more than 400 RCMP and Canadian army personnel lined up against the 18 native and newcomer protestors who called themselves "Defenders of the Shuswap Nation".

In an 11 page report on CBC's coverage in 1995, the corporation's ombudsman David Bazay details how the RCMP commandeered unmediated access to the airwaves of CBC Radio in British Columbia.

Jeffrey Dvorkin, who was head of the CBC Radio News, was contacted during the height of the standoff by RCMP Staff Sergeant Peter Montague. Reportedly, Peter Montague told Dvorkin that a "hostage taking" was under way and lives were at stake. The only way to avert tragedy, Montague reportedly said, was for the CBC to allow a Native police agent to broadcast an unedited message.

Dvorkin reportedly gave the RCMP the benefit of the doubt. He later learned, however, that Montague had lied. As Bazay reported, Dvorkin's subsequent letter of complaint to the RCMP received no response.

In characterizing the quality of police-media relations throughout the whole RCMP episode, Bazay wrote: "there was no way (for reporters) to confirm if the RCMP were giving the full story—or the degree to which it was sanitized or exaggerated— or if they were giving any part of the story at all."

He noted that the RCMP later acknowledged (when they were forced to testify in court under oath), that they used "psychological warfare" whose aim was "to smear the reputations (to dis-inform the public) and to destroy the creditability of the protestors."

Bazay's report is the most recent addition to an overwhelming body of evidence showing that police systematically and repeatedly lied to the media and the public to discredit not only the dissidents in the native camp, but also the very serious legal and political arguments they were trying to make.

In the words of the apologist Vancouver Province columnist Joey Thompson, the media "got had". After occasionally dropping in on the eight-month criminal trial of the Shuswap Defenders, she concluded that much of what the RCMP reported in 1995 "was a crock" and that reporters had overwhelmingly bought the RCMP myth of "our men in red blazers against trigger-crazed Indian thugs".

So far there has been no great chorus of mea culpas nor any vast outcry demanding a public investigation into what really happened. Moreover, no one, not even the national media has reported on the direct family connections of the white instigators (who bought the only three 16 mm semi-automatic rifles for the dissidents) and the enormously powerful Rockefeller family; nor, about the direct involvement and "connections" of supposedly freelance journalists; nor, of the RCMP's audio-visual recording specialist's own secret connections to Canadian "military spies", employed at the Communications Security Establishment (CSE).

Instead, this sad episode suggests that virtually anything goes when it comes to the dirty business of demonizing and wrongfully criminalizing the militant wing of the Original Peoples sovereignty movement.

John Shafer, a tenacious cyber-warrior who hosts a University of Victoria campus radio show, has almost single-handedly kept the issue alive within the media. "Gustafson epitomizes in many ways the Canadian (national media's) way of 'disappearing' an issue—studied indifference," he says.I believe that the RCMP management's smear campaign has served many political agendas since 1995, the least of which was meant to enhance the RCMP rank-and-file's credibility in the eyes of average Canadians.

One purpose was to protect the fragile structure of phony BC treaty negotiat-ions. The secret sponsors of the governments of Canada and BC wanted to continue the illusion of bargaining with those band chiefs whom, with large sums of money, they control. This framework makes the BC land theft from the Original Peoples themselves more palatable to the larger Canadian population.

A less acceptable alternative is to allow it to spill into forums of international law, where the only the most naive among us still believe is where the question of Native land titles belongs.

The Gustafson group harboured some of the pre-eminent advocates of moving the whole complex title issue to an international venue (mostly as a result of misguided advice received from their Scottish trained lawyer, Bruce Clark).

Of course this tactic might accidently expose the bias of the international courts and the United Nations in favour of the position being dictated to them by their international sponsors,—primarily the same Rockefeller family mentioned previously as being directly involved in this story.

I contend that the hidden agenda of the RCMP and Canadian military brass at Gustafson Lake as well as at the subsequent trial was: first, to discredit the RCMP as a sovereign Canadian police force; secondly, to destroy the obvious legality of the Original Peoples message, by smearing and/or killing its most committed messengers; and finally, to buy time for the corrupt Nisga'a BC land treaty template then to be completed.

It cannot be overlooked that in 1995 there was significant political mileage gained from a get-tough approach directed at the Original Peoples, and especially at the media-styled "renegade Indians". In fact, the only real Indian involved was the Attorney-General himself, Ujjal Dosanjh.

While there is an incentive in the media, police and military, to treat the Gustafson story as old news, that view is unsupportable. Attorney-General Ujjal Dosanjh, who was responsible for local police operations at Gustafson Lake, is now the leading candidate for the position of NDP leader. A victory would make him Premier without having to face the electorate. His handling of this media event requires scrutiny and discussion.

And there is the case of Mike Schleuter, a retired army sergeant, who is suing the federal government for $3 million because he lost his hand when one of the explosive devices he was setting around the natives protest camp, accidentally went off. His accident was part of the federal military's extensive involvement, code named Operation Wallaby by the former Chief of the Canadian Defense Staff, General John de Chastelaine.

Schlueter's injury points to the discrepancy between what the Canadian government called the military's "advisory role" and what was really going on in the media-no-go-zone. For example, I have seen video tape of an explosive device being detonated as a truck carrying two protestors on their way to pick up native negotiators ran over it. Such a device, I believe, can appropriately be described as a land mine. I'm not alone in my suspicion that the Canadian government set land mines around the protest camp.

In 1996, Professor Philip Stemming of the Centre of Criminology at the University of Toronto wrote to the Globe and Mail, remarking on the distance between rhetoric and action as Canada took a leading role in pushing for a land mine treaty just after it had used these same devices at Gustafson Lake.

"Why, and by what authority (and on whose authority) was such a 'device' deployed? ....and why were these questions not pressed and answered at the time? asked Stemming.

Could the answer lie in the way Judge Josephson politicized the trial by providing judicial cover for the top instigators in the RCMP, military, BC's Attorney-General's office and Canada's Privy Council? Unlike Joey Thompson of the Province, most people who really attended the trial throughout think so.

Three years later, those questions still have not been addressed despite Canada having played a leading role as a global land-mines opponent. How would Canada be viewed if it were revealed that the last time Canada deployed land mines was in 1995, against the Original Peoples, and within its own boundaries? Can we imagine any native group invoking the law of self-defence to protect physically any river, any mountain, any forest, or any sacred site anywhere in the Americas, without being labeled as radicals and terrorists by the local authorities?

The extreme reaction to the native assertion of an Original peoples right to control a tiny spiritual site, points to the fragility of Canada's claims that the rule of law prevails over political expediency when it comes to governing the country's natives.

One way to address the issue might be to grant certain informed private persons request for a full public inquiry into the relationship of the RCMP with Original Peoples. This inquiry would have to deal with the illegal tactics repeatedly employed and approved by the RCMP brass in their many confrontations with native activists. It should also look at the role of lawyers hired by legal aid to, supposedly, defend the natives. It would also have to explain why almost half of the people killed by the RCMP throughout its history have been natives.

The need to turn the page on this dark chapter points to the importance of fairer treaty negotiations, in BC as in every other Province or Territory. A key element in the successful resolution of the land dispute, however, must be a public airing of the abuses of our public and private institutions in the country's continuing war on Original Peoples. The exercise itself should inform Canadians at large about the unfairness of the process and tactics used to date.

If an RCMP officer could tell the CBC a lie in order to gain unedited access to our public airwaves, and they were naive or dumb enough to fall for it, what else might the Mounties and the media have concocted in their spin and disinformation campaign to demonize the Shuswap Defenders? Glen Kealey of CIPI, the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity, could speak volumes about that issue.

Before a lasting resolution of land treaties is allowed to continue, there must be some grappling with who decided on the name, aim and methods of Operation Wallaby and the infamous boasts of Staff Sergeant Montague that smear campaigns are an RCMP specialty.

Editor's Note: The Sculptor wishes to thank Professor Hall of the University of Lethbridge, Alberta for his excellent draft of this article.

Unfortunately, Professor Hall did not attend the trial, as did the Sculptor, and therefore his information is second-hand.

Likewise, the RCMP brass has denied much of the information contained in both Professor Hall's draft and the subsequent story as it was edited and published here by The Sculptor.

Fortunately, our readers need not guess at who is telling the truth, since a video tape of the RCMP meetings is available from the Defenders of the Shuswap Nation. Only small portions of the 46 hours of video tape were allowed to be entered as evidence by the judge during the trial. They were critical to the aquittals.

The video tape is available and can be purchased from the Defenders (see the ad which is printed on this page).

Corporate Pipe Carriers They made a U turn

by: Glen Kealey

Did you know that before Europeans began to make the Christian sign of the cross on their foreheads, hoping to protect themselves from evil spirits (evil is "live" spelled backwards) they had another sign? It was the sign of the bull, known as Taurus ♉ in the Zodiac. This "pagan" message meant—Tau R us—we come and go ! The symbol is composed of an O, which stands for original peoples, complete with a U on its top, like horns on a bull's head. In one Masonic symbolism the U stands for making a U turn. The Cretans (13,000 BC), the Phoenicians (4,000 BC) and the Vikings (800 AD) had each functioned as Freemasonry's paid Corporate Pipe-Carriers. Each had distributed, in turn, numerous versions of very similar middle-Eastern art and culture, complete with at least one Sun based religion and along with any single one of the 4000 different pre-coded Masonic languages, to every corner of the globe.

As their first symbol, peoples before our time had used the "mark of the T ", or Tau cross. It is the main symbol of the Taoists that is in use in the middle east and all the way to China. The T which comprises only of those parts from the cross-bar down, without any extension appearing above the cross bar, symbolizes the role of the user as being that of simple transmitter of energy and/or information. Toaists were never intended to be the end users of any energy or information in their own right, but were simply born to be bees : "worker-bees". Best of all for their controllers was the fact that they all insisted they had been born to bee free. That's right, to work like bees for free, ie: No Charge !

Later, 1700 years ago, there appeared the new Christian cross which is still in use to this day—✝. This new cross symbolizes Masonry's long underground journey —north out of Africa ; the eventual creation in the middle east of a Sun centered religion which is most commonly depicted by the Zodiac ; and then, a step-by-step expansion in all four directions across the globe and finally, —travel beyond the original limits of this earth's sun. This sign implies a final journey towards the stars, to explore the universe in all four directions, outside of our solar system.

To understand this symbolism begins by knowing that when you "understand" you are in fact "standing under" when what you should really be doing with your quest for the truth is "over standing". Over-standing simply implies that you are outside and above Freemasonry's ability to control your mind.

All 26 of the major organized religions and every one of the 4,000 languages we use were created by secret societies such as the Freemasons. Freemasons are creatures of ritual and habit. Once they establish their civic structure among the intended users they will always move away, out of the limelight, until such time as the users accept the new culture as their own. Then, they order the agents who act in public on their behalf (an ab-originals of any race, colour or breed), to, for some reason or other, outlaw the particular culture, religion or language from everyday use.

The peoples normal reaction is then to fight like hell to keep the very things that bind them to their control. As a result they don't need military force to control us, all they need is to convince us that the "system" they've created for us is the safest place for us to bee. Like fish in the sea we fall for it hook, line and sinker.

By the way, have you ever wondered why our attendance at school is now mandatory? Just watch how a school of fish responds to the orders of their leaders; then you will know.

Why media and police can't tell you the truth

by: Glen Kealey

One might wonder at times why it is so difficult for Police Chiefs, News Editors and Publishers to investigate those obvious areas of criminal activity that go on right under their noses. It is especially difficult for the women who surround them in their work. These women are not aware of the oaths that their bosses, spouses, fathers or boy-friends swore to abide by, before they even knew what they were getting into, when they joined Freemasonry. Here is what that oath says:

1 — "That no person shall be accepted a Freemason or know the secrets of the said society until he has first taken an oath of secrecy hereafter following."

2 — "I, A.B. (name of Adept Brother), do, in the presence of Almighty God and my Fellows and Brethren here present, promise and declare, that I will not at anytime hereafter, by any act or circumstance whatsoever, directly or indirectly, publish, discover, reveal or make known any of the secrets, privileges, or counsels of the fraternity or fellowship of Free Masonry, which at this time, or at any other time hereafter, shall be made known to me. So help me God and the holy contents of this book."

So there ! Don't ever say you weren't told.

Is Freemasonry out to destroy the RCMP ?

by: Glen Kealey

When added to the events at Gustafson Lake as reported here, obviously, someone is out to destroy the RCMP.

First it was Norman Lester of Radio Canada and the stories he ran about the RCMP's drug peddling in the 1970's and 80's.

Then, along comes reporter Andrew McIntosh formerly of Southam and now with the Financial Post, who told us all about the RCMP laundering billions in drug money in Montreal and Vancouver, and then, about a member's suicide at RCMP HQ.

Next, in 1996, we got copies of the RCMP's "Worst Home Videos", made in 1995 by CSE, the Canadian military's Security Establishment (Norm Torp), during the Gustafson Lake standoff. These 45 hours of live video detail the scene as RCMP "members" propose murder, and, how to "smear natives and disinform the public".

Lately, it's been that pepper spray affair and the APEC inquiry, with Chretien's refusal to attend, that is the talk of Vancouver. He's got to be on his way out too.

And, if that wasn't enough, now it's the Dutch clown, Wiebo Ludwig, performing his victim act in an Alberta courtroom. He's a real estate agent for the Oil Companies who says he's fighting the petroleum giants on behalf of God and the little guy.

Can all of these apparently coincidental judicial seances just happen on their own? Of course not. A preponderance of the circumstantial evidence suggests that there is a hidden puppeteer tugging on the strings of their agents, within the RCMP, media and judicial systems.

Our first question is, will the front-line RCMP go down without a struggle, as the RCMP BRASS expect them too? Secondly, will the RCMP's police function then be taken up by an international ERT ? And finally, has the RCMP run-out of its usefulness to the French Predator-Priests and German Alchemical interests who control the RCMP B-R-ASS ? The answer to all three questions appears to be YES !

Open letter to the Editors of Canada's Media

by: Glen Kealey

My name is Glen Kealey. I am the Founder, Chairman and President of a federally incorporated national non-profit organization (1992) called the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity.

The key word in our name is for. Without the little word for our name would be an oxymoron. Political integrity does not exist and never has.

I take no pride in saying that because for 44 years of my life I, like most people, had been taken in by the hype that was created to sell the illusion that Canada was a Democracy, a country ruled by laws made by and on behalf of the people.

After assisting at the presentation in 1991 of a preponderance of evidence to the contrary, ie: testimony given by a former Cabinet Minister and seven members of the RCMP Economic Crimes Unit, this evidence, combined with the hypocrisy of the politicians on Parliament Hill which I personally observed, began to give me doubts as to my overall views.

These doubts led me to give up my then preoccupation with my personal comforts and I undertook what became a 13 year, nation-wide search for truth.

Today I am convinced that I, as well as others who have worked with me lately, have uncovered overwhelming evidence that proves beyond a shadow of a doubt that we've all been fooled. The difficulty that remains is how best to communicate this information to a population that has been programmed to reject it.

Since each of us has developed certain opinions, whether political, religious, patriotic or for other reasons, such as the need to compete in business, or to combat fear, we have come to believe that we preserve our "personal integrity" by adopting positions we never question. These positions are our Sacred Cows. Once our minds are made up we refuse to question these Sacred Cows, they are "our" opinions.

But, what if the facts (otherwise known as history) that we were taught as children were wrong. What if, unknowingly, our caregivers had simply repeated these "facts" about which they, also, had been misled, because some secret group of elitists who think they know what's best for us, wanted to control them too?

This would mean that all of our "opinions" are founded on lies, because they are built on a wrong premise. We all know that an addict has to admit having an addiction before he can be cured of it. After 13 years of personal hands-on study and "pushing the envelope", so to speak, I now know for certain what is really going on in politics. I readily admit that I had been fooled because, at the time, I accepted views based on my faith in the caregiver. I now accept that that was wrong. However, I cast no blame on my parents, teachers, priests, or even the media. They simply had been fooled as well.

Now, can someone please tell me how I can communicate the solution to our common problem to my friends and neighbours who don't know, or don't want to admit, that they, too, have been fooled ?

Police Chiefs silence borders on contempt

by: Glen Kealey

Freemasonry is mysterious, and mystery is usually open to suspicion. But your police Chiefs don't seem to care. Neither does the National Media. As a matter of fact few people in charge ever seem to care about anything. When you pay taxes to help care for the poor all the elites do is search for volunteers to do the work that you've already paid for with your money, sweat and tears : "....lend me your eers".

For your controllers you are just "worker- or military-bees" living out the program that they implanted in your brain. Troglodytes themselves must live in greater comfort and security, in the icy caves of Greenland and Antarctica where they have made their homes.

Some say "A wish is father to the thought and this thought creates the will". Masons know all about this concept and that is why they created the English language. Along with their other symbols and numb'ers it's their universal language. Your wishes, far from materializing your own will, because of the 17th century New English words that you must learn and use without ever understanding their true meaning, you are unwittingly continuing to materialize your controllers wishes. It's a condition of utter barbarism by which you gradually lower yourself to a lesser state of civilization.

No one ought to be a silent witness to their own enslavement. But you are the sheeple and Police Chiefs view you with contempt.

Masons have at all times communicated to mankind only such secrets as might be useful to them alone, and have kept back those that might assist you to expose their evil intent. They have carefully reintroduced the wisdom of the ages only to those who do their bidding, always when it's convenient to their cause and, only on a "need to know" basis. Its always been that way in agriculture, architecture, astronomy, geometry, arithmetic, the law, music, poetry, chemistry, government and religion. They teach teachers.

Rosicrucians and Jesuits have fabricated all the miracles that you are told about. They orchestrate future events and claim to be fortune-tellers and mind-readers. In agriculture they re-create life through genetic manipulation and grafting, and then, force you to buy their chemicals, without which these modified plants won't grow. They create fear and hysteria every day on television, and then, sell you the pills they make to calm you down.

And what are our police doing about these atrocious crimes. ABSOLUTELY NOTHING. Instead, they seek tighter gun control laws to disarm you. Meanwhile, squeegee kids, panhandlers and prostitutes get most of their attention.

The Rulers and the Ruled

How it all began

A hot cloud vibrating in space cooled into a sun rotating on its axis, and revolving round a point to us unknown ; this sun cast off a piece, which went out like a coal that leaps from the fire, and sailed around the sun a cinder wrapped in smoke, and as it cooled, strange forces worked within it, and varied phenomena appeared upon its surface ; it was covered with a salt sea ; the smoke cleared off ; the sunlight played upon the water ; gelatinous plants and animals appeared ; at first simple in their forms, becoming more complex as the forces which acted on them increased in complexity ; the earth wrinkled up ; the mountains and continents appeared ; rain-water ascended from the sea, and descended from the sky ; lakes and rivers were created ; the land was covered with ferns, and gigantic mosses, and grasses tall as trees ; enormous reptiles crawled upon the earth, frogs as large as elephants, which croaked like thunder ; and the air, which was still poisonous and cloudy, was cleared by the plants feeding on the coaly gas ; the sun shone brightly ; sex was invented ; love was born ; flowers bloomed forth, and birds sang ; mammoths and mastodons reveled upon the infinity of pastures ; the world became populous ; the struggle for life became more severe ; animals congregated together ; some learned to throw missiles with their hands ; thus using their hands, they walked chiefly with their feet ; then fire was discovered, and, by a series of accidents, its various uses were revealed ; however, the biggest danger proved internal to the clan of human animals, when sexual predators created fear, by establishing secret brotherhoods, which eventually gave them hidden control over clan politics, leading to the imposition of systemic domination, and a dramatic reversal in development.

Then, male struggled against male for spouses, herd struggled against herd for subsistence ; the special nation of human animals, possessing intelligence and sociability, now under the control of predators, were exposed to peculiar dangers ; as a means of resistance, they combined more closely ; but as they combined more closely the hidden controllers gave them language that confused them as much as it helped them ; now, they expressed objects by conventional sounds or words ; delighting more and more to interchange ideas, and war ; sharpening stones and pointing sticks, heading javelins with bone and horn, inventing snares and traps ; the art of agriculture, domestication, and river navigation were reacquired ; the tribes migrating from the forests were scattered over the world ; their canoes of hollow trees skimmed the tepid waters of the Indian Ocean ; their kayaks of skin dashed through the icy waves of Antarctic and Arctic seas ; in valleys between mountains, or in fertile river plains, they nurtured seed-bearing grasses into grain ; over pastoral mountains, or sandy deserts, or broad grassy steppes, they wandered with their flocks and herds ; then, shepherd tribes controlled by the ancient predator-priests poured down onto the plains, subdued the inhabitants and reduced them to serfdom ; thus the modern nation was established, and consisted at first of two great classes—the rulers and the ruled.

The Sculptor

A New Paradigm for Humanity

by: The Sculptor

We believe that a number of people who will find fault with our findings will have done so because they measure what we say against existing views of world history. Some may raise genuine points where we have got some detail wrong, or just want to enter a healthy debate. However, in our view, there are also those who may believe that they have the duty to protect long-established dogma, created largely by Freemasons who hide behind the great illusions known as politics, free trade, organized religion and the military-industrial-complex. The more "expert" they consider themselves to be, the less prepared most of them are to consider a new way of looking at history. Some are naive but most are being paid big bucks to defend the status quo.

What we have put forward in our public meetings, workshops as well as in the Kealey Papers, amounts to such a radical reappraisal of the world's history that it is simply not possible to dismiss elements of our findings on the grounds that they conflict with established assumptions. Our explanation for the existence of "the mess we're in" has to be discussed on its own merits, and then compared (as a complete alternative) to the standard accepted theories about mankind's origin.

Our efforts over the last fourteen years differ from those of modern researchers in that we have "walked the talk". We have investigated a total context without any regard to the difficulties that may arise later in communicating our views to others, but only with regard to the new premise that was uncovered from a preponderance of the evidence that was before us. It is clear to us that one cannot understand "the mess we're in" until one understands Freemasonry, the only secret society that has the power to pull strings behind the scene everywhere around the world.

To use another analogy, we feel a little like Galileo trying to persuade the establishment that the world is round and that it orbits the sun, not the other way around. Try telling most people in a democracy that all elections are rigged before they even cast their vote, by financiers who sponsor all sides in the contest. Also, try to tell these same voters that the news they hear or read has been culled from all the real information that would allow them to make a truly informed decision. If you don't believe this is true, ask people you know "who created the Canadian national media companies?" whose views they accept without question, as if they were their own. Most people believe that the national media and associated polling companies are owned by nice people just like themselves.

Worst of all, how many of your friends and neighbours understand, for some financial people, money is just something that they create out of thin air, by an entry on a computer ; that politicians aren't in charge ; or, that a university education is really designed to dumb you down?

Such is the challenge we accept today. We, at CIPI, "are capable of expectation. Without a sense of expectation, their can never again be paradise."

Breaking the Codes

The following are Freemasonry's "two secret keys", the gold and silver keys. They can be used only by those who understand allegory and need to decipher the Predator Priests' agenda for the End Times.

The first key is the word Liber which, in the Mason dictionary, means "The Book". The Book is the second book depicted in Masonry's important symbols. It is shown as an open book (Enoch - The Book of Truth) with the words "I am the truth" printed on it. One allegory for this symbol is "The Book of Ruth", which itself is found in the Bible.

The Book of Ruth is a tale about two women. This book relates to Freemasonry's step-by-step systematic plan, ie: Seduction and Tenacity lead to land acquisitions. The Book of Ruth also includes a second level of symbolism. Where Ruth is arrived at by ignoring the first "T" in truth, it also reveals "a symbol within a symbol". By dropping the letter "R", in Ruth, we arrive at Uth, which phonetically converts to Youth, and eventually to Uth-a, the current home state of the Mormons.

Liber is also the root word of Liber-als, of Liber-a-tion and of Liber-ace. These words are all symbols of the newly grafted gender which is to be introduced in the End Times by the Predator Priests who secretly control Masonry's B-r-ass. HER-MA-PHRO-DITE is the name of this new gender that will merge both male and female, mother and father, into a single body. It is symbolized by Scottish Rite Freemasonry's two-headed eagle. This is symbolic of the new species which the Predator Priests expect will eventually assure them "Eternal Life", by taking them into the universe, past our solar system. They plan to terra-form on a new plan-et located within the beneficial range of a younger sun (youth). This is the Masonic solution to creating Eternal Life. The word Predator is symbolic of their journey — it "pre dates gold". Silver is #2 and in Masonry #2 is always more important than #1.

The second key is the word Tor. It means Hill or Rocky Peak, as is found in both Devon and Cornwall. Devon was the name used by former Prime Minister Brian Mulroney on his secret Swiss bank account. Peaches and cream corn symbolizes the result obtained from grafting two different strands of DNA. As well, the word Torah is symbolic of the number 5 which, itself, is symbolic of Freemasonry. It stands for the first 5 books of the Bible, the Mason Bib, or apron. It may be very significant that Tor Bay is located 5 miles north from St. John's, Newfoundland. Also, a Torch, as it is used in the Olympics, is a symbol which refers to the secret Mission of Tor. "Tor" is also the root of the name Toronto (onto Tor).

Tori, is of Torus, which is a "donught shaped chamber". It signifies the underground Troglodyte network which is being used by Predator Priests, since "Time Immemorial". Finally, a Tory is a Jacobite. The name identifies those who share power with ancient Predator Priests. #2 is #1.

Journalistic hostility to reality due to Education shaped by Masons

by: The Sculptor

The hostility to Kealey among ordinary journalists is simply a measure of their restrictions. They cannot judge his work as a whole because they have never been allowed to assimilate it : cannot survey it because they have never stood as high as his point of view. And of this restriction they have no suspicion. Brought up, living in a perpetual compromise, trained in institutions ruled by Freemasons and shaped to Masonic ends, how can they appreciate the original work of a pioneer, whose research begins where they are trained to stop? The strongest of them all has to bate his breath and pare his phrases when he deals with current sanctities.

The appreciation of Kealey's work will come from the people after it has been assimilated, not before; and the mass of his journalistic critics will have stood where they did simply because they were not permitted, by Masons, to do otherwise. In the consciousness of one who has passed through the curriculum universally prevailing to this date, there is no place for reality. "All the world's a stage."

The journalistic opposition to Kealey is therefore in large part the predictable outcome of the habit of mind.

This futility will be re-enacted in human affairs just so long as men fail to realize why it has been so often enacted before. The failure consists in their not having seen that if they have no new order of test they are in their criticism mere duplicates of those who stoned the truth-seekers in the past.

The new truth is to be appreciated only when universities are recognized to be "snares". Truth rises only when the educated man consents to think as if his education counted for nothing ; when he is ready to be shown that the new doctrine may be true, however it may derange his old conceptions ; when he perceives that to derange old conceptions is precisely the first step to be taken towards a new truth.

What is vital and distinctive is recognized by the thinkers of the day, but only in a most gradual and tentative fashion ; prompt response coming only from the most open-minded.

Let no young student, then, be browbeaten by journalistic consensus and let no innovating thinker be discouraged if, like Kealey, he first meets with but slow recognition, and later with the flat hostility of Masonry who resent the discovery of their secrets which they themselves cannot comprehend. That is the sure price and penalty of originality, so long as men have not learned to transcend the spontaneous stupidity of the past by seeing that their instinctive resistance to the new is just the psychic course of the past gone over again.

Expect truth - nothing less.

Precession and the ZODIAC

by: Glen Kealey

"Precession" is described in the dictionary as a noun meaning : The motion of the axis of rotation of a spinning body (e.g. a gyroscope) about a line that makes an angle with it, so as to describe a cone. It is caused by a torque acting on the rotation axis to change its direction, and is a motion continuously at right angles to the plane of the torque causing it and the angular momentum vector of the spinning body.

"Pre" is described as : beforehand (preparatory to) before, in front of (in location, order of importance or degree etc.).

The dictionary also describes the word "cession" as : the act of ceding or giving up (such things as land, property, rights etc.). It's a word originating from a root in the French language.

Now, have you guessed what the ancient Freemasons meant when they first designed and named the signs and degrees of the Zodiac ? Think about it, a cone sucks in to its base. It never blows out, unless it's a trumpet that makes noise — to announce their arrival! A precession is a funnel that sucks in all of the resources which were intended to be your birthright. It gives Freemasonry's leaders much pleasure, or "fun", as in funnel. Unquestionably, Zodiac signs are the visible public symbols of their Master's plan to take away your "land, property, rights, etc.".

Freemasonry created the vortex that caused cartels to come about. This is called "involution". It reverses the Creator's "evolution". They are the revolutionaries. That's why the Zodiac begins with the sign "Aries". We are not revolutionaries, we simply want to reverse their process and return to the Creator's original plan !

In Masonic hieroglyphics an O stands for Original Peoples, while an X means "to be abolished or eliminated". Being an X makes one irrelevant. Simply put, a "beast of burden".

Also, is it any wonder that the O is included within the design of the second symbol in the Zodiac which is Taurus (♉) ?

As with time on the clock, the smallest unit being "a second", the coded message must be that the second is really the first !

This would also explain why, in the military, Colonels know more about what is really going on than do Generals; in business, Chief Financial Officers (CFO's) know more than the Chief Operating Officers (COO's); in organized religion, Arch Bishops know more than Cardinals, and finally; in politics, Deputy Ministers know more than Ministers.

As well, the 5th symbol of the Zodiac, Leo, being the only true mark of Masons, describes this principle to a T, while the 4th symbol, that which signifies Equilibrium, describes only the illusion. It's much the same with the months of the year, where April, the 4th month, symbolizes April Fools, while May, the 5th month, is the month that gave birth to such earth shattering events as the establishment of the Illuminati and Communism. May is also the month of Mary in the Catholic church. Mary is Freemasonry's coded word for Mar is Y. It means the sea (mara) is the original androgynous, hermaphrodite, virgin mother.

Also, did you ever wonder why women are said to have only X chromosomes while men have both X and Y ? Could it be that X is "the mark of the beast" which is being spoken about in the Bible, in John's "Revelations"? (Bible is really "le bib" — two words meaning the Masonic apron). Afterall, anyone who would sign their name with an X, would always viewed by these E lites (lite E) as being of a lower class and ultimately, irrelevant.

Think about it folks, we've all been had by the controllers of Freemasonry.

This is the plan for the end times
Can you read it ?

♈ ♉ ♊ ♋ ♌ ♍ ♎ ♏ ♐ ♑ ♒ ♓

Grafting the Holy G Host

by: Glen Kealey

Graft: a shoot or scion inserted into a slit of stock, from which it receives sap. It is also the place where a graft is inserted. As well, it's an instance or the process of inserting a shoot or scion permanently by some form of surgery. In business and / or politics it is bribery used to secure illicit gains.

Take the letter "V" which stands for life (in French it's called vie) and then graft a capital "I" below the "V" and guess what, you've now created a "Y". That's one way to create new life forms from the existing originals.

Grafting was first explained in allegorical form in Chapter two of Genesis, in the Bible. It is the story of Adam (a dam) and Eve (new life created by the 'E' plan). The story of Adam and Eve is one of shapeshifting the original creation of both man and woman, as was first described in Chapter one of Genesis.

Genesis starts with the words "In the beginning". The word 'IN' describes it all. A single letter 'I' becomes 'N' once the graft has been added, which in this case is depicted by the cross bar that links both 'I's. The result is that one 1 becomes 2, in one. Masons describe this graft as "the way of one" known as "the stone", or st-one.

The letters "ING" and 'ANG' are the basis of the Ying and Yang, which stand for the concept called "equilibrium". In life if you're not "inging" you're probably "anging". And, I bet that you never suspected that an 'ANG' was just an "androgynous ING'.

Freemason allegory describes how, "in the End Times", both genders, male and female, will be merged together by grafting, so as to create a single gender that is androgynous and Hermaphrodite. Their symbol for this activity is the letter Y. That is why the letter Y appears ahead of 'ing' and 'ang', in order to create the two words Ying and Yang.

Jesuits, the "men who dress as women in public", have controlled the 57 higher degrees of Freemasonry since the sixteenth century. Before then they went under different names. Unless you wake up and take steps to prevent this plan from continuing, you are now living the last 40 years of the world as you know it. It's all just a matter of time.

Abba means Father, in Hebrew. Jesus Christ is the name we are told to call his Son.

Both of these individuals, father and son, are religious symbols that also explain the foundation on which modern Freemasonry was built in the real world.

What grass-root Masons are never told, however, is what their higher degrees, those beyond the 33rd, ultimately have in store for their sons. The 57, secret, higher degrees that direct the course of the lower, public 33 degrees, are made up of Rosicrucians, Jesuits and Sufis, just to name a few. In the distant past they have included such groups as the Gnostics, Hermetics and the Essenes.

What is most interesting about all of these groups, more than their differences, is what they all have in common. All are devoted to the same basic cause. Each has always been on a quest aimed at discovering "eternal life" and "the way of one". By that I mean; How to perfect the male gender to the point where males could also perform the task of creating life by themselves, without the assistance of the female?

Only this secret mission led by the brass of Freemasonry can explain why there has taken place, for 10,000 years, a continuous "war on women and original peoples" which is still ongoing today, across the entire surface of this plan-et.

Even those women who are given a temporary illusion of power will always find themselves the targets of accusations properly belonging to the hidden hand that controls all politics, religion, trade, the military and Freemasonry.

It is not mere coincidence that the letter G is the prime symbol of Freemasonry. It is not a coincidence either that it is used as the first letter of the name of the third person of the Trinity, the Holy Ghost. The G stands for GRAFT. The G means, that when it is finally grafted onto the Son, it will convert this male into a HERMAPHRODITE. The second person, the Son, then becomes the first, the "way of one". It will be their G raft across space and time. It is uni-vers-al. It is the andro-g-y-nous male.

Now you know why the National Media, the RCMP and our security forces (CSIS and the military) have not responded to the information that I have sent them, since our criminal charges were accepted against the Tories and the Brian Mulroney team but not taken to trial by the politicians who ran our courts in 1991.

The system itself is the CANCER

by: Glen Kealey

Every day the police and the media investigate and report back to you on the symptoms of "the political mess we're in". Both will only be too happy to investigate the outward signs of corruption, while also reporting on incompetence and mistakes. The media will also go as far as to bring you the so-called competing views of the "loyal" opposition, including those of the self-styled NGO's. What they don't tell you, however, is that they're all in this system to-get-her.

It's an ongoing war on women and natives. Most greedy men, as well as the women who act like men, those trained by the system to be control freaks, are falling head-over-heels to be part of it. Unfortunately, when they finally will understand that they were just pawns in a bigger game that is being played by predator-priests directing from behind the scene, it might then be too late for our survival, and even their own survival.

A growing cancer cannot be eliminated until it is starved out of existence. As long as we continue to feed the system with our taxes, and with our time, goods and services, we are on a sure path towards total annihilation. It's only a matter of time.

".....when good people stand by and do nothing".

This crazy plan which was first concocted in the "year of light" by the predator-priests is totally Ma-chi-ave-lia-n. The current English language, the Masonic code for 'The End Times', was constructed in Turkey, near the Hellespont, east of the Dardanelles, at Nicaea, where the Christian Bible had also been assembled. The word Machiavellian was defined, in the 16th century, as meaning "the mission of a newly grafted 'I am' androgynous male-mother". The 'I am' refers to the Jesuits who were also re-named in the 16th century. Their name also means 'I am', this time in the French language.

Franc-is Ba-con was assisted by the German "Pilgrims", the originators of the new Scottish-Swiss Geneva Bible, in formulating the draft which later became the "approved" King James version of the Bible. Bacon was also assisted in marketing the new English language by one Will-I-am Shakspere. The newly created Masonic Royal Society of the 17th century then introduced the English language to the world, as the new official international language of business, science and trade.

Glen Kealey's Wisdom Workshops

Uneducation that is more real and worth more to you than a university degree

Glen Kealey is the former National Capital commercial developer who, in 1991, exposed the system of organized crime and corruption run by ex-Prime Minister Mulroney's government, along with the complicity of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the Canadian Justice System.

As we approach the new millennium Glen Kealey has a "Strategic Plan" to share with those few, in Canada, who still have a "functioning brain". With these few Glen is willing to share what he has learned during his 13 year investigation of corruption in Canada. His research began in June 1986 when, as the President and Founder of the $160 million Micot project, he was asked for a bribe totalling in excess of $8 million, by the then Canadian Federal Minister of Public Works, Roch LaSalle.

When Glen emphatically declined Brian Mulroney's agent, Roch LaSalle, and his demand that he, Kealey, pay a bribe, the Federal government plotted his and his project's downfall. This action by the Mulroney government cost Canadians 5,000 jobs and Glen personally lost at least $23 million. The good side is that, as a result of this event, Glen became convinced that he alone had the evidence to bring this type of corrupt activity to an end.

In the summer of 1991 Glen Kealey entered an Ottawa courtroom. When he exited a month later, repercussion were heard around the world. The Canadian dollar dropped by a full cent and interest rates jumped 1%. Lying in the wake of the criminal charges that had been accepted by the court were: Mulroney's Chief of Staff, the three top Commissioners of the RCMP, four Senators including the President of the Senate and four of Prime Minister Mulroney's top Cabinet Ministers, along with sundry other "flunkies".

As a result of these charges, Mulroney was visited by one Peter Munk, President of the Canadian division of the powerful International Gold Cartel and promises were exchanged between them. Then, International Freemasonry, through its local agent, the Privy Council of Canada, ordered the Canadian Political and Justice Systems to close ranks against allowing most of these cases going to trial and a cover-up began. Only one Senator was eventually tried and found guilty. He still sits in the Senate, pending appeal.

Since then Glen Kealey has tracked International Freemasonry and has gained access to their most ancient secrets. Dating Freemasonry back to thousands of years BC and after tracking their "modus-operandi" Glen is now ready to share what he has found with other concerned Canadians. This information is the most helpful that you will ever receive as it answers the ultimate question: "What can I do about the mess we're in?".

Glen's "Strategic Plan" will commence on July 1, 2000, on Parliament Hill, in Ottawa. This is when Glen will know for certain how many "Canadians with a functioning brain" he has managed to identify in the past few years and what job, if any, still needs to be done to awaken the masses.

Are your friends MASONS ?

by: Glen Kealey

Manly P. Hall, a 32° Freemason, in his little book The Lost Keys of Freemasonry makes it abundantly clear that to be a Freemason one need not belong to a lodge. This is what he says:

"A Mason is not necessarily a member of a lodge. In a broad sense, he is any person who daily tries to live the Masonic life, and to serve intelligently the needs of the Great Architect." Mr. Hall also states "Masonry is a university teaching the liberal arts and sciences of the soul to all who will attend to its words".

Obviously, since the root of the word university is universe, which means a single truth, the inference is that one can detect a Mason not only by his deeds, such as by joining a lodge, but also by his words.

The History of Freemasonry also confirms this fact when it states "a lawyer, and therefore, a Theoretic Mason" affirms that upon entering the legal establishment one automatically becomes a Mason. Anyone who has seen how quickly the Law Society can move to investigate and disbar any lawyer who refuses to abide by their oath to defend the system knows what I mean.

Freemasonry has many parts. Sectarian religion is its visible side. That is why the Catholic church calls itself the Holy See.* Lodge members are the feet. "Lend me your eers". Politics is their mouthpiece. Its highest ranking members would necessarily have names that relate to that function. The name Bush is rooted in the French word bouche, which stands for mouth. Also, the name Al Gore is linked to the secret method of oral communications used by Masons called allegory.

Free trade is linked to business. Business is the-so-called legitimate side of activity performed by Masons. The term business relates to its two components, the words busy and ness. To be busy like a bee is the first part while the second part refers to an allegory which is From the highest mountain to the lowest valley. The lowest valley in Scotland is below sea level. It's Loch Ness. These words symbolize that "one key (or lock) are the letters ness — as in the words Essenes, chess and essence". The keys refer back to the title of Manly Hall's book, The Lost Keys of Freemasonry. These are the gold and silver keys to Mason ciphers or codes. Either is turned clockwise or counter-clockwise.

The military is of course the army which is the arm, and the navy is the belly button. Entry into the Troglodyte Freemason underground headquarters is through underground caves, often underwater. This is why the German navy were the first to use U boats or submarines.

Until ordinary people who are caught up in this absolutely devious plan without their consent realize that they are also being lied to by the predator priest who concocted the plan decide to unilaterally withdraw from it, the plan will march on. Nobles are their brass. The word Nobles comes from the words Les bon, in French. It means Good Guys. The word Brass means B-R-Ass !

When you're feeling low be thankful you're not a

Royal Arch Mason

by: Glen Kealey

As stated, National Media, Police and Politicians are silent on the only matter which should be of most concern to Canadians.

When these so-called protectors of Canada's sovereignty were initiated into Freemasonry they began a journey from which they were told that there was no turning back.

When one journey's upwards through the 90 levels of Freemasonry it becomes evident to the individual who undertakes this journey that the secret Quest which is about to become his "Life Path" had not been made totally clear to him from the outset.

If it had been made clear, that low-level Masonry was intended as a veil to cover the most atrocious crimes imaginable against humanity as a whole, I doubt that Masonry would ever have attracted the 500 million or so followers they now have around the world.

However, once these initiates are in, once they have sworn allegiance to the gang who control "A SYSTEM of morality, veiled in allegory and illustrated by symbols", Masonry's Predator-Priests who now control them will, slowly, tell them what their real job is.

Upon being promoted beyond the 3rd degree, into the company of Royal Arch Masons, they are sworn to "hear, see and be silent". This is how they are trapped. This is why your Police, your Media and your Politicians seem to do nothing about the greatest criminal activity which only a few initiates will ever come to discover.

Because of this oath, these naive individuals believe that it is a matter of honour that they not expose the ultimate grand crime ever perpetrated against mankind, at a time when it is still possible to prevent it. Naively, they place their oath to this mob (short for Nobles) squarely ahead of the lives of their mothers, fathers, wives, sons, daughters and humanity as a whole. How much more naive can one be? What on earth can we say that would convince these initiates to tell the truth, to free them from these silly vows they took and expose the crimes. This is the only question of significance that remains. Otherwise, the Sufi's Qabbala that originally created the "mess were in" will be carried to its ultimate conclusion, by the Predator-Priests of Germany, France and Scotland.

Masonry — A cult of Serpent Worshipers

Straight from the Horse's Mouth

by: Glen Kealey

Page 1702 of the History of Freemasonry by Albert Gallatin Mackey, M.D., 33°∴ and William R. Singleton, 33°∴ says it all. The following is being quoted verbatim.

"The Worship of individuals, either real or mythical, was transferred to animals, which were made to represent them ; as, from the doctrine of transmigration, the Soul of Osiris had passed into a Bull, that animal became the Supreme object of Worship ; as the Cat was for Diana, and the Cow for Isis. Now, writing Hieroglyphically contributes greatly to this Species of idolatry, and the Priests did then, as they have done ever since, in every form of worship, hold the power and the method of interpretation from all but those whom they chose to initiate into those mysteries, and concealed by this veil, so artfully thrown over their system, from all others.

Thus, the Hieroglyph for God was a Star, and the symbol of a star was a serpent, from whence proceeded the Universal Serpent Worship which extended over the whole World.

It would not be an unprofitable task to follow out to its legitimate conclusion the subject of the Serpent Symbol, but we shall only allude to some of the symbols in our further illustrations on the subject. It has been well settled that the serpent symbol was legitimately derived from the traditions of Paradise, so familiarly known and represented by all Nations of Antiquity, and in their religious rites, it may be said, 'The trace of the Serpent was over them all.'

From this meager sketch it may be seen how religion, which was first pure, and an earnest outpouring of the heart to the Great and beneficent Creator, degenerated into gross idolatry."

Editor's Note : Please observe how, by adding the single word Great in the last paragraph the authors of the above quotation have substituted the real Creator, for their politicized God, himself being only a figment of the Predator-Priests' imagination.

If this black and white Masonic evidence coming straight from the horse's mouth doesn't convince you, then, for you, I'm afraid nothing ever will.

Fylfot - it means

"Have a tough life"

by: Glen Kealey

The oldest Masonic symbol is the Fylfot. Now, read the word backwards, phonetically.

It means what it sounds like. Tough Life ! That's why they had the Nazis use the symbol throughout World War 11. It's the swastika.

The Fylfot can also be traced back to Troy, in 1200 BC and to Buddha, in 480 BC. It's the symbol that was used most often, in every part of the world, having been introduced to original peoples as a symbol of good luck, by the seafaring Phoenicians, starting in 4000 BC.

The swastika was to be used as a good sign or a bad sign. It's the ancient symbol meaning "involution" or "evolution", depending on which way it turns and which way the bars that are grafted to the cross bars face. Like a fan, it can either blow or suck.

Another symbol of Freemasonry, one that is also seen all over the world, is the five pointed star. 5 is the number assigned to designate Freemasonry. It is constructed with two geometrical symbols that make up the whole number. They are the dome and the right angle. The dome signifies the house or Lodge, while the right angle signifies the number of degrees in Freemasonry, which is 90. Thirty-three degrees are known to the public while fifty-seven are kept secret. Together these two symbols make a third symbol which is the number 5. Each point on the 5 pointed star symbolizes the letter A, which stands for the Mason Adept, the expert.

The third most important symbol is ∴ and it also means 2 become 1. It signifies the true goal of Freemasonry. This goal is kept secret from almost everyone except predator priests. It symbolizes the grafting together (to-get-her) of the male and female genetic materials (DNA) that make up men and women, and then, the deployment of a third gender, the self-reproducing hermaphrodite. This third option is expected to replace both males and females within the next 40 (+-) years.

All that remains to be done is the completion of the Grand Canal fresh water diversion project from Canada to Colorado and the resulting food cartel, managed by means of a cashless society.

Unless Masons themselves, or their spouses, or their children, move to stop this nonsense soon we will know for certain what words The End Times really mean. On the strength of this evidence are you still prepared to just stand by and let their agenda happen.

The BRAINDEAD

by: The Sculptor

"Contempt your capacity to think,
Which is man's greatest power ;
Welcome misty things and sorcery
And the spirit of illusion,
Then I shall get you surely enough."

Faust, by Goethe
A German Freemason

"Give yourself to the Master and He will show you the Light."

"Distrust your own brain, for your understanding is beyond your own intelligence," the Masters say.

"You could become all-powerful," is the promise.

Crap, all crap! "At what price?," is a question Freemasons should ask. The anti-Creator tempts, but it can only seize the minds of those who yield to outright silliness.

Forces of power, like all other turmoils in life, destroy the weak, but they can also further strengthen the strong and make them even stronger. While it happens more often than we would like to believe, sincere people are struck with blindness of the spirit and serve the cause of the anti-Creator, this, while they honestly believe they are serving the cause of the Creator. Finding out the difference is your personal responsibility and no one else's. Whether you chose to examine the evidence that's available is up to you, alone. It's always your choice.

My determination is to do everything in life with my whole being and with an intense passion that increases with every day's passing. I refuse to appeal to wealth and power nor to appease the merchants of spiritual distinctions. Neither, will I ever blame the Creator. "Its will be done." Furthermore, I realize that the more we approach full comprehension, and not "the theory", of "the mess we're in", the more we are conscious of our duties to the Creator and to Creation itself.

The problem of the world is both a personal and a collective one. Each person modifies their environment by their example, and they in turn are influenced by their environment. The thought processes that motivate the masses are largely a product of our environment being continually influenced by the dynamic opinion-makers of the controlled media. In most cases these media types recommend an absolutely uncompromising attitude leading to spiritual and material suicide. What is really required from the very few remaining people with functioning brains is to take a new look at the overwhelming evidence of conspiracy, and then, take action to stem Freemasonry's anti-human "I am" Hermaphrodite project before it's too late.

The Descendent Masters came down from mountains

by: Glen Kealey

The old man of the mountain whose name appears in ancient stories of Mesopotamia and Persia is in fact the real-life "gate-keeper" to the underground world of the Descended Masters. These masters are the troglodytes who control all of the world's secret societies — Freemasonry being just one of many such societies. For a longest time H.Q. was Mount Ararat.

Above ground control over secret societies rests in the hands of predator-priests. In the west that usually means the Roman Catholic clergy. Less influential but not to be discounted are the German bankers who control the alchemical industries. These would include the chemical companies and pharmaceutical companies who process and distribute both legal and illicit drugs. These drug empires originated in the Middle East with the control over the distribution of the drug called hashish, their main product. That is why the politics of Germany are to this date still being dominated by Persian politics and finacing from the middle east.

Roman catholic priesthoods were modelled on the ancient priesthoods of Assyria and Judea. In the west however, the illusion which was created here is one that insists upon a public perception of a division between church and state. This creates the illusion of two competing factions. This illusion is what has confused most people. In fact predator-priests have never given up control over the world. Even Masonry, at the high levels, is dominated by its priests.

Freemasonry's encyclopedias, including the photographs contained therein, depict the secret ranking order of power within Freemasonry. The high-priest always stands at the center of a ruling threesome. He is obviously in charge. Next, the king, who represents the public's perception of power, stands to the right of the high-priest. Then, on the left, is the scribe. He represents the very powerful position which is held by the media in western society. This power is derived from illusion. Because the media appears to be totally independent of the governing political system they are able to fool most people most of the time. But if this were true, what then is Conrad Black, the powerful media mogul, doing sitting on the Privy Council of Canada? The Privy Council controls the bureaucracy and they, not the public, tell the politicians what to do.

A "free" press is much more able to mislead the public without being caught than is one which is clearly identified with the governing body. Its a Machiavellian principle, or law, that defines how to control the masses. It was advocated by an Italian prince of the same name, in 1513.

Sometimes do you not feel like I did, that you've been had as well? That's the way I felt until I systematically investigated Freemasonry. It took 13 years to discover how they do it and why.

Detecting the BRAINDEAD

by: Glen Kealey

No more would a credible detective walk into a tavern to question the town drunk so as to make him the prime witness in an important case than should the same professional detective question any of the "Braindead" in a case that involves a vast conspiracy to dumb-down the population.

If an informant, as I am, is informing the police about the "ultimate case of conspiracy", a conspiracy whose intent it is to deprive the peoples of the world of their "birthright", ie: freedom, liberty, resources and the pursuit of happiness, one would expect that the informant should not be forced to deal with corrupt investigators who are themselves part of the conspiracy.

Therefore, certain questions must be asked by the informant of the investigators before their credibility can be established. And, what we are dealing with in this informant's complaint, specifically, is a worldwide conspiracy which is centered on a secret society ruled by predator-priests called Freemasonry. Thus, the informant should be the first to question the investigators as to their own possible direct involvement in the conspiracy.

Since an overwhelming preponderance of the evidence confirms that Freemasonry is the guiding force behind the establishment of organized religion, international free trade, politics and the military-industrial-complex, I would suggest that a test be devised that would allow prospective investigators and witnesses to be culled due to their possible innocent or pro-active role in the conspiracy. Afterall, it must be determined whether or not the prospective investigator or witness has previously agreed to abandon independent critical thought, by swearing an oath based on "faith" in the organization to which she or he belongs. One must know for certain if a person has sworn to "hang their brains at the door" of their organization and have agreed to spend the rest of their lives "running on automatic pilot" when it comes to independent thinking.

The Yes or No questions that should be asked are the following:

— Are you now or have you ever been a member of a secret society?
— Are you now or have you ever been a master or priest of any religion or secret society?
— Are you now or have you ever been a member of a political party?
— Are you now or have you ever been a member of the military?
— Are you now or have you ever been a supporter of international free trade?
— Are you now or have you ever been a blind patriot, by that I mean, one who believes in "my country right or wrong?"
— Are you now or have you ever been employed by Conrad Black, the CBC, CTV or Lord Thomson?

If the answer is YES to any of the above, then, do you now renounce all of your oaths taken in blind faith and affirm that you have retrieved the brain that you had left hanging at their door ?

Some figures lie and some liars figure

by: Glen Kealey

They are not numbers, they are num*b*'ers. Mathematics is a Masonic system designed to numb down the bees. Numbers are used to confuse and desensitize the original people who through compulsory education have been converted from human beings into human bees. Black and yellow buses carry your children past black and yellow road signs, transporting them to bee schooled. Notice how a school of fish responds !

From that point on they are just numbers to THE SYSTEM. They learn to operate on "automatic pilot". Never again will they observe, analyze or conclude (reasoning) based on their own thinking. Instead, they are programmed to follow the light, just like worker- and military-bees who must find the exit in the beehive bee4 they do their work. Human bees know but a single truth, that which they were taught in uni-vers-ity.

Human bees have no opinions of their own. They only parrot the opinions of the local opinion-maker; whether in organized religion, trade, politics or the military. Bees have abandoned reason in favour of faith. Apparently, at first sight, faith is less stressful. However, without the daily exercise obtained from reasoning, little bee brains quickly atrophy and loose their ability to do any reasoning whatsoever. Then, they quietly accept their new role in life, that of bee'ing ants, serv*ants to the system*.

As Shakespeare once said "Friends, Romans, countrymen lend me your ears". What he was in fact asking is that they hand over their ears to the plan Y. Y is the code letter that defines the long-term goal of Freemasonry. To-get-her Y and ears make years! And, isn't that what we are all doing without thinking it over. We lend them our years.

At the age of five we, or more likely our naive care-givers, hand over our lives to bee programmed at our, or their expense, until we reach twenty five years of age. Then, we also give them forty more of our years, doing mostly boring repetitive work "4 the system"; work that most of us really hate doing. We would much rather be doing our own thing. But, that is not to bee. Not until we are sixty-five years old and our most productive years are gone forever do we then get back our lives. What life ?

Think about it folks, the words stone, station, saint or street are all abbreviated by the letters ST. It means the Freemason Way. "To bee or not to bee, that is the question."

What combination of my words would get through to you ? If I can figure that out, then, maybe we can all survive.

* In Qabbalarian Freemasonry the numbers 1 through 9 are used by those supporters Masons have styled as "workmen without education or men of bad reputations, incapable, from their want of culture and refinement". To these are given the numb'ers 1 to 9. The numb'er 10, which is 2x5, is reserved for "members of the nobility, the bar, and the better class of citizens". So much for Égalité and Fraternité.

Number one is Aries the Ram and a Ram is a Goat

by: Glen Kealey

"And there are none so blind as those who will not see."

There comes a time in the life of every Mason when he realizes that he's been had. Unfortunately, by that time he is usually to old to do anything about it. Most people are naive about the fact that they've already been brain-washed and programmed. Once they do find out, then, their pride or ego kicks in and they enter a period of total denial.

The process is called grieving. Much the same happens when one looses a close relative in some unexpected way. Denial is followed by a period of negotiations with one's Creator. "Tell me it's not true and I'll be good forever."

When that doesn't seem to work and reality starts to set in the person will often be immobilized by fear. That's when your brain goes into the "park" position and your whole body feels depressed. The longer one remains in that mode the more damage is inflicted upon the physical body and the mind.

The sooner one accepts that what has occurred has really happened and moves quickly to repair the damage done both to themselves and to others, the quicker will come the intuitive instructions about a new directions on how to get out of the mess you're in. Creation never imposes a problem without first making certain that a solution is also at hand.

Half a billion people around the world joined Masonry, most thinking they were some kind of elites who knew more than the rest of us, about what would be best in the long run for the six billion people of the earth. Of course, a little, or even a lot of greed and personal ego was involved. However, if one is to cure an addiction to material things one must begin the journey back by first admitting that they were addicted.

The addicted must also cleanse themselves of the feeling of inner guilt, by apologizing to those whom they have harmed and promise to refrain from similar activity in the future.

The sooner that's done, the sooner they will return to normal health. Waiting too long nullifies the apology. Immediate action to cure the problems we've created followed by a period of silent withdrawal is suggested. It's a time for personal consultation with the only real Creator of all things if nothing else, and preferably also, for the purpose of distancing oneself from all public functions during this healing time and mandatory rehabilitation.

As said, the sooner one starts the rehabilitation process the sooner one regains one's health.

Al Capone - the CAPSTONE

by: Glen Kealey

What does God have in common with Freemasonry, the Pyramids, organized crime in America, secondary education and politics?

Each of these concepts are linked by a single premise; they all teach us the "way of one".

For God it's YHWH, the way of "oneness" which, in English, is pronounced the Yaw Way.

With Freemasonry it's how they describe people as "stones". To Masons we are either rough or polished stones, or again, "stones the builder rejected". The word stone is made up of two concepts; ST being an abbreviation for the words street or saint, both words who describe "the new way" that we, males, should take on our life-long quest for truth, light and wisdom, and the second part, which, from its root in the word stone, is the word ONE. The word "one", refers to a concept in communications called Freemason allegory. AL comes from the French pronoun LA, which is the feminine equivalent of the masculine pronoun LE. But in Masonry the letter A, the first letter of the Alphabet, also means an ADEPT, their name for a Mason Initiate or beginner. And the letter L, being the twelfth letter of the alphabet, is also their code letter meaning "male".

All this just to say that the word STONE, to the Jesuit controller-priests of Freemasonry, means "the way of one" ....a female-male. This concept translates into the English word Hermaphrodite. In ancient Egypt AL was known as Hermes, or "her is me". It all makes perfect sense to the gay sexual predator priests who take refuge behind, and also blackmail, the larger law-abiding gay community.

Next, we arrive at the main Pyramid in Egypt. The single most distinguishing feature of this Pyramid is that it's not finished. It's missing its cap-stone. A cap-stone is the last piece that finalizes the construction. The rest of the Pyramid already symbolizes the existing "business plan" of "Jesuitic Freemasonry". It's also a more visible public model for its private literary equivalent, which is called ALLEGORY !

The most famous American mobster of all time was Al Capone. This Al only needed the letters ST and he too would have be known as Al Cap-Stone! Just a coincidence?

In their own words a university teaches "uni-vers", which means "one truth - one direction" only. Y is that ? Bee-cause it's uni-versAL !

Now, do you understand why LiberALs are universAL too ? Al is the way of Freemasonry.

The complete arrogance of UNBRIDLED POWER

by: The Sculptor

Masons justify their actions against those whom they consider inferior by convincing themselves to the effect that, "though they do not amount to much they may have amounted to still less had we not taken charge". Freemasonry's motive is patently fear, pure and simple. And what a fear! It is the fear of not being "on the winning side".

However, Masons fail to account fully for their persuasion that the old idea of the "Grand Architect of the Universe" is adequate to the problem to be solved. Masonic philosophers refuse to do what is the psychologist's first duty — to search for the only possible solution to the alleged mystery.

But how can one arrive at truth when published history is a lie? Philosophic coherence is impossible when all one hears about the ancient past is untrue. Therefore, unless change happens, all decisions which are taken today by we non-Masons, and even by the lower level Masons, will always be decisions made on factual untruths based upon these lies, ie: upon the wrong premise.

Low level Masons are told during their initiation ceremonies to accept certain "principles" and to take these for granted, to seek no verification. This type of thinking leads one to act like the scientist who once said that, even if such a thing as telepathy were true, "scientists ought to band together to keep it suppressed and concealed."

This type of thinking is what leads the religious crowd to persist in their belief in the Bible. It took hundreds of years longer than necessary for thinkers to comprehend that the Bible, which we were taught to regard as a holy body of supernaturally revealed truth, absolutely incomparable with any other religious literature, has been shown to be in large measure just a compilation of simple Semitic myth and tradition, forged priestly codes, fabulous and falsified history, and books written by anybody rather than those whose names they bear ; and further, that its cosmology is mere barbaric fantasy, and its ethic frequently odious. Whereas we thought it was wholly true, as men understand truth, we now find that it is hardly at all true. And our fore-fathers and mothers before us, because they believed this book, have hated and vilified all who led the way in challenging the untruth and getting at the facts.

"The most useful investigator is the most sensitive observer, because it is always he whose eager interest in one side of the question is balanced by an equally keen nervousness, lest he become deceived."

"only by their roots, and their fruits, shall ye know them".

Number two is Taurus the Bull and Bull is what you get

by: Glen Kealey

"I am that I am". "I am Alpha and Omega, the first and the last". True lies! Or, conversely, lies about the truth. Alpha and Omega are the first and last letters of the Greek alphabet. But, the Alpha is also the Adept, the first degree in the initiation into Freemasonry and Omega is also the Greek word for beehive.

"If any man shall kill with the word, with the word must he be killed."

Angels are another way of saying angles, the 90 degrees of Freemasonry. When you ask an angel for help you are in fact asking Masons for their help! Is that your real intent? If not, you will have to learn about the newly shaped eve which is contained within the word, or number, seven. *Numb*ers were added to your language to help numb you down. The number seven is Freemasonry's lucky number as far as the public is concerned because it is the number that is centered between the number one (alpha) and the number thirteen (Masonry) their secret lucky number. Got it? The number 7 creates their illusion, while the number 13 (12+1) is their reality. To the general public the number 13 is said to be unlucky. Anyone who knows about physics knows otherwise.

Before you can understand the true lies contained within the story of Adam (a dam) and Eve (Freemasonry's most secret plan for creating a new life form intended to replace both of the current genders as originally created by the Creator), you will have to take some time out of your busy schedule and live by the word (the languaging) otherwise you will surely die by this same word.

The French word SCION means a cutting. A shoot or twig cut for the purpose of being grafted upon some other tree; or for planting. Now, ask yourself why the French word scion is being repeated in so many different ways in the English language, ie: sion, cion, tion, zion?

If you can't figure this one out, then, "Que sera sera, what will bee will bee" ! Bees are just another form of servants who live above ground.

A final message about the "mess of the ages"

A reader's digest

by: Glen Kealey

From somewhere above in the regions of not-being the great Voice spoke, a thundering Voice that filled Chaos with sound: "He cometh forth as a flower and is cut down; he fleeth also as a shadow and continueth not; as the fail from the sea and the flood decayeth and drieth up, so man lieth down and riseth not again. Yet have I compassion upon the children of my creation; I administer unto them in time of trouble and save them with an everlasting salvation. Seek ye where the broken twig lies and the dead stick moulds away, where the clouds float together and the stones rest by the hillside, for all these mark the grave of Hiram who has carried my Will with him to the tomb. This eternal quest is yours until ye have found your builder, until the cup giveth up its secret, until the grave giveth up its ghosts. No more shall I speak until ye have found and raised my beloved Son, and have listened to the words of my Messenger and with him as your guide have finished the Temple which I shall inhabit. Amen".

By these words, once deciphered, the Jesuits orchestrate the activities of Freemasonry around the world. These words clarify their true intent. They appear on pages 8 and 9 of the Prologue that follows the Introduction to Manley P. Hall's little book styled The LOST KEYS of FREEMASONRY.

From such a short list of direct instructions received from the Troglodytes mountain headquarters which at that time were located in the Caucuses, the ancient Magi who are currently known as Sufis formulated the philo-sophi-es of the Greeks. From the Sufis the word was then past on to the Brahmins and later, to the Buddhists in the East. The Greeks and Romans got their introductions in "the way of the Hammer" from Abraham whom, himself, had also received his instructions from the Sufis. And, since a third Hammer was needed to complete the philosophy's Triune nature, Mohamet, was then brought onside to spread the word across the boundaries of East and West, to Africa and the Orient.

Once deciphered the message is clear. It says that the original duality, that of woman and man or mother and father, is a complete failure which is destined to dry up and die. Also, that in humanity's time of trouble a solution has been provided for them. It's a scion. A cutting that can graft the old to the new. Unlike the old, this new combined gender developed in the mountains will live forever. If you join with Masons your quest for eternal life will be rewarded once you understand the true meaning of the word ghost. It stands for G-host. It means a grafted scion such as is done in vineyards and rose gardens. It's based upon the ancient concept known as recombinant DNA. Finally, the voice states that it won't have anything further to say until the work of creating a Hermaphrodite has been completed.

The recipe for making a Hermaphrodite begins with a change of direction. Let's say Adam was "a dam". Then, once his rib had been removed, his stomach cavity would have needed to be enlarged. Yeast, taken in as a component of beer is very effective for that part of the process. Next, a fish's air bladder can be inserted to act as an artificial womb, as it can easily be connected to the male umbilical cord. Finally, the enlarged cavity would be filled with an artificial amniotic fluid which was first developed by the Essenes, at the Dead Sea and then perfected by the Mormons, at Salt Lake City.

All that remains to do, prior to the launch of a space craft that would carry the new hermaphrodite on a one way journey out of our solar system, would be a last minute implant of a number of human eggs enclosed within time delayed capsules. And, voila, you now have the equivalent of a human apple. A golden delicious on the outside, with bunch of human seeds on the inside. A completely portable Johnny Appleseed.

OK ! OK ! Enough already.

What can I do ? What can one person do to change things ?

by: The Sculptor

Freedom in Canada is an illusion.

Politicians don't govern, they follow the Privy Council's orders. Religion is not spirituality, it's just another way of controlling people. Free trade is not free for you, nor I, it only helps the wealthy out of having to pay their fair share. The military-industrial-complex is not really there to defend your rights and freedoms, it simply enforces the unspoken will of Freemasonry.

Freemasonry is a secretive veil of degrees that enables the organization to operate in public an international network of sexual Predator-Priests who wish to hide their true purpose and intent from their members and from you.

What can you do about it? First, stop complaining. Instead, do something that will help bring out the truth.

Rather than resist the repression of your human rights and the theft of your birthright with an equally stupid violent response, learn to sidestep the usual revolutionary process and demand that we be allowed to return to the Creator's original evolutionary process. It used to be the way we brought about any change that became necessary.

Freemasons, manipulated by the sexual predator-priests who control and direct all secret societies, are the revolutionaries. Be an evolutionist, just like the original people.

Start doing the things you think should be done, and start being what you think society should become. Do you believe in free speech? Then speak freely. Do you want truth? Then tell it. Do you believe in an open society, one that is directed by the people? Then always act in the open. Do you believe in a decent and humane society? Then behave decently and humanely.

In other words, abandon the fears that have made you into a "control freak" and stop controlling others. Finally, pledge the rest of your life to the Creator. Reject illusion. Seek truth no matter what the cost to your personal comfort and always share what you learn with anyone who will act likewise. It's that simple.

Only when women get involved will a solution be found that will get us out of the mess we're in.

by: Glen Kealey

What is required is a gadget like a can opener that would allow people to view the bee-hive mentality that has been constructed inside their minds. Thinkers, that's what we need. We've had enough of worker-bees, military-bees, drones and queens putting their kids on black and yellow buses, following black and yellow signs and cops to fill 30,000 lifetimes. Thinkers, instead of actors, would be a nice change, don't you think?

So what words will it take to pry open the bee-hive mind that keeps people running around in circles doing all kinds of useless work, all for the solitary benefit and profit of the world's biggest bee-keeper ?

The poor and the middle-class are worker-bees, working just to stay alive with the faint hope of getting a few years off at retirement before they die.

The children of the poor are the front-line soldier-bees. They are the police and lowly military grunts who keep their parents in line. For the most part their highly paid commanding officers stay indoors and out of danger, just like priests. They are the Drones. They are provided with an abundance of every material comfort, enough so that they really think they're in charge.

In the same way, in a bee-hive so does the gay or bi-sexual, androgynous Hermaphrodite Queen think he's in charge. He doesn't even know that there's a bee-keeper out there who's already made all the decisions for him — a long, long time before he was born.

They're all just carrying out the plan. They are Aries, the Goat. Some, at best, are like Taurus ; bulls in a China shop. In fact, the bee-keeper is the only one who gets his way and, he's not even playing. He's the hidden-hand that moves all players, deciding whenever he feels like it, who will win and who will lose.

The bee-keeper has created both teams. He calls them "solar and polar". They give the semblance of competition, of a need for equilibrium between opposing forces. It's both a scam and a sham, since, in the bee-keeper's language, there always are two ways of saying the same thing. Cam is ham and Ham is cam. But in whatever way you choose to view it, in the end, when compared to life in paradise, all you get to eat is Spam and Kam. It's all dog food for bees.

You are told to repeat "I am", which is the mantra that supposedly confirms your individuality. One day you should take a walk down to your pet food store and check out the dog food. There, you will find shelf upon shelf all filled with "Iams". It's the food that bee-keepers make for your pet dog. Afterall, isn't Dog just God spelt backwards. The bee-keeper does like to fool his little pets, doesn't he ?

Hey guys, is your old school tie still wound tightly around you neck? Remember, it's a symbolic I am dog leash designed by the bee-keeper. It's to be worn by his mindless worker- and military-bees.

In China people wear unisex pajamas all day long, while in the Orient, men wear dresses. Don't you think someone is out to get rid of women ?

We men should all be thankful to the Creator for having been so thoughtful, having brought women into our otherwise boring lives. Women, being nurturers by nature are long range thinkers, and once they are informed about the existence of the bee-hive, just knowing, Can Open Her mind up to new solutions.

To Inspector Lafosse:

I have been requested by some citizens of Cape Breton to continue faxing your detachment with the results of my 13 year research that explains the reasons why Freemasonry's elites are now out to destroy the RCMP.

Because I have also received an official fax from Sgt. McKinnon which stipulates that I must always direct my faxes to a particular individual, I will now have to include this cover sheet along with all of my future faxes.

The net effect of this extra fax, contrary to Sgt. McKinnon's request, will be to double your and my cost on every fax that I send the Detachment.

As well, I am certain that the new Cape Breton group, Citizens in Action, who are trying hard to keep the RCMP in Cape Breton will also be as disturbed as I am by this recent turn of events, that is of course, unless they too were created by Freemasons, in order to speed up your demise.

FROM: Glen (CiPi) Kealey

Mary:

This is in reference to my application for Canada Pension Plan Disability benefits.

Today I received from you a corrected copy of a letter dated February 29, 2000, this time with my name appearing on it. It states that "a report indicating the nature, extent and prognosis of all the condition(s), as well as, the findings upon which it is based" is required by you. Contrary to your remarks this is exactly what I have sent you.

Because my diability is political not medical, and, if the name of your program is truly CPP Disability Benefits Program and that this name is not just "false advertising", as defined under the current Canadian Government's Consumer and Corporate Affairs guidelines, then you do not need a medical certificate to validate my political disability. You need only verify court records and media reports of the day (1987 to 1991) to know why I am unemployed (income-wise that is) and remain unemployable, a simple volunteer, since 1987. I will need my funds and the interest earned by them, which I deposited in your care over the years, to cover my immediate basic costs for food and lodging. I don't want anyone elses tax money. I would rather starve than accept second-hand charity from other funds that were stolen by the government from my fellow Canadians over the years. All I ask is that you just give me back what's mine.

There will come a day soon when more Canadians will understand that our political system is being manipulated by the controllers of Freemasonry. They will then follow my lead and stop feeding the Cancer with their taxes. Unfortunately, by then it might be too late to do anything about it as predator-priests will have stolen all the money.

Addressing the Concerns of the Producers

Prairie Centre / Centre for Prairie Agriculture

The agricultural community is carefully watching the progress of a small, inconspicuous law that is currently before the House of Commons. Entitled, "An Act to Amend the Criminal Code", Bill C17 received first reading in the House on December 1, 1999. Since then it has been slowly gaining the attention of farmers and ranchers across the country who are concerned about its potential implications.

The Act contains a number of amendments to both the Criminal Code and the Firearms Act. It spells out penalties for taking or attempting to take a police officer's weapon when he or she is engaged in the execution of his or her duty; clarifies what kind of evidence is admissible in certain court proceedings; makes provision for testimony to take place outside the courtroom under specific circumstances; and makes a number of changes to other sections of the Criminal Code.

But the section that has the interest of the ag community concerns cruelty to animals. In part, this section reads as follows: "Everyone commits an offence wha (a) causes or, being the owner, permits to be caused unnecessary pain, suffering or injury to an animal; (b) kills an animal or, being the owner, permits an animal to be killed, brutally or viciously, regardless of whether the animal dies immediately; (c) kills an animal without lawful excuse; (d) without lawful excuse, poisons an animal, places poison in such a position that is may easily be consumed by an animal, administers an injurious drug or substance to an animal or, being the owner, permits anyone to do any of those things.

The increased trend toward urbanization means more and more people are removed from the reality of farm life. They enjoy their barbequed steak, but know little about the processes necessary to bring it to their dinner table. Meanwhile, animal rights activists, who want to do away with everything from fishing to pet ownership, are happy to capitalize on this ignorance and turn public opinion against the ag community in order to advance their agenda. There is no question that as it currently reads, the Act is open to misinterpretation by the courts, or manipulation by special interests.

To prevent this, one Alberta organization, the Alberta Farm Care Association, has proposed two simple additions to the law: (1) At the beginning of each subsection, change the wording to read "everyone one commits an offence who without lawful excuse....". (2) Define exactly what constitutes lawful excuse by copying the wording found in the Alberta Animal Protection Act which reads, "Proof that an activity was carried on in accordance with reasonable and generally accepted practices of animal management, husbandry or slaughter will constitute lawful excuse." These amendments would ensure that the law accomplishes its stated purpose of preventing cruelty to animals, while addressing the legitimate concerns of producers.

Exposing the secret war on Women and Native Peoples

by: Glen Kealey

There's a secret war going on and most people are unaware. This war is not being fought with planes and bombs, as wars usually are. This war's objective is designed to steal your most valuable possession—your mind. The system's secret agenda is to convert all human beings into walking, talking, insect-like slaves.

Look around you. You are surrounded by millions of people who don't care about the mess we're in, as long as they get what they see as their fair share. They are the "nice" people who say they care, but will do nothing concrete to change "the system". They think that by voting and sending a few bucks to Greenpeace, UNICEF or the United Way, that they've done their share.

These "braindead" people are often the most intelligent members of our communities. By the way, one should never equate intelligence with being "street-smart". Some of the dumbest people we know are also the most intelligent. But, they've been "trained" by the system. They're on "track". They insist that they are able to express their "own opinions" freely; however, all they do is parrot what the system has told them.

These people are the system's human version of ants and bees. They're always busy, and they're also the ones who have unknowingly contributed to our collective pain. The system has won, so far, only because most don't even begin to suspect that they've been had.

On July 1, 2000 a group of researchers, both natives and newcommers, mostly seniors, met on Parliament Hill in Ottawa to begin the process of reversing the "war on women and native peoples". This occasion might have been the last opportunity for the general public to educate itself, in order to really overstand what has been done to us, and to begin the plan for their own survival in these "THE END TIMES". .

Mother's Day flowers won't help support the women in your life.

by: Glen Kealey

Subscribers to the Kealey Paper know something that most Freemasons don't even suspect. It's that their so-called "secret society" was created by priests, and to this day is still being controlled by Catholic priests. KP subscribers are also aware that these priests who, themselves, believe that they alone secretly run the world from behind a veil called politics are, unknowingly, also controlled—by Persian Sufis.

At least these guys, the Sufi priests, know that they're not in charge either, as they are long-time followers of a much more ancient Priesthood—the Troglodyte Predators of Abyssinia.

What these priests all have in common, however, is that they believe the world would be a better place if they could only get rid of women and the men who support them. 144,000 Troglodytes want to run the world by themselves, with help from only a small group of dumbed-down males whom they will genetically re-engineer to be both mother and father ; i.e. a third gender called HERMAPHRODITE. In Freemasonry its known as "the way of ONE".

"Men who wear dresses in public" have, so far, succeeded in converting our world from one that was governed by peaceful, matriarchal clan-based societies, into one which is now being run by the Military-Industrial Complex. Their secret societies have programmed and engineered our minds, so that being dysfunctional is considered normal (if you don't believe this, try counting the number of functional families on your block or road). The 57 "secret" degrees of Freemasonry (those above the 33 degrees we all know about) control all our governments, police, courts, media, military, political parties, the world of finance and business, as well as all organized religions around the world.

If you share our view that women (the nurturers), and other long-range thinkers are an asset to our world, and that they should remain a distinct and separate part of our society, then you are invited to join CIPI (or support our investigations financially), as we continue to make our views known to a wider audience.

Six wise women from the West

(that's three more than the boys from the east had)

by: Glen Kealey

After the fall of the Roman Empire many soldiers were released from the Roman Legion. A number of them were frustrated at the thought of living in the real world along with women. They preferred military life, as it at least, was "a world without women". They wanted to religion and that's why they began creating organized religion.

However, having no access to the funds necessary to build the monasteries, they were without places to live. That's when one of them suggested that "women of means" could be conned into funding the building of double monasteries, where these "predator priests" would occupy one wing and (temporarily) the widows the other wing — with common spaces in between.

It wasn't long, however, after the construction of a network of these double monasteries across Europe—paid for by the women—that the priests began to change the rules. Soon they evicted the women by force and took over sole ownership of the properties.

This double-cross of women, by priests, could have been predicted. Sexual predator priests of the middle-east, Asia and Africa had been pulling that same kind of stunt for thousands of years. It was now Europe and the West's turn to suffer under the yoke of religion, with priests duping the women once more.

Finally, a half-dozen smart women from the West coast of Canada have decided to reverse this timeless process. Together, they are supporting an Institute that is devoted to educating the public about "how to get out of the political mess we're in", by exposing the "End Times" plan of the sexual predator priests.

With the planned acquisition of a new headquarters (PO^{12}) for CIPI, the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity, finally, the age-old ongoing secret war on women and native peoples is about to be permanently exposed.

Following fourteen years on-the-road and the "showing of our colours" on Parliament Hill (see the CIPI flag in the background), a small group of women and men, both native and newcommers, met in Kemptville, Ontario (45 km South of Ottawa, off of Highway 416) to discuss our strategic plan for the future.

After a week of think-tanking (video tapes are available), reviewing where we've been, what we have accomplished or have failed to accomplish so far, it was agreed that a permanent headquarters was the way to go and "if we build it, they will come".

We will continue to do our part, the rest is all up to you.

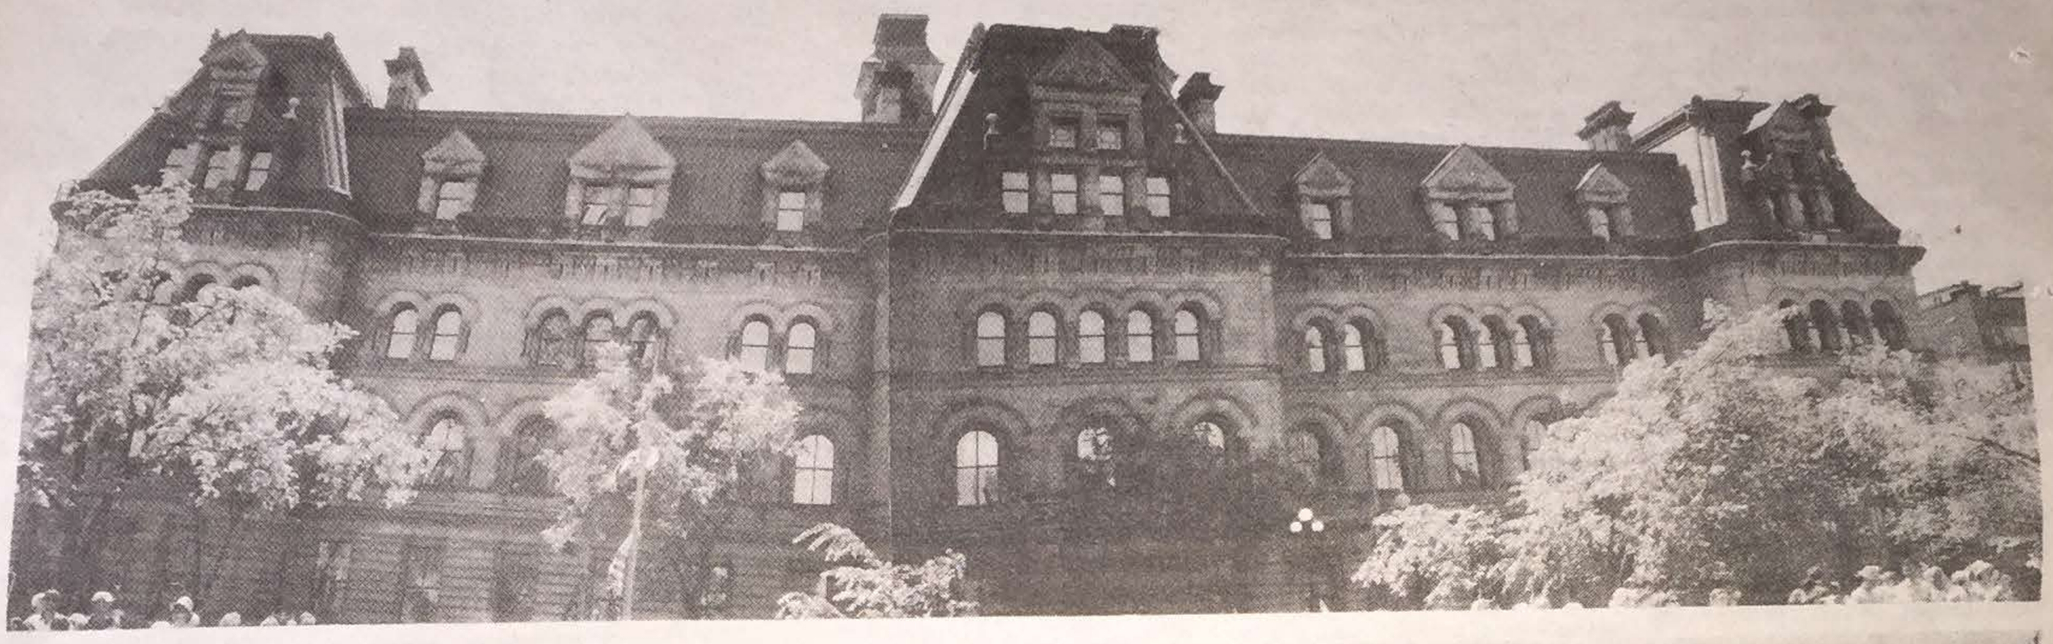
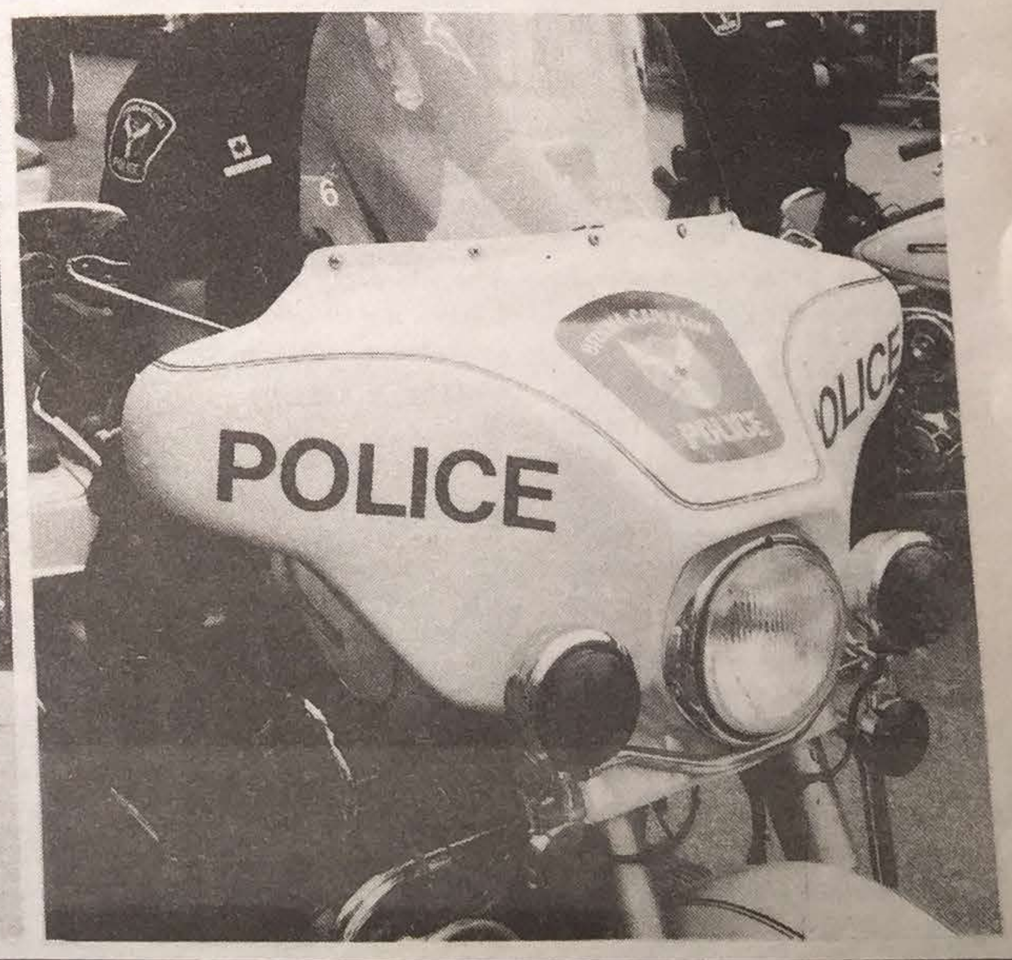
Who spoke for you in Ottawa on July 1, 2000 ?

1- The Freemasons who control the Government from the Langevin Block?
2 - The RCMP who carried the Red & White banner of the Knights Templar?
3 - Glen Kealey and CIPI with the GREEN, live, Maple Leaf and BLUE Oceans?
4 - The men (Scottish Drones) who dare to wear dresses in public?
5 - The Ottawa Police with the "Y" symbol of HERMAPHRODITES on their bikes?





Questions and Concerns

August 2, 2000

Dear Glen,

We talked by phone last evening and I told you I was sending the enclosed letter. As I have mentioned I don't expect a personal reply — I know you're very busy and also I would far sooner see expanded explanations and questions answered in your paper for all to see.

You mentioned the possibility of responses from Meighen as well — I am quite happy with that idea and look forward to talking to her anytime.

I have put a lot of time and effort into studying your work — as others have as well, and you mentioned that the workshops are essential. I hope you will continue to demonstrate as much patience as you can to those of us who are making an effort to catch up.

Thank you for explaining the arrangements of your future headquarters to me - 'PO 12'. I certainly hope all this works out better than you ever imagined. For myself the necessary cost of an equity share is not possible even if I were deemed an appropriate participant. Still I will continue to be most interested in every thing that develops. And I suppose we never know what the future may bring sometimes.

May we all have clear minds, insightfullness and yes — overstanding, true hearts, the willingness and wisdom to hear each other and respect each other — we who search for truth.

Yours in dis-illusion - me(a)nt, (now who says you're not gaining ?)

Dan Riley

July 31, 2000

Dear Glen,

I spoke with you on the phone on July 9 when I called you, and subsequently wrote with some thoughts. Further to that I talked to Meighen on the 23rd when she called me.

I think I have made clear that I am tremendously interested in your work and have been following your paper all along. That is not to say that I have always been comfortable with your ideas, or able to keep up with them — I have recognized for many years that the corrupt, manipulating Establishment powers are rotten to the core. For a long time I have seen Freemasonry and its endless tentacles as an enslaving cancerous rot.

I have read a great deal in an effort to put all the pieces together. I discovered amazing facts that the vast majority have no knowledge of, and would never believe. I found out how isolating it can be and what a burden on the spirit it can be.

I have never been a proactive activist on the scale that you have been. Ok I have written my share of letters to the editor, briefs and submissions to government and that sort of thing — all for the most part a meaningless spit into the wind. Most of all I have tried to communicate what I have learned to others, verbally.

As you know, most people don't want to hear it.

I hope that you will bear with me as I attempt to develop my thoughts and pass them on to you — I want to know the truth at every level — that is where I'm coming from. And I have not been able to bring myself to give up on you. Your ideas and your conclusions fascinate me at the same time that some of them have made me want to reject and deny.

I was always receptive to the idea that we have all been had — I just never imagined to what degree (as you have continued to lay out). If I am to accept your conclusions on the origin and motives of the Bible and the non-existence of a Mason-created God — and be forced to accept them as my conclusions as well, on the basis of hard examination and a preponderance of the evidence .... the ultimate solace, the consoling Rock of all time is gone. Gone ....

I have agonized over all of this. I've sweat blood. All the remonstrations of that 'time-honored Book' have battled with me, the warnings of false prophets, of scoffers and deniers and all who would venture to negate the message of the Scriptures.

The odd part I suppose is that I have never been a regular church-goer or fanatical follower by any means.

But my entire life was ripped apart, I lost my family and in total desperation and brokenness of spirit I turned to the Bible as my refuge and my hope.

Now am I going to be forced to accept this too, the one piece of solid ground I thought I had left, is a hollow, meaningless illusion and lie as well? Another fabricated contrivance of Masonic manipulations?

This has been a profound grief to my spirit and a torturous struggle as to what to accept, what to believe.

Perhaps you will think of me as just another foolish sheep taken in by illusion. But it was primarily this whole question that brought me to question you if you are concerned about misleading people.

I have thought of the number of outstanding people who over centuries have advanced the ideas of the Bible and apparently lived their lives by it. Not only ones who are known as 'great' people, but millions of decent, honest, thoughtful, intelligent everyday people. Were they all foolish sheep blindly following a Masonic illusion?

The wisdom of the ages was set in stone, the ultimate truths there for those of life's weary and broken travellers who cared to accept them along with blessed salvation — hope for Justice finally (!), in a world full of injustice and ugliness and sorrow.

And then along comes a teacher by the name of Glen Kealey and blows the wisdom of the ages all to hell. We have all been deceived by the very name of our main hope, Jesus Christ. And the Bible is a monstrous mother of all hoaxes to end all hoaxes.

Yes, this is major grief and torture for some people.

What are we to make of it all?

It is easiest I suppose for many people to burn your paper, condemn you roundly and refuse to think of it any further. You are one voice against an opposition of millions and the accepted ultimate Truths. And we must have 'the faith of a little child', the Bible tells us.

But what about those of us who in spite of our grief and feelings of confusion, and having witnessed our most sacred cow slaughtered apparently, in front of our very eyes — still are willing to hear you out?

Are we selling our souls as we contemplate selling out our previously held spiritual beliefs? Fear. Confusion. Grief. Shaken up and aghast like we never have been before. Could we really have been that wrong, that blind, that foolish, so gullible — so aching for hope and peace and final justice ? Those nights of agonizing loneliness and brokenness of spirit that we sat up late reading our Bibles, looking for that hope to hang on to — and found it. Is that too to now be taken away from us? Along with everything else that has been swindled, stolen, taxed, defrauded and forcefully torn away from us? Including our own children and great bleeding chunks of our very hearts, spirits and sanity.

Glen, you are taking us where the Saints themselves don't dare to tread. Do you understand our stumbling and our fear? Our broken minds and hearts? Have you grieved like some of us are grieving?

I think you will perceive that none of my questioning is flippant or vexatious. What may be called analytical dissection to you is sometimes earth-shaking to us.

Our entire lives and belief systems are reduced to a meaningless, pathetic farce, even those few of us who have removed ourselves from the dismal, mindless majority and searched for truth for so many years.

And now the mark of the beast is in our voice boxes and we are prisoners of our own language that materializes the agenda of Freemasonry. Well, millions of self-described intelligent people would scoff at this, yet they believed that by voting "Liberal" they could get rid of "Free Trade", the Gouge and Steal Tax and the spectre of Lyin' Brian.

So who's stupid? Give us more Glen Kealey.

— Page 9, top column, Jan.-May issue — you wonder aloud: "Now can someone please tell me how I can communicate the solution to our common problem to my friends and neighbours who don't know, or don't want to admit, that they too have been fooled?"

How indeed. How do you teach advanced calculus to pigs? (Let us use the good people of Hamilton East as an experimental group, presumeably average Canadians of average intelligence. They were presented with a golden opportunity which few of us had; the chance to put the boots to a proven fraud, liar and thief — facts established beyond any doubt. So being typical Canadians "of average intelligence" they rewarded this sleazy specimen by voting her back in). — Now, how are you going to convince these people that they have been fooled, when they proudly WALLOW in their own foolishness like hogs in manure?

This is what has got to me for a long time. It is one thing for people to be horrendously stupid. It is another thing for people to be willfully horribly stupid. And it is then quite another thing yet for "reasonably intelligent" Canadians (Americans, Europeans, etc.) to be so proudly willfully and abysmally stupid, to the point where they make an exhibition and public display of it. "Average intelligence" is an eye-opening and most frightening spectacle indeed — may that Higher Power - whatever we may wish to call him —put a speedy and merciful end to it all, leaving none to regenerate such nonsense.

What can be expected of people who jeer and sneer when they are told that the corrupt monetary system of institutionalized usury is illegal as well as morally bankrupt — refusing in their arrogant stupidity to even superficially examine it — and then they turn around and purchase 6/49 lottery tickets with well thought out and clever intent toward "winning"?

My personal view is that the odds of ever getting through to these people are hugely discouraging. And what's more, why would one even try — do they deserve enlightenment and freedom from bondage when they are so happy in their slavery and so arrogantly smug over their own foolishness??

Your message and your plane is so far above them that they could never begin to fathom, even if they forsook their arrogance long enough to try. (They won't.)

August 1, 2000

Well, that was some frame of mind I was in last night. What more can be said about the unconsciousness and contented foolishness of the masses?

I honestly believe that it is far too late for any kind of turnaround: I have said for a long time that if it were ever going to happen, it would have proceeded by now.

More Questions and Concerns

Most of us have demonstrated many times over that we are willing to take anything — whatever the controllers want to throw at us. Not only will we voluntarily accept their terms for our slavery, but we will line-up to pay for the entire process! This is precisely what we have been doing, as you are well aware.

What would it take to get the people to rise up and say "Enough"? "Here's where we're drawing the line and we're not going to take it anymore!"

No, that will never happen. It is not possible to get people to see that we are existing in slavery; they smile and wave their flag and tell you that we are living in a free and democratic society. There is no reason for you to hope there.

Moreover, I am convinced that we are so close to an overtly totalitarian complete police state, that if the majority of people ever did bring themselves to regain (gain, I should say) freedom, that such a movement would be summarily squashed by the controllers. But, in any case, it will never happen.

No, I see only a very tiny percentage of people ever escaping the prisons of our own minds, to say nothing of the economic and social slavery most of us are mired in.

What is your opinion? Is this "negative thinking" or is it a harshly realistic outlook based upon observation-analysis-conclusion according to a preponderance of evidence?

What accumulation of evidence is there to support the idea that sufficient numbers of people have the slightest inclination to take our country back, to have freedom and shoulder the heavy responsibility that goes with it? How are we going to drag them away from "who wants to be a millionaire?", the bingo parlours and casinos, the bars, the golf courses and sports palaces, their subsistence slavery jobs, their RV's and lake retreats, their counterfeit currency bank accounts and the rank bogs of their own self-satisfied delusions?

I submit that in order for there to be positive and necessary change, that our children would have to be freed and prevented from being conditioned to slavery and self-defeat as they are now from when they are born. This, of course, is a profound and radical social reform that is not going to happen. People are not even able to perceive, let alone act upon the reality that our system of "education" are our bitter enemies and agents of slavery.

Well enough about the obvious that is not obvious to a generation already existing under Global Dictatorship. As a people we not only tolerate our slavery, we embrace it, worship it and, by way of our actions and choices, gleefully exacerbate it as we willingly finance and worship these very institutions that propagate it.

So, what's next ? What is to be done about my own subservience and slavery, my own foolishness, ignorance and wasted lifetime serving the controllers ? What will I do about my own bondage of fear and the remainder of my broken, crippled existence? This is not just bombastic ranting; these are facts. I am weary and heartsick and broken, and I'm so tired of my role as a frightened, sick, enslaved, mind-controlled worker bee with no hope of redemption.

Remember when our ignorance was bliss? Do you people ever feel like just sitting there and having a bloody good cry over the desperate loneliness and futility of it all and the depths to which we have sunk?

Sometimes I collapse weeping over my insignificance, my fragility and broken dreams, my children who I have not seen for years, my awareness of the evil that surrounds us and the endless silence of our Father who seems to have forgotten all about us and our plight. What person with a thinking mind at all would not weep from time to time ?

— But onward to some further thought: I recall reading a quote from some British parliamentarian of the past whose name I don't remember; "I wish I was as cocksure of anything as Tom McCaulley is of everything!"

Sometimes Glen, you are my Tom McCaulley. And I don't say that sarcastically at all.

My confidence and my faith in your findings and conclusions has not always been unwavering. You are inviting us to accept the most astounding suppositions and information of which we have no prior knowledge whatsoever and no means with which to somehow verify it. In order to do this we must commit the cardinal sin —to varying degrees— accept without questioning or being able to validate to a reasonable measure of our own satisfaction.

Thus we must have confidence and faith: we must trust not only in your honesty and motives but also that the information you are passing on so confidently as fact is indeed factual and accurate.

Over the years I have gradually formed the conclusion that in my opinion —for what it's worth— you have constructed reasonable grounds to warrant a substantial amount of confidence. (It is not everyone who could compel us to pay attention to some of the startling ideas that you have thrown out.)

Now here is something though, one of the burning questions that I am having difficulties with. I think we could agree that the cancer of Freemasonry is nothing if it is not secretive — obsessively secretive in the most disciplined and professional fashion. Is this not so?

If so, then why on earth (as opposed to under it!) would they compile their darkest secrets in the form of encyclopedias no less and leave them laying around even in relatively obscure archives to be discovered?

I understand that much of it, as you describe, is in the form of vague and veiled allegory. Still, would they not suspect that eventually it would be discovered and deciphered? Why would they risk any exposé of their agenda; indeed what purpose would it serve them to even articulate their criminal and evil intentions in book form that is accessible to enemy truth-seekers? Who were these encyclopedias manufactured for?

Even the nickel and dime Mafia bosses would know better that to leave a trail like that, would they not?

My desire is that you will accept my questioning not as attacking your insight or your abilities, but in the spirit that you have challenged us: "Expect truth-nothing less." (p. 11 - bottom - Jan./May). Our duty is surely to question and seek clarification and verification or we cannot call ourselves Truth-Seekers. — you would not want us any other way.

— Is it possible that avid Truth-Seekers of the past have failed to bring so much information to light, that the existence of Troglodytes and a subterranean global power structure have only now become known?

How could it be that the machinations of the Ÿ system, the "Liberator" and Sufi predator priests have escaped detection and even the smallest passing mention or hint of their existence in the mountain of conspiracy materials that has previously been covered? And the concept of languages as a self-defeating trap to materialize the controllers will upon us? The complete plot to eliminate women and original peoples? Many centuries of unrecorded blacked out history?

In the course of a few very short years you have challenged us to not only completely and absolutely divest ourselves of most of what we've learned our whole lives, but in addition to consider accepting the most unbelievably fantastic revamping of history and current events that we could never imagine in our wildest nightmares.

This is an enormously tall order and far more than nearly everyone can even begin to absorb. Those of us who are still with you, still reading your work, still with confidence in you — must be only hanging on because substantial amounts of your less controversial teaching corroborate or fits in with what we have come across in the past. And we will seek the truth in the damndest places. And we are willing to risk some of our sacred cows. And some of us are just too fascinated to look away. Whatever all of this is, it is not boring.

I want the truth and nothing less, the same as yourself. I would like to see everyone have access to the Truth. — Going back to your quote on p. 5 of this letter, I am unable to answer this question except to say how I would approach it if I were doing what you are doing. (- what the hell would I do ...?).

I suppose I would attempt to dish out what people could handle at first and then expand gradually.

That may sound lame, but as we have learned, how is one going to sell the perils of a coming Hermaphrodite Age to people who refuse to even look at the fact that our Income Tax Act is completely criminal and illegal? They'll believe that Elvis is alive sure enough, but when you try to tell them that the Rothschild Communist Masonic Police are a den of criminal vipers and drug traffickers, they will quickly tell you that you're insane.

— Now, after all this litany of pessimism, realistic observance, gloomy philosophy and questioning, it must finally be time to at least try and lighten up a little and show some appreciation of the burden that you have to be carrying. I asked Meighen if you are getting burned out yet and she tells me that you are not. If that is the case, I don't know how it could be, for you have been travelling a hard road indeed. You surely must have nerves and a constitution made of steel.

I have read about your frustrating battles with different bureaucracies that never end — that alone is extremely debilitating. Despite all I have said that may perhaps seem overly negative to you and despite my questioning and doubts, I look forward to reading your papers — as challenging and sometimes frustrating as they may be. I will continue to work toward having faith in your discernment as long as there is reason to. Perhaps you will prove me wrong about people.

Obviously I don't expect you to respond point by point to my questions and observations in a return letter. (I would consider it an accomplishment in communication if you merely fight your way through reading mine!) I certainly never intended for it to be quite as lengthy when I began.

When speaking with Meighen recently she indicated that you folks are enthusiastic and very interested in additional personnel there. Although we were not able to discuss this at tremendous length, it has given me cause to think. What are your thought on this?

For myself at this point I am not able to make a determination as to how this would

Mother picks winner in $7.5-million lottery

Trio takes home the Super 7 jackpot

BY TONY LOFARO

It's a family celebration for Canada's newest Super 7 winners.

Ottawa residents Winnifred Kealey, her daughter Katherine and Joseph Chouinard, her son-in-law, are sharing the prize money from Friday's $7.5-million Super 7 jackpot.

The three were the only winners across Canada in the weekly draw.

The winning ticket was bought by Winnifred Kealey at a Pharma Plus drugstore in Ottawa. She called Katherine on Friday night after seeing the numbers flashed on the television screen.

She still did not believe her ticket was the winner until she checked the numbers in the newspaper the next day.

When mother and daughter saw their numbers in the newspaper they realized their good fortune.

"My mother was quite overwhelmed," said Katherine Kealey, 49, in an interview from the Ontario Lottery Corporation headquarters in Toronto.

Lottery: 'Difficult to believe'

"It's difficult to believe you've won the money until you get the cheque," said Ms. Kealey, a freelance publishing consultant. Her husband Joseph, 53, is an executive director at the Canadian Medical Association.

The trio travelled to Toronto on Sunday for the formal cheque presentation yesterday.

The winning ticket came from a Quick Pik selection. The winning numbers were 10, 14, 16, 24, 32, 41 and 44.

Ms. Kealey said she has no immediate plans for the windfall other than to put it in the bank.

She said her mother is thinking about taking a cruise, but has not yet indicated how she plans to spend her share of the winnings.

From the desk of Glen EP Kealey

Ontario Lotteries Commission
To Whom It May Concern

September 8, 2000

May it be confirmed by this letter that the winnings on lottery ticket 7962-6640-9244-0625 are entirely payable to myself, Glen EP Kealey, (also known as Glen (CIPI) Kealey). They, the winnings, are the result of my personally having purchased a 6/49 ticket in the regular manner.

These winnings, however, form part of the evidence in a related privately funded investigation into the activity of a semi-public corporation, an investigation in which I, Glen EP Kealey am, personally, the lead investigator.

Sincerely,

Glen EP Kealey

work out. Perhaps we could discuss it further — as I stated at the beginning of my letter there is no lack of interest on my part. I believe I could make a genuine contribution in a variety of ways. Yet I dare say that likely the most urgent and continuing contribution that is necessary to your cause is that of the financial variety.

This would instantly preclude myself as I alluded to in my previous letter. Everything that I worked for my whole life was drained away in my lengthy (and unsuccessful) court endeavours to have my abducted children returned. (I discovered first hand how in our corrupted Injustice System, "the truth is no defense" even when you are able to prove yourself innocent, after being presumed guilty. And how the primary mission of "Family Services" agencies is to destroy families and peoples lives.)

Anyway, I would just say that I may well be seriously interested in joining you people in some fashion if you were of like mind and if the need and opportunity were there. I certainly agree with you that to continue serving the controller's cause and agenda is self-defeating and pointless.

Till the next time we talk, all the best to all of you.

Sincerely,

Daniel Riley

UNBEE

by Glen (CIPI) Kealey

Hi Dan,

It was great to hear from you by phone and nice of you to chat with Meighen after we spoke. She spoke highly of you as a caring person who is genuinely looking for "truth".

Truth is a very subjective word that means different things, at different times, to different people. The term I have begun to use is one that I read recently; it's a search for the "Ultimate Reality".

That's what I'm all about. I'll always look at and question everything and everyone. Nothing and no one gets a free pass as far as I'm concerned. I take people at their word but I watch to see if their actions match their words before I decide who they really are. "Do they walk their talk?" is what interests me most.

Sometimes, over the past fourteen years, I have been so discouraged with people that I have even seriously considered going into the bush to live as a hermit. But that, I believe, would be a cop-out. So would suicide. That has never been an option in my life either; it's the ultimate cop-out.

So what is there left to do but tell the world what is really going on and learn to live with rejection? I make rejection a positive rather than a negative factor. After all, following many thousands of rejections I have always come across someone like you.

There are not many of us out there. But we are there. A limited number of females and males alike have somehow managed to get off the track and stop their "training". We insist on retaining our own opinions, contrary to what Francis Bacon in 1604 and the Freemason encyclopedias of 1867 predicted would be our fate. They may have been right for the majority of our peers but they sure failed to get you and me and a few others.

We refuse to behave like ants or bees—period. I believe that we will always be "objectors of conscience and in their face". We accept our role as proactive positive deviants and, in time, we have even learned to love the lifestyle.

I, and others, have contracted our lives out to Creation. By finding people like you, Dan, and a number of others with open minds just like you, this is our ultimate reward. On those wonderful days I feel like the best-paid person in the world.

At CIPI none of us even closely resembles each other, neither in style nor in talent. We are different works of art. Each of us is a very small piece of perfection hidden by, but diligently working daily at shedding, the veil of darkness which was created around us by Masonry's mind control. Alone we don't amount to much, but together we are a force of mind and talent to be reckoned with. We are true spiritual soul-mates. We are PO-TWELVE. That's TWO more than PO-TEN-TIAL.

Dan, we want you to know that we are always with you in spirit and also here in life, at PO^{12}, whenever you decide to join us. There is always a way for those few of us who are "focused" on Creation.

Now let me try to answer your questions.

—No, no one or nothing can ever force you to change your views. That only happens when you choose to do so voluntarily.

—No, I don't think you are a sheep. Far from it. Otherwise you would not be in such a state of doubt.

—The only reason you don't hear about dissenters is they have been erased from history by Masonic historians and publishers. Only Gods, saints and war heroes remain. They are the antipodes.

—You have not been told the ultimate reality about the Wisdom of the Ages. That is a secret held even from Masons.

—Faith is only for children, bees and ants. Reason requires ultimate reality.

—I may be just one voice out of millions, but millions also thought the world was flat.

—You were desperate, not wrong. A desperate mind is "in conflict" and does not function as it should.

—Set aside your personal pain as we've all had to do. It's a symptom. Start dealing with the continuing pain being dealt to humanity as a whole. It's the cancer. Only then will you begin to function better.

—I do not perceive your questions as flippant or vexatious. You are troubled and that is understandable.

—People have been made into walking, talking bees and ants. To reach them we must find the words and interests that will mean something to them. But we must not forget that Masons themselves are only told a fraction of what is the ultimate reality. They operate on a need-to-know basis. Let's tell them and their wives all that is being kept from them.

—Until Creation pulls the plug, it's never too late. Creation does not play games or write books. It created you. You are Creation's "Ace in the Hole".

—The preponderance of evidence suggests that we are experiencing life on behalf of Creation. To know something is one thing—to experience it is another.

—You say people will never.... Never does not exist.

—You need to stabilize your own life. Only then will you be able to concentrate on helping others.

—Tom McCaulley probably read the Masonic codes in the Bible while the politician read only the words. When you learn to speak "High Mason" you too will sound like a prophet. It's not prophecy. It's just a "business plan" written by predator priests. It's from the centre of their world without women.

—You must remember that when, in 1604, Francis Bacon (also known as Shakspere) wrote, or when the Masonic Encyclopedias were first produced, few people could read except the priests and the elites. And Dan, even Mafia bosses are "INSIDERS".

—Truth-seekers as you call them had no access to books or archives, and if they did, most could not read. Each in turn died or was killed and their stories forgotten. History is his story. It's not ultimate reality.

—The system owns the media, the libraries, think-tanks, the movie industry, radio stations, churches, publishing houses, etc. What else but the secret ciphers of Freemasonry will tell you the ultimate reality? Learn them and you too will then know. UNBEE !

—What you suggest you would do in my place is reasonable. That is exactly what I did, over a fourteen-year period. People believed only those things that confirmed what they already believed. Still, they were not willing to deal with ultimate reality. I only have so many years to live and my time now must be shared only with those who are already focused.

—An inverted question mark is used in Spain. It means that answers can be found there. Afterall, does the name Spain not mean "Shaping Pain"?

—"Al" is the female component of the word "THE". In French the word "THE" is divided into "La" and "Le", for female and male. Masons use "al", or "el", or "alle", or "ale", or "ali", or "alla" to infer bisexuality. The number 8 is the number representing a resource such as money or bisexual men on their team. Super is equal to 8, as SU is an IT, not male or female but rather, Hermaphrodite.

—Ω is Omega, the last letter of the Greek alphabet and it also means beehive.

—∴ is the Masonic signature that means 2 in 1 - it's the symbol for Hermaphrodite.

—CIPI strategic plan was revealed by our team in the weeks following July 1, 2000. It involves creating a more stable, permanent, location for a CIPI lifestyle and "Kealey's Wisdom Workshops", i.e. PO[12]

—The word Ma is derived from the first letter of the word mother and the second letter of father, making it 2 in 1. Son is a play on the word Sun which is SU and N—the new Su, or Northern Bisexual. SU was northern Abyssinia and is now Sudan.

—The Creator's original evolutionary plan was a Matriarchal Clan-based society where women were nurturers and long-range planners, while men were task oriented. There were no fortifications or wars when these societies existed. Now, men who dress like women and women who act like men rule the world. That explains the mess we're in.

—The PI rate means that you end up paying 3.14 times for anything real that you will mortgage, i.e. real estate. Bankers are the PI-rates

—If bees don't have cell phones they're not real bees.

—We can speak English as long as we take care to mentally divert the meaning of the words we speak to our own will. To do it properly one must overstand what one is really saying and UNBEE.

—Don't worry about threats to your soul in the Bible. They only create fear and control.

—Humanity's origin is known only to Masons. Read their history and encyclopedias.

Your former lives are the personal book of experiences that you have lived and will continue to live—that is, until you learn the lessons. Added to that is your cellular memory, otherwise known as instinct, or gut feelings.

—"Being capable of expectation" means having researched all of the evidence that is available and reaching a conclusion that there has to be a first Creator who has an interest in our progress. That point within the totality of the available evidence is called preponderance. It replaces faith, which itself means just accepting someone else's (e.g. a priest's) opinion.

—If nothing else "time solves everything". The worst storms are eventually followed by sunshine. However, if one studies the cause of their despair they will often discover a better way than wallowing in sorrow, e.g. "Your children are not your children. They are life's longing for itself. You are the bow. They are the arrow. They live in the future. You live in the past." Take care of them now, by cleaning up the system for them—if not for yourself. If they were around you today you may not have the time to do it.

—You will never know you are being deceived until you understand the program for bees and ants. If someone wants you to be like everybody else—beware. Better to be eccentric than centric—in sanity, than out of it.

—I do not know the details about Branch Davidians except that they promoted the Bible and they were considered martyrs by some followers. Both are business plan objectives of Freemasonry. Masons have no problem killing their own, e.g. St. John the Baptist, St. Paul, Abraham Lincoln, Adolph Hitler, John Kennedy, Lee Harvey Oswald, and Mafia Dons, etc.

—I have no secrets. As soon as I discover new evidence I fax it to dozens of people, send the Kealey Paper to hundreds and speak to thousands. If something ever happens to me you will not need to guess at the name of the perpetrators.

Choice or No Choice?

A Mother (VK) Speaks Out

I keep hearing people say "I don't have a choice". When I was studying counseling and kinesiology I was taught that we always have choice. Life is about choosing and we are responsible for our choices. Choice is always available to us and only when we sabotage ourselves, or when we are always told what to do in the early years—do we think we have no choice.

For the most part I trusted that this analogy was true for several years, and when I was unhappy in a situation I would tell myself I could choose something different. However, when faced with some real challenging issues I recognized that I had choice, but somehow I had to choose what I didn't want in order to learn the lessons which were necessary for me to "have the experience". I couldn't figure this out, as I knew I had choice, but it was like I had to follow the blue print of life no matter what! Sometimes, the alternative is so gloomy or unrealistic, that it really feels like we have no choice.

In some cases when I hear people say they have no choice their challenges seem so trivial, like paying a parking or speeding ticket. But when people say they have no choice regarding health issues, and vaccines, then that is extremely disturbing to me. Is it lack of education, or is it that our parents didn't know better, or were in with the wrong crowd, or are people now so programmed and so dumbed-down that they don't really have choice?

"I have NO CHOICE but to keep this job, as I am close to retirement and need my pension."
"I have NO CHOICE but to vaccinate my infant, as my doctor said so."
"I have NO CHOICE but to pay this speeding ticket, as I'm a bus driver and need a clean driving record."
"I have NO CHOICE but to let Revenue Canada go through my files and intimidate me."
"I have NO CHOICE but to have this surgery. The doctor said it was the only option."
"I have NO CHOICE but to vaccinate my preschool child, as the school sent home a form demanding it."
"I have NO CHOICE but to miss my children's special events, to attend an important business meeting."
"I have NO CHOICE to change careers (even though the people I work for are involved in corruption), because I have a wife, kids and mortgage."
"I have NO CHOICE but to receive a Hepatitis B vaccine and flu shot, as I am a health-care worker or dentist."
"I have NO CHOICE but to take these drugs or medication for my asthma, diabetes, and back pain, headaches etc. etc."
"I have NO CHOICE but to visit my family, or they might get mad at me."
"I have NO CHOICE but to put my kids in daycare because we need the extra income."
"I have NO CHOICE because I have no education, no money, no time ....."
"I have NO CHOICE but to let the doctors take away my baby from the delivery room, because of hospital policy." And they do horrible things to newborns. (I highly recommend The Magical Child, by Joseph Chilton Pearce, to every expecting parent.)
"I have NO CHOICE but to write this article, in the hope that some folks out there will wake up!"

Who controls our life anyway? Is it our parents, spouse, employer, doctors, police, the government, the school system, the medical system, the banks? Is it not time to choose to take back our power, the power that belongs to us—our birthright? What has happened to our knowledge, our curiosity, and our burning desire to know more?

Our children are not the future. It will be too late for them. We are the future. Those of us born in the 40's, 50's and 60's. If we don't take back control of our lives, take back our power, and realize that we always HAVE CHOICE, our babies will have no future. Can you look your baby in the eye and tell them that you are not doing anything about getting informed and not doing anything about claiming back your rights and freedoms? If you believe life is wonderful and like having others make your decisions, don't worry, the UN will soon be making all your choices and you won't have to look your baby in the eye, because they just might take your children away from you. And you will have no choice in that matter.

Now, what will you CHOOSE?

TROGLODYTES — in South Eastern Turkey

by Tom Clancy: Politika, a novel

Even before the HITTITES settled in the region four thousand years ago, Bronze-age troglodytes were tunneling into the strange volcanic domes, knobs, cones, spires, and furrowed massif ridges of Cappadocia, digging a network of subterranean communities whose rooms and passages extended for miles beneath the chalky tufa, providing separate housing for hundreds of people at a time. Living quarters were equipped with bedrooms, living rooms, and kitchens, as well as shrines, water cisterns, stables, storage areas, workshops, and wine cellars. There were public hospitals, churches, and internment grounds. Entries, ledges, balconies, staircases and pillars; frescoes and sculptures; even furnishings such as tables, chairs, benches, and sleeping platforms were carved whole out of the firm yet malleable stone. Tiny slots in the walls between individual dwellings allowed communication throughout daily routines, and provided an efficient civil alarm system in periods of emergency.

Over the centuries of Roman occupation, diverse groups of ethnic tribesmen, and then early Christians—including, it is believed, Paul the Apostle—found refuge from persecution in this hive-like underground megalopolis. Later it sheltered reclusive monastic orders from the brutalities of the Mongol, Arab, and Ottoman invaders. In recent decades, isolated portions of it—the equivalent of contemporary neighborhoods, towns, and belt cities—have been excavated by archaeologists and in a few cases opened to tourists. Some parts of the complex remain either undiscovered or known only to local peasant populations. A few were occupied by Kurds, streaming northward from Iraq in the wake of the Gulf War, and to this day function as hidden strongholds for Kurdish militia bands at violent odds with the governments of Turkey and its international allies ... including, for a variety of reasons, the United States.

"To Bee or not to Bee"
"Lend me your CAREERS"

by: Glen Kealey and the Sculptor

Most Canadians think they're not important. Yet, they live in the West and Westerners get to fly higher than most, just because they're BEES!

But for the "Grace of God and the pressures of the marketplace" we might have been born in the East, and then we would all be ANTS, working in a restaurant (restore ants) in the service industry.

Or again, had we the misfortune, or some would say the fortune, to have been born in the middle-east we would be SCARABS. The word sounds a lot like Arabs and that's not a coincidence. Scarabs are dung beetles who spend their lives collecting dung and bringing it to their masters.

Most Westerners would think that that's a very "shity" way to spend one's entire life but they simply don't understand the use of allegory in the middle-east.

The word dung is symbolic. It's an allegorical way of saying "all the sources of energy". In the middle-east Arabs use dung as a basic fuel for cooking and heating, in the same way we use wood, gas, electricity or oil.

Thus, an Arab's job or career is symbolized by the word scarab. They are destined to travel the world and take possession of all sources of energy, whether it be electricity made from water flowing under control behind a dam or in a canal, or forests of lumber, or fields of oil and gas deposits. In the end they turn all sources of energy over to their "controllers", ie: OPEC, etc. Most of the energy sector companies have very European sounding names, but they are just "fronts"

Did you really believe that Canada, with the largest total energy reserves in the world, would voluntarily buy much of our oil off-shore if we had a choice in the matter. No, we continue to buy from the scarabs because their bosses are our bosses too.

The same people (the Troglodytes) who decided that the entire population of the middle-east would act like dung beetles also decided that Asians would act like ants.

The Japanese have a word for it and it's Kata (kat-ah). It means "acting, or swarming, like ants".

The Japanese owe their cultural similarities to a process of behavioral conditioning that spanned scores of generations over a period of more than a thousand years, and included philosophical and spiritual beliefs as well as every conceivable aspect of their physical behavior. During much of this period Japan was closed to outsiders and the Japanese themselves were forbidden all foreign travel, for hundreds of years after the arrival of the Jesuits.

The philosophical and spiritual side of this behavioral conditioning was based on a combination of Shinto, Buddhist (as in, "this Bud's for you") and Confucian precepts.

The physical side of the programming was based on a precise set of "cultural molds" called kata which, in this case, means "form" and the robotic process of doing things.

We in the West are responsible for establishing a space program that will get our controllers into a space station in time for them to orchestrate the end times war, Armageddon, which is scheduled to begin shortly after the beginning of the New Age, the Age of Aquarius, in 2025. That is one reason why we are BEES, have wings and are allowed to fly higher.

The other reason is the BEES are "a world without women." Our controllers have devoted many thousands of years developing an artificial womb, so that human males, much like the BEES, may be "modified" to carry fetus' to term. This procedure has become a priority, now that we are on the verge of inter-galactic travel.

Roger Bacon, Francis Bacon and H.G. Wells all conspired with our controllers to bring about the mess we're in. But none has been more responsible than the Franciscan priest, Duns Scotus, the man who created Scotland as the place from which Masons would control the West.

SCOTUS is also the acronym for the Supreme Court Of The United States. Freemason allegory suggests that in one of their 49 levels of coding the name Scotus is defined by first removing both S' which stand for the word Shape-shifters. One would then be left with the word COTU. It is an allegory for Carbon Dioxide, or CO_2. Carbon dioxide is a gas used mainly in fire extinguishers to put out fires and, as well, in soft drinks like Pepsi to help relieve heartburn.

Isn't that just what the Supreme Court of the United States did last year when it wrote the rules that allowed George W. Bush to become the unelected 43rd President of the United States?

vote by more than a half-million votes. However, the Masons who have always controlled the U.S.A., had long ago prepared for just such an eventuality. They had created an Electoral College that, if it ever became necessary, could, and would, overrule the people's vote. So much for the silly illusion that we BEES continue to have in the existence of a democratic principle "one man-one vote".

However, before Canadians get too smug about their own system of government they should always remember the parallels that exist between them and the original bees who live in a hive.

In a hive bees come in 4 basic types. The first is the worker bee who survives only to work for the benefit of the controllers. Sounds familiar? As wee Billy Shakespeare once said, "lend me your EERS" (ie: engineers, profiteers, pirateers, mutineers, careers, etc.

Next, we have the soldier bees. When they join the military they are programmed to unquestionably follow orders coming from the higher ranks. That means, that for all intents and purposes they are braindead.

Just like those who refuse to question Organized Religion but will send their children off to church, into the line-of-fire of arguably the greatest gang of serial abusers the world has ever known. All religions have Priests, Reverends, Rabbis, Mullahs Arch-Bishops and Cardinals who, when totalled together, have killed many times more people than all of the serial killers the Media could ever tell you about on their "all news stations".

Still, mothers dress their children in black and yellow jackets, walk them to the black and yellow stripped pavement, to get on a black and yellow school bus, drive past black and yellow directional signs and newspaper boxes to a school where they will be taught to admire and to respect the rights of the predators that control their lives. Few BEES ever catch on to the symbolism that enables these sexual predators to laugh at their victims.

Hives also produce military or police type bees. Like in our world they "protect and serve" only the elites. In the world of bees these are the drones. In our world they are "the men who dare wear dresses in public". They are high-ranking Arabs, the Scots, the Priests, the Judges, lawyers and some University Graduates.

Yet, when these facts are pointed out nice people get angry. Many hate the term "braindead" even when it's linked to those people who steadfastly refuse to observe, analyze or conclude anything based on the evidence. Most are afraid to speak to the "Faith-based community" using the only word that clearly reflects the reality of how they live their lives. Pity.

Being nice has not changed the way predators have acted for thousands of years. By turning the other cheek we have only aggravated the situation.

One should not, and must not use violence ever, but to refuse to state a simple reality about the faith-based braindead serves only to encourage them to continue to live their illusions at our and their own children's expense. We must never feed the system.

Finally, we should also remember that the Queen of a beehive is not its political leader. It's not even female but rather is described by Masonic allegory as being "the feminine principle". It's a 2 in 1 Hermaphrodite. It's just a live baby-bee-making-machine, much like our own world's moth-ers. Just think for a minute about the word wives and how it sounds so very much like hives.

The Sculptor's Ultimate Reality

"I tell you that the children of yesterday and today are walking in the funeral of the era that was created for them...But the children of tomorrow, once aware of the ultimate reality, are the ones who are called by life, and they will follow it with steady steps and heads high; they are the dawn of new frontiers, no smoke will veil their eyes and no jingle of chains will drown out their voices. Thinker bees are few in number, but the difference is as between a grain of wheat and a stack of straw. No one knows them but they know each other."

???

Are you a thinker bee who scrutinizes your beliefs, discarding that which is useless, unreal and evil, but preserving only that which is real and good? If so, please call Glen, (613) 258-2893.

Ancient Freemasonry created Organized Religion

by: Glen Kealey, Chrys and the Sculptor

Although the Brotherhood of Masonry appears relatively new, it is in reality the oldest continuous network on the planet, dating back many thousands of years, beginning before stones were first carved. They did the first "search" while we just "re-search".

Masonry today has a generally sinister reputation, because the people suspect that this powerful Brotherhood has long been manipulating and exploiting them. They are correct.

However, the average Mason is naive and has never been "in the know". Nevertheless, the higher-ups have indeed had their hand in creation on this planet for a long time.

Mason elites view themselves as imitators of the Creator. They call themselves God and they want you to buy their bull (buy bull—Bible).

Masons were the first priests. They created each of the world's 4000 languages and sent Phoenicians all over the world to sell the story of God, religion and language.

They call the dictionary Liber A (the book of truth) and the Bible Liber B (the book of lies).

To get the truth from the words printed the Bible they tell each other to "go spell" (Gospel). The four Gospels are also used to "cast a spell" over the faith-based believers. People who claim faith is their guide are in fact admitting, even though they don't understand it, to being braindead. A "Papal Bull" is a decree from the Vatican. It is called a Bull because the orders actually come from "Taurus", the current #2 Troglodyte who is holder of the second position on the Zodiac. In Masonry, the #2 supersedes #1 because #1 is cosmetic and therefore, is an irrelevant (ant). Ants aren't bees, nor are they scarabs (#3).

The most important decree ever issued on behalf of the predator-priests of Masonry is the one issued in response to the death (or banning) of Abel, the original predator. It was enforced by his brother Cain on behalf of the Clan Mothers. Freemasons refer to it as "the one the builder rejected", while faith-based type call it "the original sin".

Ever since Abel, the predator, was banned from mixing with the Clan, he and his descendents, the sly priests of organized religion have vowed their revenge.

They wage a war on women and natives. By means of bribes and blackmail, while hiding from public scrutiny behind the veil provided by secret societies they extract "their pound of flesh".

The name "PO[12]" first came to mind from our research into Freemasonry's old coding structure, as well as from our research into the laws of physics.

The ancient word PO meant the ORIGINAL PEOPLE. It was also used to mean both PARADISE and the SOUL. The original peoples of Thibet were known as Bon Po. The PO river of Italy separated the peoples of the north from those of Rome. At one time Poland was called "the land of the PO".

The number 12 is a number which is important in physics. It is the number which infers "total protection from outside forces". Twelve balls of equal size and shape surrounding a thirteenth will secure that one from any outside attack. Clan Mothers of the Neanderthal age understood this principle of nature and that is why they would assign 12 "soul-mates" to each newborn.

Modern people who misunderstand this old principle usually name two Godparents thinking they can do the job of 12 soul-mates. 12 original soul-mates were the newborn's lifelong teachers and / or protectors. Grown-ups also aspired to become soul-mates to 12 children over their lifetime.

As a result of 14 years of his research and his reasoning (observation-analysis and conclusion) Glen Kealey (CIPI) became convinced, due to a preponderance of the evidence, that every human being was born into captivity and was further programmed over a lifetime to parrot the opinion of the WATCHERS who control our lives. The name given to their system is SUZERAIN. To be under Suzerain (reign) means that we are all slaves who are allowed to make personal decisions that affect us alone, but who must comply to the rule of their plan for ET—the end times (also called Su) when dealing with others. This we call "being civilized". In fact it means being totally dominated by politics, organized religion, free trade (WTO), the military-industrial complex and secret societies such as Freemasonry, Foresters and other Oddfellows. Their control is achieved through a system of mandatory public or private education (by family, church, school, media, arts and entertainment) that teaches us but a single opinion (uni-vers, uni-vers-ity), while allowing many antipodes to exist concurrently, thereby creating some semblance of liberty, choice, freedom and competition.

This "antipodean" system is a cancer on humanity. And, band-aids applied to the symptoms can never cure cancer. As well, ten thousand years of wars and revolutions have proved that violence is not an option. Neither is compliance. To stop a cancer one must stop feeding it. Above all, one must feed oneself and one's soul mates if one is to survive. Simultaneously, one should also help others comprehend the true motives of the system, so that they too can survive. It's much like the instructions given to adults who travel with dependants on an airplane. "When an oxygen mask pops out of the ceiling", they say, "start by putting yours on first, before helping your dependants on with theirs".

Global-warming, north of 40°, creating a new "Bread-basket to the world", followed by the sudden appearance of a genetically modified new third, bisexed human gender (a hermaphrodite — "a boy called Su") who intend to replace both males and females, are on their way.

Will you be ready to deal with this totally unexpected challenge?

Will you survive?

How will you endure in the coming cashless society?

How will you obtain your food from Lyin' Brian Mulroney's new ADM. "food cartel"?

Don't be an ostrich.

And don't wait until it's too late. Call us now at PO[12]. We at CIPI can help you to prepare.

Where have the functioning brains gone to?

by: Lynne McCaig and David Albert

We have come to a point in our lives where we now understand that the world is no longer producing individuals who are able to reason or think about what is really important. It does not appear to us that it is just a matter of the lack of education that has brought about this phenomenon. Nor does it appear that most people can be shocked, reasoned with, embarrassed or even insulted out of their condition. It is now our understanding that a large majority of live people are functionally braindead when it comes to understanding what is going on around them. We did not reach this conclusion quickly or easily. There is much heartache in knowing that most people don't care about their own children's future, that of their extended family of relatives, their neighbours, friends and fellow workers etc.

The vast majority of people we meet today act just like ostriches, behaving as if not knowing is somehow easier to cope with than is the truth about what the elites are doing to them. Their heads are hiding in the sand while their butts are sticking out as easy targets, waiting for the swift kick that always seems to come when they expect it least.

It is therefore with a great deal of sorrow and following much agonizing thought that we have decided to publish this list of items we believe others may have difficulty admitting to. We call it The Braindead Files, in a way similar to the television show called The X Files, and we challenge anyone to add to it or send in their comments.

You know you're Braindead when.....

...you believe that the government is actually trying to make your life better with all its rules and regulations.

...you believe that elected officials are actually running the country.

...you believe that vaccinations are making you healthier.

...you argue a topic without ever having researched it.

...you accept views on faith —
(when in fact faith means abandoning reason.)

...you refuse to face the tough issues, ie: ostrich.

...you turn the other cheek, instead of standing up for yourself and others.

...you believe extra terrestrials are here controlling the world.

...you believe Mad Cow Disease is real and not just a fear tactic.

...you believe that we buy oil from the Arabs because we need to.

...you believe that Canals are not central to creating a Food Cartel.

...you don't believe that men who join secret societies are greedy and naive.

...you don't view secret societies such as Freemasonry with great suspicion.

...you don't think a Cashless Society is part of a War on Women and Natives.

...you don't know that a Food Cartel is a gender and race specific weapon.

...you believe that your vote will effect change that will improve your life.

...you don't know that tax cuts, and higher energy costs go hand in hand.

...you don't know that cuts in welfare lead to increased costs of prisons.

...you haven't understood that you were programmed from birth by your care-givers.

...you still believe there is a difference between political parties.

...you think The System has your best interest at heart.

...you think it's your duty to pay taxes, feeding a system that steals from you.

...you don't believe that TV and Radio programs are called programs because they set out to program you.

...you believe that "insurance" was created for your beneficiaries benefit.

...you think that ICBC is an insurance company that wants safer highways.

...you think that the police were set up to "protect and serve" the public.

...you don't understand that NEWS manufactures opinion and consent.

...you don't think police want more power without creating a police state.

...you don't see that "our" Canada is increasingly becoming a police state.

...you really believe that you are free.

...or, you believe the word free means your liberty, not that when you're free you cost the system nothing.

...you don't understand that politically protected crime does pay, ie: debt service, income tax, lotteries, drugs, highway robbery (insurance, tickets, tolls, permits, etc.).

...when you don't understand that the system provides you with three choices on every important topic by creating a thesis, an antithesis and the favoured synthesis.

...when you never have figured out that the difference between Gods and the Creator or Creation is that Gods are political entities that are made to speak and write in your language, in order to control and mislead you.

...when you don't know that income taxes were created by our controllers in order to pay for the phony national debt that resulted from our having to purchase all of our bank notes from private bankers.

...when you don't understand that the national media sorts the information they obtain from the public into two distinct categories; that which you are allowed to know and that which they have sworn not to publish when they were being initiated into the higher ranks of Freemasonry. It's called triage.

...when you complain and even stomp your feet in the privacy of your own home or office but never get involved directly in doing something concrete that can change the cancer created by taxes, politics, laws, courts, banks, education, media, etc. You simply complain about symptoms, never about the cancer that is common to all of them.

...when you haven't caught on that the oil cartel, diamond cartel, gold cartel, pharmaceutical cartel, chemical cartel, organized religion and politics belong to the same criminal enterprise.

...when you don't understand that you own a personal unit of political power and that you should never delegate it to others without some written assurance of the right to recall it on demand.

RE: Investigation Involving Lotto 6/49 Ticket #7962-6640-9244-0625

Dear Mr. Kealey

As per our telephone discussion on Thursday, September 21st, 2000, please notify my of the outcome your investigation involving the following OLGC lottery ticket:

Ticket Information:
Lotto 6/49 with Encore
Control #7962-6640-9244-0625
Prize: $1,000

A copy of the completed Investigation report would be appreciated. If this is not possible, a summery of the investigation and information concerning those involved would suffice. If you have any questions of concerns, please feel free to contact me at any of the number on my business card (enclosed).

Thank-you,

Our very first hint came from the name "LOTTERY". It sure sounded a lot like Lot, the principal character in the story of the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah in the Bible. The second hint came from our recently acquired new under (over)-standing that the Bible was written by ancient Masons who needed to disguise their demonic End Times business plan in a public place that would always be accessible to all, but be understood by few.

The Greek language, then Latin and finally English were created for just that purpose. While the uninitiated would read the words as they appeared in the pages of the Bible, Masons could read a totally different story, once they were taught

2 - 4 - 6 - 8 - Whom do we appr

After 16 weeks of investigation our conclusion is a resounding YES!

to decode the Bible's symbols and allegory.

Each letter in the English language is in fact a secret symbol, a hieroglyphic, with a meaning that only Masons who have risen to the level of Priest can understand. As well, allegory is a way of communicating a different meaning than the one which is understood by the fundamentalists who simply take the words as written in the Bible at their face value, as they are told that it is true because it was inspired by God.

With this premise in mind we derived two conclusions among many others which helped us greatly in our investigation of the Ontario Lottery Commission.

First we deciphered the story of Sodom and Gomorrah as an allegory which meant that an insider could escape the dire consequences that are certain to be the end result of any planned catastrophe. Just such an example is when orchestrated increased prices make it almost impossible for a poor homeowner to keep up with the rising cost of taxes, or electricity, or heating oil.

While a subsidy paid to Masonic insiders disguised as a win in the public lottery assists these insiders to better weather, a devastating storm is being created for the purpose of destabilizing the middle-class and the poor. Tax cuts and energy price increases go hand-in-hand as a way of "robbing Peter to pay Paul". The moneys earned from taxes and energy both go to the same gang of scarabs who control us from behind the scene.

The "Holy Bible" also includes a chapter called Numbers. They are the main symbols used in alpha-numeric conversions. Each number has a specific meaning when it is converted into words. Some numbers are more important to Masons than others. They are known as "sacred"— "S" means reshaping, "A" is a space, "C" stands for control, while "RED" means ripe, as in a ripe apple is red.

With all of this in mind we then created a table of sacred numbers that could be used to purchase our 6-49 and Ontario 49 lottery tickets. Then, we proceeded to obtain financing for this investigation from a private source who has often helped us in the past. The results were astounding.

Over a period of 16 weeks we purchased tickets that won every single prize that was available to us, with only the exception of first and second prizes. Included in our wins were 422 free tickets and a 3rd prize of $1000 dollars (see cheque copied below).

As we said, the only prizes that escaped our reach were first and second prizes and they are the really big ones. The answer to the only question that remained about how the privileged information was being communicated, about the next winning series of numbers, came to us via the Globe & Mail.

It seemed strange to us at first that this very expensive business paper which is published mostly for the benefit of Canada's corporate elite would devote so much space to astrology, bridge, chess and cross-words. However, with a new-found under-(over)-standing recently obtained from reading old Masonic histories and encyclopedias we concluded that no better vehicle existed than the Globe and Mail to pass on secret instructions to certain "qualified" readers about who, what, when, where, and how to proceed to the purchase of winning lottery numbers.

Finally, one day in October 2000, when the winning numbers of a certain 6-49 draw were made public we became convinced that we were correct and concluded that Yes, in our less than humble opinion, the lotteries are definitely rigged.

Mind you this is no different than in the days when Organized Crime ran the rigged "numbers racket", so why should we expect any different from our governments who now control "Sophisticated Organized Crime". Governments simply have "nationalized" organized crime in order to eliminate free-lancers, making the profits payable to the sole benefit of the predator-priests who control us.

If you ever have extra money to waste, we suggest that you walk down any main street, anywhere in Canada and hand it directly to the poor. It won't cure the problem but it will make your day and maybe even move someone who deserves it more off the street for a night or two.

Buying lottery tickets only results in helping those people who cause you most of your problems. Did you ever stop and ask yourself why it is that a director of the Canadian Medical Association would win millions just at the time when the CMA is negotiating a brand new agreement with the government on our health care, or why a servile native chief would win millions in the weeks following the Gustafson Lake stand-off in B.C. and about another chief who negotiated a land treaty with a province in the Maritimes who goes home with the big prize?

Meighen Russell

A "thinker bee" sets out to reestablish paradise

by: Valerie Gamble

Meighen Russell was born in New Brunswick into what we would have called in the fifties a "normal Protestant family". She grew up with two sisters, and went to Sunday school like most of us did. Her father was in the Air Force, so they were posted to P.E.I., Ontario, France and Alberta during her school years. While in France they didn't attend church, but they read "The Plain Truth" magazine and other literature produced by The Worldwide Church of God (WCG). In her early 20's Meighen joined the WCG and then encouraged her parents to do likewise.

There were services every Saturday, and the Church members were expected to put in a half-hour each of prayer and Bible study daily in order to enter the Kingdom of God.

Emphasis was placed on church government: God, Christ, church, husband, and of course women were second class. Women need husbands to guide and direct them, they were taught. Men are head of the family and are born natural leaders because God created them for that purpose, whereas women could not possibly be leaders or good public speakers because God had a different role for them. This did not quite resonate as being true for Meighen, because it was obvious from what she could see in the world around her that women can be just as competent as men, and many men could never, ever be capable of any type of leadership positions.

As Meighen matured she was troubled by the continual put-down of women by the local ministers and by the then leader of the church, Herbert W. Armstrong. Whenever her local church listened to a taped sermon by Armstrong at their weekly service, she would be waiting with a knot in her stomach for the anti-female comments, and they were always there.

Armstrong claimed to be God's apostle; however, although it was evident to many church members in the headquarters area at the time (Pasadena, CA) that Armstrong did not practise what he preached, Meighen did not know until recently the extent of the deceit, greed and corruption she unwittingly supported for so many years, thanks to the Internet.

Church members were instilled with fear of leaving the "one true church" - Satan would be out there lying in wait for those who turned their back on Truth, and there would be no more protection from God. So Meighen struggled on her own, with a great deal of emotional stress, to come to terms with the contradictions between what she was supposed to believe, and what was obvious in the real world. Somehow Meighen found the courage to leave the church, and with that came the dilemma of having to leave her family.

While in the WCG Meighen married, and she had three children. Her ex-husband and her parents are still members of this church, although it's virtually a mainstream Protestant church now compared to how fundamentalist it was when Meighen left. She is very thankful that her three children all think for themselves, are not involved with any religion, and are willing to consider information she passes along about what's going on in the world behind the scenes.

When Meighen began her search, The Worldwide Church proved not to be the answer, but she still believed the "answer" would be found in some church or New Age group.

In 1986 Meighen became interested in Humanism, and started a Humanism discussion group in her area. These people were basically atheists /agnostics who cared about community, politics, the environment, and believed in free thought.

Eventually in 1991 Meighen moved to Vancouver where she joined the Unitarian Church which took an activist approach to being involved in the community and wanted volunteers. When she first started attending, singing their hymns was difficult because it was such a reminder of her previous church life, and the concept of "God" still had a very negative connotation for her. She left this church because she knew it wasn't what she was looking for, even though see didn't know what "it" was.

Although discouraged, Meighen did not give up. There had to be some church that offered the truth! Her friend Brian (who later became her husband) introduced her to the Celebration of Life Centre, which was a member of the Church of Religious Science.

Meighen joined the church choir, which later became a community choir, and spent a couple of very enjoyable years with this choir, which was often invited to sing at other Religious Science churches, and for community entertainment. So far this church seemed to be the most comfortable, but something was still missing. Meighen continued her search for a God that valued her and one that she could relate to or communicate with as a creator.

It was during this time that she was introduced to "Conversations With God (book 1) by Neale Donald Walsch (NDW), a dialogue supposedly between the real God and NDW, which she read three times, because she loved it. "This is the kind of God I always thought there should be - one who is actually for humanity instead of against it, like the one I grew up with." However, a red flag went up when she read book 2, because there were comments by this supposed God complimenting George Bush. She could understand that perhaps NDW hadn't read what she had read about about who and what George Bush really is, but if it were the true God, i.e. the Creator who was inspiring this book, this God wouldn't be complimenting George Bush. For several weeks Meighen felt depressed and angry at herself to be duped again by a self-professed spiritual leader.

Finally in 1997, Meighen went to a lecture by Glen Kealey. She purchased some of his papers and started reading about the subjects he talked about, looking for confirmation, and began to believe that she indeed did have a purpose in life, i.e. helping to spread "ultimate reality" as Glen puts it to others.

Her quest in life is to continually learn more truth about history, to better understand how the systemic political, religious, economic and social cancer we're living with came to be, and also to have the courage to be true to herself, while looking forward hopefully to a better world. She knows there are no guarantees. "I can't just pretend that I don't know what I know. I have to do something with that knowledge for myself and my children's sake."

Aylmer Québec prosecutors are out to prove to Québec judges that although they (Judges) are to be viewed as #1 for cosmetic purposes and in order to brainwash the naive public, they, in fact, the prosecutors are #2 in the eyes of Freemasonry and that makes them #1 in terms of real "Power to Decide".

For the fourth time in the same case, on February 9, 2001, they will again request an 18 day prison term as a first offence penalty for Glen Kealey who refuses to purchase a Driver's Permit.

Although the trial judge sentenced Kealey to do "community service" and that's what Kealey has done of his own accord since 1988, by telling the world that The System is corrupt, this community service is not acceptable to the Masonic gang of organised criminals who pull the strings in the servile Justice cash-flow system.

By the way, Glen Kealey's reasoning and his entire defense at trial was that the Magna Charta, which constitutes the basis of Canada's common law and constitution guarantees simple users of any mode of transportation a totally "Free access to highways".

Since Kealey paid once when he was given a test he considers that to pay every year without reason is just another hidden tax which constitutes a form of highway robbery.

SUBJECT: FRAUDULENT REVIEW TRIBUNAL
JANUARY 16, 2001

REQUEST FOR A REAL APPEAL
This is a case of POLITICAL DISABILITY which has created a physical disability.

Sir:
On November 21, 2000 you accepted my request to a Canada Pension Plan Review Tribunal to hear my appeal, pursuant to Section 82 of the Canada Pension Plan. You told me at that time that the review would be independent and impartial. That proved to be a lie. In fact, as it was clearly stated at the conclusion of the POLITICAL EXERCISE, by the female Commissioner who is politically appointed, supposedly to represent the community — "We have no discretion".

What I attended was the political rubber stamping of a previous political decision. I can say that* today, 12 weeks before a decision is announced.

The entire fraudulent hearing should have been video taped. It could then serve to educate our children about the reality of the role being given to modern women in our priest-ridden society. As Prof. David F. Noble wrote in his 1992 book, A WORLD WITHOUT WOMEN, we have obviously arrived at the time when the Secret Societies of Brotherhoods who created the Priesthoods, who in turn created modern Freemasonry to run our world, feel that women have been sufficiently programmed and tamed to allow them into to room where decisions are being made, but not at a level that would give them any real power.

Women are being included and promoted only on the condition that they agree to follow the rules previously set down by men, who themselves follow the directions of "Men, who, in public, Dress Like Women" (PRIESTS, ARABS, SCOTS, LAWYERS, JUDGES, etc.). They all wear robes, which is the Masonic coded French word for dresses.

Freemasonry's HUMAN ENGINEERING program for the West is modelled on the BEEHIVE. "Lend me your EERS" (meaning Careers) and, "To bee or not to bee", wrote Shakespear 400 years ago. We must only be BEES — Hermaphrodite bi-sexed Queens, Scottish Drones, Military Bees, or Worker Bees. Otherwise we are disenfranchised by the SYSTEM.

Please inform me as to when, or if, I can get a real "HEARING".

All my relations,

Glen E.P. Kealey, National President, CiPi

EROS is the real Rock of the Ages

by: Glen Kealey

Love, to Zoroastrian Freemasons, is not what you think it is; it's what "U" thinks it is. Confused? Not surprising since U wrote the English language that you speak and its his definition of the meaning of words that counts, not yours. And, although "U", the underground Artificial Intelligence computer wrote it, it was Francis Bacon who introduced the new English language during his lifetime — by way of his secret ghost-writing of Billy Shakespeare's plays as well as by his sponsoring of an "authorized" production of the King James version of the Bible (Arts & Entertainment plus Adam & Eve are the basic staples of our education). English is now accepted as "The Universal Language".

Ba·con[1] (bā′kən), Francis. First Baron Verulam and Viscount Saint Albans. 1561-1626. English philosopher, essayist, courtier, jurist, and statesman. His writings include The Advancement of Learning (1605) and the Novum Organum (1620), in which he proposed a theory of scientific knowledge based on observation and experiment that came to be known as the inductive method.

"Love", to U, means Eros, that big piece of rock that now orbits in the vicinity of the planet Mars. It's the brown potato shaped rock that Zoroastrian Freemasons plan to deflect from its current orbit and crash it into planet Earth to begin World War III.

The crash of Eros on Earth is expected to be quickly followed by the programmed explosion of many nuclear bombs that are already located underground around the world, bombs that Freemasonry's "unknown superiors" plan to detonate as required; and finally, by a cataclysmic, artificially induced, earth crust displacement originating in Antarctica. All three events, by occurring in tandem, will complete Zoroastrian Freemasonry's 1-2-3 (∴) "business plan" — the 8000 year-old plan to depopulate our planet which they introduced in the Bible, in 325 AD, and named Armageddon.

Reportedly, it is expected, by insiders, that the first cue given to activate the process leading up to WWIII will appear in the year 2013 with the launch, from earth, of a missile programmed to deflect Eros (the God of Love) from its current orbit.

Later, the second cue will be the arrival of the Age of Aquarius, in 2025. If everything goes according to Masonry's schedule, Eros should collide with Earth sometime in the year 2036, and thereby create "Eris" (Masonry's so-called Goddess of Discord) to devastate our planet. Most of the world's surface population should then die due to the global warming that will occur during the next seven years (2036-43).

Zoroaster was the legislator and prophet of the ancient Bactrians, out of whose doctrines the modern religion of the Parsees has been developed. Aristotle and Eudoxus (A&E) say that he lived 6000 years before Plato; Hermippus, 5000 years before the Trojan war. Plato died in 348 B.C.; so that the two dates substantially agree, making the date of Zarathustra's reign 6300 or 6350 B.C.; and I have no doubt that this is not far from the truth".

Albert Galatin Mackey, General Grand High Priest, Royal Arch Masons and author of numerous Masonic books, including his official Encyclopedia of Freemasonry, completed in 1874.

The Greeks corrupted Zarathustra into Zarastrades and Zoroastres, and the Romans into Zoroaster. His home was Bactria, which was located between the Oxus River on the north and the Caucuses range on the south, and in the immediate vicinity therefore, of the first appearance of the white race (Aryans-Caucasians), one of whose first emigration, from Mount Ararat, was into Bactria. The doctrine of pure Zoroastrianism was mono-theistic and perfectly identical with the Jewish God, Jehovah, 5000 years later.

Zoroaster taught the idea of a future life and the immortal soul. The doctrine of the resurrection is one of the principal dogmas of the Zend-avesta. He also clearly inculcated the belief of a heaven and hell.

As well, he speaks of 20 sacred names, one of which is ahmi, "I am," and another, ahmi yat ahmi, "I am who I am". A somewhat similar name "I am that I am" appears much later, in Exodus.

From its origin in Bactria the Zend-avesta spread into Media, and under the name of Magism, or the doctrine of the Magavas, i.e. "the mighty ones" was incorporated at Babylon with the Chaldean philosophy and traces begin to appear later in the Rabbinism and the Kabbalism of the Hebrews. In Persia it became the religion of the Parsees, of who there are two divisions, the conservatives and liberals.

Now, can you guess which Secret Society rules Canada on behalf of these Predator Priests?

* The word daughters is derived from the phonetic pronunciation of the word "dotters". The word daughters is used, in Freemasonry, to signify that these new, genetically modified organisms (clones) had monthly PERIODS. They were commonly known as whores; "the promiscuous slave-girls of the mountain". The nine names suggest the progressives' progress of the "business plan" to date.

Also, concurrently with the introduction of Muses into original peoples' society, one each of the four thousand created "phonetic" languages was taught to the original peoples around the world, by ancient Phoenician seamen. These mariners, the "Seeders of Lebanon", were the world's first "Corporate Pipe-Carriers". They were sent to every continent by the Sufi priests of Persia. Our current modern English, "Francis Bacon's universal language", is said, at last, to create their end-times "Master's Peace".

Pluto & Charon ¿ Two Clues

The answers are in the dancers

Reportedly, an 11 year-old English girl was the first to suggest that the ninth planet be named Pluto, after the Roman God of the underworld. Yeah! Tell me another one.

The planet Pluto and its nearby moon Charon appear to spin like two twirling dancers, one light and one heavy. Just as the lighter dancer whirls in the wider circle, so Charon revolves farther from the balance point, or barycenter, than more massive Pluto. Also, as with our own planet's Greenland and Antarctica, each keeps the same side to the other.

From 1979 to 1999 tiny Pluto's orbit actually brought it closer to Earth than Neptune. During that twenty year period Pluto in fact became the eighth planet, when measured in distance from the Sun. The last time that happened was 248 years ago.

Pluto's orbit is unusually stretched-out ; it tilts sharply from the orbits of the other planets and it crosses Neptune's path. Nowhere else in the Solar System does this happen. Pluto's small size — about the same as our moon — also is unusual (see the definition of Plutocracy, ..."rule by the smallest group"). Together, the pair are a perfect model for the antipodean control system that was used to design the "bi-way" ; the New World Order's A&B human-engineering program (ants & bees) which is currently being used here. As above, so below—first they rock and then they roll!

Vaccin

Vaccines ?

It disturbed me greatly as a child to receive a "needle". I knew something was not right about that and developed a huge fear of needles. (I also learned to fear doctors and other medical professionals — but that is yet another story!) As a teenager in the 70's I used to like to travel to Scotland to visit my grandparents and at that time there was some required vaccination in order to enter Great Britain. I always felt some assault was being made on my body and the public health nurses tried to assure me that it was only a little prick. I always compromised because I wanted to travel. Eventually the requirement was finally removed. Throughout my world travels in the 80's I soon learned the definition of the terms "recommended / required" and made sure I did not travel to vaccine "required" destinations. Actually very few countries have vaccine requirements for entry, but the Tropical Disease center will always "recommend" many shots for those travelling abroad. In fact a recent article in a U.K. journal claims that 5 people have died recently from the Yellow Fever vaccine.

In 1975, I began a job working for Medical Services Plan of B.C. A requirement for employment was booster shot and th oral polio vaccine (th little pink sug cube). Well, if th vaccines are so effec ive and I had alrea received the po vaccine twice in life, why did I need receive it again? once again I had compromise becau wanted this great

It disturbed me greatly as a child to receive a "needle". I knew something was not right about that and developed a huge fear of needles. (I also learned to fear doctors and other medical professionals — but that is yet another story!) As a teenager in the 70's I used to like to travel to Scotland to visit my grandparents and at that time there was some required vaccination in order to enter Great Britain. I always felt some assault was being made on my body and the public health nurses tried to assure me that it was only a little prick. I always compromised because I wanted to travel. Eventually the requirement was finally removed. Throughout my world travels in the 80's I soon learned the definition of the terms "recommended / required" and made sure I did not travel to vaccine "required" destinations. Actually very few countries have vaccine requirements for entry, but the Tropical Disease center will always "recommend" many shots for those travelling abroad. In fact a recent article in a U.K. journal claims that 5 people have died recently from the Yellow Fever vaccine.

In 1975, I began a job working for Medical Services Plan of B.C. A requirement for employment was a booster shot and the oral polio vaccine (the little pink sugar cube). Well, if the vaccines are so effective and I had already received the polio vaccine twice in my life, why did I need to receive it again? So once again I had to compromise because I wanted this great job working for the government — high wages, all the benefits and security! (Of course it turned out to be the worst job I ever had and 5 years later gave up all that money and all those benefits).

For the next 20 years I managed to avoid doctors and vaccines and very occasionally would read an article on the adverse side-effects, but could not defend how I knew they were just not right. Then, with the impending birth of our child, in 1995, I decided I had better get informed because there was no way I wanted to have the responsibility of our new baby suffering the ill effects of vaccines.

My husband and I were living in Hong Kong at the time and as much as I wanted a home delivery, it was illegal as all babies were to be delivered in hospitals. Knowing that newborns are inoculated in the hospital the day after birth; for polio, hepatitis B and/or tuberculosis. I was not well prepared for the confrontations that would take place.

Without the support of family and friends it was becoming imperative that I gain some knowledge on the subject.

I came back to Canada and tried to find as much information as I could on vaccines but most book stores had very little literature on the subject. I managed to find the most popular books and was shocked at what I was learning. Could all this be true?

I went back to Hong Kong and told my doctor that my baby was not to be vaccinated right after birth. I was told it was the law. When I replied that it did not seem like it was the law, I was told that it was almost the law!

I mentioned that I had concerns as to the animal parts and aborted human fetuses that were used in manufacturing the vaccine and was told "they don't do that anymore, only chemicals are used!"

Chemicals like mercury, aluminum hydroxide, phenoxyethanol (antifreeze), and formaldehyde?

During my first (and I trust my last) visit to the hospital our beautiful healthy daughter was born. Several doctors and nurses visited me in my private room trying to convince this stupid gweilo (white person) to vaccinate her baby. One of my favourite nurses (a nun) turned on me angrily, and then refused to talk to me for the remainder of my stay.

Feeling alone and hormonal I almost gave in, but received a call from one friend who was the only one in Hong Kong that I knew out of a population of 6.3 million, who actually understood my predicament. (Same friend is now living in the U.S. and is being told that in order to receive a green card, she must receive vaccines). She had an Australian naturopath call me (he was quite popular with the ex-pats) and he gently advised that I could wait a couple of months until I made my decision. When I asked if he had vaccinated his kids he replied "NO".

One nurse tried to talk me into the T.B. vaccine, as there are many reported cases in Hong Kong but when I asked her "Can you still get T.B. if you have been vaccinated?" she replied yes, but ... .

I repeated my instructions to my doctor, that I would wait a couple of months until our baby's immune system developed before permitting any injections. She replied that actually the opposite is true and that vaccines help build the immune system (yeah right).

It was the same Dr. who told me that white babies don't get jaundice and convinced me to remain in hospital for a couple of extra days. (Funny how the Dr. did not consider the fact that our daughter is half Chinese!)

Almost 6 years later and a lot more informed and with a greater understanding of why medical professionals cannot speak the truth, I continue to battle the vaccine issue. The schools in B.C. make parents believe that children must be vaccinated to enter the system — not true.

As I have written in a letter to the school and public officials "Upon review of medical journals, to vaccinate our child would be totally irresponsible.

I often wonder how come child-health is on the decline. There has been a huge increase in cases of diabetes, asthma, allergies, ear and upper respiratory infections and S.I.D.S. In our small neighbourhood there are two 5 year olds with asthma, another boy with constant throat and ear infections, 2 other kids (both under 5) who have been hospitalized with pneumonia and another 8 year old with a learning disability. They have all been vaccinated. When our daughter began kindergarten last year I was astonished that approximately 20% of her classmates suffered from allergies and various health challenges.

The very few children who I know that have not been vaccinated have no experience with ill health. Just a coincidence?

As well, why there is a government (tax dollars) compensation fund in several U.S. states to award parents whose children are vaccine damaged?

Follow the money. New vaccines to be released are announced in the business section of the newspaper. Most insurance companies don't cover damage due to acts of God, nuclear war, nuclear power plant accidents, and vaccinations.

Natural Immunity !

1 — At the end of May 2000, on a Saturday morning, my dentist performed a questionable dental procedure in my mouth, immediately following my "regular appointment".

2 — Within a month I was almost immobilized from the waist up.

3 — On July 1, 2000 I made my scheduled appearance on Parliament Hill, although it took all I had just to ignore the pain.

4 — During the first week of July I went to the hospital only to be told that I required physiotherapy; however, I was also told that they were totally booked up for the next 90 days.

5 — The next morning, like out of a miracle (presumably after they had discovered who I was), everything changed. I was given 3 appointments a week in physiotherapy and I was assigned to the hospital's top doctor and he arranged appointments with Ottawa's top specialist in Rheumatoid Arthritis.

6 — Rheumatoid Arthritis was diagnosed and confirmed. From the start I was prescribed drugs that worked like a "silver bullet" and most of the pain disappeared like magic. However, the drugs I was taking had shut down my own body's natural immune system.

7 — My doctor then requested that I take a complete physical exam at which time he stuck his finger up my rectum and then had his nurse administer a double-dose of flu vaccine.

8 — Later, he suggested that I tell the specialist that I should obtain medication for "bone loss".

9 — I stopped attending both doctors, slowly wheened myself off of their immune destroying medication, and looked for a different solution.

10 — I was then introduced to natural medication that is used by Veterinarians to relieve the symptoms of arthritis in horses.

11 — To date this natural medication seems to work just as well without affecting my long range survival chances; by dying from any other "natural cause".

12 — The moral of this story is that Freemasons obviously love their horses much more than they have ever cared about their human Bees or Ants.

"How Low Can You Go?"

by: Valerie Ku

Last night I was out and my 5 year old was playing in our front yard when the census lady came and asked the baby-sitter if she lived at this address. When she responded no, Karen (the Census lady) proceeded to quiz our 5 year old. How many people live in your house and what are your Mummy and Daddy's name? What is your phone # and how old are you?

Our child answered the questions and then told the sitter that "my Mom does not like me giving information to the Government"!

No more questions were asked and a form was left by Karen saying - "To let you know, I got census info: names and address and # of people living here. Thanks. Any questions or problem, call 1 800 591-2001"

I was outraged. So much for our right to remain silent. I didn't know information given by a juvenile was acceptable. I guess it just confirms Stats Canada's lack of regard for the law.

Maritimer Blows the Whistle on Chrétien and Premiers

Spilling the beans about fresh water "spilled out into the ocean"

Prime Minister Jean Chretien and the premiers of the four Atlantic provinces were in Atlanta in May leading a high-level Team Canada Atlantic trade mission to the southern United States.

Roger Grimes, Newfoundland premier, stated that exporting fresh water in bulk from Newfoundland would be better than leaving the province's many lakes and oceans to drain into the ocean.

"If we don't use it, most of the lakes and streams just go from a fresh water source out into the ocean... we're just letting it spill out into the ocean," Grimes said.

When asked if Canadians would support bulk exports of water, Chretien said there was "no plan on the table to comment on." Ignoring opposition that has developed on the question, Chretien said, "I'm not confronted with the problem."

Since early this year, Grimes has been suggesting that Newfoundland is considering selling bulk water. His Atlanta statement was dismissed by the media as comments of a folksy "rookie" premier and part of a "discussion" in Canada between provincial and federal governments over sale of water. Yet Grimes' stated there is a strong demand for fresh water in Texas and New Mexico but that "the province had not yet looked into marketing."

Chretien stated that "The Team Canada Atlantic Trade Mission to Atlanta represents another step in our export development strategy by raising our profile in a marketplace with promising opportunities for Atlantic Canadian business interests." According to the Department of Trade website, the main focus of the trade mission is on "information technologies, value-added food products, light manufacturing, value added wood products and life sciences."

Over the past six years the southern states have been the fastest growing region in the US. In 1999, Canada's exports to the area exceeded $22 billion – about three times Canada's exports to Japan, Canada's number two export market.

This area is also in the middle of a water crisis.

According to the November 2000 bulletin of Georgia State University, "An enduring drought has shrivelled Georgia's lakes and rivers." Water scarcity is "a critical problem."

"The Flint River watershed's lower basin is Georgia's breadbasket, where food and fiber production and processing have a multibillion-dollar impact. For more than a decade, the region's dwindling water resources have been in the forefront of debate – as well as a lawsuit – between officials in Georgia, Florida and Alabama," it reports. Tennessee is also "experiencing water shortages from the effects of population growth, industrial expansion and too many seasons of drought," according to a news report.

Grimes' statements about all the water that is being "spilled out into the ocean" are hardly idle talk. It is precisely one of the areas of trade that is being pushed by Grimes, if not by the other Atlantic provinces and the federal government. Yet Newfoundland's own domestic water supply is unhealthy, with boil water orders in effect in more than 200 towns or one out of every three towns.

Fresh water is a human need and as such a human right. It is unacceptable that it be turned into a commodity which is not in service of the people but to further enrich those engaged in its sale.

CIPI Press Release
re: July 1, 2001
Open House at : PO[12]
(The Ferme 34568)

Last year, July 1, 2000, CIPI celebrated Canada's birthday by introducing our new flag on Parliament Hill. The CIPI flag incorporates the same basic design elements as does the current Canadian flag, that is, a Maple Leaf and two bars. The major difference is in the colours utilized on the CIPI flag ; our Maple Leaf is alive (green), and our two bars symbolize the Pacific and Atlantic oceans (blue), the whole being printed on a background that represents the land of the Original Peoples (tan - light brown).

This year, on July 1, 2001, in a spirit of openness, and also because it has come to our attention that certain imposters are planning an "event" that is intended to denigrate our Institute and/or its members on Parliament Hill, CIPI has decided not to attend the Hill. Instead, we are holding an Open House and walkabout for interested Media and Police at our farm. The farm is located at : Canadian Institute for Political Integrity

Mr. Glen E. P. Kealey, President of CIPI, will be available from 2:00 pm to 4:00 pm, on July 1, 2001, to answer questions (on the record of course) which may be of interest to these very special visitors. Cameras and tape recorders (either visible or hidden) are both welcome.

Coffee and Iced Tea will be served.

Chairman, or, To whom it may concern

For the public record we are today placing on the public record, including with your own office because, reportedly, you are Canada's security over-sight committee. Our complaint is that a number of efforts have been made by our Institute to inform the RCMP about the existence of a criminal conspiracy that endangers every person on this planet and they, the RCMP, don't seem to want to hear about it.

First, the RCMP ignored our request to meet in person, claiming that they were too busy with the international trade meeting held in Quebec City this spring, and recently, they have consistently cut-off our every attempt to communicate with them by fax. We suspect that the RCMP refuse to deal with the evidence of this conspiracy because of the influence (Bribes and Blackmail) that Zoroastrian Freemasonry and their agents obviously have on each of the security services in our country.

We will communicate your own response to our members about this serious matter (or the lack thereof), in the next issue of the Kealey Paper.

Sincerely,

Glen EP Kealey,
Chairman, CIPI

Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS)
Ward Elcock, Director
Government of Canada
Ottawa, Ontario
Fax (613) 783-9363

Mr. Elcock :

For the public record your name was suggested to us as a contact by Susan Pollack, the Executive Director of SIRC. Her suggestion came in a letter that followed one we wrote to SIRC, on July 9, 2001. (see attached)

On an irregular / regular basis we have attempted to inform your agency about a clear and present danger, a threat to our country's very existence which, as a result of our fifteen year Canada-wide investigation, we believe to be all too real. We have consistently faxed this same fax number of yours with interesting bits and pieces of our research in an attempt to raise some interest from your agency, but to no avail. We are uncertain as to whether the reason for your lack of interest is personal, as previously I was successful, in 1991, in convincing an Ottawa court of this ongoing conspiracy with the evidence that I possessed at the time, that is, until Freemasonry stepped in and ordered the case be halted; or otherwise, if it is because CSIS also is likewise totally infiltrated and controlled by Freemasonry, the secret society that reportedly protected Commissioner Inkster, Deputy Commissioner Jensen and Assistant Deputy Shoemaker, (Royal Canadian Mounted Police), Bernard Roy, et al, at the time.

We suspect that the RCMP and OPP still refuse to deal with the preponderance of the evidence of this ongoing conspiracy due to the illegal influence, gained through bribes and blackmail, that Zoroastrian Freemasonry and its agents obviously hold on the most greedy and naïve members of various police services in our country.

We hereby now request that you, personally, acting as the current Director of CSIS, directly take an interest in this most serious matter, or we will once again communicate to SIRC that your agency is unwilling to investigate this ongoing crime which seemingly threatens Canada's security, if not our very existence as a nation.

Sincerely,

Glen EP Kealey,
Chairman, CIPI

Still Progressives Progress

by: Glen Kealey

Trying to get authorities to investigate their own participation in Zoroaster's 8000+- year old conspiracy, one that Freemasonry's priests are assigned to manage, with a goal to reverse evolution down to a time before gender cells divided, thereby creating two sexes, is not easy.

However, if we who have cracked their secret codes don't do it, who then will? Last year the Ottawa police claimed that many people knew ahead of time that a serious problem was brewing at OC Transpo and no one spoke out. As a result, reportedly four people were killed and the perpetrator committed suicide.

We, on the other hand, are trying to expose the biggest mass-murder ever contemplated, i.e. the total annihilation of the people on the surface of the planet and no one in a position to warn the public even wants to know.

Apparently, Freemasonry has created a world of, and for, the BRAINDEAD! Their principle weapons are :

1 — Fear	9 — War
2 — Money	10 — Pestilence
3 — Greed	11 — Poverty
4 — Faith	12 — Famine
5 — Naivete	13 — Pharmaceuticals
6 — Education	14 — Drugs
7 — Entertainment	15 — Disease
8 — Politics	16 — Genetic Engineering

Here is some of what we have tried this year alone :

a — informed Justice System - they don't want to hear the evidence

b — invited the media, national security & police to visit our farm - no one came

c — contacted the RCMP and OPP - they don't want to know

d — contacted Security and Intelligence Review Committee (SIRC) - they replied "Contact CSIS"

e — contacted CSIS - no reply

f — contacted Jesuits - told not to fax again

g — contacted Military (CISS) - no reply

h — contacted Conrad Black - no reply

Osama/Usama bin Laden is Hamath's "Goat"

Cruise missile technology flies planes to WTC on 9-11

by: Glen Kealey

There are too many loose ends in the CNN version of the 9/11 tragedy to accept their version of the events outright without seeking a second opinion.

Only the braindead followers of "the system" (Masons or Mason wanna-bees) would not ask to see and hear the whole of the available evidence, no matter where it might lead.

And, any investigator worth his salt will tell you to both "follow the money", as well as, examine each of the suspects motives.

The first question any true investigator (ie: Columbo) would ask is — "except for the obvious suspects, is there any one else who benefitted from this crime?"

In this case "yes" is the answer and the possible suspects are numerous. If one were to ask who benefitted "most" —here are just a few:

1 — The Federal Reserve. It has gained tremendously by the fantastic increase in the national debt of the United States and resulting reduction in their Social Security surplus; both at a time when the U.S. was on the verge of paying off its national debt over the next ten years.

2 — The U.S. Military. It has been able to empty its inventory of weapons and bombs; stockpiles that have limited their ability to spend new money (and collect secret bribes and kickbacks) during the eight, very long, Clinton years.

3 — Transnational Trade. Big businesses all benefit from the new purchases by all government departments (Airlines, the Post Office, Home-land Security, FBI, CIA, Pharmaceuticals, etc).

4 — Organized Religion.
These fear mongers have greatly enhanced both their position and treasure chests; as the "sheople" flock back to churches in record numbers.

5 — The Private Charity Trade.
Very large charitable organizations have seen a fantastic growth in both the amount of money they've collected, as well as, the total number of volunteers they've recruited.

Question ?
What do all these groups have in common?

Answer.
They can all be linked to elitist secret societies such as Freemasonry; they, who have always believed in creating "Order out of Chaos". These secret societies go back thousands of years. All are owned

Hamath's Apiru-Trapezitae of the Hittites is now CCRA

by: Glen Kealey

At least as long ago as 3200 BC there lived a people known as the Hittites. Their King lived in a place called Carchemish, in the southeast corner of what is now Turkey. As with today's politicians the King's position was mostly cosmetic. He didn't have any real power.

Those with the power lived down the road a ways, in a place called Hamath. The priests of Hamath had real power which they exercised from behind the scene, much as they do today. They created and owned the money supply and the banks (known then as money-changers).

The priests of Hamath wrote their language, now known as Khitan. They archived (hid) the peoples public records and promoted religion, as well as, the arts and "culture". These helped to keep the people busy and uninformed except for what priests allowed their news editors to publish from a nearby town called Media.

These ancient Priests supported free-trade, mostly in minerals such as silver, copper and iron. With these they fabricated coins to pay the soldiers and the armour used to protect them in battle.

Things didn't change much over the years except for the location of their field activities. They operated behind the scene in Babylon, Egypt, India, Japan, Korea, China and the steppes of Russia and Siberia, before they changed their focus to the include the West.

After establishing a maze of different religions for every region of the East, they then created Christianity especially for Europe, Australia and the Americas.

The work began in the middle-east but direct control was quietly transferred to Greece, or Macedonia, as it was known at the time under the Roman watch of Constantine. He commanded the Roman military force outright by an ancient priesthood who control both the world's Big Media, as well as, the Central Banks. Originally, these were headquartered at a place called Hamath (Syria) and spoke a discontinued language known as Khitan. This top secret society of "predator priests" has also been known in different ages by the name Apiru, or Habiru and later, Trapezitae.

How could they do 9/11?

Simply by pre-programing the four airplanes' Automatic Pilot Computers (with Cruise Missile Technology) and then give them the WTC coordinates during their construction. They could also order the four planes to shut down their "Black-Box" (orange) transponders.

Boeing, Boeing, "Who let the dogs out ?"

Simultaneously, and just as important, a diversion would also be orchestrated. For just that purpose a very braindead and very naive Freemason known as Osama /Usama bin Laden was recruited to carry out "the illusion of a multiple skyjack", dubbed —SePTember DecePTion—. Today, even bin Laden is totally overwhelmed by the effectiveness of "his" plan.

As P.T. Barnum once was quoted saying : ...."There's a new sucker born every minute." Right !

known as legions. (Note the similarity that exists between the words "legion" and "religion" — both are places that allow grown men to practice brotherly love without drawing too much attention to that fact.)

Once the priests had encoded their plan for control over the West they published it as "open source coding" in a book called the Bible (authorized at Nicaea by the pagan Greek military leader Constantine).

Making use of Free-masons known as the Knights Templar to set up a banking network throughout Europe, new cosmetic power over the West was then passed to the French monarchy, in the 14th century. True power to change or reverse direction was retained by the high priests of "competing" Christian churches.

These new Christian churches however, had understood that ultimate power was always to be retained by the ancient priests of the East, who themselves remained simply as gate-keepers to "US", the Unknown Superior (Troglodytes).

In France the eastern priests were known as The Ferme. They, The Ferme, created a tax collection and judicial system for France which allowed them to fund the Monarch's wars on a fraction of what they collected.

In 1535, The Ferme decided to control the Americas and the geographic land mass they called Canada in particular. They sent their agent Jacques Cartier to start the ball rolling.

Today, the middle-eastern tax collection agency which created Canada has recently been renamed. They are the CCRA, the Canadian Customs and Revenue Agency. In other words Canada is not a country that created a tax collection agency, but rather, it is a country created by a tax collection agency. Notice the similarity between Canada and Canaan, the very first "promised land".

Revenue Canada and later, CCRA's history follows here, in a letter sent to the Cabinet Minister who allegedly (cosmetic), is responsible for the Agency. It was written by Dave Strang, of Olds, Alberta.

Re: Your file: 3-83236 and your fax dated August 21, 2001
ATTENTION: George T. Christidis

WITHOUT PREJUDICE
Thank you for reaffirming the fraud being perpetrated against my person, but at a level somewhat higher than Shortridge Civil Enforcement. At this time you may be considered innocent perpetrators of fraud, as the educational system, (institutes of controlled thought), has not allowed the truth of history to be known. Your actions indicate to have made you complicite in activities against myself.

Mere quotations from the Income Tax Act confirm that the said Act violates the Law of the Land by illegally circumventing the inherent and inalienable rights afforded everyone. Taxation is involuntary servitude and when prosecuted for non-compliance automatically reverts to the crime of slavery. Slavery was abolished in this country by the Imperial Parliament of Great Britain in 1833.

Upon receiving and reading the following pages, you may not have any such luxury as being the innocent perpetrators that you currently enjoy. These pages are documented, factual, readily verifiable and most probably not unknown to those who are responsible for these frauds. Perhaps one should have the truth come out in open court as public record and let the people of Canada be the final judge. Such a spate of lies and a mass exodus of lawyers politicians emanating from Ottawa and provincial capitals would have no precedent.

If one were to examine practical fact, you and others in the same field of endeavour, are much the same as a highwayman of old when he would say: "Your money or your life" and taxes are paid you under that threat.

However, you and yours, unlike the highwayman does not, indeed, waylay a man in a lonely place, spring upon him from the roadside, and, holding a pistol to his head, proceed to rifle his pockets. But the robbery is nonetheless a robbery on that account; and robbery under colour of law is far more dastardly and shameful.

The highwayman takes solely upon himself the responsibility, danger, and crime of his own act. He does not pretend to have any rightful claim to your property and is much too sensible a man not to pretend to be anything but a

The highwayman takes solely upon himself the responsibility, danger, and crime of his own act. He does not pretend to have any rightful claim to your property and is much too sensible a man not to pretend to be anything but a robber. Furthermore, having taken ones money, he leaves, as one may wish him to do. He does not follow one down the road against ones will, and robbing one of more money as often as he finds it for his interest or pleasure to do so. He is too much of a gentleman to be guilty of such impostures, and insults, and villanies as these. Additionally, he does not try to dupe one into believing what he does is righteous and lawful. He is diametrically opposite to what you and yours falsely claim to be legitimate!

In order to properly understand what is happening today and why it happens, a knowledge of recent history in this country is mandatory. This is not to say that incidents similar to what has transpired in Canada have not occurred elsewhere in the world in one form or another. If one is not a "conspiracy theorist" then it must be admitted that there are just too many "coincidences" that occur to possibly be coincidental or accidental.

With the above paragraph in mind, it may be reasonably stated that there are three likely scenarios marked for consideration, of which the first is the "law of average", whereby one may assume that 50% of what goes on should be in favour of the population. The second thing we are asked to believe just in case the first situation is not true, is that the incompetence of government and bureaucratic bungling are accountable for the woes of the country. This is the most favoured ritual the controlled media offers as an excuse via editorials made for public consumption. Does it not then follow that there should be the odd mistake made in our favour? This rarely, if ever, happens. The final and most probable scenario is that we are dealing with brilliance and planning!

In 1844, Benjamin Disraeli, former Prime Minister of England is quoted as saying: "the world is governed by very different personages from what is imagined by those who are not behind the scenes."

In the early 1900's, the House of Rothchild (aka Bauer), were curious about certain facts concerning human behaviour, and in particular, how to control people. They approached the Tavistok Institute at Sussex University north of London, England. There it was learned that most people live in fear; fear of dying alone, fear of not going to heaven, fear of not being able to educate their children, fear of not having enough money to put food on the table, and many other things. Since that time, the political systems of the world have been constructed so as to perpetuate poverty and thereby assert control over the populations.

Laws, rules, regulations, bureaucratic red tape and taxation under some pretext all contribute to this system of control by curbing the productive potentials of a people.

We all are taught in schools, which is reinforced by the media, that capitalists hate communism and communists hate capitalism. The truth of the matter is that capitalists see communism as a means to create and maintain a monopoly administered with typical capitalistic efficiency. Hence, globalization of industry and multilateral treaties which render ineffective any sovereignty of a nation. This is accomplished by a means known as progressive gradualism. Look around in this country and most "western" countries and one will find that most, if not all planks of the Communist Manifesto have been implemented. Central banks, public schools, gradual abolition of inheritance, no right to own property, progressive income tax, etc.

THESIS v ANTITHESIS equals the more favoured SYNTHESIS. SO WHERE IN RECENT HISTORY DOES THE FRAUD IN CANADA BEGIN?

The following is a brief, but accurate synopsis of contemporary history, and will be substantially increased and upgraded to a more professional level in the near future.

The "Fathers of Confederation" painting is a fraud. In that painting the Recording Secretary is depicted as one Hewitt Bernard and is confirmed in the accompanying addendum. Upon consulting historical record, it will be found that the Recording Secretary at the Quebec Resolutions Conference of 1864 is not Hewitt Bernard, but is signed only by E.P. Tache. Mr. Bernard was not a delegate to the conference of 1864, nor was he in attendance.

So who is Hewitt Bernard? Again, record states that he was a clerk at Westminster in England. It happens that John A. Macdonald met and married Susan Agnes Bernard in London, England on February 16,1867. Her brother, Hewitt Bernard first came to Canada from Britain in the summer of 1867, three years after the conference of 1864!

"CONFEDERATION" is also a fraud. This did not happen 1867 nor has it transpired since that time. The "British North America Act of 1867" did not confederate "Canada" nor is it a constitution, but is and was, an Act of British Parliament. This Act was merely an elaborate set of instructions via the Colonial Office for the then Governor General of the unified colonies known as Canada.

"CONFEDERATION" as defined by Dr. Maurice Olivier, K.C., Joint-Law Clerk, House of Commons, @ page 85 of the Special Committee Report on the BNA Act convened in Ottawa, February 26th, 1935: "A confederation is a union of independent and sovereign states bound together by a pact or a treaty for the common observance of certain conditions dependent upon the unanimous consent of the contracting parties, who are free to withdraw from the union. "

The key words here are "independent and sovereign" states. Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and East Canada and West Canada, (the Province of Canada) were not independent nor sovereign at that time, but rather were colonies of Great Britain, thereby making it impossible for any confederation to occur. This, in turn, is confirmed by the "Interpretations Act of 1889, Section 18, Paragraph 3:

"The expression COLONY shall mean any of Her Majesty's Dominions, (exclusive of the British Islands and of British India) and where parts of such Dominions are under both a Central Legislature and Local Legislatures, all parts under the Central Legislature shall for the purpose of this definition, be deemed to be One Colony. "

Hence comes the expression the "Dominion (colony) of Canada".

The "Colonial Laws Validity Act" of June 29th, 1865 confirms the status of the above mentioned Provinces to be colonies and states in Section 6, the following:

"Any proclamation purported to be published by the authority of the Governor, circulating in any newspaper in the Colonies, signifying Her Majesty's assent to any such Colonial law or Her Majesty's disallowance of any such reserved bill as aforesaid, shall be prima facie evidence of such disallowance or assent."

Another strange anomaly is the fact that in the year 1272 A.D., a law passed in England forbade "any sheriff, lawyer, bailiff or any other of our Court constables" from holding public office. This was in theory, to separate the state from the judiciary. This law held for 600 years, unti11872. Apparently John A. Macdonald, Georges Cartier, and many others held public office illegally! Can you wager a guess as to which brotherhood belongs the credit for having this particular law repealed?

When John A. Macdonald was knighted by Queen Victoria and became Sir John A. Macdonald, it was reportedly stated that it was for "confederating" Canada. Obviously, that cannot be true. Another little known fact is that he became the Prime Minister without benefit of an election taking place, although he was leading political figure in power in what was then known as Canada East and Canada West, (the Province of Canada), prior to the summer of 1867. (Last election known to be held was in June 1863). Apparently, an election held between August 7, 1867 and September 20, 1867 confirmed his position as Prime Minister of the Central Legislature of the unified colonies known as Canada.

Other little known facts are that he (Sir John) was also continuously involved in real estate, land acquisitions and rental property as well as being director of many companies. For at least 25 years, mostly while he was Prime Minister, he was: President of St. Lawrence Warehouse, Dock and Wharfage Company from Quebec City; and 1st President of Manufacturers Life Insurance Company of Toronto (1887). No conflict of interest there!!!

The foregoing statements constitute the following summary:

1. The Quebec Resolutions Conference of 1864 provided for a proposed Federal Union.

2. The Bill so drafted by the Canadian delegation to the London Conference of 1866 provided for a Federal Union.

3. The Colonial Office of the Imperial Parliament of Great Britain was not required to grant the colonies of Canada their request for a Federal Union.

4. The British North America Act carried out neither the terms nor the spirit of the Quebec Resolutions Conference.

5. Canada did not become a Federal Union nor a Confederation under the BNA Act, bur rather a United Colony. Therefore, the privilege of a federation or a confederation was, and still is a prerogative of the provinces of Canada by virtue of the Statute of W estminster .

6. The parliament of Canada did not become the federal government of Canada by virtue of the BNA Act, but rather the central legislature of a united colony, whose power was limited to assisting the governor-general as agent of the Imperial Parliament of Great Britain.

7. The BNA Act was and is not a constitution, but merely an act that united four colonies into one, with all authority still remaining with the British government. This Act created an ancillary corporation to "aid and advise" the Governor General to administer affairs in connection with the Provinces as long as they were colonies. The so created central legislature received its authority from the "Crown" and was not responsible to the elected MP's.

THE STATUTE OF WESTMINSTER DECEMBER 11, 1931

What is the Statute of Westminster? This statute enacted December 11, 1931 gave the provinces of the Dominion (colony) of Canada their independence from British colonial rule. Since that date the provinces of Canada have been able to form any type of union they would so desire, whether a federation, confederation, a republic whatever the population did demand. To date, the provinces have not acted on their acquired status given them by the Statute, but have rather continued the ruse that we have somehow retained some form of non-existent link with the British monarchy. This in turn would involve the provincial governments of Canada in an active role of conspiring to conceal treasonable practice, as they still participate in the governor-general lieutenant governor scam.

Section II of the above Statute states that notwithstanding anything in the Interpretations Act of 1889, no Province of Canada is any longer a Colony, and therefore has elevated each Province to the position of a Sovereign State without political superior. This is confirmed in the Act by Section 7, Paragraph 2, whereby Sovereign Rights "shall extend to laws made by any of the Provinces of Canada and to the powers of the legislatures of such Provinces."

The Sovereign Powers referred to are found in Section 2 of the Statute, which reads:

"No law and no provision of any law made after the commencement of this Act by the Legislature of a Province shall be void or inoperative on the ground that it is repugnant to the law of England or to any existing or future Act of Parliament of the United Kingdom.. or to any order, rule or regulation made under any such Act, and the Powers of a Legislature of a Province shall include the power to repeal or amend any such Act, order, rule or regulation in so far as the same is part of the law of such Province."

By the above Sections of the Statute of Westminster, the British Parliament binds not only itself but future Parliaments of the United Kingdom to recognize and respect the new status conferred by it upon the Provinces of Canada.

In order to confirm the above fact that Canada was a Colony of Great Britain until December 11, 1931, the same Dr. Maurice Olivier states that:

"Furthermore, our Constitution (BNA Act) is a law adopted by the British Parliament exercising its incontestable right of sovereignty toward its Colonies"

On page 125 of the same Special Committee Report of 1935, Dr. Beauchesne, KC., C.M.G., L.L.D., Clerk of the House of Commons is quoted:

"The Statute of Westminster has altered our status..."

Thank you, Dr. Beauchesne. The Statute of Westminster, literally overnight, did legally render the central legislature of a Colony of Great Britain into a non-entity! This non-entity status still exists to this day, contrary to the specious rhetoric we are asked to believe!

EMINENT DOMAIN ...WHAT IS IT AND WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

DEFINITION: From the English and American Encyclopaedia of Law:

"The unrestrained ownership of land; independent of all action from without, paramount over all action within."

"The right to exercise the power of Eminent Domain is inherent in sovereignty, necessary to it, and inseparable from it. From the very nature of society and organized government, this right must belong to the State. It is a part of the Sovereign power of any Nation. It exists independent of Constitutional recognition, and it existed prior to constitutions. It lies dormant in the State, until legislative action is had pointing out the occasion, the modes and the agencies for its exercise."

Four hundred-fifty years before the dawning of the Christian era, Herodotus states that Kingdoms conquered by the Persians were required to bring to the Courts of Darius every year, a jar of earth and a jar of water; not for its intrinsic value, but as a token of subserviance and acceptance of the laws of the Medes and Persians.

It is interesting that the British Empire held its Dominion and Colonies by similar exercise of this important right; for example: Nova Scotia was required to pay three Indian arrowheads per year. British Columbia paid two percent of all gold and silver mined. Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta under the Hudson's Bay Company paid as follows:

"Yielding and Paying Yearly to Us, Our Heirs and Successors for the same, two Elks and two Black Beaver."

History notes that these payments to the Imperial Parliament ceased on December 11, 1931, thereby relinquishing forever the right of Eminent Domain over each Province separately and individually. Why does the supposed "parliament" in Ottawa pay that city rent? It's not called rent anymore, but rather a "grant". Perhaps too many people may become curious? It is, however, quite plain that the oligarchy who falsely claims to be a federal government, does not now, nor ever has had the power of Eminent Domain, which rather is a bare essential for any legal, sovereign entity. To be blunt, "parliament" owns not one square inch of soil in Canada, nor anything else! Apparently, the "duly elected" MP's are elected under the auspices of fraud, and are severally and jointly accountable for the perpetration of that fraud.

The standard BIC (Basic Indoctrination Course - "Iambic") given all newly "elected" MP's tells them how to speak in the "House", how to speak to the media and the public, what they may and may not talk about, and are given to swear allegiance to a foreign head of state who has absolutely no authority in this country! They are also compelled to swear a secondary "Oath of Secrecy." Now why would an "elected representative" of the people be sworn to this "Oath"?

Hmmmm, I wonder!

THE GOVERNOR GENERAL ....WHAT WAS HE? WHAT IS HE/SHE NOW?

Any Governor-General to Canada was the Viceroy of the Crown, and was throughout time, appointed by "Letters Patent" issued via various agencies of the Crown, but always with its knowledge, permission and authorization.

James Murray, the first Governor-General, received his authority from the Board of Trade and Plantations. On March 23rd , 1931, the last Governor-General, Earl Bessborough, was accredited the same dictatorial power by the Crown in Chancery. Since the *enactment of the Statute of West*minster, December 11,1931, neither the Monarchy nor the Government of the United Kingdom have sent any authorized representative to Canada.

In 1940, an organization, the Native Sons of Canada, made an inquiry to the Department of Justice, Ottawa as to whether or not the present Governor-General is a viceroy of His Majesty, the King of England. The reply received from the Department of Justice reads:

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE
File:No.5111-40
July 10,1940

"The answer is that His Excellency the Governor-General came to Canada not in the capacity of viceroy of His Majesty, except in the popular sense of the term. "

(Signed) J. Stuart Edwards Deputy Minister of Justice

Another inquiry in 1945 was made to Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner in London by Mr. Frank Eliason, Secretary of the United Farmers of Canada, as to what Department of the Government of the United Kingdom was responsible for the appointment of the Governor-General to Canada. Replies were received from both the Canadian High Commissioner and the British High Commissioner, Mr. Earnscliffe, from Ottawa. Neither of them knew, and referred the question to the Department of State for External Affairs, Ottawa.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE FOR EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

File No.624-30 August 13,1945

"No Department of the Government of the United Kingdom is concerned in any way with the appointment of the Governor-General to Canada. "

At this particular point, one might note the differences in phraseology. "The Governor-General to Canada and the latter, the Governor-General of Canada. There is a distinct difference! Apparently, suppose Prime Minister MacKenzie King took it upon himself to issue his own "letters patent" in 1935, without authority from anyone to appoint his own Governor- General to Canada in order to carry on as if the Statute of Westminster had never been enacted and thereby perpetrate the fraud that we witness today.

Lord Tweedsmuir, more commonly known as Mr. John Buchan, an author of several novels of fiction and ironically also a tax lawyer, could never have contemplated the fiction happening before his eyes when he was appointed Governor-General of Canada in 1935. He has the honour and distinction of being the first of many to carry out this ongoing farce!

Most Canadians are being made to live an illusion, in that they are led to believe that there is a legal connection between England and its Monarchy and the yet to be confederated land known as Canada. That is utter nonsense! The British Monarchy has held no legal or political power in Canada since the passage of the Statute of Westminster. Today, Her Majesty, whom ever that may be, has no "right" in Canada nor ever has! The Canadian people have never assented as to having the Crown of England as the Crown of Canada!

All the pomp and ceremony that accompanied the signing of the "Canada Act" by Trudeau and "Her Majesty" in 1982 is, by the above documented facts, not worthy of any consideration save for what transpired is but a continuation of the recycled bovine greenfeed Canadians have been fed for generations.

It appears hard to fathom why we as Canadians would want to pay hard earned money for someone to go to Ottawa, and then have them turn about and lie to, cheat on and steal from the same group to whom they owe allegiance!

TAXATION

WHY IS IT "A NECESSARY EVIL OF "THE SYSTEM"? (or so we are told).

Taxation is an illegal transfer of wealth from those who have earned it to those who have not. Not a thing, nothing, is worth anything if one has not earned it themselves! Albeit, as previously mentioned, slavery was outlawed in Canada in 1833. More to the point, taxation is an extension, or more properly, a manifestation of a "government" supported and fraudulent monetary system. There are reasons for everything. "Cause / effect. "

At this point, be reminded of the fact that if one wants to hide anything, hide it in the most conspicuous place ..... right under one's nose!

Does one think that the gradual decline in the standard of living may be in concert with the increases in taxation? The answer is YES! This is no coincidence! An analysis shows that for every dollar taken in taxes, further "deadweight" costs are imposed on the private sector to $1.30 plus! The $1.00 of tax revenue is spent in a marginally productive way, through bureaucratic inefficiency which is inherent in public sector spending, represents more than $2.00 of loss to the Canadian economy.

These "deadweight" losses increase much more quickly than do increases in taxation. Daniel Usher, a professor at Queens' University stated: "Deadweight losses increase as the square of the tax rate."

What this essentially means is the fact that this country cannot ever, never tax its way to prosperity. It is impossible! When governments steal over 60% of Canadians' hard earned money, they do breach the most important principle of justice and rule of law in a free society!

Canadians are forced to pay sales taxes, income taxes, manufacturing taxes, tariff and excise taxes, corporate taxes, natural resource taxes, property taxes, social security and airport taxes, amusement taxes, capital gains, liquor and tobacco taxes, pension and payroll taxes, inflation and "national debt" taxes, and regulatory taxes. When all is said and done, the Income Tax Act is a misnomer. What Canadians are really paying is an absolute DENIAL OF INCOME TAX!!!!! and in turn prohibits ones labour from earning what it is really worth. So many taxes are paid in so many ways there is not an honest paycheque or price in the entire nation!

Past and present "governments" know precisely the above presented situation, but fail to address their own legislation in any positive form! WHY??? The "Lodge" again?

In the United States, the legislation necessary for passage of the income tax required a 38 State majority vote in the House of Representatives. After ballots were cast, the Speaker of the House eventually emerged and declared that a majority had been reached. According to the US Decimal Files, only two States had voted in favour! The Speaker obviously lied to the Congress. If this information is sent to the IRS, which itself is no part of the US Government but is controlled by the "Federal Reserve", ones money is very quickly and quietly returned upon completion of the appropriate forms.

Strange it is that our Bank Act, the US Federal Reserve Act and the following inception of the income taxes meld together. Just another coincidence?

GOVERNMENTS, BANKS & THE MONETARY SYSTEM

History shows that not long ago, governments and/or monarchies supplied currencies to be used as a medium of exchange, in place of the old barter system. Money, as it was known, was never intended to enslave people, but to extend an advantage to them. The reason that governments created their own currencies is for the simple reason that they did not trust anyone else with that task and as one may see with extreme foresight!

Mayer Amschel Bauer, (aka Rothschild) which means "Red Lion" once stated:

"Give me control of a nations credit and I care not who makes its laws. Quite a profound statement, given the fact that people are not taught the truth in five different areas which govern their lives. They are: Mathematics.. History.. Law.. Science and last but far from least of which is Economics.

If people had been taught these concealed truths, life in the world would be much different that what has transpired in the last few hundred years!

The "science" of economics is indeed bogus, whereby its own terms are not properly identified, for probably good reason, obviously for the benefit of the financial institutions. It is known that all money issued by the private financial monopolies (banks) is brought into circulation as an "interest bearing debt". Interest is described as being money paid to "borrow" money. What is curious is that when money is created out of nothing, only the principle is created. How then can interest ever be repaid if the interest itself has never been created? The truth is that it cannot ever be repaid which accounts for the so-called "debt" that far surpasses the total amount of money on deposit and in circulation.

"Interest" has been defined as "non-monetized credit", and, in turn non-monetized credit is best described as fiction! The "debt" is fiction, and the challenge to prove otherwise is open to any and all! Isn't lack of knowledge wonderful and ignorance is bliss? Hardly!

How do banks create money from nothing? In essence, banks monetize one's collateral and then proceed to "loan" one his own money at a rate of interest. Impossible, outrageous and unbelievable? Think again!

What transpires when a person walks through the doors of any financial institution? Firstly, one is required to provide adequate collateral for the supposed "loan". The bank then keeps one is suspense while they check all credit references, and in all likelihood, approves the "loan". In order to receive any "money" it is then mandatory to enter into contract agreement with that institution whereby one signs a "mortgage" (derived from French, meaning death/gamble). This document is then considered to be a promissory note that in turn may be bought or sold for legal tender. The friendly banker then says to the customer (victim) "we will credit that amount to your account." One will notice that he/she does not walk from the bank with $100 bills protruding from his /her pockets.

What the "customer" is not told is the fact that the bank then considers the signed "promissory note" as a "loan" for the identical amount from the customer to the bank, whereby that same amount is then deposited to the credit side of the banks ledger. Then, what is known as "cheque-book" money, (actually counterfeit) is created and transferred by the bank to the customers account which creates a zero balance for the bank. This is called "double entry bookkeeping". If the average person were to attempt this, it would be called fraud and rightly so, but it otherwise is commonly referred to as "good banking practice".

Furthermore, banks acquire property or any other asset by doing nothing but honouring its own cheque. The cheque is issued as a debit and the resulting title to the property or other asset is listed as a credit thereby again resulting in a "double entry" zero balance! Cute!

This is the secret that the bankers cherish, the media helps conceal and politicians support for no other reason than instant material gratification and perhaps, quite possibly, a little blackmail courtesy of the local "Lodge". (The time proven areas of sexual deviancy as a means to ensure servile obedience are well known to those who exploit its benefits).

Additionally, any contract, real or implied can be lawfully voided by either of the contracting parties on the grounds of non-disclosure of material fact or non-compliance of agreed upon terms. I believe this to be one of the maxims of law. Correct me if this statement may be proven false.

THE BANK OF CANADA

Quoted from Public Accounts of Canada 1993

"The Bank of Canada was established by the Bank of Canada Act, to regulate credit and currency, in the best interests of the economic life of the nation, to control and protect the external value of the national monetary unit, and to mitigate, by its influence, fluctuations in the general levels of production, trade, prices and employ*ment so far as may be possible within the* scope of monetary action, and generally to promote the economic and financial welfare of Canada."

"The bank is not an agent of Her Majesty and reports through the minister of finance."

"The Government's investment in the capital of the Bank is authorized by section 17 of the Bank of Canada Act. An amount of $5,000,000 represents the par value of 100,000 shares, and the remaining balance of $920,000 represents premiums paid in respect of the acquisition, in 1938, of the shares held by the public."

So the Bank of Canada is not as agent of "Her Majesty". That would explain why one cannot find the telephone number of the Bank under the "blue pages" listings for the "federal" government of Canada. Who then, owns the Bank? It is most certainly not the Canadian people, contrary to what we have been told.

Quotes from the booklet Bank of Canada Management and Accountability

"..... , Parliament has placed the responsibility for the affairs of the Bank on its Board of Directors. Except for those provisions which permit the Government to issue a directive to the Bank under specified conditions (none have ever been issued), the Bank is placed in a position to carry out its responsibilities independently."

"The Deputy Minister of Finance sits on the Board and on its Executive Committee but does not have the right to vote. "

"The Government does not appoint the Governor and the Senior Deputy Governor "

It would appear that the reason the Deputy Minister of Finance is not able to cast a vote is quite simply the fact that the "government" owns no voting shares! Who then, does? Reportedly, the U.S. Federal Reserve Banks own all the voting shares of the Bank of Canada. Incidentally, the U.S. F E D E R A L RESERVE is neither "federal" nor does it have any "reserve". These banks are secretly and privately owned.

A quote from former Governor of the Bank of Canada, Louis Rasminsky, in Rome on Nov. 9, 1966:

"I turn now to the relationship between the government and the central bank. The formal status of the central bank varies a great deal from country to country. In any case this a field in which the real inwardness of the situation is not likely to be revealed by the terms of the statute. "

Interesting, non ?

More quotes from "Management and Accountability":

"Since other directors are expected to devote only a small part of their time to the affairs of the Bank and are not required to be expert in the field of monetary policy, it would not, as a practical matter be reasonable to look to them to formulate monetary policy " "They are responsible for the appointment or reappointment of the Governor and Senior Deputy Governor.

In other words, the direction Bank of Canada takes is determined by two people, u n e l e c t e d , unaccountable and are not required to be Canadian citizens! Also, the Bank has its own "internal Audit Department".

The Bank of Canada was originally founded in 1934 as a privately owned corporation, and by 1938, the supposed "nationalization" of the Bank was deemed to have taken place whereby the Minister of Finance held the entire $5 million share capital issued by the Bank. What kind of shares the "B" class or non-voting shares?

Another anomaly, (coincidence) is the fact that a certain Sir Thomas White, whose Marxist leanings were not unknown, was the key figure in the implementation of the Income War Tax Act of 1917 and was also instrumental in the formation and s u p p o s e d nationalization of the Bank of Canada. One may recall that central banks and a graduated income tax are key planks in the C o m m u n i s t Manifesto. Dr. Skelton, the "father" of the Department of External Affairs is also known for similar ideals.

The "Income War Tax Act of 1917" was instituted under the War Measures Act and is at least of dubious legality. It should have been more properly named the "Bank Interest Debt Income Tax Act", but, as those that are realized this would not "fly", relied upon the exigencies of war and patriotism propaganda to ensure its passage. My, how the gears mesh!

Let me now shift to another related area, and that would be the Bank Act of 1913. The similarities between our "Bank Act" and the "Federal Reserve Act" in the United States is yet just one more "coincidence" that occurred within six months of one another. Both of these "acts" are essentially the same as they give the custody of the central gold reserves and issuance of currency to private financial monopolies. It is not the Bank Act itself that confers authority to the private banks to issue currency, but rather Section 124 concerning the "By-laws of the Canadian Bankers' Association". This association, in 1900, "humbly prayed to Parliament" to be incorporated, and in time was given that incorporation. The question that would obviously arise is "Why would an association in 1900 want to be incorporated?" The theme of p r o g r e s s i v e gradualism is at work again, and the year 1913 proves the answer.

ACTS of the PARLIAMENT of the DOMINION (Colony) OF CANADA

THIRD AND FOURTH YEARS OF THE REIGN OF HIS MAJESTY KING GEORGE V.

Being The SECOND SESSION OF THE T W E L F T H P A R L I A M E N T Closed by Prorogation on the Sixth day of June, 1913

Section 124. The Association may make by-laws, rules and regulations respecting (a) all matters relating to the appointment or removal of the curator, and his powers and duties.

(b) the supervision of the making of the note of the banks which are intended for circulation, and the delivery thereof to the banks;

(c) the inspection and disposition made by the banks of such notes;

(d) the destruction of notes of the banks;

(e) the custody and management of the central gold reserves and the carrying out of the provisions of this Act relating to such reserves; and,

(f) the imposition of penalties for the breach or non-observance of any by-law, rule or regulation made by virtue of this section.

At this particular point in history, it is fair to say that the Central Legislature of the United Colonies (Dominion) of Canada, has forsaken its sole and sovereign right as outlined in the BNA Act of 1867, for the creation of credit (money) to the private banking system and thereby becoming subservient to that private monopoly. The words of Mayer Amschel Bauer ring true!

Liberal leader Mackenzie King made the following remarkable statement as his platform of re-election in 1935:

"Once a nation parts with the control of its currency and credit, it matters not who makes the nation's laws. Usury, once in control, will wreck any nation. Until the control of the issue of currency and credit is restored to government and recognized as its most conspicuous and sacred responsibility, all talk of the sovereignty of Parliament and of democracy is idle and futile."

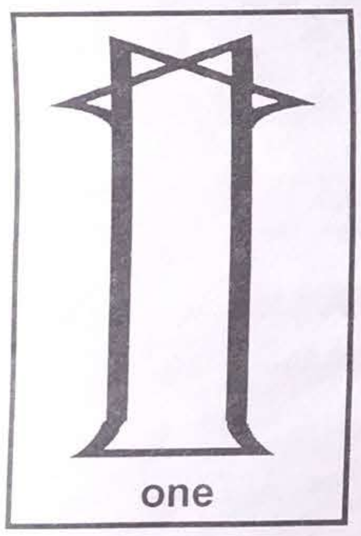
After his election, King either forgot or was forced to forget his prior statements, but being a Rockefeller "stooge" it is entirely possible that the statements so made were merely an election ploy.

THE STANDING COMMITTEE REPORT ON BANKING AND COMMERCE 1939

These proceedings cover some 856 pages of evidence given by Graham Ford Towers, the first Governor of the Bank of Canada. Most of the evidence so given was the result of questions posed to Mr. Towers by Mr. G. McGeer, K.C., former mayor of Vancouver. There is something, however, that is most perplexing and that is the fact if one looks for and finds the minutes of these proceedings in the archives in Ottawa, the pages number only some 230 plus. The question remains, where did the other 626 odd pages disappear to?



I am in possession of a notarized copy of the former, and have read both of these volumes. The dates, times, and members of the Committee are identical. The latter volume when compared to the former, is nothing to be better described than gibberish!

It is obvious even to the untrained eye that the latter report has been intentionally dissected, disinfected, sanitized and otherwise has had damaging statements surgically removed. It would appear that there are some people that would not want this to be available for public consumption! It matters not who would tell lies, sooner or later the truth does emerge!

Although truth will set one free, there is a no more fatal fallacy than believing the truth will stand by its own force!

The following excerpts are verbatim:

Q. But there is no question about it that banks create the medium of exchange?

Mr. Towers: That is right. That is what they are there for That is the Banking business, just in the same way that a steel plant makes steel. (p. 287)

The manufacturing process consists of making a pen-and-ink or typewriter entry on a card in a book. That is all. (pp. 76 & 238)

Each and every time a bank makes a loan (or purchases securities), new bank credit is created -new deposits - brand new money. (pp. 113 & 238)

Broadly speaking, all new money comes out of a Bank in the form of loans.

As loans are debts, then under the present system all money is debt. (p. 459)

Q. When $1,000,000 worth of bonds is presented (by the government) to the bank, a million dollars of new money or the equivalent is created?

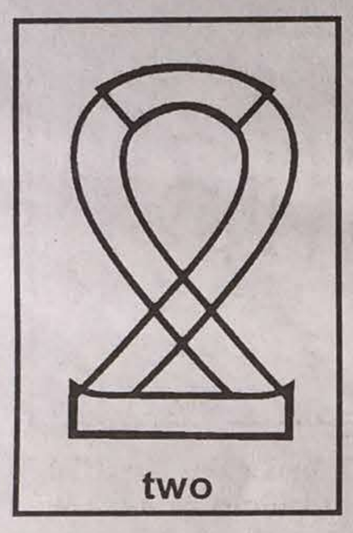
Mr. Towers: Yes.

Q. Is it a fact that a million dollars of new money is created?

Mr. Towers: That is right.

Q. Now the same thing holds true when the municipality or the province goes to the bank?

Mr. Towers: Or an individual borrower.



Q. Or when a private person goes to a bank?

Mr. Towers: Yes.

Q. When I borrow $100 dollars from the bank as a private citizen, the bank makes a bookkeeping entry, and there is a hundred dollar increase in the deposits of that bank, in the total deposits of that bank?

Mr. Towers: Yes. (p. 238)

Q. Mr. Towers, when you allow the merchant banking system to issue bank deposits which, with the practice of using the cheques as we have it vogue today, constitutes the medium of exchange upon which I think 95 per cent of our public and private business is transacted, you virtually allow the banks to issue an effective substitute for money, do you not?

Mr. Towers: The bank deposits are actual money in that sense, yes.

Q. In that sense they are actual money, but, as a matter of fact, they are not actual money but credit, bookkeeping accounts, which are used as a substitute for money?

Mr. Towers: Yes.

Q. Then we authorize the banks to issue a substitute for money?

Mr. Towers: Yes, I think that is a very fair statement of banking. (p. 285)

Q. 12 per cent of the money in use in Canada is issued by the Government through the Mint and the Bank of Canada, and 88 percent is issued by the merchant banks of Canada on the reserves issued by the Bank of Canada?

Mr. Towers: Yes.

Q. But if the issue of currency and money is a high prerogative of government, then that high prerogative has been transferred to the extent of 88 per cent from the Government to the merchant banking system?

Mr. Towers: Yes. (p. 286)

Q. WILL YOU TELL ME WHY A GOVERNMENT WITH THE POWER TO CREATE MONEY, SHOULD GIVE THAT POWER AWAY TO A PRIVATE MONOPOLY, AND THEN BORROW THAT WHICH PARLIAMENT CAN CREATE ITSELF, BACK AT INTEREST, TO THE POINT OF NATIONAL BANKRUPTCY?

Mr. Towers: If parliament wants to change the form of operating the banking system, then certainly that is within the power of parliament. (p. 394)

Q. So far as war is concerned, to defend the integrity of the nation, there will be no difficulty in raising the means of financing, whatever those requirements may be?

Mr. Towers: The limit of the possibilities depends on men and materials.

Q. And when you have an abundance of men and materials, you have no difficulty, under our present baking system, in putting forth the medium of exchange that is necessary to put the men and materials to work in defence of the realm?

Mr. Towers: That is right. (p. 649)

Q. Would you admit that anything physically possible and desirable, can be made financially possible?

Mr. Towers: Certainly. (p. 771)

Anyone who can read and understand the English language may now realize why some 626 pages of that Committee Report have mysteriously vanished from "federal" archives! This is no accident, it was done with deliberation! It would appear that there are more criminals walking the streets wearing expensive three-piece suits than what are contained in prisons across the country.

You no longer have the privilege of saying that you do not know and you are "just following orders". The fraud against myself and all other Canadians is alive and well to this point, and to this point only!

The Nuremberg Trials have set international precedent when it was stated that "There are laws higher than that of man." Just "following orders" did not cheat the hangman of any German soldier who was co~ted during those proceedings! If the laws of man do not conform to the Laws of Creation; they then are void and inoperable for any reason! One of the Ten Commandments is "Thou shalt not steal". So don't! Do not bear false witness ..so don't!

ISLAMIC BANKING

On this matter, it is interesting to consider the experience of the Islamic Banks: the Koran, the holy book of the Moslem faith, forbids usury as does the Christian Bible. Apparently the Moslems have taken their faith seriously and have set up, since 1979, a banking system that conforms

Dear Minister of Justice, or is it "Just-us"?

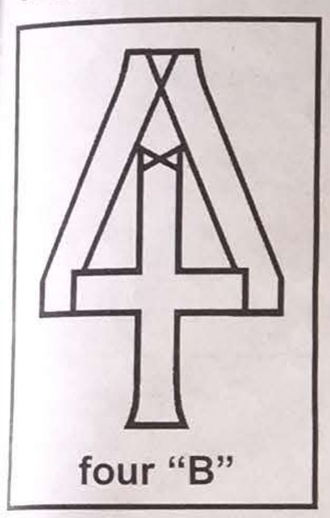
with the rules of the Koran. Islamic banks charge no interest on current or deposit accounts. They invest in business, (productivity) and pay a share of any profits to their depositors. This is a good example as to how to put the banking system in line with moral laws. Perhaps we Christians should be inspired by the actions of the Moslems!



THE GUERNSEY EXPERIMENT

After the end of the Napoleonic Wars in the early 19th Century, the Island of Guernsey was in dire straits. Apart from its mild climate, there was precious little to attract visitors or to keep the inhabitants from moving to the mainland. There was no trade or any hope of employment for anyone. Roads were practically non-existent and the town was in shambles. Vast tracts of land were about to be taken by the sea because of the sorry state of the dykes.

In 1815, a Committee was formed to examine the matter. It was found that further taxation on the impoverished island was impossible. The alternative of borrowing money from the private banks would incur debt charges at a high rate of interest. It was also clear that even though they would pay interest charges for years, the "loan" which would consist of an entry in a book of account, could never be repaid.

Finally, after much grave deliberation, the Committee reported in 1816 that the issuance of "debt-free" State Notes was the only possible way to alleviate the present intolerable conditions. In 1817 and over the first few years there were roadblocks set by the private banks, but in time these were overcome with no detriment (to the State).

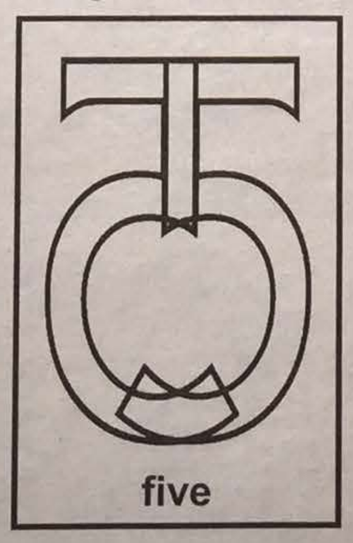
Today, the Island of Guernsey has a negligible rate of taxation, no unemployment, no inflation, good roads, fine buildings, good dykes and no welfare thanks to the implementation of the simplest type of monetary reform; COMMON SENSE! ! !

Surely, with all our "brilliant economists", we could devise a system whereby money could be issued as required without having to resort to "interest debt" and usury. This has been done before in a town in Austria, and another town, Swanenkirchen, in Bavaria. These towns were transformed temporarily from poverty-ridden to p r o s p e r o u s communities by the above stated means, but were forcibly prevented from issuing further money by their respective b a n k - c o n t r o l l e d government.

The so-called "debt", both public and private, has been shown to be fiction but is still a cancer that preys on the vitals of any nation, with the blessings of the "Lodge". Many of the worlds' greatest thinkers have recognized this fact.

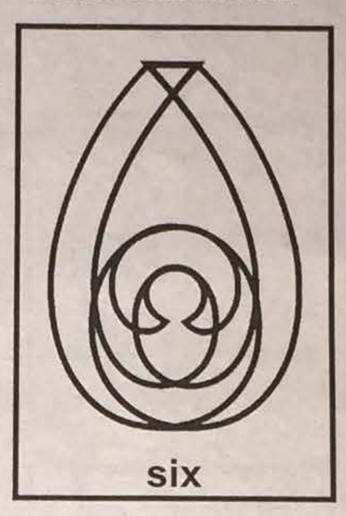
The contrast between bankruptcy (illusion) and prosperity, between negligible taxation and "legalized" robbery is the flaw in the creation of money! Shall we follow the example of Guernsey, or shall we wallow ever deeper into the artificial quagmire of "debt", taxation, and financial extinction ?

The Social Credit Government under William Aberhart in our Province of Alberta was also prevented from issuing its own currency by the Bank of Canada and the "non-entity" government in Ottawa. The Alberta "Bill of Rights" which is a masterpiece of creative policy, designed to give the citizens of Alberta complete and economic freedom, was declared ultra vires, and summarily rejected by the de facto, but fraudulent, oligarchy in Ottawa. For his efforts, "Bible Bill" appears to have been poisoned. "Bring your own coffee" seems to be a good idea!



THE MAGNA CHARTA 1215

This "Great" charter is as valid today as it was in 1215, and cannot be subverted nor ignored by "governments". This document was issued by the "people", whereby and then only the people can render it void or make alteration to it. It is the closest thing we in Canada have to a valid written constitution.



I make this assertion of validity in knowing that the judiciary in Alberta used the Magna Charta as part of their argument with the Government of Alberta concerning remuneration and judicial independence but just a few years ago.

Section 39 of the Magna Charta states:

No freeman shall be taken or imprisoned or disseised (read deprived) or exiled in any way destroyed, nor will we go upon him nor send upon him, except by the lawful judgment of his peers or by the law of the land. "

The Income Tax Act and/or provisions thereof do not substantiate a judgment of my peers nor is the Income Tax Act the Law of the Land, or any part thereto.

Section 40 reads as:

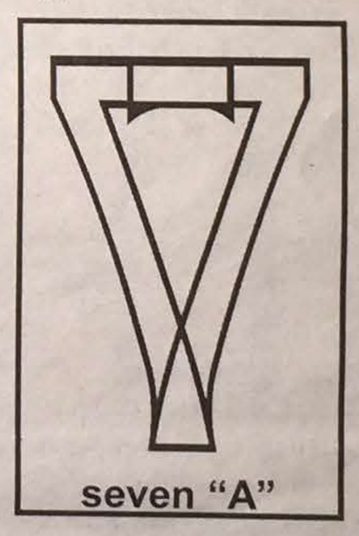
To no one will we sell, to no one will we refuse or delay, right or justice.

To this point, my rights have been denied, trampled on, violated and ignored by thieves in three-piece suits who claim to have nothing but the "best of interests" toward the Canadian people. It is so sadly true that "whose interests" these people are representing have not been made known to the public. Statements such as these are no more than "doublespeak", and mean absolutely nothing.

Below is listed only a few individuals, organizations and publications who control what one does or does not know. Peruse the list, and see if any of them, since at least 1920, have told any of the self evident truths about our iniquitous debt-usury system.

1. Any Prime Minister, (save for Mackenzie King) or any other candidate.

2. Cabinet members, Judges, MP's, or other appointed officials.



3. Any Senator.

4. Provincial Premiers or MLA.

5. The Liberal Party.

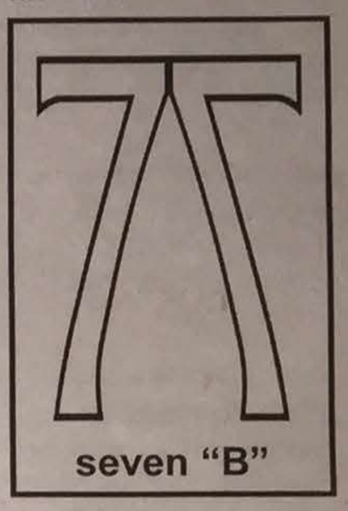
6. The Conservative Party.

7. The New Democratic Party.

8. The Communist Party or any other political party.

9. So-called "voter information" groups.

10. News sources such as Associated Press (AP), United Press International (UPI), Reuters.



11. Any large daily newspapers or columnists.

12. Radio and/or TV networks.

13. News magazines, such as McLeans, Readers Digest, Time, Alberta Report, Life, etc.

14. Books sold on newsstands or book stores.

15. The movies, stage, pro-sports or other "entertainment". (Although they may attack politics, religion and other things, they NEVER expose the fraudulent money system).

16. University or College professors.

17. Any "educational" textbook.

18. Any educational organization, such as the PTA.

19. Any Labour Union.

20. Any business organizations such as the Better Business

Bureau, Chamber of Commerce.

21. Medical, scientific or professional organizations.

22. Civic or Fraternal organizations such as Rotary, Elks, Lions, Moose, Eagles, Odd Fellows, etc.

23. Veterans organizations, VLA or Royal Canadian Legion.

24. The hundreds of "civil rights, student, Women's Lib., and other similar protest groups. They protest "racism, atomic weapons, war, pollution and a multitude of other "wrongs" but NEVER, NEVER, NEVER expose or object to the robbery of the people by the fraudulent banking system.

25. Masonic Orders, Lodges or publications.

26. Knights of Columbus.

27. Any Catholic Pope, Bishop or Priest.

28. Jewish Rabbis or organizations, such as B'nai Brith or the ADL.

29. World Council of Churches (WCC).

30. Any denominational Protestant minister or church.

31. Any other religious organization or "Evangelists" or "Crusaders".

At this time there is no national organization or individual of prominence in Canada who publicly opposes or exposes the plunder of the international bankers. However, one such President of a Federal Reserve Bank is quoted as saying: " If the American people ever realize what is being done to them, I'm afraid that I will have to leave the country. "

It is on the above grounds that I would challenge the actions of yourself and others, et al. As previously stated, the information so contained in this letter to you is documented, verifiable and irrefutable. If you would so choose to refute this documented evidence, kindly proceed. In the interim, if no refutation is made by you or on your behalf by someone of higher "authority", the return of property stolen from me under "colour of law" shall take place immediately; or proceed as you are, under and at your own peril. A man is the master of his own destiny.

c.c. Ann McLellan

PS: Ann McLellan wrote to David to state that she had passed on his letter to the Minister of National Revenue.

ADDENDUM

On November 15, 1994, a Letter of Constructive Notice was sent by double registered mail to David Anderson, Minister of National Revenue. (See attached)

A reply from the office of Mr. Anderson, dated December 15, 1994 was in turn received whereby Mr. Anderson had "asked senior officials of Revenue Canada to review the matter you have raised ....."

A standard "form letter" from Mr. Pierre Gravelle, dated February 14,1995 was received from the Revenue Canada office in Ottawa. His letter did not properly address my concerns outlined in the Constructive Notice and at no time either alleged or provided any proof that I was a "person" as defined in the Income Tax Act so as to give them jurisdiction over me.

I then wrote a letter of refutation to Mr. Gravelle, dated February 24, 1995, but as of this date (September 4, 2001) have received no reply from his office. Apparently he has chosen not to refute my letter of February 24, 1995.

Hon. David Anderson, MP
Date: NOVEMBER 15, 1994
Minister of National Revenue
House of Commons
Ottawa, Ontario,
K1A OA6

Sir:

I have recently learned that I, a natural person of commoner status, am not a "person" included in the Income Tax Act of Canada who is subject to the income tax. I further learned that I have been deceptively induced by Revenue Canada's propaganda into making a supposed contract by filing an income tax return, thus changing my status to taxpayer which makes me subject to the income tax by that supposed contract.

I hereby revoke and void any such supposed or assumed contract and hereby declare my status as a natural person and a commoner.

I hereby revoke and forbid any usage of my Social Insurance number as a taxpayer number; and, any contract that usage may have implied.

I hereby demand the complete refund of any withholding tax and all income tax paid over to the Receiver General of Canada under my Social Insurance Number — — — • — — — • — — — — on the grounds that I was fraudulently deprived of that money.

I hereby demand that you order Revenue Canada to cease and desist any harassment of me and prohibit Revenue Canada agents from violating my property and privacy rights.

I, DAVID GEORGE STRANG. a natural person of commoner status lawfully residing at 4817 49 STREET in the City / Town of OLDS in the Province of ALBERTA declare in the presence of the undersigned witness that the above statements made by myself are true and correct and according to the laws of the Province of ALBERTA and Canada.

ZOROASTRIANISM

by: The Sculptor

Zoroastrianism is the religious system of ancient Persia, allegedly founded by Zoroaster sometime between the ninth and sixth centuries. Its sacred book is the Avesta (Zend Avesta — Persian words which uncoded mean "the new way of 11, until the end").

Now what is Zorobabel doing at the most important crossroad in the Bible's sacred Genealogy of Jesus Christ? The Bible dates his arrival and presence at a time when the Hebrews were returned to Palestine from their captivity in Babylon, about 51 years or so, following their first diaspora.

Here is what we know about Zerubbabel:

1 - He is mentioned twice in the Bible as a descendant of Adam by both Luke and Matthew.

2 - At the time he was Captain (or leader) of the Hebrew Exile.

For Zoroaster fire (ire) is an object of special reverence. It is associated with truth and justice. The most conspicuous feature of the religion is the practice of disposing of the dead by exposing them to birds of prey (or pray) in so-called Towers of Silence.

A central feature of Zoroastrianism is the doctrine of dualism, which personifies the opposing principles of good and evil (ela, ie: — the French "Le", meaning the Male principle, and "La", which is the Feminine principle, ....not to be confused with Female.

Can it be said in any other way to be more direct?

The twin towers of the World Trade Centre were built in the shape of the # 11. The towers were 110 floors high. They were built by the PorT Authority (a & u are Ques—clues—as in Jaques, or Ja-ques). They were planned for "construction" and then for eventual "destruction", by the Priests of Zoroaster who, many thousands of years ago, planned and then fabricated all of the other organized religions of the world.

Fascist Jacobins

The "Invisible Empire", while it is difficult to trace the elements of a pattern never intended to be obvious, the broad shape of the design integrated into Freemasonry by Francis Bacon, is none-the-less apparent.

To date, in most cases, Fascist Jacobins have moved from a position of covert power into one of overt control after a nation has been made to suffer an economic collapse, a military defeat, or some other disaster.

The Masonic Fascists usually win mass public support by promising to revive the economy and restore national pride.

Their primary weapons are fear, greed, faith and braindead childlike patriotism. Long live CNN. God (the top dog) gets what God wants.

He·ge·li·an·ism (h³-g³"l¶-…-n¹z"…m, h¹-j¶"-) n. The monist, idealist philosophy of Hegel in which the dialectic of thesis, antithesis, and synthesis is used as an analytic tool in order to approach a higher unity or a new thesis. --He·ge"li·an adj. & n.

di·a·lec·tic (d°"…-lµk"t¹k) n. Abbr. dial. 1. The art or practice of arriving at the truth by the exchange of logical arguments. 2.a. The process especially associated with Hegel of arriving at the truth by stating a thesis, developing a contradictory antithesis, and combining and resolving them into a coherent synthesis. b. Hegel's critical method for the investigation of this process. 3.a. Often dialectics. (used with a sing. or pl. verb). The Marxian process of change through the conflict of opposing forces, whereby a given contradiction is characterized by a primary and a secondary aspect, the secondary succumbing to the primary, which is then transformed into an aspect of a new contradiction. b. The Marxian critique of this process. 4. dialectics. (used with a sing. verb). A method of argument or exposition that systematically weighs contradictory facts or ideas with a view to the resolution of their real or apparent contradictions. 5. The horrific event of 9-11-2001 killed 3000 people in a 6/7 square block area of New York.

To put this damage in perspective with what is being planned for 2036, beginning with the diversion of the the asteroid EROS and sending it towards earth, EROS, being 15 miles long, will leave a footprint on the ground which is equal to 300 square blocks, thereby creating conditions that will lead to global warming.

Please be advised that I will be representing the Minister of Human Resources Development at the Pension Appeals Board hearing in Ottawa, Ontario, on Wednesday, October 17, 2001.

If you have a representative, please ensure that he/she receives a copy of this letter with the attachment.

I enclose a copy of the résumé of Dr. MacDonald who will be appearing as an expert witness for the Minister. Dr. MacDonald will testify about the medical evidence that is presented to the Board.

In order to avoid a possible adjournment of this matter, please provide me, by the close of business on Monday, October 8, 2001, with the résumé of any expert whom you propose to call at the hearing. In addition, on or before the same day, could I please have a copy of any documentary evidence on which you intend to rely, and not currently forming part of the record before the Pension Appeals Board. Please note that you must also file any such documentation with the Pension Appeals Board.

I would like to remind you that you may be entitled to disability benefits only if it is determined that you became disabled on or prior to December 31, 1992.

Dear Mr. Kealey:

Re : Glen Kealey v. Minister of Human Resources Development CP 19004

I am writing in relation to your appeal from the decision of the Review Tribunal held at Ottawa, Ontario and rendered on March 12, 2001. If you have a representative, you may wish to contact him/her prior to taking any action in this matter.

As a result of a review of medical information on file, the Department's administration is now satisfied that you were disabled within the meaning of the Canada Pension Plan when you last met the contributory requirements in December, 1992.

Nevertheless, subsection 42(2)(b) of the Canada Pension Plan provides that the earliest a person can be deemed disabled is 15 months prior to the month their application for a disability pension was received. Accordingly, the earliest you could be deemed to have become disabled is April, 1998, based on your application of July, 1999. I have, therefore, been instructed to offer you a disability pension with the effective date of onset month of April, 1998. Pursuant to section 69 of the Canada Pension Plan, the commencement of payment would be August, 1998.

If the foregoing offer is acceptable, would you please date and sign the enclosed Consent to Judgment, in duplicate and in the presence of a witness, returning both forms to this office. As this matter is scheduled to be heard by the Pension Appeals Board in Ottawa, Ontario on October 17, 2001, we would appreciate receiving a response at your earliest opportunity. . Alternatively, if possible, you may wish to transmit a signed and witnessed copy by facsimile to the following fax number (613) 952-5327 with the original following in the mail.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me at (613) 946-9620 or Patsy Bradley at (613) 957-9442.

Dear Mr. Kealey:

On behalf of the Honourable Jane Stewart, Minister of Human Resources Development, I wish to thank you for your letter of November 5, 2001. The Minister has asked me to reply to your enquiry about the status of your Canada Pension Plan disability application.

As you know, in your case, based on your application of July 1999, the earliest date of disability onset established for the Plan's purposes is April 1998. The legislation states that benefits are payable the fourth month following the onset of the disability. Therefore, the effective date on your disability account is August 1998.

I am pleased to report that your file has been sent for processing. Under the circumstances, in order to avoid the possibility of any further delays, departmental officials issued your arrears entitlement of $28,128.74, on a priority basis, on November 9, 2001. This represents your disability entitlement for the period August 1998, the commencement date of your benefit, to November 2001 inclusive. Effective December 2001, your regular monthly rate of $721.46 will ensue.

Thank you again for writing to Minister Stewart. I hope this is the confirmation you required.

Sincerely,

Paul Migus

The Hittites

Hittite origin is documented in the long genealogical record of the first book of Chronicles; a mine of historic treasure. The list is but partially concealed. It contains all the great Hittite names of the ancient world, from 4004 BC to the birth of Jaques, who is symbolic of western Freemasonry (J&a are Ques / clues. J is U).

Hittites constitute the substratum of all early civilizations. The Turanian element that came into prominence in the days of the Egyptian Hycsos (Shepherd Kings), that underlay the culture of the empires on the Tigris and Euphrates, that preceeded Israel's occupancy of Palestine, that filled Syria and Asia Minor, that gave to Greece her mythology and sacred rites, and, overflowing into Illyria (Austria), Italy, Spain and Britain, bore the Iberic and Pictish name, now only recognizable in the Basques of the Pyrenees; that element on which the Persian Cyrus built up his first Aryan empire, and which, volcano-like, broke forth in Parthian (Iranian) days, that preceeded the Brahman in Northern India, that in early Christian centuries, traversed Turkestan and peopled the Siberian wastes, that for two centuries turned China into Cathay, and that still occupies Korea and the islands of Japan; that Turanian element, that reproduced the mounds of European Scythia (Russia), of Syria and the Caucasus, of India and Siberia, moreover, that, driven by adverse fortune, crossed the Northern Pacific into the New World of the Dacotah and the Mohawks, on level prairies and the alluvium of rivers from Alaska to the Gulf of Mexico, that founded the empires of Mexico and Peru, and that lives in many an Indian tribe from the frozen north to the southern land of fire, is the Hittite.

The Zuzim are the senior branch of the Hittite clan. They are the gate-keepers of "the mountain door". They defined the 4000 languages of the world, beginning with Khitan according to the laws of numerical and phonetic change. If anak in Hittite meant a palm, it would be a fitting designation for these men of lofty stature in whose presence the Mosad and other spies of the money-changers are as grasshoppers. That Canaan became a land of milk and honey, or, in other words, a region of grass and flowers, was no doubt due largely to the labours the Hittite pioneers, who caused even such a desert as Palmyra to blossom as the rose.

The first and only religion of the Hittites is, and always has been, premised on the step-by-step concept of time unlimited; and to this day, it remains the supreme deity of all dualist Zarvanite Zoroastrians.

Why did England's Royal Society create the U.S.A.? ....To destroy it !

In 1604 - 1625, Francis Bacon, an agent of the Franciscans, promoted the creation of an country to be the antipodean to the secret island labs of Bensalem (Atlantis / Greenland / Antarctica), in order to provide his "unknown superiors" with an overt site from where they could apply and test the new technologies that were being developed within the covert (secret) hidden labs of Bensalem itself.

The geography now occupied by the USA was chosen to be, temporarily, this "Guinea Pig"; assigned to verify the human engineering principles and concepts the result of using war, pestilence, famine, disease, space exploration and genetically modified food as instruments of human control.

The entire story can be easily deciphered by a carefull reading of both the translated as well as the unpublished and untranslated chapters from Bacon's New Atlantis and his Advancements in Learning.

England's old secret service (now MI6) also re-created Freemasonry, in 1717, to veil this most secret plan.

We have received a file from the Devoe family which speaks for itself. While the family was being "held for ransom", being financially destitute, the Bank of Nova Scotia offered them a sum of $20,000., if only they would drop a reasonable demand for proper compensation (approx. $35,000.).

We believe that if all the facts were known to your Board that they would quickly "do the right thing" and forward the balance owed, (plus $5,000.) to the Devoes for the damages they have incurred. What say you?

Twenty-second—4th Edition | "There always are two sides on both sides of every issue" | February 2002 to July 2002

Canada is the 2nd Promised Land

Will Canadians ever own Canada?

Today, July 1, is Canada's so called "Birthday". The average person on the street believes that today marks the beginning of this part of the world's geography. This would be a shock to those who lived here at the time, much like native Americans were shocked to find out that they were lost and were "re-discovered" by Christopher Columbus, in 1492.

The fact of the matter is that this day marks Zoro-Astrian Freemasonry's total domination over Canada's political structure. The name "DOMINION" of Canada merged us all into a Masonic Con-Federation, much as was the southern part of the USA. The word confederation stems from the middle-east and it designates all wholly-owned property controlled by the ancient Horites. Horites also wrote the original texts of the Bible for the Essenes. They, the Horites, had secret control over EgyPT from their base at Mount Sinai. It is to there that Moses had ziged when he should of zaged (allegorically speaking) to receive his next marching orders.

Canada's flag now carries the Red / White colours of Egypt's Pharaohs who fronted for the Horites at the time (Hycsos). Canada is also the SECOND "Promised Land" (see the resemblance that exists between the words Canaan and Canada). Every top ranking Freemason understands that #2 is always #1. Just check your watch; a second is the first unit of time.

Shakespeare once wrote, "the whole world's a stage and all the people in it are actors in a play". Well, hang on to your hats Ladies and Gentlemen, in the next few years you are about to be taken for the ride of your lives.

The Horites control countries by means of their tax collection "agencies". Servile government stoolies create these agencies for them. Here are just some of the names which they have used to date: Apiru - Habiru - Trapezitae - The Ferme - The Bank of France - The Bank of England - The Bank of Canada - CCRA - The Federal Reserve - IRS - etc., etc., etc..

It's all mind over matter. If you don't mind - then it don't matter.

Please do not hesitate to contact us if, finally, you would now care to "overstand" Zoro-Astrian Freemasonry's program that is currently fabricating your End Times.

Masonry's "I—AM—THE—MAN" signaled 9/11

"Lest we forget" #11 is their Code

by: Glen Kealey

The number 11 has been a code number of ancient Zoro-Astrian Freemasonry since the beginning of time. It is now claimed by them to be the second way they have of writing the number 2. However, secretly, they know that it really was the first, as two bars placed side by side was the original way of designating the 2.

The primary thesis of Freemasonry is that one never get's it right the first time around. Therefore the ancient priests of Zoro-Astrian Freemasonry have built their entire coding structure on the principle that #2 is in fact #1.

The appointed vice-president has secret power/control over the elected president. A second is the first unit of time on the clock. The CFO (the Chief Financial Officer) has more power in the financial markets than has the CEO (the Chief Executive Officer). A deputy minister has more real power than a minister, when it comes to who runs a parliamentary government.

Freemasonry uses the concept of two cues, or clues, to signify their interest in the topic at hand. Their main cues are Alpha-numeric. They are often the letters q and u. These letters are "pictographs" which are easily converted, visually, to the numbers 9 and 11.

The line drawing that appears on our cover page was taken from a Freemasonic book that was published in 1896. It is just one of the publications that alludes to the use of the letters q and u, or the numbers 9 and 11 as was printed on the cover of "Etidorhpa" in order to attract the attention of Masons to this so-called book of fiction.

Similar uses of q and u are made by including them in the names of places; such as with the name of Quebec, the French speaking city and province of Canada and the Qu'Appelle River; a river, about 434 km (270 mi) long, of Saskatchewan and Manitoba, flowing east to the Assiniboine River.

Within Freemasonry, the # 11 seems to have replaced the # 2 in significance with the first publication of Attar's masterpiece Conference of the Birds, an allegorical survey of Sufism.
Attar a Persian poet and mystic died c. 1229. The book uses allegory to relate the fact that world power is being transferred "temporarily" to the Kings of the West from the Dog Priests of the East. Attar's writing seems to have brought about a change, from 10 to 11, in the number of IAMBS included in his works.

Note to linguists : iambic pentameter

[CONVENTIONS OF WRITTEN ENGLISH]

The most common meter in English verse. It consists of a line ten syllables long that is accented on every second beat These lines in iambic pentameter are from The Merchant of Venice, by William Shakespeare:n sooth,/ know/nt wh/ am / s sad. / t wea/ris me;/yu say/t wea/ris you....

Similar changes in the number of IAMBS, from 10 to 11, appear in the other works of WILL-I-AM Shakespeare.

Etidorhpa, which is the goddess of love Aphrodite spelled backwards, chronicles the very weird activities of Freemasonry's main whistle-blower Captain William Morgan, in 1826.

"I--AM--THE--MAN--WHO--DID--IT" is the allegorical name assigned to the character of Captain Morgan in Editorhpa.

Likewise for E.A. Poe. Edgar Allan Poe, 1809-1849. American writer known especially for his macabre poems, such as "The Raven" (copied from the ancient Persian version in 1845), and many short stories, including "The Fall of the House of Usher" (1839).

I—AM—THE—MAN—WHO—DID—IT

In Poe's The Raven, the words "Never, nevermore Lenore" are repeated 11 times by the visiting raven.

Again, John Bunyan 1628-1688, an English preacher and writer celebrated for his Pilgrim's Progress (two parts, 1678 and 1684), the allegorical tale of Christian's journey from the City of Destruction to Zion, the so-called Celestial City, makes use of the phrase I—AM—THE—MAN.

Each of these allegories attempt to explain and provide guidance to ancient Zoro-Astrian Freemasons of Persia, India and Egypt on their quest for the Philosopher's Stone and ever-lasting life.

The code of q/9 - u/11 is often used in conjunction with its sister code PT. This code of PT (1X1) is associated with the so-called "vision" of Constantine which is most often used as embroidery on the back of formal robes worn by Catholics priests during official church ceremonies. Macedonian Kings, the PTolemies ran EgyPT between 323-30 BC.

What do all of these writings have in common? It is the use of the #11 code that links them all in the same way as 11/11, remembrance day on November 11, is linked to two world wars. And, as well is it just a coincidence that in order to warn of an emergency, telephone companies ask us to dial 911?

And again, by some strange coincidence if not conspiracy, we have lived through the most dramatic of all terrorist acts to ever strike America, on SePTember 11. If there is a link it is to Zoro-Astrian Freemasonry.

Like every little boy growing up in Canada, I had a great fascination with the Mounties. With their dress uniform of a low, broad-brimmed hat, scarlet jacket, and blue trousers with a yellow stripe, their Musical Ride, their horses, everything associated with them. That is everything but Jeannette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy, cause I was sure that Mounties did not paddle canoes and sing to girls, well at least not at the same time. No they had dogs called King and saved the world from all types dastardly deeds and they "always got their man."

Imagine my joy when I learned that the Mounties had been associated with Freemasonry from their conception. As I remember my fascination with the Royal Canadian *Mounted peaked during either the late 50's or early 60's Commissioner Harverson was invited to come to our house in Perth, to speak at some function my father had arranged. I was all excited. The Chief of the Mounties [the Mounties, Mounty] was coming to my house. He arrived dressed in a suit and tie, and I was devastated. After an hour or so socializing, he asked if he could change into his uniform. My parents showed him upstairs and he went to change. I thought things were definitely going to improve. Finally a "Mounty" Uniform. Shortly he came down the front stairs, dressed in the Commissioners full dress uniform sword and all. All dressed in blue, from head to foot, not a single bit of red anywhere. Once again I was crushed. However, he did have on his dress Wellington boots and spurs. Oh yes I remember the spurs. They made a lasting impression. I thought that my mother was going to kill him. For as he descended the staircase his spurs left a gouge on the riser of every second step. A solid pine staircase that had been built in 1853. A staircase that had stood for over a century. A staircase that my mother had lovingly refinished by hand. It is worthwhile to note that the marks on the risers, survive to this day, and my mother did not kill him. But I don't think she ever forgave him.

Early in the 19th century, residents of British North America began to fear that the United Stated wanted to absorb all of North America. As a result many colonists sought to unify the British colonies. In 1867 Great Britains' Parliament passed the British North America Act, which formed the colonies into a union called the Dominion of Canada. New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Ontario and Quebec were the first four provinces to join the new Dominion.

By 1873 the Canadian people and their government were stirred by the prospect of a greater Canada. A new era had dawned, expansion and unity had become the foremost topic of discussion. Not only was the added territory in the West of the utmost importance commercially, but also a call to adventure had been sounded.

The Canadian Government had from time to time had contemplated the plan of 1870, to patrol the Western frontier with a small number of mounted men. But it was felt something more comprehensive was essential. An adequate application of the law, without show of aggression, was the primary requisite.

On March 31, 1873, Dr. [later Sir] John Schultz, drew the government's attention to the Imperial proclamation of July 15, 1870, which added Rupert's Land and the North-West territories to Canada, and which had pledged the Dominion of Canada to care for and protect the thousand of Indians which lived there. In the nature of a warning, he pointed to the state of war and pillage prevailing south of the international boundary. Other Members of Parliament took up the subject; one attributed the unrest among the Indians to the recent transfer of government from the Hudson's Bay Company, another Member hinted that the Americans had a cast a covetous eye upon the North-West, another said that most of the trouble could be blamed on American whiskey traders from the Missouri River.

On April 28, Prime Minister Sir John A. Macdonald [a Freemason] gave notice in the Commons of a proposed bill "Respecting the Administration of Justice and for the Establishment of a Police Force in the North-West Territories." This was communicated to His Excellency the Governor-General and recommended to the consideration of the House of Commons. The following day, an invasion from Montana culminated in an outburst of almost unsurpassed frontier depravity. In Battle Creek in the far off Cypress Hills of southern Saskatchewan, blood lust and liquor had combined to wipe out a hapless band of innocent Indians wrongfully accused of stealing horses. Wholesale murder on the part of the Missouri River gangs had reached an outrageous climax on Canadian soil!

As news of the "Cypress Hills Massacre" spread, indignation and anger exploded on the front pages of Canada's Eastern press, and when tidings were received that warned a possible further bloodshed in the Canadian West, arrangements for the guardianship of the far flung territorial acquisition were speeded up.

On May 23, 1873, Royal assent was given to the parliamentary bill and on that afternoon [2000 miles distant from the recent bloodletting] the North-West Mounted Police, became a living entity.

The original intention was to call the proposed law-enforcement body "Mounted Rifles," but hearing this, alarmists in the United States spread the story that Canada was organizing an armed force to patrol the international boundary. Telegrams telling of the disturbed state of mind in official Washington, D.C., reached Ottawa. Newspapers in States asked on what grounds Canada was planning such a warlike expedition. Criticisms ran high, but eventually a confused apology was sent to Ottawa from Washington. Meantime Prime Minister Macdonald had asked to see the official draft of the Act, and drawing his pen through the words "Mounted Rifles" substituted the words "Mounted Police."

Accordingly the North West Mounted Police was established, and 150 men were sent to the West. They spent that winter at Lower Fort Garry. Colonel French [The Commissioner] soon realized that he had too few men, and so the following year he was joined by 150 more members who came West via the United States and entered Canada through Fargo, North Dakota. This enlarged Force traveled over the Old Boundary Commission Trail through Roche Percee, near Estevan, Saskatchewan and onto the foothills of the Rocky Mountains, where a barracks was built at Fort MacLeod.

Commissioner French and half of the men moved eastward from here, leaving Colonel MacLeod in command of the barracks. Colonel MacLeod had his work cut out pacifying the thousands of Indians, including Chief Sitting Bull, who had moved northward into Canada after the Battle of the Little Bighorn in which Lieutenant Colonel George Armstrong Custer and regiment of the Seventh United States Cavalry were annihilated. MacLeod and his men routed out the American whiskey traders and smugglers, and assisted in the making of treaties with the Blackfoot, the Blood and other Indian tribes.

The scarlet tunics were symbolical, especially to the Indians, of the good faith and fairness of the police who represented their Great White Mother, the Queen.

Some three months before the North-West Mounted Police barracks were set up in Regina, the Grand Lodge of Manitoba, which had jurisdiction over all the North-West Territories, granted a dispensation for the formation of a Masonic Lodge in Regina, this was Wascana No. 23. Among the members of the North-West Mounted Police, were several Masons; most of them affiliated with the new Lodge and others were initiated into it. By 1894 there were some 14 Masons at the Barracks. Following the suppression of the second Riel Rebellion in 1885, there had been a period of comparative relaxation, and consequently much thought was given to the formation of a lodge in which the first qualification should be membership in the North-West Mounted Police

After careful preparations, the new Lodge was formed on October 1, 1894, and the first officers were duly installed by M. W. Bro. Goggin, P.G.M. It was known as North-West Mounted Police Lodge No. 61, G.R.M.. The following historical record which was included in the first printed bylaws of 1895 reads as follows.

"The history of the first Masonic Lodge organized by members of this force must be a subject of deep interest to all Brethren of the Craft who have served, may be at present serving, or who may become members later on, therefore the following facts are briefly stated for their general information."

"In a large body of men such as the North-West Mounted Police, whose members are scattered over such a vast extent of territory, and who are gathered from almost every civilized country in the world, a certain percentage of Masons are bound to be found, and it would not have been consistent with the usual perseverance and enlightened teachings of Freemasonry had the members of the Order failed to organize a Lodge among themselves, and so be in a better position to carry out the precepts and tenets of the Order than could otherwise have been done while so many different Lodges were represented by them."

"A Mounted Policeman's duties are various, and his continued place of residence (with a few exceptions) uncertain. Principally for this latter reason it was thought that a Lodge at Headquarters, Regina, would relieve a Brother from the necessity of continually changing his allegiance from one Lodge to another, and so be the means of concentrating his energies in a more systematic manner towards the good of the Craft in general."

"It is said with truth that 'from small beginnings great things often accrue'. So in the present case the above idea having once been expressed by some zealous brother, it quickly became a source of conversation by many, until finally it was decided to hold a meeting of all members of the Craft then present at Headquarters and discuss the subject in detail."

"The meeting was accordingly held on the 6th of July 1894. The matter was thoroughly discussed, and some of the preliminary arrangements made; another meeting, however, was necessary before the final steps could be taken."

CaPTain Will-I-Am Morgan

Masons deny murder of I-AM-THE-MAN

What happened to William Morgan? Enemies of the Craft said Freemasons had kidnapped and murdered him, to prevent the publication of his expose. Freemasons, of course, indignantly denied the charge. As time went on and Morgan was not found, members of the Craft disavowed any approval of any such act, if it had been committed. Governor Clinton, Past Grand Master, issued proclamation after proclamation, the last one offering two thousand dollars reward "that, if living, Morgan might be returned to his family; if murdered, that the perpetrators might be brought to punishment."

It was not too difficult to discover that Masons were concerned in Morgan's hundred and twenty five mile journey to Ft. Niagara. Three members of the Craft -- [Nicholas Cheesboro, Master of the local Lodge], Lawson and Sawyer -- pleaded guilty to conspiracy to "seize and secrete" Morgan, and, together with Eli Bruce, Sheriff, and one John Whitney, all served terms in prison for the offense.

..But murder could not be proved for no body was found. In October, 1827, a body was washed ashore forty miles below Ft. Niagara. Morgan's widow "identified" the body, although it was dressed in other clothes than her husband had worn alive; was bearded, although Morgan was clean shaven; had a full head of hair, although Morgan was bald! Thurlow Weed [1797-1882], Rochester Telegraph Editor, was accused of having the corpse shaved and of adding long white hairs to ears and nostrils, to simulate the appearance of Morgan. The first inquest decided that this was, indeed, the body of William Morgan. Three inquests were held in all. The third decided, on the unimpeachable evidence of Mrs. Sara Monroe, who minutely described the body, its marks, and the clothes it wore, that the corpse was not William Morgan, but Timothy Monroe, of Clark, Canada, her husband. Commonplace and unexciting truth seldom catches up with scandalous, electrifying, remarkable falsehood! William Morgan had d i s a p p e a r e d . Freemasons had been convicted of abducting him. A body had been found and identified as Morgan. That better evidence and a less excited jury had later reversed this identification was anti-climatic. The stories of Morgan's "murder" persisted. Thurlow Weed, whom history shows as an u n s c r u p u l o u s opportunist, no matter what the exact truth of his activities with the body may have been, added fuel to the flames.

Weed died in 1882, On his death bed he stated that in 1860 (twenty-two years before) John Whitney, who had been convicted in the conspiracy charge, confessed to him the full details of the murder of Morgan. According to this alleged confession, Whitney and four others carried the abducted Morgan in a boat to the center of the river, bound him with chains, and dumped him overboard. Weed stated --and here his memory failed him -- that Whitney had promised to dictate and sign this confession, but died before he could do so. But Whitney died in 1869, nine years after!

Whitney did indeed tell a story -- not to Thurlow Weed, who was his accuser in the conspiracy case and whom he hated -- but to Robert Morris. This story is both the most probable and the best attested of any we have, as to the true fate of William Morgan.

Whitney told Morris that he had consulted with Governor Clinton at Albany, relative to what could be done to prevent Morgan executing his plans to print the expose. Clinton sternly forbade any illegal moves, but suggested the purchase of the Morgan manuscript, for enough money to enable Morgan to move beyond the reach of the influence and probable enmity of his associates in the publishing enterprise. From some source (Masons? Governor Clinton ?) Whitney was assured of any amount needed, up to a thousand dollars, which was a great sum in those days.

In Batavia Whitney summoned Morgan to a conference in which the bribe was temptingly held forth. On the one hand, the enmity of all, persecution, continual danger -- it is not improbable that threats were mingled with the bribe! On the other hand, money, safety, freedom from a plan to publish which held much of danger if Morgan would take five hundred dollars, go to Canada, "disappear", his family would be provided for, and later sent to him!

Morgan agreed. He was to be arrested and "kidnapped", to make it easy to get away ftom Miller and his associates. Whitney feared that without some such spectacular escape, Morgan might at the last moment decline to go through with the plan, fearing reprisals from his friends in the publishing venture.

Whitney told Morris that two Canadian Masons received Morgan from the hands of his "kidnappers" at Ft. Niagara, traveled with him a day and a night to a place near Hamilton, Ontario, where they paid him the five hundred dollars, receiving his receipt and signed agreement never to return without permission of Captain William King, Sheriff Bruce, or Whitney.

Later there were two other "confessions" of complicity in the "murder" of Morgan -- neither consistent with the facts. Doubtless they were of the same hysterical origin which leads so many notoriety seekers to confess crimes which by no possibility they could have committed.

Did William Morgan choose the easier way, disappear with five hundred dollars from a dangerous situation, eliminating from his responsibilities a wife and family suddenly burdensome, and, in a new freedom, ship on a vessel from Montreal and out into the world, there to come to an unknown end?

Or was he basely murdered by Masons who thought the crime less than the evil results to follow on the publication of Morgan's book. No man knows. No incontestable evidence can be adduced -- or was ever adduced -- definitely to prove either solution. All that is undoubted is that Will-i-am Morgan was apparently kidnapped and did disappear .

It is difficult, a hundred years after, to understand the extent and power of the widespread excitement and passions this incident created. For the fame and infamy of the Morgan affair spread over an immense territory. It was the beginning of an anti-Masonic sentiment which grew and spread like wild fire. meetings were held, the Order was denounced by press and pulpit. An anti-Masonic paper was started -- with Thurlow Weed as Editor -- soon joined by the Anti-Masonic Review, in New York City. The many groups in Pennsylvania, already opposed to any oath bound society (Quakers, Lutherans, Mennonites, Dunkards, M o r a v i a n s , S c h w e n k f e l d e r s , German Reformed Church) were aroused to a high pitch of feeling against the alleged "murderers" and "kidnappers" -- the Freemasons.

The anti-Masonic excitement spread -- and fast and far. Gould, in his History of Free-Masonry, thus epitomizes the spirit of that time: "This country has seen fierce and bitter political contests, but no other has approached the bitterness of this campaign against the Masons. No society, civil, military or religious, escaped its influence. No relation of family or friends was a barrier to it. The hatred of Masonry was carried everywhere, and there was no retreat so sacred that it did not enter. Not only were teachers and pastors driven from their stations, but the children of Masons were excluded from the schools, and members from their churches. The Sacrament was refused to Masons by formal vote of the Church, for no other offense than their Masonic connection. Families were divided. Brother was arrayed against brother, father against son, and even wives against their husbands. Desperate efforts were made to take away chartered rights from Masonic Corporations and to pass laws that would prevent Masons from holding their meetings and performing their ceremonies."

Reverend Brother John C. Palmer, Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of the District of Columbia, says in his little classic of the Craft, Morgan and anti-Masonry (Volume 7 of The Little Masonic Library, published by The MASONIC S E R V I C E ASSOCIATION in 1925):

"The pressure was so strong that withdrawals by individuals and bodies were numerous. In 1827, two hundred and twenty-seven lodges were represented in the Grand Lodge of New York. In 1835, the number had dwindled to forty-one. Every Lodge in the State of Vermont surrendered its Charter or became dormant; and the Grand Lodge, for several years, ceased to hold its sessions. As in Vermont, so also in Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Connecticut; and in lesser degrees in several other states. The Masonic Temple was cleft in twain; its brotherhood scattered, its trestleboard without work; its working tools shattered. Thus Masonry endured the penalty of the mistaken zeal of those fearful brethren who thought that the revealing of the ritual to profane eyes would destroy the Order and who hoped to save it by removing the traitor within the camp."

Space here is not sufficient to retell the interesting, often exciting, and always varied story of the political campaigns which were predicated on, and took much of their ammunition from, the anti-Masonic excitement which followed the Morgan affair. It is not to be supposed that the abduction and alleged -- never proved -- murder of Morgan was the sole cause of this outburst, any more than was the assassination in 1914 the sole cause of the World War. Both were triggers which set off guns which, in turn, caused other explosions. Suffice it here that a wave of hysteria was seized upon by able politicians, fanned by demagogues, increased by the righteous indignation of good men and true who saw not beneath the surface, helped onward by press and pulpit with the best of intentions but little understanding, until the whole east flamed with passion and Freemasons were spit upon in the streets, lodges threw away their charters, and Freemasonry bowed its head to a storm as unjust and undeserved as all religious persecutions have always been.

Like any other hysteria, this passed. Passions wore themselves away. A few sturdy and brave men stood staunchly by a few Grand Lodges with high courage and the strength of the right never ceased to proclaim their allegiance to the principles of the Order. Little by little, Freemasonry raised its head;

"The ceremony of installing the first officers of the Lodge working under Dispensation, was conducted by M.W. Bro. Goggin, P.G.M., assisted by W. Bro. As previously stated the first Worshipful Master was Regimental No. 3, Robert Belcher, who was hired by the North-West Mounted Police at Lower Fort Garry on November 3, 1873. He rose through the ranks, was commissioned in 1893, and eventually retired 1907. The reason that I specifically bring Robert Belcher to your attention, is that he has a connection with The Virginia Lodge of Research, No. 1777. Because he is the great-uncle, by marriage, to a previous speaker to this Lodge, R. W. Bro. Wallace MacLeod P.G.S.W. of the Grand Lodge of Canada, in the Province of Ontario.

The original altar, pedestals and columns were made at the Regina Barracks by Constable Phillips for $15.00, and were painted white and trimmed with the North-West Mounted Police colors blue and gold. The pillars were grained golden oak and may now be seen in the Red Room of the Regina Masonic Temple. The Volume of the Sacred Law was presented to the Lodge in 1894 by Bro. Louis Castellain. The first Worshipful Master's regalia was given by Bro. Staff Sergeant J. Martin in 1895. The original sword was presented by Inspector Church who originated the famed Musical Ride. His father had carried the sword in the Charge of the light Brigade at Balaclava. In the Blue Room of the Regina Temple may be seen the original ashlars, hewn by the first members when the North-West Mounted Police Lodge was formed. It was not until 1924, that the crest of the North West Mounted Police was officially adopted by the Lodge. Permission to use it was granted by the acting Minister of Justice, the late Honorable Ernest A. Lapointe.

Even as the Force grew in stature, privilege and scope of duties, so Masonry flourished, and more and more members of the renamed Royal North-West Mounted Police became members of the fraternity by initiation. This was a natural development, as the high ideals of the one are similar too and intermingled with those of the other. By 1920 the Force was Canada-wide in scope, and once again it was renamed and is now called the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. A few years later the Provinces asked the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to take over their provincial police work. Therefore, by 1932 the Federal force had contracts with Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Alberta, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island to police their provinces. Newfoundland entered Confederation in 1949 (as foreseen in 1867), and on August 1, 1950, that Province contracted with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to perform its police duties. Fifteen days later British Columbia made a similar agreement, and so today the former Newfoundland Rangers, Newfoundland Constabulary and British Columbia Police members are proudly wearing the Royal Canadian Mounted Police uniform as full-fledged members of the great Federal force.

A man who is ever faithful to the grand principles of Freemasonry and to the high ideals of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police cannot help but be a credit as a Mason, as a policeman, and as a good citizen of the great Canadian democracy. May the Great Architect of the Universe ever guide and aid them in preserving law and order and in upholding the Royal Canadian Mounted Police motto "Maintiens le Droit." [Maintain the Right]

Today a Degree Team of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police annually performs an average of 10 Degrees and 2 to 3 exemplifications. The "Team" has performed in many Lodges in Canada, and in a number of States in the U.S.A., including Indiana, Ohio, Massachusetts, New York and Vermont.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police Degree Team at commencement of every Lodge meeting perform a Flag Ceremony, which is carried out with military precision. As a Canadian I find that the words are stirring, and I close with them.

I present our flag, our symbol of Unity and of Sovereignty,

Between bars of red and on a field of white,

It blazons forth in its full Autumnal glory,

The Canadian Maple Leaf,

Whose points represent the provinces and territories,

Which comprise our Great Dominion;

To Freemasons, the red symbolizes the dauntless courage of our forefathers, which we strive to emulate,

*The white, that blame*less purity of life and conduct, to which we aspire, and the points, the eleven knightly virtues, of which Patriotism is the greatest, And to which we are ever dedicated.

And finally it inspires in us a reverence to Him, To Whom we fervently pray:

God Save the Queen and Heaven Bless The Maple Leaf Forever.

one by one, lodges took heart; brother by brother, Craftsmen returned to their Altars.

After a period following almost twenty years of more or less complete eclipse, the sun of Freemasonry shone again, and the world was treated to a spectacle that has been a heartening lesson to millions and will be to counted millions yet to be born anew at the sacred Altar of Freemasonry -- the strange sight of an Order many had thought dead, suffering from uncounted thousands of stabs to the heart, coming again to life to grow and thrive and attract to it then, as it had in the historic past, men of the highest character. It is for this that the Craft of today can offer thanks to the Great Architect for the Morgan affair. Dreadful as it was to the men who lived through it, terrible in its consequences to the brethren who suffered, it demonstrated again -- and it may be hoped and believed, once for all -- that the underlying faith of Freemasonry, its Ancient Landmarks, its foundation upon Deity and the Great Light, together are stronger than any evil, more lasting than any calumny, more enduring than any human passions.

Forever and forever, So mote it be !

ETIDORHPA: There is nothing stranger in fiction than this story, and no more mysterious being than "The-Man-Who-Did-It". The transformations of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde—or transmutations, are they?—are tame and commonplace in comparison with that of which "The-Man-Who-Did-It" is the subject. ...The author is not an iconoclastic Vandal in the temple of science—as a good many are in our day—but a reverent devotee, pointing out failings and monstrosities only that they be remedied. He sees that we are not yet in possession of the whole revelation that science can make, and that we have misread much of what we have received. He makes it plain that in the domain of science it is not merely the unexpected, but the incredible, which is happening continually. ...

The story proceeds upon the theory that the human mind has capabilities of which it is not yet conscious, and that the strange phenomena now made so much use of, and often such bad use of, by occultists, will one day be shown to proceed from natural laws not now understood. All in all, Etidorhpa is a one of a kind book that should stir your pulse, stir your brain and stir your heart.

Dear Mr. Devoe:

We refer to your letter of April 12, 2002, in which you requested that we conduct an investigation into your case, based on your statement that you signed the release papers under "duress".

We have carefully reviewed the Full and Final Release ("Release") signed by yourself and Mrs. Gladys Devoe under date of November 27, 2001, and note the clause wherein you and your wife acknowledged that you were signing the Release "voluntarily, without any undue influence or coercion". We also note the Release states, in part, "the proper and exclusive forum for any litigation or any disputes or controversies arising out of this Full and Final Release shall be a court of competent jurisdiction located in the Province of Nova Scotia". The Release was witnessed by a Commissioner of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia.

Mr. Devoe, you and your wife acknowledged, by means of your signatures, that you did not sign the Release under duress. As well, the Release stipulates that the exclusive forum to resolve any dispute in regards to the Release must be a court of law in Nova Scotia. In these circumstances, we must decline your request to conduct an investigation.

Yours truly,

W. E. Bailey

First, Scotia Bank fails to fulfill its contract with their customer and causes their cash-strapped customer a $35,000 loss.

Then, after placing them "under duress", Scotia Bank agrees to reimburse the victims $20,000 ; offered along with their threat of "its this or nothing".

Next, Scotia Bank's security people call the former customer to threaten jail for having disclosed the banks "extortion".

Then, Scotia Bank calls and tells their former customer to "suck-up" to their bank's Ombudsman; ...."this Bud's for you".

Finally, THE Bank's servile "Buddy" writes back to the victims, ..."sorry, we win".

You are Z010N — but Zoro-Astrian Freemasons want Zion

You are ZOION, an independently moving organic unit, an animal, developed from a fertilized egg whose binary code (01) may be allowed to evolve naturally, or, be made to regress (10). This dumbing-down process is called "human engineering".

The timetable for this Zoro-Astrian "business plan" is measured according to their calendar, The Zodiac. It represents a band of the celestial sphere about 8 degrees to either side of the ecliptic that represents the path of the principal planets, the moon, and the sun.

See Zoic/Zoon in your dictionary: zoion, living being.
1. An animal developed from a fertilized egg. 2. One of the distinct individuals that join to form a compound or colonial animal; a zooid; zooned, zoon.ing, zoons. To fly with a humming or buzzing sound. [Probably imitative.]

In symbolism a bumble-bee is represented as a "fleur-de-lys"- the emblem of France.

The War Against BAD THINGS

PLACE: A city street in your town, USA.

TIME: The not too distant future.

FBI: Are you A. Citizen?

CITIZEN: Yes I am.

FBI: Come with us, you're under arrest.

CITIZEN: On what charge?

FBI: We don't have to tell you that.

CITIZEN: I want to call my lawyer.

FBI: We won't let you do that.

CITIZEN: You have to, it's my right!

FBI: You don't have any rights.

CITIZEN: Sez Who?

FBI; Sez the President. He's decided that you are an "enemy combatant" and as such you are not entitled to any Constitutional rights.

CITIZEN: But I haven't done anything.

FBI: The President will be the judge of that. In fact he's already made the decision. Besides, it's not what you've done, it's what we think you were going to do.

CITIZEN: Based on what evidence?

FBI: We can't show you the evidence. It's classified.

CITIZEN: How can I defend myself at my trial if you won't tell me what the evidence against me is?

FBI: You don't get a trial. You're an enemy combatant, remember? We don't even have to charge you with anything. But in about a month, we'll hold a press conference telling everybody what we think you were up to, and that they can all sleep soundly because we've got you safely under lock and key and we intend to keep you there until the war is over.

CITIZEN: What war?

FBI: The War Against Bad Things.

CITIZEN: When will this war be over?

FBI: When we've eliminated all the bad things in the world.

CITIZEN: But that will never happen!

FBI: Now you're getting the idea.

CITIZEN: So let me get this straight. You're arresting me for something I haven't even done yet. You won't tell me what I'm charged with or what evidence you have against me. I don't get to talk to a lawyer. I don't get a trial. I don't have any opportunity to refute the charges or defend myself against them. You're just going to strip me of my Constitutional rights and lock me up for what amounts to a life sentence based on the whim of the President?

FBI: Is this a great country or what?
God Bless America!

HANDICAPPED WITH ZOROASTER'S HANDY CAP !

ZARATHUSTRA

by: Glen Kealey

The U.S.A. is an illusion of power fabricated to exist temporarily by Freemasonry; first, by means of the sponsorship of England's Masonic Royal Societies, and then, Germany's Pilgrims looking for Zion, the so-called Celestial City (see John Bunyan's "The Pilgrim's Progress").

In fact, there is no such place as Zion. The Pilgrims were bamboozled. Zion is not a place, it is a "state of mind", Zion is a condition which requires that the "client of progress" wear a "handy cap" to symbolically cover-up the mental handicap resulting from its implementation. Just look at the Pope, priests, etc. The purpose of Zion is to "progressively" engineer humans (ZOION), by dumbing them down (using operant conditioning) until the partially braindead end product "BEYONDMAN" (Übermensch) evolves; as stated by the German author Friedrich Wilhelm (Will-I-Am) Nietzsche, in his world famous 1883-92 Zoro-Astrian Freemasonic book titled "Thus Spake Zarathustra".

"BEYONDMAN" is an ideal superior man, a hermaphrodite who, according to Nietzsche, forgoes transient pleasure, exercises creative power, lives at a level of experience beyond standards of good and evil, and is the goal of human evolution. He is also called Overman. Beyondman symbolizes the theory that, apparently "The end justifies the means".

HERE IS HOW THE DICTIONARY DESCRIBES THESE ITEMS:

Nie.tzsche Friedrich Wilhelm. 1844-1900.
Gennan philosopher who reasoned that Christianity's emphasis on the afterlife makes its believers less able to cope with earthly life. He argued that the ideal human being, the Ubermensch, would be able to channel passions creatively instead of suppressing them. His written works include Beyond Good and Evil (1886) and Thus Spake Zarathustra (1883-1892). -Nie'tzsche.an adj. n.

Thus Spake Zarathustra [WORLD LITERATURE, PHILOSOPHY , AND RELIGION]
A book of philosophical reflections by Friedrich Nietzsche, written in the style of a sacred book.
USA GE NOTES: Thus Spake Zarathustra* puts forth Nietzsche's idea of the Superman, or Overman.

superman

n. I. A man with more than human powers. 2. An ideal superior man who, according to Nietzsche, forgoes transient pleasure, exercises creative power, lives at a level of experience beyond standards of good and evil, and is the goal of human evolution. In this sense, also called overman. [Translation of German Übermensch : über-, super- + Mensch, man.]

WORD HISTORY: Overman* and Beyondman hardly seem likely names for a superhero, but perhaps Overman might be "leaping tall buildings at a single bound" had the German word Obermensch been translated differently than it was. However, Nietzsche's term for the ideal superior man was translated into English as superman, first recorded in a work by George Bernard Shaw published in 1903. Such a term comes to us through a process called loan translation, or calque formation, whereby the semantic components of a word or phrase in one language are literally translated into their equivalents in another language, German Obermensch, made up of iiber, "super-," and Mensch, "man," thus becoming superman. Because iiber- can also be translated "beyond" and "over," we also find overman and beyondman as calques for the word Obermensch, but they did not take root. Shaw, in a letter written before 1917, noted that "some of our most felicitous writers. ..had been using such desperate and unspeakable forms as Beyondman, when the glib Superman was staring them in the face all the time." Hence, when it came to naming a new comic strip hero, Superman was the logical choice, a name first recorded in 1938.

adv. In or at that indicated place: the house over yonder.

adj. Being at an indicated distance, usually within sight: "Yonder hills, " he said, pointing. pron. One that is at an indicated place, usually within sight. (Middle English, fromyond, yond. See YOND.]

REGIONAL NOTE:* The adverb yonder, from Old English geond, is not exclusively Southern but is more frequently used there than in any other region of the United States, and not only by older or uneducated speakers. Yonder is not merely a Southern synonym for there, which in the South tends to mean "only a few feet from the speaker." Yonder carries with it an inherent sense of distance farther than "there" and is used if the person or thing indicated can be seen at all: the shed over yonder. Or it might be nearby but completely out of sight, as in the next room.
